WINNIPEG, Dec. 5 — (CP). — Healthy buying prompted by reports of frost damage to the new Argentine wheat crop combined with light offerings to bring excellent gains to wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Operations set a brisk pace and at the close quotations were 2⅝ to 3 cents higher, December 79, May 83⅞ and July 84¾ to ⅞ cents.

Moderate purchases of No. 2 Northern by shippers provided almost the only action of a dull cash wheat market. Coarse grain prices moved ahead as export interests bought oats and barley and mills took fair amounts of oats. Rye and flax values scored gains in sympathy with wheat.

in 1915, Mussolini played a part in severing the Italo-German ties that existed at the outbreak of the first Great War and the resultant alignment of Italy with the Allies. He founded the newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia while his country still was neutral and in his characteristically strong language urged his country join Britain and France.

After Italy declared war against Germany and Kaiser Wilhelm in May, 1915, Benito Mussolini went to the front. He was in the ranks until the following February, when he was wounded by shrapnel and invalided out of service.

Bankers Confident Of Canada's Capacity To Meet War Needs

Huntly Drummond, President, Sees Canada United, Strong in Emergency — Envisages Expansion in Many Lines of Business — Urges "Keeping Costs Down" to Mitigate Deflation Process Later.

General Managers Say Bank Prepared for War Requirements —Financial Report Show Record Figures for Assets and Deposits — Loans Increased $30,000,000 in Year.

While emphasizing the gravity of the present world situation in its bearing on Canada, Huntly R. Drummond, president of the Bank of Montreal, at the 122nd annual meeting of shareholders voiced his belief in the essential unity of the Canadian people and confidence in their ability to weather the storms that might lie ahead.

"We stand a united country in our war effort," declared Mr. Drummond. "It remains for us to bring the full strength of a united Canada to the work of prosecuting the war to a successful conclusion while at the same time keeping our affairs so in hand that we may enter the readjustments of post-war conditions as free of inflation as possible, with debts at the minimum possible and with morale unimpaired.

"I am confident that just as we have entered as a unified Canada into the fiery ordeal of war, so we shall emerge, a nation one at heart but more mature in thought and aspiration, ready to go forward as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations to the great destiny which undoubtedly awaits this country."

Speaking at the meeting also was Jackson Dodds, who presented on behalf of himself and his fellow general manager, G. W. Spinney, a financial statement which revealed new high figures in the history of the institution.

Assets Over Billion Mark

With assets at more than a billion dollars, the balance sheet showed substantial increases in all of the more important headings compared with a year ago. Not only were the assets at a record figure, but deposits at $914,000,000 were at the highest level in the history of the institution.

The general managers also reported an increase of nearly $30,000,000 in current loans and discounts, which now stand at $220,000,000. In a ten-year comparison it was pointed out, however, that this was much below the figures ruling at the close of the twenties—a situation due to the lack today of demand for commercial credit, which had resulted in recent years in a very great increase in the bank's holdings of government bonds and other gilt-edge securities.

At the close of his comments on the financial position of the bank, the president made reference to popular misapprehension regarding bank earnings. "Sometimes," he observed, "we hear criticism of banking profits, no doubt due to the size of our institutions, but you can see from the statement presented to you that on an average total assets through our fiscal year of $907,000,000, the earnings of the Bank were only $3,462,000. In other words, on each $100 of assets the earnings were but 38 cents."

Business Conditions

Turning to the business conditions of the country, Mr. Drummond observed that a fact of outstanding importance at this juncture was that Canada was entering the war with one of the best all-round crops in her history. "This," he said, "applies to practically every part of the Dominion, but more particularly to the Prairie Provinces, where, in contrast to recent years, the wheat crop is unusually large and of unusually high quality. Thus, Canada has very large supplies of the food products which the Allied and neutral nations will need and the buying power of the agricultural community from their sale will help the general business of the country.

"In addition to this, with the impact of war conditions, we have many industries which will benefit directly from orders for war supplies, and we have the prospectively important development of Canada as the aviation training centre of the British Empire.

"It will thus be seen that on the material side Canada may expect to be better qualified than most countries to meet the inevitable consequences of war, and an added consideration in this respect is the foresight and sagacity of England in providing for the continued supply of many commodities at normal prices.

"If Canada's role in the war is to be largely as a source of supply to Great Britain, then we should see to it that there shall be no excessive profits. Our aim should be a fair price for wheat and other farm products and a fair price for manufactures in which the Government will have the full support of business and labour, to prevent a vicious spiral such as that in which the cost of living and wage rates endlessly pursued each other in the last war.

"By keeping costs down as much as is possible, we will keep domestic trade moving, and after the war, this policy will mitigate the painful process of deflating prices and wages which is the inevitable sequence of an undue rise."

Government Control

Mr. Drummond referred to the government measures for the stabilization of supply and prices for "the more efficient prosecution of the war." While he recognized their necessity and pointed out that business institutions, including his bank, were co-operating to the fullest extent with the government, he made it clear to his hearers, that these regulations were a restricting influence on business. As soon as the conditions which made them necessary no longer existed, they should, he said, be abolished.

In the matter of taxation and public finance, the president urged adherence, as far as was practicable, to a "pay-as-you-go" policy.

"But it is in reducing expenditure in non-essentials," Mr. Drummond declared, "that our Government can

Never Leave Rows Half-Knitted

Now that needles are busily clicking all over the country in an effort to meet the demand for socks, scarfs and wristlets for our soldier boys, there are several rules which it is wise to follow in knitting.

Never leave a row half-knitted, but finish it to the end; there are many ways of marking rows. One is to move a paper-clip down the side row of the garment so that it touches the row to be knitted.

Talcum powder rubbed into your hands before you begin knitting will keep them cool. If you mark your knitting needles into inches with a sharp knife, you won't have to hunt for a tape measure every time you want to find a length.

Never use a wet towel when pressing knitted goods. This is liable to stretch them. Give a neat edge to your work by working first and last stitch of plain row in purl.

Local Red Shield Auxiliary Is Busy

Needles for knitting and needles for stitching are deftly put to work each Tuesday evening by from twenty to thirty women members of the local Salvation Army Red Shield Women's Auxiliary who meet in the Temple to knit socks for soldiers—of which ninety pairs have already been sent to Toronto headquarters—and make warm garments for England's evacuated children.

Under the direction of Mrs. N. Buckley, wife of Adjutant Buckley, excellent samples of knitting have been turned out by these willing workers. Wool has been purchased by money supplied through donations and the weekly fee paid by Auxiliary members. A supply of 57 lbs. of wool, bought a month ago, is already exhausted, used chiefly for socks, although many scarves and wristlets have been made as well.

This week a shipment is being packed for delivery in Toronto, and in between times members are making plans for a New Year's concert which will help augment funds for the purchase of further wool supplies.

In Toronto the Red Shield Auxiliary is appealing for 250 women, Salvationists included, to darn socks at the C. N. E. training grounds. For five days a week fifty women are needed to mend holes in soldiers' socks, Mrs. G. W. Peacock, director, states.

S. A. women are doing their part magnificently all over Canada, and no doubt the soldiers bless their thoughtfulness in remembering, while knitting socks, that they also wear out, and that "A sock mended is a sock saved."

We Noticed

....Christmas is approaching with such appalling swiftness now that it stirs in us a mixture of feeling—a bubbling of good will, delight in the mystery and magic, and cold shivers as we realize that we cannot do one-tenth of the loving things we wish we might. The only solution—if any—of the Christmas problem is to Begin Early.

....Just in case you haven't thought about it, here are some very good reasons for getting at your shopping without further delay—and they are reasons gleaned from practical experience: First of all, stocks of merchandise are not broken; there is a better selection; prices have not reached the holiday peak; one avoids rush and crowds; it is easier to get the service of clerks; one may take more time to study his purchases; it will serve you a lot of anxiety, and one can ship the gifts before the mails are jammed.

Millbrook W.A. Holds Bazaar

MILLBROOK, Decs. 5—(ENS)—The third in a consecutive series of week-end bazaars, and service of afternoon tea, took place in the community waiting room on Saturday from 2.30 p. m. until after six o'clock the event, which was a marked success from both the financial and social viewpoints, being under the auspices of the Woman's Association of St. Andrew's church.

Mrs. Percy Stinson and Mrs. H. A. Fallis, vice-presidents, had the undertaking under their charge, together with the other officers, in the unavoidable absence of the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, whose many friends are glad to know that she is home again and making good progress toward recovery, following an emergency operation for appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital, Peterborough, some two weeks ago.

The fancy work counter displayed many articles attractive for Christmas gifts and was presided over by Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mrs. J. H. Barringer.

Mrs. Arthur Fallis was at the home baking table, its tempting wares soon disappearing, and at the 'country store' where vegetables, pickles, cream, etc., wer on display, the salesladies were Miss Josie Sutton, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, and Mrs. Edmund Ball. Mrs. A. L. Sisco poured tea at a table lovely with service of silver on a lace cloth, 'mums on the central reflector, and candles burning in silver holders, those assisting being Mrs. Stinson, Mrs. Harry Fallis, Mrs. J. A. Brown, Mrs. Weston Fallis, Mrs. J. H. McKnight and Mrs. W. W. Kennedy. Receipts were over fifty dollars.

Home and School Association News

Miss M. Rannie was guest speaker Monday evening at a Christmas meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association, held in the school auditorium. The timely subject of "Christmas Carols" was chosen by Miss Rannie, who said that the custom of caroling originated many centuries before the time of Christ for the purpose of scaring away evil spirits which were supposed to be abroad at this season of the year. After the advent of christianity, she said, the joyful story of the birth of Christ entered into and finally supplanted entirely the subjects of the old carols.

The history of the composition of various well-loved Christmas hymns, and little glimpses into the lives of the men who wrote them, concluded a delightful talk.

Mrs. L. H. Ingram, president of the Association, welcomed the large number of parents who were present.

The choir boys of St. John's Anglican church, accompanied by F. G. Mann, L. Mus., charmed their audience with a rendition of Christmas carols, and a graceful dance was executed by seven small girls from Miss C. Littlefield's class at the Y. W. C. A.

Dr. H. M. Yelland introduced Dr. Dawson of the Toronto branch of the Associated Medical Service, who explained the value to the individual, as well as to the family group, of keeping well longer and at less cost through the arrangements set forth by this Service.

Mrs. C. E. Stanton, delegate to the Regional Conference at Kingston, spoke briefly. Such conventions she said, were for the purpose of advancing co-ordination between various Association groups, and provided a medium for the exchange of ideas. Motion pictures for educational purposes were, she stated, slow to be adopted in the schools here, although in other centres they had proved most satisfactory.

The Junior attendance banner was won by Miss Robinson's class, and the senior banner was tied for by Mrs. Craig's and Miss McNaughton's classes.

Mr. O. M. Steer, principal of the school ,thanked those present for their interest in attending and extended to them the compliments of the season.

Refreshments were served after the meeting, which closed with the National Anthem.

Every Girl In Her Teens Is a Chameleon—She Is Changeable And Hard To Understand, Doesn't Know Her Own Mind And "Won't Stay Put."

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy of 18, just beginning to step out with the girls. My idea is to keep going with different types of girls until I can be a fair judge of the fairer sex. Although at my age I can't seem what good understanding girls will do me, I am quite sure that in time I will find it of value, and when I get old enough to marry and decide to say "I do" I will know what I am letting myself in for. Can you give me a key to the girl riddle?—A KID.

ANSWER:

Well, son, you are a wise child to undertake the study of girls while you can still do it in a scientific spirit, and I can only congratulate you upon your far-sightedness. For if you wait until some little cutie has you going around in circles it will be forever too late.

Now no one really understands a girl. She doesn't understand herself. So there is no use in trying to figure out why she does what she does or what she is going to do next. The best you can do is to try to protect yourself from what she is going to do to you.

The first thing, then, to realize is that every girl in her teens is a chameleon. She can change her color, her height, her weight, her general appearance apparently at will, so that one day she is a fat little sugar plu mand the next day she is a lanky weeping willow. One day she will be a gay cut-up and the next day she will be a pensive Mona Lisa. Also, one day she will make you think you are the One and Only and the next day she won't remember your name.

So harden yourself to these changes in girls and prepare yourself for them. Carry along a fan and your ear muffs when you go out on a date, and be neither unduly puffed up or cast down by the way little Sweetums treats you. As long as you live you will have to deal with the feminine temperament, so you can't get used to it too soon.

Remember that every girl you meet is out to get you. That doesn't mean that she wants to marry you, because most girls in their teens want to play around a while before they settle down to domesticity and babies. But all girls are savages who want to capture as many men as possible and hang their scalps at their belts where they can show 'em off to other girls and make them green with envy. So walk warily and don't let the headhunters get you.

A cynic has said: "Don't believe half you see and nothing that you hear." This is worth bearing in mind when you go up against the girl proposition, because, for some reason that nobody can explain, young girls have a mania for pretending to be what they are not and the truth is not in most of them. They will tell you that you are the only boy who has ever kissed them. Wow! And that they never date any other boy, when you will know that they were out with your best friend. They will pretend to have read books they have never heard of and to have visited places they have never seen, and that the dresses their Mammas made for them came from Paris, and that they are hardened sophisticates, when they are as innocent as babes in the cradle.

So discount most of the things that girls tell you about themselves. Few of them are as red as they paint themselves. And, finally, son, when you do fall in love, as you are sure to do, take it lightly. Don't let it get you down. Realize that it is just a slight passing attack of heart disease from which you will recover in the course of a month or two. Don't think of love seriously until you are adult and ready to marry. And don't let any girl weep, plead and shanghai you into marriage until you are able to support a family.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am very much in love with a woman whose husband deserted her a great many years ago. She does not know where he is and has not heard from him for many years. We want to be married. What shall we do?—

JOHN AND NELL.

ANSWER:

I think there is some little formality that you will have to go through in order to make your marriage legal, but it is a mere technicality. I should think that they could tell you at the Marriage License Bureau what to do.

SOAP ECONOMIES.

It is a good plan to supply a bathroom wash-basin with two tablets of toilet soap and to use them alternately, so that each one has time to dry. If one piece is in constant use it is apt to waste quickly through being always wet. Small nail-brushes turned bristle upwards are good mats for soap. They keep the tablets well drained and dry, and the small amount of soap that sticks to the bristles is used each time the brush is required for the nails, so that there is no waste.

Holiday greetings from the Scottish Women's Rural Institute have been received by Mayor James Hamilton, Alderman Bradburn and Alderman Gordon.

The sixty Scottish women, all members of this Institute, came to America with a desire to obtain a closer knowledge of rural Canada, and returned from their visit deeply enthusiastic over the country and Canadian hospitality.

A copy of the Scottish Home and Country, whose editor, Miss Winifride Wrench, was a member of the visiting party has arrived in Peterborough and in an article telling of "Our Second Week in Canada, Miss Wrench writes of the Civic Reception which awaited them at Peterborough, in the lovely Kawartha Lake district. "We sat down over 150 to dinner and there had the delight of listening to Senator Iva Fallis—one of Canada's two women Senators—welcoming us. Her speech was one of the high lights of the trip and in happier times we hope we may have the pleasure of seeing her in Scotland. We had to push on that night to Bobcaygeon where 2 happy days were spent on the shores of Pigeon Lake. Members of the local institutes met us at Fenelon Falls and got up a big function for us at Bobcaygeon, with songs, speeches and a real Canadian spread. Alas! we were always in a hurry; there was too much to see and do; and we learned by experience what a vast country Canada is. Everywhere we went we longed to stay longer; everywhere our warm-hearted hostesses said, "We hate to see you go."

In her story of the Canadian visit, Miss Wrench says it seems hardly creditable in view of present circumstances that her party left Canada only a few weeks ago. "It is sad to reflect that Canadians have been amongst the first victims of Hitler's War," she remarks. "On our way over to Quebec we passed the "Athenia" on what was to prove her last voyage but one. Captain Cook sent us a wireless message of good wishes. A few of our party who remained in the New World for another week, were passengers on her very last home-bound voyage. The loss of a ship is like the loss of a home. It is at any rate worth recording that the men who carried out this diabolical act had the grace to send a radio message giving the exact position where the "Athenia" was sinking, thus saving many lives."

"There is not the shadow of a doubt," Miss Wrench continues, "that not one of us has returned to Scotland as we left it. Each one of us has learned much, not the least being the knowledge gained at first hand of the fundamental unity of British peoples the world over, and in these dark days that knowledge is a source of strength. We have much to give each other, and when the nightmare of war is over we look forward to renewing the contacts made and forging new ones both in Canada and in Scotland."

Let Hitler Do The Worrying

There are some writers who profess to see farther than the garden run of humans. Whether they are right or wrong we do not know. One of their theories is that the time will come shortly when the nations of Europe will have to join forces and fight Russia. They point to Britain, France, Germany, Italy and possibly Spain as being destined to join in the complete overthrow of Russia and its form of communism.

One might contend that views of this kind are not calculated to fit a country for the serious business of fighting Germany at the moment, but that does not interfere with the plain fact that the stopping of Russia is something which is being openly discussed. Chamberlain, of the Christian Science Monitor, for 16 years stationed in Moscow as correspondent, wrote fully of this months ago, and he knows Russia and Stalin and interprets thoroughly what is taking place there. It has since been considered advisable to move this correspondent to Paris.

The question is renewed in cables from London which refer to suggestions in the Scandinavian press that Russia's invasion of Finland should lead to a truce between Germany and the Allies in order that all nations shall face their common foe, Communism.

London stated there was no official comment on the situation and that is right enough. It would be an extremely difficult matter on which to say anything because it would not be known who or what was behind the suggestion in the first place. There is the suggestion in the London despatches that Hitler is so alarmed at the attitude and expansive ferocity of Russia that he would gladly be free of a war with the Allies in order to meet this new menace.

If Stalin is running away with Hitler then Hitler has himself to blame. The Examiner has several times stated that Stalin with virtually no expenditure of military force had taken a great share of Poland, come into control of the Baltic states and made himself master of the Baltic itself. All that in spite of the first move by Hitler when he seized Danzig. Danzig itself is at least 95 per cent. German, but Danzig is a Baltic port, and the Baltic is now controlled by Russia.

There is something else which has taken place. Stalin gained the eastern section of Poland; he is virtually in control of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Hitler may have cut out the Polish corridor which used to separate East Prussia from the rest of Germany, but he now finds there are no convenient buffer states between East Prussia and Russia. Russia with its communism and with its aptitude for propaganda is now a neighbor of Germany on a wide front, while previously their boundaries had not touched at one point.

It may take some time for the significance of that situation to penetrate deeply into the German mind, and it may be the penetration has already proceeded to a point where the intelligent class can see in Stalin not an ally, but the most-feared enemy of Germany. If Hitler finds he has to consider that matter now and is worried then it is his own concern. If in his own mad quest for power he has been stupid enough to allow Stalin to put a ring in his nose we cannot see where the Allies are called upon to extend sympathy.

Nothing Will Come Of It

Premier Hepburn and Dr. A. J. Irwin, secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, have been "in the newspapers" again following a visit of a deputation headed by Dr. Irwin to ask for an earlier closing of beverage rooms or closing them entirely during the duration of the war.

It was not a particularly friendly gathering toward the end, nor has it entirely quieted down since. The point in dispute is who first made the suggestion that men in uniform be barred from beverage rooms. Premier Hepburn contended that would amount to placing soldiers on the Indian list, something he was not prepared to do. Dr. Irwin contended he was not the one who made that suggestion, and Mr. Hepburn was so sure of it that he declared the man was not telling the truth and placed a ban on any more visits from Dr. Irwin.

All of which may be interesting and rather spectacular but rather aside and apart from the issue. It seems to indicate that the temperance people of the province have pretty much centralized their efforts and they depend on Dr. Irwin and his deputation to present certain requests to the government, and past experience has made it plain to the governments of this province that the temperance people will not vote against party.

Promoting temperance, teaching it and seeking to interest the younger generation in the matter is something which is today left to comparatively few people. Dr. Irwin is a paid official and so are those who visit the various communities seeking funds to carry on the work.

Years ago there were people all over the province who from actual conviction were leaders in the temperance movement. They were prepared to spend their time and energy in promoting sound opinion and no monetary reward was ever expected. Today the one visible bit of machinery appears to be centred in Toronto, and there is apparent belief that if the government can be induced to change regulations things will be better. Depending on a government to promote temperance is not wise and nothing will come of it.

Appealing To The League

Finland requests the League of Nations go into action. The guiding body of the League has been called for December 9, and the League members for December 11.

There is another sectional meeting on at the moment, attended by technical experts, and the president of this (by rotation) is Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London. Russia and Finland paid their dues to the League of Nations on the same day last week.

Finland will ask for arbitration of the present situation and she has a right to make such a request, as arbitration is the motive behind the League of Nations. It may be Finland seeks to lean upon a broken reed in appealing to the League, but Russia is a member and cannot well dodge the issue. If she does so she will place herself on record before all other nations as having been the greatest of all hypocrites in her previous demands for world peace.

One Good Suggestion

Fred H. Barlow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court, was commissioned by the Hepburn government to make a survey of the administration of justice in Ontario. One of his recommendations is that there should be a central place in the province for the carrying out of the death penalty.

There can be little argument on that point, and we doubt if there will be any at all. When the death sentence is passed in any county it then becomes the duty of the sheriff to provide scaffold for the execution, death watches and so on. If the sheriff could not find a suitable or experienced person to carry out the last act of the law then he would be under the compulsion of attending to it himself.

The central place for executions may not be a pleasant thing to discuss, but the blunt fact is we have capital punishment, and it should be submitted to a system which is as perfect as possible. One place with efficient equipment, in charge of a competent official, is superior to our present plan. So superior that we should not hesitate to adopt it.

How Does Bill Do It?

In the ordinary course of business a bushel of oats should or must weigh 34 pounds. The grand championship in oats was won at the Chicago Hay and Grain show by a sample which weighed 49 pounds to the bushel. And that exhibit came from a farm in Alberta, making 12 wins in 20 years from this side of the border.

This prize was announced in Chicago and it was some time before the winner heard about it. He is Bill Skladan of Andrew, Alta., and Andrew, Alta., has no telephone service over the week-end. Such things are closed down tight there.

This young man is 20 years old, and is a member of one of the Junior Grain Clubs in Alberta which are open to farmers' sons between the ages of 15 and 22. Junior farmers you may call them, but it is worth remembering that the high rank for oats went also to one of these young chaps from Alberta last year.

The remarkable part of this award is that Bill's bushel of oats is reported to have weighed 49 pounds, while 34 is regarded as the accepted and legal weight. "Victory" was the variety grown and exhibited, and that is a kind known well enough in this province. It is not the early variety, nor is it regarded as being superior to Alaska.

What Bill Skladan of Alberta did to his bushel of oats to run the weight up to 49 pounds is not disclosed. There may have been one of those sessions on the kitchen table in the evenings when the oats were made subject to hand picking and selection in that way. Even so that 49-pound mark is remarkable. It is not unusual to find oats at times running around 40 pounds to the bushel, but up to 49!! The things rightly calls for two exclamation marks.

Applying a little arithmetic to the situation shows that the oats exhibited by Bill Skladan weighed 44.1 per cent. more than the accepted standard bushel of oats. It can be accepted that the people who run the Chicago show know how to weigh oats and the 49-pound figure is official. It does look as though some of these junior farmers must understand the whole business—preparation of the land selection of seed, exactly the right day to cut and also the best method of picking out one perfect bushel which weighs in at 49 pounds.

A Grand Nuisance

Reports appear often enough telling about "Father Divine," a Negro in New York who several years ago proclaimed himself as the Messiah. Those who joined with him are known as angels, and of angels he has a great number.

The amount of property he has been able to secure is remarkable. Nor is he interested in slums; he craves for estates and each one he secures becomes another "heaven" for those who occupy it.

Laugh at the idea if you wish but this colored gentleman, with much gall and a fairly active brain, has been able to command a great deal of money. Right now he is facing into a lawsuit, as one of the angels is not satisfied. Mrs. Brown, a cook, had money to the extent of $4,476, and in all seriousness she stated in court she handed it all over to Father Divine in order to lay up treasure in heaven. She doubted whether she had made a good investment, and decided to take action when Father Divine started demanding her husband's wages as well as all her own money.

People are free to do as they like about such matters in United States, but in the interest of plain justice it does seem that there should be a halter placed upon this colored gentleman. He has played upon the emotional fervor of the Negroes and the thousands of dollars' worth of real estate which he now controls is evidence of the spell he cast over them.

One of his friends said if Father Divine were sued it "would annoy him so much he might evaporate for 1,900 years." By what process that would be done is not fully stated. It does look as though even in a land of freedom there ought to be an official guardian to look after people who are not able to look after themselves.

The Toronto Telegram refers to the Peterborough Examiner as "an independent newspaper of high standing." Thanks, brother, because that is at least what we have been aiming at.

French freighter Carbel, unheard of since the war commenced three months ago, arrived at La Harve. Possibly the skipper has worked out a fairly good excuse for being late.

One result of Russia's bombing civilian population in Finland is that she can purchase no more planes in United States. The world needs a good deal more of that kind of action.

REMARKABLE

¶ Methusaleh ate what they put on his plate, is a claim of a quite ancient date, yet his was a ripe old age; his years were numbered nine sixty-nine before he reached the end of his time, or finished the end of his page.

¶ Just how it so happened I never may know, because it took place in years long ago, while science was still a young thing; they fought not with germs that I am aware, nor did they ever condition the air, nor bring on the camphor in spring.

¶ As far as I read I never found out, if people were bothered with shingles or gout, Methusaleh likely was strong; a day at a time he lived and he went, nor yet by sciatics all crippled and bent, his centuries passed like a song.

¶ No warning to tell him about a new germ, just what he must do or which way he should turn, no spray to condition the air; the germs might have jumped and grabbed him with ease, Methusaleh went and came as he'd please, he didn't know they were there.

¶ Of calories Methusaleh never had heard, he'd probably stumble on such a word, it might have excited his fears; and yet he went on in his primitive way, and the great book of records has this much to say—he lived over nine hundred years!

How Aberhart Was Gripped By Social Credit

TAKING time out from the war and kindred topics, and turning to Alberta for the moment Arthur Ford writes in the Free Press of London explaining how Social Credit happened to grip William Aberhart, and how William Aberhart in turned happened to grip Alberta:

Maurice Colbourne appeared in London last week at the Grand Theatre at the head of an English company of players. Not many people who heard the distinguished actor realized that he is an author of several books on political economy and is an enthusiastic supporter of Social Credit. He has written two volumes on the subject.

Mr. Colbourne is really responsible for Social Credit in Alberta. It is an interesting story. Several years ago Mr. Colbourne and his company were performing in Edmonton. The Edmonton Canadian Club, on the lookout for speakers, invited the celebrated actor to address the club. Mr. Colbourne accepted the invitation. The members of the club crowded the MacDonald Hotel, expecting to hear an address on "The Stage in England," or "Modern Developments of the Theatre" or something of that kind. Instead, to the amazement of the members, he spoke on an economic subject and propounded a strange and new economic theory, which he called Social Credit. It is safe to say that there was not a member present who had ever heard of Social Credit and few knew what he was driving at. It was a rather disappointed and puzzled lot of Canadian Club members who trooped away from the noon-day luncheon.

Amongst those in the audience was a high school principal from Calgary, who was in the Alberta capital marking examination papers. Some friend had invited him as a guest to attend the Canadian Club. His name was William Aberhart. He was not a theatre-goer, but a strict Baptist, who has built up the largest Sunday school class in Calgary. It had overflowed the auditorium of the church and he had moved downtown into a local theatre. Then he built his own auditorium, where he conducted what he called the Bible Institute and put on every Sunday afternoon a radio religious talk, which was particularly, popular through rural Alberta. Mr. Aberhart, when he was asked to attend the Canadian Club luncheon, gladly accepted. He was curious to see and to hear an actor of fame.

While to most of the members present Mr. Colbourne's address was just another Canadian Club speech, Mr. Aberhart was deeply interested in the new economic theories advocated by the actor. The country was in the throes of depression; Alberta was economically passing through serious times; the farmers of the province were discouraged. Was this the way out? He found that Mr. Colbourne had written several books on the subject. He purchased them, including the latest, entitled "The Meaning of Social Credit." He marked examination papers all day and read Mr. Colbourne's books at night.

WHEN Mr. Aberhart returned to Calgary to resume his Sunday Bible addresses he told over the radio of this new economic theory which he had discovered; it was a panacea for all our ills. A people, restless and disturbed, immediately responded. To his surprise hundreds of people wrote in from all over the province wanting to hear more about Social Credit. Mr. Aberhart gave it to them. Soon Social Credit clubs were springing up all over Alberta. It swept over the province like a prairie fire. The rural people in particular had confidence and faith in Mr. Aberhart, as a man of strong religious convictions and thoroughly honest and sincere. The new economic theories, with which Mr. Aberhart mixed old-fashioned religion, were seized upon as the salvation of the province.

An election was in sight in the province. The people were fed up with the two old parties. What had they to offer, but old nostrums? The U.F.A. was in power at Edmonton and this Government was discredited; the administration had solved nothing; conditions were growing worse. Social Credit candidates were nominated in most of the ridings. To the surprise of nearly everyone, and particularly Mr. Aberhart, the Social Credit party swept the province by an overwhelming majority. Mr. Aberhart, having been the originator of the idea and its chief proponent, was asked to become prime minister. He could not very well refuse. So the Calgary High School principal became the world's first Social Credit premier. And Maurice Colbourne will have to take the responsibility for Alberta's Government for the past four years.

A friend loaned us Mr. Colbourne's book. The actor is very proud of the fact that he converted Mr. Aberhart to Social Credit. Here is what he says in the preface of the fourth edition, written in 1935 just after the last Dominion election when 17 Social Credit candidates had been elected to Ottawa:

"As I take up my pen to preface this edition news of Canada's general election arrives. In the Dominion's new Parliament Social Credit is represented by 17 men. We salute those men! They are the most honorable vanguard of a mighty host that will first impregnate and finally populate the parliaments of the world. The link between them and this book is one calculated to feed even the most bashful author's vanity to the full and the reader will forgive me, I hope, for being unable to forego the pleasure of recording the fact, as I am informed, that it was the American version of this volume which sowed the seed of Social Credit in the mind of Alberta's Social Credit premier, William Aberhart."

That was written in 1935 and we wonder if Mr. Colbourne is as proud today as he was in 1935 of the world's first Social Credit premier.

• Always Something In The News

AWAY BACK last Spring, we read in the papers, a farmer of Durham county hired a trucker to take a load of cattle to the city, and went along for the ride. He and the trucker spent the night together in a hotel, and in the morning the driver was gone—and so was the $126 from the farmer's pocket. Police were called in, and the trucker was found but not the money. The farmer was pretty sore about it all. Then Summer came on, and Fall, and one day the farmer put on the vest he had discarded some months back. Hunting in his vest pocket for a match he found a wad of paper. It was, of course, his $126.

Odd and amusing things happen, incidents are recorded, war or no war, says the Ottawa Journal. There was the chap at Goderich, for instance, who put his foot through a restaurant music machine and was fined $2, which was little enough for the satisfaction the protest must have brought him. In Brooklyn a magistrate ruled that the sweet potato is a vegetable, not a fruit, thus recalling the famous controversy over the classification of the tomato. In Ohio a John Lemon married Mary Sugar and gave the paragraphers an item. Kamloops, B.C., comes along with the statement that her 2,634 hours of sunshine last year was 277 hours more than recorded in Victoria—you follow the birds to Victoria, you will recall.

And there was a woman of Waterford, Ontario, who put a whole pumpkin in a pot and set it to boil, with the laudable intention of making pumpkin pies. Great was her amazement, and pain, when the pumpkin blew up in her face. At Zurich, Ontario, the customers at a church supper consumed 2,200 pounds of poultry. Near Stratford the other day a turkey acting mysteriously was tracked and found with a nest and eggs. In southern Alberta as December loomed up the crocuses were in bloom and pussy willows in bud.

And, last but not least, there was the strange and alarming experience of a Victoria woman who drives an automobile. Going down a main street on her placid way she was waved to the curb by a motorcycle officer. She wondered whether it would be two or ten dollars for whatever offence she had committed. Said the officer: "Lady, I want to congratulate you. You're the first woman driver who has driven properly on this street in the last hour."

And so the world wags on, with bursting pumpkins and police traffic men and all the queer and amusing things that go to the full picture of life.

• These "Forces of Righteousness"

HERBERT HOOVER, isolationist ex-President of the United States, does not despair for Finland. "Even if Finland falls," he says, "it will rise again—for the forces of righteousness are not dead in the world."

It is true that the forces of righteousness are not dead—there are nations struggling to preserve liberty. It is, however, unfortunately true, says Toronto Telegram, that the forces of unrighteousness are abroad and, in some quarters of the world, in the ascendant. Nine nations—China, Ethiopia, Albania, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania—have fallen under their sway. Now Finland is being added to the list and the Balkan states are trembling. The forces of righteousness have a long leeway to make up, and neither platitudes nor optimistic forecasts for a far-distant future will help them.

There are still some who fail to see that this return to what Mr. Hoover calls the "morals of butchery of Genghis Khan" is the concern of the whole world and not merely of a particular group of nations. That kind of blindness has been common in the United States. President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull began to see clearly long ago but could not convince those who would not see, among whom was Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover himself, we imagine, is now beginning to see something—in some of his recent utterances he has departed from the attitude of dispassionate refusal to judge—but he is still content to rely on "the forces of righteousness" elsewhere. Events may shortly convince him that if freedom is to be preserved all the forces of righteousness must be thrown into the struggle, and that delay is dangerous.

Something might be said here about the forces of self-righteousness, but perhaps it would be better left unsaid.

• Dr. Sun Fo Likes Russia Best

ALL foreign diplomats do not love Britain equally. This profound thought occurred to me the other day when I had the pleasure of lunching at the Chinese Embassy with Dr. Sun Fo. This gentleman, writes Atticus, in Financial Post, is the son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and was formerly Prime Minister of China. Now he is President of the Legislative Union of his native country, which, I gather, is similar to being Lord Privy Seal over here. At any rate, his duties permit him to travel abroad a great deal, which he does in the role of a wandering pleni-potentiary.

He came to London from Rome, but had previously been for some time in Moscow and was there, in fact, when Germany signed the agreement with Russia and our delegates decided to come home. The Doctor, who speaks almost as perfect English as the Chinese Ambassador himself, does not think Russia intends to make war on anyone. I gathered, indeed, from his cordial appreciation of Russia's foreign policy that M. Stalin might now sing with the chorus of "The Mountebanks."

We are members of a secret society

Our motto is revenge without anxiety,
That is without unnecessary risk.

It was when Dr. Sun Fo spoke of the contrasted attitudes of Russia and Britain toward his country that I first sensed a slight lack of pro-British fervor:

"Russia has granted us credits for fifty million pounds," he said. "And Great Britain has not given a tenth of that. The Russians are business-like. I myself secured thirty millions of that amount on this visit. We discussed the matter for only a few hours and then it was all arranged." In his opinion Japan is very tired and will be unable to set up a puppet government in place of the Chinese Generalissimo's Administration.

Dr. Sun Fo does not exude that smiling urbanity which is one of the traditional charms of the Chinese. He has an incisive mind and, although unfailingly courteous, he speaks with an almost Occidental directness. Perhaps, as the son of his father, he feels that he possesses the right to speak for China, in terms that permit of no misunderstanding.

• Some Plain Honesty Is Needed

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Not a great item to make a fuss about, is it? Yet my purpose in doing so is to awaken a spirit of Christianity in the youths of today and a sense of moral responsibility in the parents, for I feel sure the sad lack of honesty in children must be laid at their door. It is a thing which must be taught from infancy; for as the twig is bent, so the tree.

To get back to the running shoes, they were brown with tops, size 8½. At a great sacrifice to the boy's mother they were bought upon his return to school after a severe illness. On the 19th of November he very proudly sallied forth to P.C.I. his new gym shoes tucked under his arm. At last he had a pair like the other boys possessed, instead of an old worn out pair of scampers which were so small he had to cut a hole in them to make room for his toes; but alas! the very first day after wearing them once he left them in room number one at desk number three of History class while absent at another period, during which there was no time to place the shoes in his locker under lock and key, and upon his return to classroom they were gone. His teacher was informed, but nothing could be done.

If the child who took them will please replace them, no questions will be asked. Otherwise, every boy or girl who wears a size 8½ brown gym shoe will feel guilty of the offence.

Does the child who took the shoes realize that God knows of the action? Has he or she no conscience whatsoever? This is not the first time that petty thievery has been committed by thoughtless youths at P.C.I. In one instance, by dint of hard work, a boy bought himself a new bicycle on the down payment plan. He rode it to school and when class was dismissed the machine was gone. The poor boy has to continue to make payments on a machine that somebody else is riding. What about the parents of the boy with the newly acquired machine? Don't they ask him where he got it? Or do they turn their heads the other way and in order to still what conscience they have, tell themselves: "It's none of our business where it came from.... Jackie is a smart boy, he wanted a bicycle, and he figured out how to get on." And do they on Sunday sit in church and with an sanctimonious air, nod their heads as the preacher expounds brotherly love, honesty and Christianity.

Think! You parents. It's no better or worse for your child to appropriate another child's property than it is for Hitler or Stalin to do so. How would you feel if either of these men came over here and took your homes, your children, or even just one meal? I venture to say that right now you are genuine in your expressions of hate for both, and so I say: "Every child from infancy should be taught never to take so much as a pin that does not belong to him. He should be taught to respect other people's property. If this were done by the parents, our good aldermen would not have to close skating and swimming shacks, or wonder what expense the city fathers will have to pay out each year for repairs caused by wilful damage.

PROTEST

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Please try to find out what the idea is for Christmas trees to be upside down on George street. I think they look terrible. What do you think?

A Merry Christmas to all.

PETER BORO.

Ed. Note—These trees have been removed.

THEY WANT STOCKINGS

I UNDERSTAND there is an anti-chocolate movement among business girls in view of the approach of Christmas. It appears it is far too common a custom among bosses and near-bosses in offices to merely send down for a dozen boxes of chocolates and just crash them around among the girls—thus meeting a season obligation and at the same time avoiding the necessity for thought.

I have been earnestly deputed to drop a hint to all these kindly bosses that very many girls would much rather have stockings—which constitute a perpetual expense nowadays—and to drop another hint that girls today no longer regard it as slightly indelicate to accept stockings from gentlemen. They are much more inclined to grab for them with two hands.—J.B., in Vancouver Province.

CAMPBELLFORD

Citizens Blamed For Being Too Hospitable

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5 (ENS).—For a second time Council wrestled with the transient problem which was carried over from the last meeting. The chairman of the Police Committee, J. R. Battisby, in whose hands the matter had been left, indicated that he had no better plan to offer than that suggested at the last meeting of continuing to keep them in the police station. During the past week from three to four have been guests of the town each evening. Mayor Long felt that a great deal of the trouble lay with the citizens themselves who were being too hospitable with the fellows who came to their doors asking for food. He told of one lady who reported an able-bodied man had visited her home six times in the course of a week asking for food. "I think we should put a notice in the paper urging citizens to refuse to feed transients as a means of discouraging them from makin gthis place a port of call," put in Deputy-Reeve Locke.

Councillor Donald was of the opinion that as long as the Government allowed them to walk the roads the town would have to do its share towards supporting them. It was finally decided the jail be kept locked from 9 o'clock in the morning until 7 in the evening.

Another of Council's headaches was successfully terminated when the chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee reported the parties who had been holding up construction of the water main and sewer on the south end of Front Street had agreed to complete the work in accordance with the town engineer's specifications.

Grant Requested.

C. Howard Davidson addressed the Council asking that the customary grant of $200 be made to the owners of the skating arena in lieu of their providing free skating for school children on Saturday mornings and also charging no fee for hockey games between Public and Separate School teams two nights a week from 4 to 6 p.m. Harold Dunk, chief sponsor of Public School hockey, also addressed the Council in this regard stressing the advantages of organizing the sport among the younger boys.

A letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs saying that town officials elected in January would hold office for two years, was received and filed.

Councillor Macmillan reported he had received a request to rent the town crusher during the winter. The matter was left with the Road and Bridge Committee.

"It's going to be more difficult for our own citizens to get relief than in former years," stated Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay, who reported the relief situation as being unchanged from the previous month.

Board Requires $2,500.

The School Board will require $2,500 to carry them through until the end of the year or at least until their grants from the Department of Education come through. Reeve Calver, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the loan would have to be financed through the bank since he wanted to finish the year with a balance budget.

A general meeting is to be called for December 13 to discuss the annual question of dispensing Christmas cheer to the needy families in the corporation. By calling the heads of various organizations together for a joint meeting it is expected to prevent any overlapping or duplication of effort. "I had a man two weeks ago remind me not to forget their Christmas basket this year," reported the Reeve. It will take about $80 to supply the necessary baskets, as it is not expected there will be as many required this year.

The agreement between H. Redden and the corporation as well as a by-law authorizing the transfer of Lots 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, in Lot 14, Block 34 on the north side of Kent Street, was passed by Council.

Red Cross Work Is Described

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 5—(ENS).—Members of the recently organized wa rworkers had the Rev. N. McIntosh, pastor of Norwood Baptist Church (a member of Prince of Wales Rangers of Peterborough) give a talk on Red Cross work at the United Church on Friday night. Several from Havelock Red Cross branch were in attendance. The altar and piano were draped with the two recently dedicated Union Jacks for the occasion. Mrs. (Rev.) A. McLauchlin of Havelock was in charge of the meeting.

Mr. McIntosh opened his address by stressing the fact that the Government has recognized Red Cross as the official body to provide aid to the wounded. He corrected the statement that soldiers in the last war had to pay for their supplies to the Red Cross. He said canteens were operated close to the Red Cross quarters for profit, but the Red Cross had nothing to do with them, and neither did the Red Cross ever sell socks. In the general confusion of the last war, mistakes were made, but this time it is to be different. If Trent River war women want to work as a unit they can do so through the Red Cross, as all supplies going over to England and France have to be sent through the Red Cross.

Mr. McIntosh displayed a number of finished articles, among which were hampton bed pads, mattress pads, abdominal binders, and bandages, hospital gauze, handkerchiefs, surgical gowns.

Mr. McIntosh very graciously answered the many questions asked of him by the audience, and gave full explanations. He is appointed to buy material for the Norwood Red Cross, of which there are 200 women working for war needs.

The president of Trent River War Workers moved a hearty vote of appreciation to the speaker of the evening and also to Mrs. McLauchlin for her assistance, after which the singing of the National Anthem and the benediction by Rev. Andrew McLauchlin closed the meeting.

The Russian Bear Grows Fat

Westward sweep of Russia into Finland brought repercussions from most of Europe's neutrals. Soviet planes dropped bombs on Helsinki (1) and Hango (2). Red naval forces seized and held Hogland, Lavansari and Seiskari Islands (3), threatened Aland Island (4) and from seized Estonian islands of Osel and Dago (5) sent out sea and air raiders. Finland (A) has nickel, vital for Russia and Germany. They need high grade iron ore from Northern Sweden (B). Finland, Sweden and Norway (C) are linked in loose treaty of defence. Netherlands (D), Belgium (E) and Switzerland (F) fear attack by Germany while Russia diverts world attention. Italy's (G) position is still further aggravated by Russian move, fearing Soviet's next move will be into the Balkans. Hungary (H) is afraid to antagonize Germany, but still is anti-Russian.

Fathers, Sons Hold Banquet St. Andrew's

A Father and Son banquet was held in St. Andrew's Hall on Monday, December 4 at 6:15 p.m. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Fred McNeely was in charge of the supper. Dr. E. W. Young presided, and in the course of his address reviewed the work of the last two years. The Association stood for fellowship and service. There were several projects of work for the members to handle, visitation of new people in the district, baskets for needy folk at Christmas, arrangements for the annual picnic, teaching boys' classes in the Sunday School, and to hold themselves ready for any call for service that may come.

Alec Young proposed the toast to the fathers. Ivan Lillico responded. A musical program was rendered under the guidance of Mr. R. B. Hare. Adam Hawley sang a solo.

The following committee was appointed to make plans for the 1940 session, and to have a slate of officers reay for the January meeting: R. B. Harle, Stanley Cann, James Harvey, M. T. Breckenridge, and E. F. Reid.

R. J. Goring gave the address. He dealt with social and religious issues. The present generation, he said, was progressive, but many of the older men had closed minds. The influence of a good mother and home will win out in the case of every youth. There is need of an open mind today. We should speak out boldly and say what is right. If social conditions are bad then we should try to set them right. Seventy per cent of the people of the British empire including India never have enough to eat, one out of 10 people in Canada are still on relief. The business men are more responsible for bad social conditions than any one else. If every man would sweep opposite his own door step these conditions would soon disappear.

Members of St. Andrew's Church, he said, have a noble heritage of over 100 years. Sometimes there are quarrels in churches. We must not blame the church for them but rather the wicked people who sometimes get into it. The church is the greatest force for good in the world today. He was brought up in a village church, and the people in that congregation had a good influence over his life. These churches sent out our ministers, doctors, nurses, and lecturers. Loyalty to one's church is a fine quality. There is a great future before Canada, and the youg folks should not lose hope. Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific has immense resources which have not been fully explored. Young men should prepare themselves for the future. Knowledge, courage, and especially faith in God are essential to success in life.

Belt Of Mines

Berlin, Dec. 5 (AP).

INFORMED sources said today they believed German planes and submarines would attempt to lay a belt of magnetic mines around England and Scotland and that the region would be declared a danger zone. This, they said, would be Germany's answer to the alleged blockade but from official sources there was no comment other than that Germany will give a proper answer to Britain's piratical practices."

lems concerning German payments have contributed to the rising cost of living.

Before the war Germany could export approximately enough manufactured products to cover her purchases in the Rumanian market. Today, however, the Reich has ceased to manufacture or export many items which can be disposed of abroad most easily.

The international crisis and Rumania's permanent mobilization over the past eight months have considerably reduced the country's own market. There is little exchange available for hunting rifles, cameras and other such luxury articles formerly imported from Germany.

Germany has attempted to replace previous deliveries of such manufactured goods by other products, and recently an intensive campaign was carried on for purchases of German tractors to modernize Rumanian agriculture. However, the machines—most of which originated in Czecho-Slovakia—failed to give satisfaction in tests, being built of inferior materials, it is said.

The former prime minister described the people of the British Isles as "calm, determined and serious."

"They are calm," he said, "because of their long years of discipline.

"They are determined because they prefer no longer to exist with liberty and personal freedom menaced.

"They are serious because they realize this war is the most tremendous effort the country has engaged in since the days of Queen Elizabeth."

Take 5 Early victory

Compulsory military service had brought about an equality of sacrifice in Britain. Mr. Bennett related that the richest Earl in England became a private in the army when his class was called to duty.

The former Prime Minister, who now lives on estate at Hickleham, Surrey, was one of 1,166 passengers who arrived in the Statendam. The Atlantic crossing was described as "without incident."

Another passenger was Sir John Reith, chairman of the British overseas airways. Sir John, who declined to say what had brought him to the United States at this time, spoke instead on the effect the war has had on air services in the old world.

Air services between England, France and elsewhere in Europe has been reduced 90 per cent., he said. Only one plane was flying each way daily between London and Paris. Service between the United Kingdom and other parts of the Empire had been reduced by 20 per cent.

Tweed police to-day for information leading to arrest of the person or persons responsible for the explosion.

Rollins and a group of his supporters, numbering about 25, had been in the office celebrating the councillor's election victory prior to the blast. They were out of the building hardly five minutes before the detonation.

Rollins had been elected to council by acclamation but continued actively in the campaign after that in support of George H. Kerr, who defeated W. H. Sayers for Reeve by a substantial margin.

One of the principal election issues was the proposed erection of a post office in the village. Candidates were divided into factions on the place where the building should be situated.

condition in twenty-five years. He had been criticized for not giving enough relief. "But we have to give relief as the Government inspector tells us to," he remarked. Laughter filled the hall as he continued. "The only time some people know they are alive is nomination day. The Reeve gets blamed for everything though all he has to do in sessions practically is to put the motions."

R. E. Bonter, who followed, thanked his supporters. Though he had spent ten years in municipal affairs he had just done his first canvassing. He thought a canvass of voters to be necessary to learn what people want. He also felt that the village should have a welfare organization and also an organization whereby ideas could be brought to the notice of the Council. If the ratepayers took interest in the village for the balance of the year besides the period of election, it would be better for the community. In concluding, Mr. Bonter referred to some by-laws that might be looked into with the view to their being amended or abolished.

Vincent Lynch thanked all for the support given him. He felt it was gratifying indeed. It was his first venture into municipal affairs. As yet he had a clean sheet in the eyes of the ratepayers and during his term of office he would do his best.

R. E. Neal next called upon, said he was gratified at the result. He had found the three years of his service as councillor to be interesting, and would continue to serve in the town's interests.

Lewis Phillips thanked those whose votes had elected him and said that though he had no previous experience, he would do his best for the village.

W. A. Sanderson took the opposite view to a previous speaker, saying he did not agree with canvassing. He had been pleased to find little or no criticism of the men taking part in the contest. Referring to road repairs, he said that streets north of No. 7 Highway had been designated for repairs this past year. The streets south of the Highway had been designated for the coming year.

John R. Hart said, though lowest in the poll, he thanked all for their support. He congratulated the Reeve and Council on their election and hoped they would reduce taxation in the coming year. He also hoped applicants for relief would receive courteous treatment.

E. C. Prentice, in a few closing remarks, explained to the gathering that 75 per cent. of the unexpended portion of Marmora's country rate had to be returned by the country to be spent on the repair of some street designated by the Department of Highways.

The meeting, which lasted an hour, was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

In convoking the statesmen, Koht said "the Scandinavian Governments are gravely concerned over the war into which the Finnish people have been thrown and, both because of ourselves and because of Finland, they wish that peace may be re-established as soon as possible."

"The Scandinavian countries therefore must discuss all means to get peace negotiations," he added. "They assume that this also is the basis of Finland's appeal to the League of Nations. It was this matter I had in mind when I invited the Swedish and Danish Foreign Ministers to come to Oslo for a conference with me."

The Danish Foreign Minister accepted immediately and announced he would leave tomorrow for Oslo. Sandler's acceptance also was reported.

legislature would allow officials elected yesterday to hold office for two years first, and longer if the war lasts longer. ... ...

Hamilton voted three to one against the scheme and Brantford's opposition was substantial even before result swere complete. Chatham's vote was 2,468 to 1,737 and London's 5,667 to 4,838 against it.

At the same time Ottawa electors approved a plebiscite favoring a two-year term for municipal officials. Ingersoll voted against extending terms of office beyond one year.

The defeat of Mayor Perry, who retired from Sarnia's great football team only a few years ago, was the day's major surprise but the size of Mayor-elect Barnes' majority was decisive. Campaigning along lines of civic economy, he polled 3,081 votes to 1726.

The two largest cities which named Mayors re-elected their chief magistrates for the fifth time. Mayor William Morrison got a fifth term at Hamilton by a majority of 20,624 to 14,258 for Controller B. W. Hopkins, with nine polls unheard from in 214, and Mayor Stanley Lewis was returned at Ottawa with 15,563 votes to 11,922 for Finley McRae and 5,280 for S. Leonard Belaire.

Dave Sprague, a veteran of the team that will battle Winnipeg for the Dominion football championship this week, was elected an Ottawa alderman.

Only Woman, Defeated.

The most interesting races were provided in those communities where the mayors did not stand for re-election. With Mayor George W. Gordon in retirement, Alderman Joe Meinzinger was elected mayor of Kitchener with 4,566 votes to 4,503 for A. J. Cundick and 1,636 for Alex Schaeffer. Alderman Meinzinger instituted an inquiry into conduct of the city police department this year.

The only woman candidate for a mayor's chair was defeated. Alderman George R. Inglis had a plurality of 1,694 over Alderman Clara Twidale and John M. Parker at Niagara Falls, where Mayor Carl D. Hanniwell chose to run for Hydro Commission and was elected.

In a spirited election at Chatham, where Mayor J. J. Zink stood aside, Alderman W. C. Hubbell was named to succeed him, polling 2,316 votes to 1,642 for Alderman Douglas Kerr and 801 for Victor Lauriston, author and newspaperman.

Among Mayors re-elected were W. J. Laforest at Sudbury, Peter Laing at St. Thomas, Dr. H. A. Stewart at Kingston, R. J. Waterous at Brantford, Bert Lewis at Woodstock and W. G. Taylor of Guelph, Mayor Allan Johnston of London, Mayor W. S. McKay of Galt, Mayor Thomas E. Henry of Stratford and Mayor Arthur Beattie of North Bay were re-elected by acclamation at qualification time.

Businessmen Wins.

Businessmen candidates captured the two Controllerships open at Windsor, William H. McCreery topping the polls with 10,893 votes to the 9029 for the other elected controller Cyril Cooper, and 7,110 for Controller George Bennett and 5,669 for Controller Olive Jane Whyte. Mayor David Croll was elected last year for a two-year term.

A. C. Anderson defeated the sitting Mayor of the town of Strathroy, J. W. Kilmride, 895 to 322.

Interest at Petrolia centred in the fight for the Deputy Reeveship for opposing the present official, B. M. Sutherland, was Albert Glover, who as chairman of the town council police committee recently brought in a report that resulted in the dismissal of the Chief of Police and the night constable.

Sutherland was returned to office by 720 to 419. He declared the result was an expression of confidence in the ousted constables.

will depend entirely on feed prices as far as Prince Edward Island producers are concerned, J. A. Gillies, manager of the P.E.I. Co-operative Livestock Marketing Board, said.

Not Settled Yet.

In Montreal, Agriculture Minister Gardiner declared that the Canadian government has asked for an agreement for the duration of the war but it is not settled definitely yet. The question of a Canadian bacon board will be before the Cabinet in Ottawa today.

The agreement was welcomed by Agriculture Minister K. C. MacDonald of British Columbia as "encouraging news." He said it should induce swine breeders to produce greater numbers of hogs.

Manitoba is already laying plans for participation in the bacon and ham marketing scheme and we can be counted upon to do our share toward making this arrangement a success," said Agriculture Minister D. L. Campbell of Manitoba.

He suggested a board be set up in Canada to establish a price for Canadian producers which would be in line with the cost of production and also be fair to British consumers.

In Ottawa, official circles forecast that the agreement would lead to control of hog marketing in Canada.

Government officials in the capital said that to keep up the weekly movement overseas it would be necessary to vary hog prices in Canada from season to season.

other side of the picture as the aviation engineers had observed it in their visit to Peterborough. The flaws they pointed out were such familiar and picturesque details as too many swamps, too many hills, the variety of the country and the rolling uneveness that contribute natural beauty, but not the degree of safety in air emergencies that is sought on the ground reaching out from an aviation centre.

The inference from Mr. Duffus' statement was to the effect that he was dubious about a complete training field for war aviators being allotted to the Peterborough district, "but we might be fortunate in getting here a school for young men who have taken elementary training elsewhere and who are ready for a more advanced stage of flying. The question of the nature of outlying territory and possible danger in landing is not so serious with them."

Alderman Dutton enquired— "Do you think we can do anything further?"

"The City Engineer gave a fine detailed report of the Otonabee field, and we were asked whether we could supply a similar report on the area south of No. 28 highway, the Lang and Lillico fields and others in that section, and there is also a place in Ennismore that was mentioned. If Mr. Parsons could get that information at once, I believe it would be step in the right direction."

Mr. Duffus supplemented that suggestion with the expression that he believed Saturday's visit to Ottawa "advanced our claim materially."

"Well, I move that Mr. Parsons be instructed to get the additional information as soon as possible, and that he be authorized to engage extra help if he needs it, so that we can have that information in the hands of the aviation officials at the earliest possible moment," Alderman Dutton proposed, and Alderman Stocker seconded it.

"We should include information on any available sites," Alderman Dutton said.

The special committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Cotton, Glover and McCannan was asked to continue the service for which it was appointed some time ago, having met the Departmental engineers on their visit to Peterborough about two weeks ago.

Mr. Duffus said he had been promised that a further survey of the Peterborough district would be made from the air, and he believed the two planes here Monday may have been sent on that mission. "The sooner we get the additional information and go back again, the better," he added.

The Dutton-Stocker motion was adopted, leaving to the special committee the responsibility for the next step in an exceptionally vigorous effort that is being paced by the pressure of national emergency and military necessity.

Using Italian Planes

Although Italian newspapers indicated the Rome government would refrain from directly aiding Finland, authoritative circles confirmed that the Finns were defending themselves with Italian-made planes. They said, however, the planes were ordered some time before the Russian invasion.

(A report in Stockholm said 25 to 50 Italian fighting planes, recently delivered to Finland, were ready for action, and that an Italian instructor had been drilling Finnish airmen day and night.)

At the same time, there were indications in responsible circles of Italian readiness to oppose any Soviet invasion of the Balkans which; unlike the Baltic countries, lie within Italy's direct sphere of influence.

Il Messagero said promotion of Italian economic and political interests in the Balkans would harm the interests of neither Germany nor Russia so long as "third parties did not seek, as might be the case with Russia, to insert themselves in that particularly delicate zone of Europe to install a political formula contrary to European civilization."

As to possible friction between Rome and Berlin ove rthe invasion of Finland, the paper said "if the democracies thought to benefit from the clash of Italy with other ideologies, they are wrong."

The German ambassador to Italy, Hans-Georg Von Mackensen, was expected in diplomatic circles to report on Italy's attitude in Berlin, where he went yesterday to attend the celebration of his father's birthday. His father, Field Marshal August Von Mackensen, will be 90 years old tomorrow.

Likely To Resign.

It was believed generally in these quarters that Russia would resign before the eLague Council's meeting Saturday to hear Finland's case. Russia has given notice she will not attend the session.

The Argentine and Uruguayan notes fell under Article XVI of the League covenant providing that "a member of the League which has violated the covenant may be declared no longer a member by vote of the council." That measure never has been applied.

Certain League quarters said the prevailing opinion was that the weight of South American influence had out-balanced any fear of the Allies that ousting Russia would force her into closer ties with Germany.

(The German newspaper Fremdenblatt of Hamburg declared convocation of the League to weigh Finland's appeal was an an attempt to put Germany "on the carpet" before a world forum. Germany's League membership ended Oct. 19, 1935.

("At this propaganda formum, all energies will undoubtedly be bent upon making it appear that tremendous changes in Eastern Europe and now in Finland are the direct and exclusive result of Germany's foreign policy in recent months," the Fremdenblatt said.)

Secret Device Success.

An authoritative source said Britain has a new secret weapon that was "very satisfactory" in combatting German magnetic mines. Volunteers on trawlers were said to be using the closely-guarded new method. Neutral experts suggested the possibility of exploding such mines by dragging metallic object between two wooden vessels.

(Reports received in Washington last week said Britain had discovered sound waves would detonate the mines.)

The export blockade that began yesterday went forward with sharp lookouts maintained at such bottlenecks as Gibraltar, Suez Canal and the Straits of Dover. Authorities stated that the most difficult sections to patrol were the 270 miles between Scotland and Norway and the 400 miles between Scotland Iceland.

The ministry of economic warfare expressed the hope that neutral shippers would declare their cargoes to British consuls before sailing or that ships would submit to examination voluntarily. Neutral ships are being asked to call at the British contraband bases at Gibraltar or in Britain when outward bound just as they have been stopping when arriving with goods for the continent.

At these bases, cargoes of German origin are seized, and the goods or proceeds of their sale remain under jurisdiction of British prize courts until the end of the war.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Russia's invasion of Finland may complicate Germany's supply problem and make the Reich more than ever dependent on Russia.

While Russia's invasion of Poland was helpful to Germany in bringing the war in Poland to a speedy conclusion it is difficult to see how the Soviet attack on the Finns can do anything other than embarrass the Nazis in their struggle against Great Britain and France.

With the Allied blockade cutting off German trade with the outside world the Reich's dealings with its eastern, southern and northern neighbors on the continent become more important Finland, closely allied with Germany in a commercial way, is now put out of business, as far as its industry and trade are concerned, by Russia. Sweden and Norway, also heavy suppliers of goods to Germany, must devote more of their manpower and industrial capacity to defence because they may be next in the path of Russia's imperialistic advance.

Germany may have derived some economic benefits from the acquisition of Czecho-Slovakia because that country was undamaged by war. It is doubtful, however, if the war-torn area seized from Poland will be of much help for some time to come.

So with the power of the Baltic States to supply Germany's needs reduced by the action of the Soviets the Germans must look more and more to Russia for the increased volume of materials required from continental Europe by reason of the sea blockade.

COUNCIL ORDERS REFERENDUM AT NEW YEAR'S ON WINE SHOP

Bylaw To Build Footbridge To Be Voted On

"Are you in favor of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario closing the wine shop of the Hillrust Wine Company, Limited situated on Charlotte street?"

This question will be submitted as a referendum at the municipal elections on January 1, and in comment on its possible effect by its proponent, Alderman Gordon, the Liquor Control Board may or may not act on the expressed and explicit wish of the majority.

"That may depend on whether the people's demand is emphatic enough," Alderman Gordon said in explaining his resolution, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, at last night's meeting of the council, directing City Clerk Armstrong to present the question to the ratepayers.

Alderman Gordon said the vote would be taken under the provisions of the Municipal Act, but he admitted that "there is some little doubt as to whether this is a matter that can be classed as affecting the municipality" within the meaning of the Act.

"We were the pioneers in asking the Liquor Control Board to reduce the hours of the beverage rooms," Alderman Gordon recalled, "and the Board agreed to our request. One result was that practically all over the province similar motions were passed, and the hours of beverage rooms reduced. We didn't ask for a wine shop in Peterboro. It came here without the knowledge of the people. We had no control over its coming here. It is laying blame at the doors of the hotels in many cases they should not be blamed for, and I don't think most people want a wine shop in Peterboro. We know that wine can be ordered by telephone and delivered."

"Would another wine shop come in its place if this one was closed" Alderman Glover asked.

"I think not. Only one license is permitted to a city," Alderman Gordon replied.

Authority for taking the vote was invoked by by-law which was given its three readings last night.

Bridge By-law.

Another by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers for the borrowing of $10,000 by sale of debentures for the construction of a footbridge across the river from the foot of London street to Hazlett street in Ashburnham. It received only two readings last night, pending approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, whose consent must be obtained for the borrowing of that amount of money, a restriction born of the depression and the provincial government's experience with municipalities that overshot their credit and had to be taken under the financial wing of the government.

The vote on this proposed by-law will be taken also on New Year's Day.

Smoke By-law Suspended.

"We're not opposed to it. We simply don't think the time is opportune," Alderman Stocker remarked when the council held up on a 7-3 division the first reading of a by-law to prevent smoke nuisance in the business area of the city. It was presented by Alderman Gordon and seconded by his desk mate, Alderman McIntyre.

"It forbids dense smoke for longer than six minutes," Alderman Gordon said. "The Lynch apartments on Hunter street, the banks, jewely stores are all complaining of this nuisance. I canvassed nearly all the stores on both sides of George street, and I can say that all the merchants are in favor of the by-law.

City Engineer Parsons referred to the council's previous proposal that he interview the "offenders" in the hope of persuading them to abate the nuisance. "I'm not interviewing any others until we do something ourselves. The city hall is the worst offender of all."

"It can't come into effect for ninety days, anyway," Alderman Gordon stated, and Alderman Bradburn suggested that because the winter was close at hand it might be wise to defer action until some report was received from Mr. Parsons.

Alderman Wilson said the by-law would impose a hardship on people who would have to change their heating systems during the cold weather to comply with the by-law. "Times are hard enough as they are. Give them a chance by waiting until summer. You couldn't ask them to shut down heating plants in the middle of winter. I can't see how they would be in a position to instal new boilers in January and February.

Alderman Cotton said Campbell's Dairy at Park and Sherbrooke streets had experimented with three different heating units and they were not a great deal better off than when they started. They couldn't get engineer advice that would help them in doing "what the by-law we are considering to-night demands. There was a company in Toronto that spent $50,000 on trying to cut down the smoke nuisance, and they were not much better off in the long run." Alderman Gordon said special combustion chambers were required, and the full scope of the by-law was taking the council into a field that called for caution.

Alderman Gordon recalled that the Lakefield Cement Company had got rid of the smoke nuisance they were causing some years ago. He said he called Mayor Hamilton's attention to a cloud of smoke from a chimney in the down town section of Water street a few mornings ago.

It was suggested that hard coal might offer a solution, but Alderman Cotton pointed out that the price difference as between $15 and $6 ruled that out.

When the vote was taken, Alderman Dutton again mentioned the method of appeal to "offenders," but Mayor Hamilton's comment was: "As Mr. Parsons says, let us fix our own furnace first."

Towards the close of the session, Alderman Glover returned to the subject, asking whether it would be advisable to send letters to the so-called offenders asking for their co-operation in an effort to control the nuisance. "I think stoking has a lot to do with it," he said.

"The first letter should go to the Mayor of the city," Alderman Dutton remarked.

And Alderman Gordon closed the discussion with the observation that "some of the landlords think of nothing but rents. They're not thinking about inconvenience to the public."

Judge Favors Abolition Grand Juries

Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, in his address to the Grand Jury at the opening of the general session of the peace at the Court House here this afternoon, expressed himself in favour of the abolition of the Grand Jury as a part of the administration of justice.

"I never was impressed with the retention of the Grand Jury, because I think the day has come when its usefulness is gone," he declared. "The rights of accused persons are sufficiently safeguarded by our Magistrates without incurring the cost to the people of summoning Grand Juries."

He also sounded off against jurors who take their duties lightly and pay little heed to the oath they have sworn, and he warned that "unless jurors give more attention to the oath they take when they are sworn in, I think one of our sacred rights will be taken from us." He was referring to the right to trial by jury, that had been wrested from unwilling tyrants.

"The public will demand it," he charged. "Within the past two months or more there have been glaring examples of, shall I say, miscarriage of justice. Whether that ancient right of jury trial shall be maintained, rests entirely with yourselves."

Bro. J. H. Sutcliffe proposed the toast to the visitors and this was responded to by Bro. D. A. MacTavish and W. Bro. D. A. Crawford.

The toast to the newly installed master and his officers was proposed by Wor. Bro. G. W. Fitzgerald and responded to by W. Bro. M. G. Hardill.

Speaker of the evening was Bro. F. J. A. Morris, a former P. C. I. teacher and one of this country's outstanding naturalists. In an illustrated address he described a trip he had taken through Canada in search or botanical treasure and from his address came a story of a life-long friendship that he formed with a brother mason and how that friendship was nurtured on a common interest in the things of Nature. He told of the vast numbers of plants he had found and showed many beautiful colored slides of them. He also described a trip which he made with some brother mason through Scotland.

Bro. John Anderson accompanied by Bro. Martin B. Chenhall on the piano rendered two delightful solos.

Young Couple Given Charivari

It may be all quiet on the Western Front but this state of affairs did not exist one night this week in North Monaghan when a crowd of young people descended on the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnston, a pair of newlyweds and bedlam broke loose.

The charivari was a masterpiece of organization and the noise coming from a repeating shotgun, firecrackers, pounding on drain pipes, dish pans and shovels disturbed the entire neighborhood. The revellers waited until no lights were showing in the Johnston home before making their appearance and the bewildered couple saw a mob when they looked through the upstairs window.

When the crowd was invited in, Frank Millard walked to the piano and appropriately enough played "Roll out the Barrell" but in this case it was "Roll in the Barrell' and the health of the young couple was drank. Music for dancing was provided by Messrs. Fontaine, Rutherford, Millard and Doughty and the visiting ladies served a lunch which they had brought with them. A most enjoyable time resulted and the party did not wind up until the small hours of the morning.

Those who attended were the Misses Eva Johnston, Freida McMahon, Elsie Johnston, Tallie Johnston, Mary Johnston, Lilian Johnston, Frances McMahon, Verna Wright, Edna Millard, Hilda Houghton and Mary Gregson, Messrs. A. Johnston, Frank Millard, Ivan Pearson, Ray Johnston, Nelson Clarke, K. Johnston, Ed. Johnston, George Rutherford, Fred Johnston, Harold Johnston, Phonse Fontaine, Eric Johnston, Jack McMahon, Ken Hosker, Dan Horkness, Ev. Doughty, Johnny Johnston, Roy Armour, Mr. and Mrs. G. Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Dinesen, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Collins.

Goat Fails To Resemble Sheep Enough For Owner To Collect Under Livestock Act

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5— A goat doesn't resemble a sheep closely enough to warrant a claim under the dog tax and livestock protection act according to a ruling made by Seymour Township Council which met in session here Monday afternoon. The claim for the goat amounted to 5.00 and was made by Harry Simpson of town. It had been destroyed by dogs and Mr. Simpson asked the council to reimburse him.

Reeve R. W. Innes presided at the meeting which was adjourned until December 15th at eleven o'clock. It is expected the nomination meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple on December 22nd.

DIES AT IROQUOIS FALLS

Harry R. Seeley, 68, prominent Iroquois businessman and school trustee, died today. Survivors include a brother, Herbert Seeley of Peterborough, Ont.

NOT THIS ONE

The Elsie Williams who collapsed in the fire hall Monday morning was not the Elsie Williams of Welch's beauty parlors who resides at 563 Bethune street.

GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION.

Dr. E. M. Crough, chairman of the Canadian Army Huts fund in Peterboro, received a pleasant surprise in an anonymous letter signed "Three Old Soldiers" and containing a cheque for $25.

COUNCIL INVITED.

The City Council Monday night accepted the invitation of Rev. Fred Cralk to attend the public service of intercession at Knox United Church Friday night under the auspices of the Ministerial Association. Mayor Hamilton said he hoped all the members would attend, but Alderman Bradburn said he had already arranged to be in Toronto.

IN THIS ENLIGHTENED DAY!

W. F. Huycke, K.C., encountered in children's court Monday a "believe it or not" personality, a man who didn't know what month this was, although he thought it was somewhere around Christmas; neither could he tell the date of Christmas; and New Year's Day was just a vague phrase. He didn't know that it meant the first day of January.

RURAL MEETINGS.

Two annual meetings are listed on Frank C Paterson's calendar in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The Crop Improvement Association is booked for Friday night this week, and the Plowmen's Association for Tuesday, December 12. And next Monday night the provisional directors of the Chamber of Agriculture will draft a program for their annual meeting, the date of which has not yet been decided.

HE HADN'T ARRIVED.

An employee of the wood camp of Joseph Robinson, Peterborough, in the Rockcroft area, reported to the city police Monday night that Robinson, who had been in town over the week-end left his home early Monday morning to hitchhike back to the camp had not arrived there when the informant left camp at 7 o'clock Monday night. Nothing had been seen of Robinson on the way in the police were told. No report has been received to-day in connection with the matter.

WANTS INFORMATION

A motion by Aldermen Gordon and McIntyre Monday night asks for a monthly statement from the city clerk showing,—persons and corporations in arrears of payment of licenses, and the amount; the date of the accruing of such arrears relating to eating houses, billiard rooms, pool tables and so on; and a statement of payments made by licensees of the city or those requiring to pay fees for concessions obtained from the city, except petty charges such as dog tags.

CAR STILL MISSING.

No trace has been found of the car stolen from the garage of Chester Crawford here on the night of October 31st although the police all over the country have been circularized twice. Local police have an idea that the automobile was taken north and may have been abandoned along some lonely road. They ask settlers, hunters and lumbermen to keep their eyes open for a 1931 Dodge sedan, license number 68-U8. This is the first car stolen here in years that has not been recovered.

NOT SUITABLE

Residents of North Monaghan have expressed confidence that the area south of the C.N.R. and west of Monaghan Road should be acceptable as a landing field. At the council meeting Monday night it was stated that the area is level enough, but there isn't sufficient width between the railway and the river, and in present opinion never will be an air field. J. J. Duffus said that section of the township was regarded as being too close to a manufacturing section of the city, in the present and future, and air ports should be kept away from factory chimneys and buildings.

November Fires Cost $627.37

Chief Gimblett reported to the council Monday night a total fire loss of $625.37 in November. Damage to buildings amounted to $405.-72 and to contents $219.65. There were fifty-four alarms.

Relief costs last month were $7,-624.44, City Clerk Armstrong reported to the council last night. The number of persons receiving relief was 1,146.

Alderman McCannan reported that James Brown, market clerk, had recently paid $300 of the amount of arrears in payments for his right to collect market tolls. He had been withholding payments, he said some time ago, until the property committee made a settlement with him for claims of loss in the arcade fire last June.

Elections Coming

Preparations for the municipal elections were indicated in a bylaw introduced by Alderman Cotton appointing deputy returning officers, poll clerks, and generally making ready for the election of mayor, aldermen, school trustees and one member of the Utilities Commission. Another straw in the end of the year wind was a motion by Alderman Bradburn instructing City Clerk Armstrong to send postcards to voters informing them where to go to get their ballots.

Permission for county auctioneers to obtain a license in the city was embodied in a bylaw.

A grant of $50 was made to the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, and $25 each to the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage to buy Christmas cheer for their children.

Youth Collects Envelopes

Kenneth Childs, 589 Patterson street, has something novel in the way of a happy hobby. He collects envelopes and postcards and has amassed a unique assortment from all over the world. Some of them had been addressed to the youthful collector himself, from places in New Zealand and Samoa and many of them from the Royal Train during the tour of Canada by Their Majesties early last summer. There are letters from the S. S. Normandie, from the Gold Coast, from Buenos Aires and many other places. Some of the communications date back a long way. For instance there is a postcard written on December 27, 1875 and written to the late John Green, Peterborough barrister by the late Malcolm Campbell of Keene.

Noted Minister Will Conduct Week Of Prayer

The Peterborough Ministerial Association met on Monday, Dec. 4th, at the Y.M.C.A. Rev. F. W. Craik, president in the chair. Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, secretary, introduced the items of business. Dr. E. W. Young was appointed press correspondent. Members present were J. R. Trumpour, Adjutant Norman Buckley, R. D. Wright, Canon J. D. Paterson, E. W. Rowland, M. C. Parr, V. E. Zufelt, E. W. Young, A. T. Barr, R. T. F. Brain, T. H. Floyd, C. C. Boyter, J. H. Sutcliffe and Walter T. Brown (Toronto).

Dr. A. T. Barr reported that Dr. Northcote-Deck, a missionary to the Solomon Islands who had a fine record as a Christian leader had been engaged to conduct "The Week of Prayer" services in the city from January 8th to 12th as follows: Monday, Jan. 8, All Saints'; Tuesday, 9th, St. Andrew's; Wednesday, 10th, St. Paul's; Thursday, 11th, St. James'; Friday, 12th, Murray Street; Saturday, 13th, the Salvation Army Temple.

As Dr. Deck will be unable to remain for the Saturday meeting Dr. A. T. Barr was appointed speaker for that evening. Printed schedules of topics for prayer have been received from England and a supply will be sent to each congregation. The minister in charge is asked to arrange for three other men to assist in the prayer service. A proposal to have a Monday morning luncheon for the association on January 8th was left in the hands of the committee.

A letter was read from Mrs. S. S. Simpson of the Local Council of Women regarding the midnight shows on Sundays at 12.05 a.m. and it was decided to send a joint deputation to the City Council on the matter.

Dr. Walter T. Brown, principal of Victoria College, Toronto, was the speaker, and took as his subject contemporary theology and its relation to modern problems.

He had been reading Maritan's book which had distinguished between the idealistic school which followed Kant and Plato, and the realistic school of Thomas Aquinas and Aristotle. The idealists have studied mathematics the realists biology. The Roman Catholic church is realistic and biological in its theology descartes dictum. "I think therefore I am" marked an epoch in theology, and from that time onward the worth of the individual was recognized. Western civilization is built upon this recognition. We must however remember that man is placed in society, and take an interest in social questions which affect the spiritual life of the individual. We should criticize the evils of our industrial system. Russian Communism could not take root in Canada because we have had the freedom of our capitalistic system. Russia never had that freedom, her people were peasants, and it was an easy step from one dictatorship to another. Communism does not liberate the human spirit. The Roman Catholic church takes cognizance of that fact.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, seconded by Dr. A. T. Barr.

Lakefield Girls Tour Shelter

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 5—(ENS).—As a reward for their untiring efforts on tag day for the Children's Aid Society in the past two years, sponsored by the Lakefield Women's Insitute, thirteen girls were taken to Peterborough to visit the Shelter and Y.W.C.A. on Saturday. Miss Rachel Young met the girls at the door and took them on a tour of inspection of the Home. Dainty refreshments were given the girls by Mrs. McMillan of the Shelter.

Those in charge were Mesdames Wm. Gilliman, Charles Lake and Miss Margaret Sanderson.

Won Silver Tray

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 5 — (ENS). — Mrs. F. H. Lingwood, Lakefield, was the lucky winner of a handsome tea tray on Saturday evening, when W. J. Charlton drew her name in E. H. Northey's store. As a means of adding funds to the local Red Cross Society, Miss F. M. Atwood donated the tray and sold tickets on it. The sum of seven dollars and fifty cents was received, and handed over to the Red Cross Society.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, December 6.

Judging by the adverse lunar aspects of this day, there may be difficulties, stubborn obstacles, delays or postponements, to be met with patience, determination, and sound sense. The latter may be supplemented by a quickened intuition or perhaps a sudden "hunch," which may help break up a static or critical situation. The advice of superiors may likewise prove profitable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which they must exercise resolution, perseverance and sagacity, in order to vanquish difficult, trying and obstinate situations. Congestions and impediments call for decisive handling.

A child born on this day may have certain handicaps in its early life, but these impediments may be vanquished by patience, fortitude, and determination. Its superiors may co-operate.

Car Hits Pole; Two Men Are Arrested

After travelling north on Armour Road, an automobile shot across the intersection of Park Hill Road shortly after 11 o'clock Monday night and into the ditch on the west side of Armour Road, where it crashed into a telephone pole and broke it off. Although the car was badly damaged the driver proceeded in a northerly direction after the crash.

Two poles suffered as a result of the affair. When the first pole was smashed by the impact the wire leading from it to another pole on the east side of the road was broken and a city bus which came along shortly after was entangled in the wire and pulled the other post over.

Constable Archie Menzies, who investigated the accident, stopped a car on Auburn Street shortly after and placed two of the occupants under arrest, Edward Pestel, 292 London Street, on a charge of drunken driving, and Stuart Anderson, same address, on a drunk charge.

In police court this morning Pestel pleaded not guilty to drunken driving and was remanded until next Monday for trial, bail being fixed at $500. His companion also pleaded not guilty to an intoxication charge and his case was adjourned until tomorrow.

Thieves Rob Gas Station

HAVELOCK, Dec. 5.—(ENS). — Some time after midnight Monday night thieves entered a service station on No. 7 highway owned by Harry Watson and escaped with goods valued at over $200.

Entry was gained by breaking a pane of glass 15 by 20 inces in the big garage door and crawling through, after which the door was unbolted. Among the loot was 4 new batteries, 5 gallons of anti-freeze, over $40 worth of tobacco and confectionery, along with miscellaneous auto accessories.

Woman Jailed

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 5 — (CP). —Lillian Bottom, 21, was sentenced to three months, and Wing Lee, 36-year-old Chinese, was fined $200 in City Court to-day for making a home unfit for the woman's child. Lee must serve three months if his fine is not paid.

It was the second conviction of a similar nature for the Chinese, while Mrs. Bottom admitted that in 1938 she served six months at Niagara Falls, Ont., for vagrancy.

Managers Asked To Discontinue Midnight Shows

Acceding to a request of the Local Council of Women, supported by the Ministerial Association, the City Council Monday night instructed City Clerk Armstrong to write to the managers of the local theatres appealing to them to discontinue the week-end midnight picture shows.

"That expresses our views on the question," Alderman Cotton said in moving the resolution which Alderman Juby seconded "If it is granted it will please the whole community. There is plenty of time on the six days of the week for shows without holding another after twelve o'clock on Sunday nights."

Mrs. Frank Merrett, president, and Mrs. Ed. Wand, in asking for the assistance of the council, were accompanied by Rev. Fred W. Craik, president of the Peterorough Ministerial Association, and Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church.

"The Council of Women is responsible for this action," Rev. Mr. Craik said. "We are simply co-operating in this appeal. All we can do is simply ask the council to rid the city of this menace."

Midnight shows getting out around 2 o'clock Monday morning meant that many young people who went on to restaurants did not get home until a late hour in the morning, and were not fit for school and work that day. Complaints from parents of young people from the country and city had convinced the Council of Women that the midnight shows were not in the interest of the community as a whole.

Alderman Dutton recalled that the Council of Women undertook to interview the theatre managers. He asked what was the answer they received.

"They told us the young people were quite safe in the theatres," Mrs. Merrett replied, "and they wouldn't do anything about closing until the whole country cleaned up."

Alderman Gordon said the theatres operated under a provincial license and were beyond the control of the council. City Solicitor Huycke agreed with that opinion.

"We can pass a resolution asking them to close the midnight shows," Alderman McIntyre suggested. "That would indicate we are opposed to them, and we might ask the Legislature to give municipalities authority to fix theatre hours."

Alderman Dutton said that moral suasion might carry further than a resolution, and Alderman Wilson remarked that "it wouldn't be any harm to ask the Legislature to change the present law."

A Reasonable Idea
The brain is the source of life energy within the body. That energy is distributed to every tissue by the spinal cord and nerves. The spinal nerves leave the spinal column through openings between the vertebrae. If an opening is decreased in size because of improper position of a vertebrae some nerve fibres will be constricted and there will be an abnormal amount of energy reaching the tissues supplied by those constricted nerves.
IT IS LOGICAL
To conclude that correction of mechanical defects along the spinal column will greatly facilitate the distribution of nerve impulses to all body parts. This means improved health.
Our manipulative treatments apply mechanical principles to the framework of the human body.

LOCAL CURLING CLUB ACCEPTS 42 NEW MEMBERS FOR 42 RINKS

Ray Best Named On Executive Of Ontario Body

With a record turnout of members on hand at the semi-annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club in the Charlotte Street clubrooms last night, 42 new members were accepted into the club. The place was practically packed to the doors at a highly enthusiastic and congenial gathering for general discussion, reports, acceptance of members, and the drawing of rinks for the 1939-40 season. President G. D. Carlisle was in the chair.

Following a presidential report, discussing the work of the executive since the last meeting, touching briefly on last season, a report was made by the chairman of the membership committee, T. F. McArthur. It was received enthusiastically.

James G. Harkness, chairman of the ice and property board, gave a comprehensive statement on various phases of club interest. It was reported that equipment would be installed and white ice tried at the local arena. T. A. Mackay, chairman of the friendly games and social committee, outlined a good program for the coming season in his sphere. R. F. Downey stated he hoped the club would get behind the district and tankard rinks, which were handicapped to some extent by lack of artificial ice here.

On Executive.

A vote of congratulation was passed to Ray Best, local club representative to the Ontario Curling Association annual meeting. Mr. Best this year being named on the O.C.A. executive, a real honor to him and a distinction to the city. It was pointed out that not for many years had a Peterborough man been on the provincial body's executive. Mr. Best responded to the vote.

The honorary chaplain, Rev. George S. Easton, spoke in most entertaining manner on the value of sports to a city, and dealt to some extent to the grand game of curling. He interspersed his speech with amusing quips and gave the club a virtual creed in sportsmanship to follow. The president commented that, if this creed were followed, the club members would have a lot of fun and enjoyment, at the very least, out of the coming season.

Members Ill.

George Cairns, veteran member of the Curling Club—which is commencing its 63rd year—was remembered heartily by the gathering, Mr. Cairns having been ill. Archie Gates, out through illness last year, was welcomed back by the big assembly.

The 42 new applicants were read off and they were voted into the club, bringing the membership up to the desired quota of 168 members or 42 rinks. This was considered highly satisfactory, and the membership committee was thanked for its excellent work. At an open discussion, several suggestions were made to the executive (particularly regarding practise hours for tankard rinks and the rules initiation of new members) and the president informed members these would be considered seriously. Following some general discussion, the draw for rinks was then made for the coming season.

Dutton's Loss

As if Red Dutton didn't have enough trouble getting his ancient crew under way in the National league race, he lost the services of his best play-making centre, Art Chapman, ABOVE, who was operated on for appendicitis. His absence from the line-up is indefinite.

Hanson West's Scoring Ace

WINNIPEG, Dec. 5—(CP).—Fritz Hanson, 26-year-old, 155-pound halfback flash who came to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1935 and ran to national fame the same year when he led Bombers to the Dominion football title at Hamilton, is the Western champions' scoring ace this season.

The former North Dakota College star scored 10 touchdowns and kicked one point in Bombers' 14 games for a total of 51 points. Greg Kabat, former Wisconsin University captain, kicked five field goals from placement and converted 26 touchdowns the same way to take second place with 41 points.

Tractor Fishing

ATLANTA, Dec. 5—(AP).—A new type of fishing has been found in Georgia—tractor fishing. Rangers of the wild life division reported to-day about 2,000 pounds of bass, bream and jack fish were taken from a pond on 17-mile creek near Douglas after a huge tractor-operated pump had pumped the pond dry. Six persons were arrested and charged with illegal fishing.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Membership drive of the Peterborough Ski Club is on now and the officials hope to have a record list this winter. They're making ambitious plans for the cold months at Nassau, Bethany and in Jackson Park and Victoria Park here. A fine new clubhouse is nearing completion out in the hilly country by Bethany, the work being done by the husky young members themselves. This has grown to be a recognized ski centre in Ontario in recent years, not even a summery spell of weather just at the time a big provincial meet was planned a couple of years back throwing the Ski Club for a loss. Several new angles are being worked on now to make this district even better known for its ski-ing assets. Good luck, gang.

Wardie Wright is back from Galt and may remain here for the winter. He was transferred by the O.H.A. but did not see a great deal of service with the Moosemen of that town in senior "A" company—the squad having an over-supply of players. Though Wright got into four exhibition frays. He says Manager Mickey Murray—hardly a stranger to Peterborough puck followers — is popular with the players but the club wasn't organized properly and there is some executive dissension on the losing team. Wardie added that the Falls' players were dishing up a bruising style of play again.

To Appoint Coach

Local Hockey Club executive has a huddle tomorrow night and will appoint a coach for the junior "B" Colts. Hap Wilgar is manager, and we believe the choice for pilot of the younger puckists has narrowed down to Archie Weir and Johnny Shields. Aside from independent practices by some of the junior prospects on the frozen canal, the Colts haven't been on ice yet, but then neither have the other squads in their grouping. It won't be long now, though. From the raft left over from the Colts and Monarchs last year—and young enough for another whirl in junior O.H.A. ranks—there'll be no dearth of prospective players when regular practice sessions are called. And the local outfit should be a strong one this semester.

* * * * * *

Petes practice tonight in Oshawa, and then go back there on Friday for an exhibition tilt with the Generals, junior "A" and Memorial Cup champions last winter. Proceeds probably going to the Red Cross. A return tussle will be lined up later. Those junior "A" champs play fine hockey, somewhat on a par with senior "A" teams — plenty of the huskey young speedsters rocketing right into pro company from junior ranks. As they trimmed Trenton Fliers handily a short time ago, they may lick the locals on Friday, but the Buckland band will get some swell practice out of it.

* * * * * *

Strong On Attack

One of the Petes' forward lines this winter will consist of Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon and Joe Blewett. The first two played last year while Blewett is no stranger locally. They are fairly husky and young chaps, with speed to burn and loads of puck savvy. The other line has Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin and Art Heal. Both Eddie and Don turned in good hockey last winter, and Heal sparked the intermediate Aces into O.H.A. playdowns. Everyone of 'em is fast, tricky and experienced—and able to net that black cookie frequently. Extra forwards are Jack Jopling and Cliff Cadd. Former played junior here and was with St. Mike's juniors last winter, while Cadd played junior and intermediate here but laid off last winter. Both know the game, are big boys and can turn it on. All in all, the local forwards have speed, a good amount of beef and lots of ice experience — though they're young enough, too.

Apparently profiting from his proximity to Sandy Burrows, of the O.H.A. executive, the Belleville scribe gets the jump on the rest of the provincial press and announces a couple of the O.H.A. groupings. Says he: "Having dispensed with the senior 'B' series, the O.H.A. announced that Oshawa, Peterborough, Belleville and R.C.A.F. Fliers would play in the intermediate 'A' series, of which the ultimate provincial winner would be eligible to challenge in the Allan Cup playdowns, as was the case with the Fliers in 1937." There will also be an intermediate "B" grouping up that way to include a second R.C.A.F. team, Queen's, R.C. Signals and the R.C.A. Gunners, with Royal Military College a possibility, too. The senior "B"—podden, plizz—the intermediate "A" group will convene shortly in Port Hope with Mr. Burrows in charge of the schedule meeting.

A Four-Team Group

Now, this is not official yet, but it is probably the true picture of the setup around Central Ontario. No more senior "B"—and, hence, no more letting a couple of senior "A" teams drop back in playdowns—and a return of a strong four-team intermediate "A" series of Oshawa, Petes, Redmen and Fliers. With a possible crack at Allan Cup competition later for the group winnah. We're glad to see the four teams bunched, and it doesn't matter whether ya call 'em senior "B" or intermediate "A". As Bill Shakespeare once remarked, a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. No announcement yet of the junior "B" grouping up this way, not at this writing anyway—but the official list should be made public any time now.

President G. D. Carlisle of the Peterborough Curling Club faced a record turnout of members at the semi-annual meeting last eve when he made the opening address. The place was packed in a most enthusiastic assembly. Genial Tom McArthur and his membership committee reported a job done in excellent manner with the addition of 42 new members this year. So the club easily reached its quota of 42 rinks this season, the club commencing its 63rd curling year. Ray Best received congratulations all around on being appointed to the Ontario Curling Association executive, an honor to Mr. Best and to the city. A high-light of the gathering last p.m. was the entertaining address by the honorary chaplain of the club, Rev. G. S. Easton — whose clever speech, liberally sprinkled with humor and similes, left members with a creed for their winter sport. The speaker also pointed out that a community is frequently judged to a large degree by its sports and sportsmanship.

Mack Abbe Wins Free-For-All In Straight Heats

TORONTO, Dec. 5. — Mack Abbe and Laurel Watts were the only straight heat winners in the week-end harness racing at Dufferin Park. Mack Abbe took the free-for-all with no great difficulty, while Laurel Watts was much the best in the Class C event for trotters.

James McDowell brought Kay Harvester home first in the first heat of yesterday's racing to make it two straight in the Class F event but Jody Signal and Chief Grattan displayed plenty of speed in the final heat to finish one-two ahead of the McDowell mare.

June Grattan and All Grattan supplied the major thrills of the Class B event. June Grattan won the first heat on Saturday, but All Grattan showed a return to summer form to take the second heat yesterday. June Grattan came back to win the third heat, however, with All Grattan second.

Gracie Grattan proved a surprise winner of the second heat of the Class E race, winning at 5 to 1 over the favored Hollyrood Puck. The latter came back to win the final dash.

Kathleen Grattan could do no better than third in the first heat of the Class C on Saturday, but yesterday the black mare from Pine Ridge Stables, London, looked like a champion with Driver Champion at the reins. She stepped the second dash in 2.18½ and the third in 2.17¼ to win handily.

Petes Included In Grouping Of Four Squads Trenton Fliers, Belleville And Oshawa

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 5— Three different O. H. A. hockey groups will perform at the Hume area this winter, an Intermediate "A" and Intermediate "B" group, as well as the junior grouping. If all goes well eleven different clubs will be seen in action here. Having dispensed with the senior "B" series, the O. H. A. announced that Oshawa, Peterboro, Belleville and the R. C. A. F. Flyers would play in the Intermediate "A" series, of which the ultimate provincial winner would be eligible to challenge in the Allan Cup playdowns, as was the case with the R. C. A. F. "Flyers" in 1937. Although Skipper Eddie Thomas was not too concerned regarding the inclusion of Oshawa into the group, it must be admitted that a Motor City team would add much prestige to a Peterborough—Flyer—Belleville three-teamed loop. Many consider Oshawa much too strong for this group as they have several veterans who played senior "A" last year, as well as a few kids just over the 20 years of age class. Actually we find that whenever a strong team is incorporated in a sports loop, the weaker teams always play a better brand of hockey or whatever sport it happens to be. The inclusion of Oshawa should undoubtedly prove popular to the paying public as a better brand of hockey can definitely be assured. S. R. "Sandy" Burrows is the convener.

In the Intermediate "B" group four teams are assured, the R.C.A.F. second team, Queen's seconds, R. C. "Signals" and the R. C. A. "Gunners" while there is still a possibility that the Royal Military College may yet be included in this set-up. Group Captain C. D. McEwen, of the R. C. A. F. was keenly interested in placing a second "Flyer" team in competition with the two soldier units in Kingston. The junior set-up includes Belleville, Trenton, and Picton, while no word was received from Picton, Convener "Sandy" Burrows stated today. The Intermediate "A" group will convene in Port Hope before Mr. Burrows, the nIntermediate "B" group in Kingston and the junior in Belleville, Professor Jelley, of R. M. C. is the convener for the Intermediate "B" loop, with "Sandy" Burrows being in charge of the other two. All in all it looks as though there'll be plenty of hockey in Belleville for the fans this winter. All that's needed now is some good winter weather when the occasion arises.

Chewing gum manufacturers made plans to-day to increase their stock and looked forward to a jump in the industry's business index as the news went around that Nels (Big Sam) Stewart is to return to the National Hockey League paths with New York Americans.

The sight of Stewart, calmly chewing a wad of gum the size of which would put a golf ball to shame, and parked in front of the opposition nets, became a familiar picture around the N.H.L. circuit in the years that Sam terrorized goalies with Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins, and New York Americans.

In his earlier days Big Sam had two trade-marks. One was a black peak-cap and the other an ever-present quid of gum. The cap went with time, but the gum never did.

But laugh as they did about the unhurried movements of the big fellow — someone once said that Stewart had only two speeds, "slow and slower"—no one ever was able to chuckle about the way Stewart was able to whisk pucks into the net. In his years in the N.H.L. he scored 317 goals, more than anyone else ever managed in the league.

Two Men Hurt.

The announcement that Stewart is returning to the N.H.L. came from Manager Red Dutton of the Americans yesterday at New York. Stewart, given his outright release by Americans at the end of last season, returns to a team badly in need of a top-flight centreman because of injuries to Art Chapman and Doc Romnes.

Nels has been out training for the past week and will likely join the team in another week. The injury-riddled Americans, with only two victories and a draw to show in 10 games, could have made good use of the big fellow to-night against Boston Bruins had Stewart been back on skates for a longer period.

The Americans - Bruins game is the only N.H.L. game scheduled for the evening and a victory for the Bruins would move them into a second place tie with Montreal Canadiens, two points behind the leading Toronto Maple Leafs.

NORRIS TERMS BILL STEWART "A DISGRACE TO THE LEAGUE"

Czar Of Minors Protects Skullduggery

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 5.—(AP)—In the absence of any real news, the hero of the minor league and major league baseball convention here will have to remain Judge William G. Bramham, czar of the little fellows, who at the last account at least was viewing with alarm.

The head of the minor leagues spoke loud and importantly yesterday, saying that there was skullduggery within his kingdom in the form of fake contracts and that baseball faced some bad days indeed.

Judge Bramham who hails from the comparatively small town of Durham, N.C., is a power in baseball, though nothing much is heard of him, as a rule. He runs the little league with the same iron hand that Judge Landis runs the big show.

Judge Bramham said he knew of one club, "owned by a millionaire," that was paying its players a lot more than the figures called for on the contracts sent into him. He said this was sinful and that, furthermore, Landis probably would catch on to it and punish the sinners.

Yack Outpointed By Transparenti

TORONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)— Lew Transparenti of Baltimore, a free-swinging artist, earned a decision over Norman (Baby) Yack of Toronto, former Canadian bantamweight champion, in a 10-round main bout of a boxing card here last night. The winner, at 119½, weighed one-quarter pound less than Yack.

Transparenti carried the fight most of the way and was credited with winnig seven of the 10 rounds. Yack's best weapon was a right uppercut but Transparenti made him miss frequently in close quarters.

Yack showed his best in the sixth round when he chased the Maryland Italian across the ring and caught him several stiff punches.

No Wobbly Cogs In Bomber Or Rider Squads

OTTAWA, Dec. 5—(CP)—Gridiron thrillers have been staged before by two balanced teams that potentially match each other line for line and backfield and it looks like the fans who bulge old Lansdowne Park stadium here Saturday will see a little history repeated with the Dominion Championship at stake.

Probably never before has a Canadian title game brought together two teams like Ottawa Rough Riders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers—both packing scoring power in nearly every department of the game.

Usually one of the title-seeking grid machines has wobbly cogs somewhere but on the dopester's blue prints there doesn't appear to be much wrong with either of these outfits.

About the worst the critics say about Riders is that the pass defence is weak although no team in the East was able to pass Ottawa out of the Eastern title hunt.

Rap the Punting

Easterners who have seen Bombers in action this season have criticized the punting compared to Big Four standards. It is a part of the game not emphasized in the West, however, with no kick to deadline under western rules.

But skip the debate on these two angles and take a close look at Trimble's men in scarlet and Coach Reg Threlfall's blue and gold ironmen who are training at Hamilton this week.

Both have mighty lines and potential backfields. Both rate hard-tackling ends, accurate forward passers and placemnt kickers that have drilled the pigskin between the posts with monotonous regularity all season.

When these combinations gang up on each other Saturday before probably 15,000 fans it will either be a stalemate of slow football or dynamite will explode. And the odds seem to favor an explosion.

Winnipeg's galaxy of backfield aces look threatening to Ottawa's welfare with Fritz Hanson hitting his old stride and Greg Kabat, Andy Bieber, Jeff Nicklin and Wayne Sheley all rolling up more than 30 points this season.

But Riders' loyal thousands point to Tony Golab, Murray Griffin, Tommy Daley, Andy Tommy, Orivile Burke and Wilf Tremblay as the boys to show the West how the ends should be run and the middle wings split.

Doing the Crawl Goal-keeping Style

Tiny Thompson, tending goal for Detroit Red Wings, was a harried and hurried hockey player around the time this bit of action was lifted pictorially from a game his team was playing with New York Rangers. Tiny had stopped a shot from Neil Colville, but the puck dropped to the ice and started rolling dangerously. Here Tiny is down on his knees to get the disc out of harm's way, while Mac Colville (5) comes in to try and do something for Rangers, followed by Jack Stewart (2), young Red Wing defenceman.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 5.—(CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western senior football champions for the third successive year, have a squad of 27 men, averaging 25.4 years, and 184.7 pounds, ready for the Dominion final Dec. 9.

The 10 linesmen average 202.7 pounds, five outside wings 167.2 pounds and 12 backfielders 177 pounds. Seven of the players are former United States college stars and another, Al Haycock, once played high school football in Portland, Ore.

Six are veterans of five Dominion play-offs, beginning in 1933 when Toronto Argonauts beat Winnipeg 13-0. They are Greg Kabat, Herb Mobberley, Bill Ceretti, Eddie Kushner, Cliff Roseborough and Lou Mogul. Mobberley is the oldest man on the team at 36 and the lightest at 146 pounds.

Five others of the present squad, Fritz Hansen, Percy Daigle, Jeff Nicklin, Herb Peschel and Bud Marquardt, joined the club in 1935, the year Bombers beat Hamilton Tigers 18-12 to bring the national title west for the first time.

The Best Known

Best known is the 155-pound Hanson, blond halfback whose speed and elusiveness was a main factor in the 1935 victory. The former North Dakota State College boy seems as fast as ever this year at 26. After seeing little action in the early season he scored seven touchdowns in the last three scheduled games to earn a halfback berth on The Canadian Press all-star Western Interprovincial Union team for the third consecutive year.

The veteran Kabat, who came to Bombers in 1933 from Wisconsin University, is probably the team's most valuable member. Now 28, the 180-pound Kabat is a great secondary defence player, the team's best blocker and placement kicker.

Andy Bieber, 22-year-old back who moved up from junior ranks last year, is the team's most effective plunger. Four years out of junior ranks, Harry Badger became a regular this year as blocking halfback and won the Hudson's Bay trophy as the team's most improved player since 1938. He is 24 and weighs 172.

An All-Star

Jeff Nicklin, 24-year-old son of Percy Nicklin who coaches hockey teams in England, won all-star recognition in 1937 and 1938 as an outside wing but when Coach Reg Threlfall shifted Nicklin's 190 pounds to the flying wing post this season Jeff was so outstanding, offensively and defensively, that he made the mythical team in that position.

Nicklin has been practically a 60-minute man this year and his relief, Al Haycock, has seen little action, but this former Portland boy, aged 22 and weighing 175, is a fast and capable back.

Latest of Bombers' United States college recruits, 180-pound Wayne Sheley came to the club last year from Augusta College, South Dakota, and was not eligible for the 1938 Dominion final under the residence rule. He is eligible this year, however, and his accurate forward-passing is one of the Bombers' chief threats. Sheley made the all-star team at quarterback. He is a tricky ball-carrier and fair kicker.

Art Stevenson, all-star quarterback the last two years, injured an ankle early this season and saw little action but the former Hastings College, Nebraska, player is in condition now. In his third season with Bombers, this 23-year-old, 160-pound back is the west's best punter and a dangerous forward passer.

Megaffin Resigning Native Sons Coaching

TORONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)— Baz Magaffin, recently-appointed coach of Toronto Native Sons of the big six junior "A" group of the Ontario Hockey Association, said last night following a big six executive meeting that he was resigning his post due to a new business venture which made it impossible for him to continue.

Megaffin joined the Sons little more than a month ago to replace Harold (Baldy) Cotton, former National Hockey League player who now is coaching Toronto Marlboroughs of the big six. The Sons last week beat Oshawa Generals, Canadian champions last season, to win the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association junior "A" series.

Terrible Work Refereeing Leaf-HawkGame

CHICAGO Dec. 5—(AP)— James Norris Sr. wealthy owner of Detroit Red Wings and a National Hockey League governor, and Referee Bill Stewart had words at Sunday night's Chicago Black Hawk-Toronto Maple Leaf game, and now it looks as if there'll be a hot aftermath.

Norris said last night he would "turn Stewart in" at the meeting of the league's board of governors in New York Wednesday. The millionaire sportsman and owner of Chicago Stadium, where the Hawks play, is reported to have started heckling Stewart from a rink-side box midway of the second period.

A rinkside version of the affair went like this:

Norris said Stewart was "a disgrace to the league" and wanted to know why the referee didn't call more penalties. Stewart took the heckling without a word until Norris finally called him a "homer," which means that the official favors the home team.

Then Stewart told Norris he should be "ashamed of yourself for such conduct by a league governor."

"I'm going to turn you in for your terrible work tonight," Norris shouted. "I'm going to have you fired."

Stewart told Norris to do as he pleased but added, "You can't referee games from a box while I'm on the ice."

Another Version.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—(Opecial) — James Norris, multi-millionaire owner-President of the Chicago Stadium and the Detroit Red Wings' hockey team, as well as a stockholder in other large sports enterprises throughout the United States, on Wednesday will have the opportunity to amplify the verbal attack he made on Referee Bill Stewart from a rink-side box at the Toronto-Chicago game in his stadium Sunday night.

The Board of Governors of the National Hockey League will meet in New York Wednesday afternoon, and Norris one of the governors, will be privileged to take the floor and explain his action.

The wealthy sports magnate today was not available to interviewers. Those who sought to question Norris were said to be curious as to his bitterness toward the Black Hawks, as revealed in his grievance against Stewart. The Hawks last year paid the Stadium in excess of $100,000 rental, although they were not in the playoffs. It is expected a much larger rental will be paid on a percentage basis this season.

The Hawks lost the game, 3 to 1, and four Hawk players were so severely injured that no practice could be held today. One of the casualties, Phil Hergesheimer, will go on the sidelines for two weeks. Stewart was fired last year in midseason as Hawk manager. These confusing factors, however, failed to cool off the rich sports man, who reached the most pointed part of his game-long tirade after the Leafs had gone ahead.

Conn Smythe, Maple Leafs' manager and N.H.L. governor, was not in Toronto Monday night, and thus was not available to comment on above despatch from Chicago. Dick Irvin, Leafs' coach, said here, however, that he knew nothing of any argument between Norris and Stewart during the game or after it. Irvin said he also knew nothing of four Black Hawk players being put out of action in what he described as "a rough and tough game, but nothing much out of the ordinary for roughness."

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

SYD HOWE
Detroit Red Wings
(By Central Press Canadian.)

Highest scorer last season for Detroit Red Wings was left wing Syd Howe, who rapped in 16 counters. His point total was 36, his best mark since 1934-35 when he finished second to Charlie Conacher in the individual scoring race with 47 points, 22 of them goals. That was the year Syd joined the Red Wings from St. Louis, being sold during the season in one of hockey's biggest deals that also involved Scotty Bowman, still one of his teammates with the Wings. He's one of the veterans of the big time now, having made his debut 10 seasons back with Ottawa Senators. He was only around long enough to garner one goal and one assist, and the next year served with Philadelphia Quakers (an N.H.L. team in case you've forgotten). Sold to Toronto, he skipped a year of N.H.L. service when the Leafs shipped him to Syracuse for the 1931-32 campaign, but bounced back with Ottawa for two more years before going to St. Louis when the Senators bowed out of the circuit. Born in the Dominion Capital 26 years ago—he played amateur there before turning pro. He's a durable and versatile player, one of the most valuable members of Jack Adams' team.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

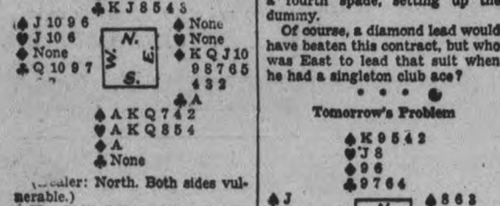
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO SHUT-OUTS CERTAIN

AN ORIGINAL bid of four is usually high enough to shut the opponents out of the bidding, and it is almost never that an opening call of five fails to do it. But when a freak has been dealt, even an initial call of a small slam may not prove adequate, especially if one of your opponents thinks he can make a grand slam.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Harold M. Cole, assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, displayed on this deal some of the acumen that qualifies him for his ticklish job. After North's pass, in a rubber game at the Union League club, East had bid 6-Diamonds.

Mr. Cole in the South realized that such a call when vulnerable could show nothing but the top or tops in clubs plus diamonds which were solid except for the ace. He decided that he wanted a grand slam for his side, in whichever suit his partner fitted best. Bidding 6-Hearts might be left in, even though his partner was short, and the same applied to 6-Spades.

After a bit of study he made a most brilliant call, which upon reflection is obviously the only right one, 7-Diamonds. His partner could not take this out into anything but the majors, so bid 7-Hearts, which East doubled, then leading the club ace. Three rounds of trumps were followed by three of spades and a ruff of a fourth spade, setting up the dummy.

Of course, a diamond lead would have beaten this contract, but who was East to lead that suit when he had a singleton club ace?

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play this hand for 4-Spades against the leading of two hearts and a spade?

Sees Retaliation Fear Stopping Nazi Bombers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP).—The plight of Finland's civil population, shuddering under repeated Russian bombing attacks, drives home again for all nations the conclusion that fear of retaliation is the strongest safeguard against ruthless war from the air.

People of the huge cities in France and Great Britain probably owe their freedom from such raids more to that factor than to any other. It is only against nations unequipped for retaliation that the full terrors of air attack have been loosed.

For three months, three of the most powerful air armies of the world, the British, French and German, have been pitted against each other. Cities, towns and villages in all three countries have been blacked out in dreadful expectancy of blows that have not fallen.

No Allied air bomb has yet been deliberately aimed at other than definite military targets. Germany, since the Polish campaign, has followed a similar policy. Yet official account of air scouting exploits by both sides tell nearly every day of successful penetratio nof defensive aeroplane screens, of escape from anti-aircraft fire.

Policy reasons explain that reluctance to resort to what a Nazi spokesman styled "bloodbath" air warfare. And first among those reasons must stand the certainty of retaliation even though there are also technical or propaganda reasons for witholding this ultimate ruthlessness of war.

Had little Finland possessed an air force comparable even to her overwhelming outmatched army and navy, the menace of a Finnish counter-bombing attack on near-by Leningrad, second Soviet city, would have caused the Soviet to hesitate to bomb Helsingfors, or other Finnish cities.

Attacked Without Fear

Sifting back through the pages of post-war history of many little wars, the story has always been the same. In Spain, in Ethiopia, in China and in Poland attack from the air was ruthlessly driven home, but always without fear of retaliation on the cities of the attaker.

Air power is the weapon Nazi leadership has fashioned and upon which it relies. Yet fear of retaliation as well as realization that a vain expenditure of her air power would leave Germany in desperate peril, has so far served to keep the bulk of Nazi air power grounded or engaged in minor scouting or sea attack operations.

British Actors Train As Officers

Four well-known British actors of stage and screen who are learning the art of war, and who will soon emerge from the British militia officers' training centre as full-fledged officers, are pictured here during drill. LEFT to RIGHT: Guy Middleton, Frank Lawton, Nigel Patrick and Giles Isham.

Canada's Great Effort To Aid Winning War Will Yield Golden Returns, Says Gardiner

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 — (CP). — The winning of the war by the Allies requires that Canada "put every possible effort into producing wealth through increased primary production," Agriculture Minister Gardiner said here to-day in a Canadian Club luncheon speech.

"There is bound to be a remarkable development in the production of real wealth in Canada whether this war be lon gor short," he stated. "It is already underway and will continue. Mining is increasing to provide those things necessary to the construction of war machines and munitions. The forests are being pressed into service in an unprecedented manner.

"The Fisheries and the farms are producing food in greater volume than ever before. Our natural power resources are being developed as rapidly as possible. All these activities are preparing the way for a great war effort through the creation of new wealth from the only five sources of possible supply.

"It is the continued production of these same products which will be essential to industrial expansion and the maintenance of our increased population when the war ends."

Ultimate victory, Mr. Gardiner warned, requires not only increased primary production, but also "that the routes between Canada and the great manufacturing and consuming centres of Britain and France be kept open."

"It requires that our raw materials go forward in unprecedented volume, that necessary industries, allied populations and armies in those areas be maintained. It requires that the new air training scheme be pushed forward with unabated energy. It quires more than anything else a continuation of that spirit which the young life of this country has contributed through voluntary enlistments.

"To accomplish all this, Canadian industry must enter new fields and attain a new high in the old fields of production," said the Minister. "The textile industry, the boot and shoe industry, the milling industry, the automobile industry, the construction trades and the running trades have developed throughout the whole life of this country from one peak to another until they have been largely responsible for placing Canada fourth among the great industrial countries of the world.

"The coming of the war and the undoubted necessity of winning it to protect our liberties has turned our efforts into other directions as well.

"The necessity to push our products overseas, to safeguard our routes and transport our troops in resurrecting the ship-building industry in the Maritimes, along the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes and on the Pacific.

"If it is at all possible, this industry should be established on a basis which will make its continuation a possibility. There would not appear to be any permanent gain for Canada in spreading it so thinly over a great area as to render it necessary to close it all down when the war is over.

"The necessity to produce munitions and machines of war is bound to be a temporary effort associated with war. It would appear, therefore, that its encouragement might be confined largely to association with industries which can at the end of the war with the greatest ease return to a customary peace-time field."

The big scale training of Empire air pilots in Canada would have many effects upon Canada, Mr. Gardiner forecast.

Havelock Red Cross Joined By Belmont

HAVELOCK, Dec. 5 — (ENS).—Henceforth the local Red Cross Society will be known as the Havelock-Belmont branch, it was decided at a meeting of the executive committee on Saturday evening. The townships have signified their intention of co-operating with the local group in their war service activities, and two representatives will be added to the executive. T. P. Lancaster, honorary chairman of the committee, who addressed the Belmont and Methuen municipal council in connection with Red Cross work, prior to the meeting, reported that the reeve and council were in favour of the proposed general canvass. They suggested that in the townships this work could be handled by the rural school teachers.

The executive committee will assemble once a month for a business meeting, the last Monday being the day selected.

Presentations will be made to local members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who are now at their homes for their last leave of absence. A committee was selected to purchase gifts.

Peterborough Man Makes A Remarkable Statement

Suffered With Stomach Trouble, Headaches and Rheumatic Pains in Joints and Muscles. Tells How Syntona Brings Grand Relief After All Other Treatments Failed.

"I can't praise Syntona too highly after what it has done for me," said Mr. Samuel Toplis, 241 Murray St., Peterborough, Ontario, in a statement recently verified:

"Being a commercial traveller, I am out in all kinds of weather and I am constantly eating in different hotels and restaurants, so I suffered terribly with indigestion and constipation. My stomach got so bad that even a glass of water caused a scalding feeling and gas pains in my side. Sour acids would rise right up into my throat and there was a burning feeling in my chest. I often felt nauseated and so bloated with gas that I could hardly draw a full breath. The acids seemed to go all through my system so I developed rheumatic pains in my limbs and back and I was subject to frequent headaches.

"Needless to say, I tried many medicines and prescriptions, but nothing gave me any real relief until I began taking Syntona. With the first bottle of Syntona, my stomach felt better and my bowels became regular, so I kept on until I had taken seven bottles in succession and as directed. Now, I am happy to say, I can eat regular meals and enjoy them. I am free of headaches and rheumatic pains. My nerves are more relaxed now, I sleep better, and I feel more healthy and energetic in every way."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to act on the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related in their functions that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should supply nourishment and resistance, only ferments in the stomach. Soured particles are fed into the bloodstream and soon the whole system is rundown.

This pure herbal compound is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George St. Make up your mind to go there today and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

With The Boy Scouts

Congratulations, Sacred Heart.

On Thursday last the Cub pack enjoyed its fourth anniversary. Starting under its present leader Akela Peter Dominik, the pack has always maintained a standard to which Rev. Father O'Brien pointed out in a brief congratulatory talk.

Several boys will remember the Soccasion as they received their service stars. M. Crowley and K. Coss were awarded their first star; G. O'Dette was presented with a 3-year service star; J. Crowley and J. Fontaine, 2-year stars; V. Grady, P. O'Dette, M. Crowley, K. Coss, E. Paquette, B. LeBarr and G. Lucano, 1-year star.

Ken Coss was invested as Sixer of the White Six, while Eldon Paquette, Bobby LeBarr and M. Crowley are sixers of the Red, Grey and Black sixes for a probation period; also V. Grady, second in the White Six. A delightful program was held, refreshments being provided by Akela Peter and Rev. Father O'Brien. Max Sargent, Ramm of the St. John's pack, and three cubs were visitors for the evening.

At All Saints'

Four old faces will be missed at the council rock as that number of boys went to the troop through the medium of the going-up ceremony. Allen Paterson, Bob Kennedy, Robert Adams and Stanley Alexander were accepted into the the troop by Scouter Rose, having penetrated the jungle and stepped out onto the scout trail.

During the evening two youngsters made their cub promise. They were Jack Billingsley and Donald Spargo.

The Crew

On Monday last, the Lord Strathcona crew presented a musical program to the King Edward Home and School Association, where at the same meeting Commissioner J. T Hornsby gave a distinctive talk on scouting.

Future meetings will be held on Thursday evening instead of Tuesday, the first one being a party at the home of Rover Gord. White on Thursday next, at 505 Bolivar street.

All rovers are requested to be in full uniform and accompanied with a lady friend.

Rover Mate Gordon White and R. Stan Brooks were elected as crew representatives on the Rover council for the coming year.

Scouter Art Rose was in attendance at the last meeting when his brother, Bernard Rose, was officially elected as a member of the crew.

St. John's on The Trail

The pack held a brief meeting in the jungle, where Fort Tag Relay and Bridges were played. At Red Flower the cubs sang several songs fro mthe new cub song sheet and learned a new one written by Akela especially adapted for St. John's.

Notices were given out to each cub to take home, inviting parents to the Totem Pole Ribbon ceremony being held next Friday at 8 p.m.

This week the Brown Six will meet Raksha at the Library at 6.45 p.m. on Wednesday, December 6, to visit the S.A. pack. The Grey and Black sixers will meet at the Library at 6.45 p.m. on Thursday, to visit Murray Street and St. Andrew's pack, with Baloo and Ranm. Ranm.

Akela and Mrs. L. Boorman were visitors to the pack. The pack will be hosts to the Salvation Army pack next Friday.

The Troop

A.S.M. Ken Brown opened the meeting and led in a short P.T. period after which the troop went to the C.P.R. station to assist in the Santa Claus parade.

Afterward some of the troop were on duty at the corners of George and Charlotte to assist the police in holding the crowds back.

Some of the boys went back to headquarters under Rex Rose and enjoyed a game of floor hockey.

The Crew

Several members of the crew attended the scouters' training course at headquarters.

Tomorrow is the election of rover mate and other officers. The crew members are requested to attend in full uniform if possible.

The Scouters' Club.

On Thursday, December 14, is the meeting of the Scouters' Club, which will be held in local association headquarters at 8 p.m. This meeting is intended for every officer in the scout association in Peterborough, be he or she in charge or only assisting in any section of the work.

Everyone is asked to bring a small gift valued at 10 cents.

Scouts' Service.

Friday night found scouts from St. John's and St. Luke's troops on duty at the C.P.R. station and the corners of Charlotte and George streets helping to keep the crowds back for the Santa Claus paraders.

At St. Andrew's

Jack Braund left the cub pack and went to the scout trail in a stepping up ceremony. Akela Frank Pammet assisted Akela Morrison with the ceremony, and Chaplain Rev. Dr. Young gave his blessing on the event. Jack was accepted into the Bulldog patrol by P.L. Allen Johnston.

Gerald Davis has completed his tenderfoot test and will be invested shortly; the troop expects a visit from the District Commissioner this week.

Both cubs and scouts have been requested to give short plays at the Sunday School Christmas party, and are practising.

Urges Cargo Subs To Run Nazi Mine Fields

MILFORD, Conn., Dec. 5—(AP).—Simon Lake, pioneer submarine inventor, asserted today a fleet of merchant submarines would be Great Britain's best bet for conquering the menace of the German U-boat campaign. Cargo-carrying submersibles could easily slip by the Nazi raiders, he said.

The 74-year-old inventor's hair now is snow-white, his figure bent, a busy lifetime behind him—a lifetime of success and disappointment in submarine ventures from the day he saw the dreams inspired by Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" come true with the launching of his first underseas craft, the Argonaut Junior, in 1895.

The submersible merchantman he envisions would be 5,000 to 7,500 tons capacity, powered by Diesel or steam, capable of eight to twelve speeds under water and no more costly than an oil tanker.

"They could run any blockade. A military submarine is blind, you know. I'd give mine eyes—I did it with bow lookouts on my old Argonaut and on submarines I built for Austria after building for Russia in the Russo-Japanese war.

"They wouldn't have any trouble getting through mine fields. My old Argonaut crept through Hampton Roads when it was mined by the navy during the Spanish-American war. We spotted the mines through the lookouts and slipped by as easily as you please."

The idea of cargo-carrying submarines is an old one to Lake. He is busily redrafting at his Milford laboratory plans originally drawn during the first Great War.

After the success of the Deutschland, German U-Boat, which made trips with cargoes to the United States, he was asked by Germany to build merchant submarines to run the British blockade. He agreed, but terminated the project when America entered the war.

Lake said he wouldn't be surprised if Germany turned to underseas cargo-carriers in the present conflict.

"She remembers the success of the Deutschland," he said.

Show For Nelson

NELSON, B.C., Dec. 5—(CP).—A brilliant meteorite was seen over Nelson early Friday, passing out of sight behind Mount Baldy, Cyril Eddington said today. Eddington said he and other observers decided the glowing mass, which travelled very slowly and therefore apparently was at a great distance, was falling on a line between Red Deer and Calgary.

A Hacking, Racking Persistent Cough

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you do to get rid of it is the kind that is dangerous to neglect.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

But, there is a remedy to relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is that remedy.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that may produce serious complications.

It was the second major success for Canada in as many days. Bill Skladen of Andrew, Alta., was crowned oats king yesterday.

Finn Courage Bolstered By Victories

Honor Heroes Of 1917; 2,000 Reds Captured To Date

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 6 (AP) — Her courage bolstered by official announcement of successes against the Russians, Finland today honored the heroes of her independence while her fighters fought back an increasing tide of Russian invaders.

The government issued a communique stating 2,000 Russian troops had been captured since the invasion began last Thursday, and that 64 Russian tanks had been destroyed. The Finns said they destroyed eight Russian tanks and took many prisoners yesterday on the Karelian isthmus.

A government spokesman again today emphasized that Russian losses had been "very great compared to those of Finland."

After a heavy snow this morning the skies cleared somewhat and the few residents of deserted Helsingfors went about their tasks with anxious eyes watching the dark skies.

In honor of independence won from Russia 22 years ago today, Finnish leaders placed wreaths on monuments. Here and there in the boarded-up city blue and white Finnish flags fluttered.

Parachute Attack?

It was stated officially today that Russian planes had been sighted yesterday over Ecbo, a few miles west of Helsingfors. Authorities speculated that the Russians may be seeking a place near the capital for landing infantry troops by parachute.

The gulf outside Helsingfors is thickly mined and the approaches are well fortified, making extremely difficult any attempt by the Russian fleet to get close enough to land troops.

Political circles felt the Russian command could not long endure the "humiliation" of being held at bay by a nation of Finland's size.

New snow today was greeted enthusiastically by military authorities. They counted it a heavy advantage for Finland's famous skiing machine gunners and infantrymen.

No canonading was heard in Helsingfors itself today.

President Kyoesti Kallio in a broadcast said "our greatest strength is our unity."

6 German Raids Prove Futile

PARIS, Dec. 6 — (CP-Havas). — The Western front reverted to comparative calm today following yesterday's repulse of six German raids directed against the central sector in evident quest of information on the disposition of Allied troops.

A few German reconnaissance flights were reported, but there were no air battles. The morning communique simply advised there was "nothing important to report during the night."

There was no confirmation in French military quarters of foreign news dispatches reporting new concentrations of German troops along the Reich's neutral borders. There has been no change in the disposition of German troops—last reported still massed near the Netherlands—in the past several days, it was said.

French military observers were convinced yesterday's series of six raids marked the culminating effort of a German attempt to probe Allied positions along the length of the Western front.

The operations were started a week ago on the left wing of the front with three successive German attacks to the east of the Moselle.

Last Stone Is Laid Completing Rip Rapping

Last step in the most ambitious beautification project ever to be undertaken in this city by the Dominion Government's Department of Works was completed today when J. J. Duffus, M.P., laid the last stone in the rip rapping about Little Lake. An imposing battery of spectators was on hand. From LEFT to RIGHT, they are: C. W. Morgan, engineer of the work; J. M. Wilson, chief engineer for Ontario; ex-Mayor George A. Macdonald, under whom the work was first started; H. T. Partridge, assistant district engineer; Ald. James Dutton, Ald. R. M. Glover, Mayor James Hamilton, A. L. Killaly, and Ald. Walter Stocker. Also present were A. R. Kennedy, editor of the Examiner; Wm. Mellis, superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada; Robert Kingan, and Ald. Cotton. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Italian Bombers Used By Finns To Battle Reds

ROME, Dec. 6 — (AP). — Italy closely watched to-day the accounts of the performance of the Finnish air forces in its counterattacks on the Soviet Union, because Finland's planes are mostly Italian manufacture.

Authoritative sources said the Italian-made planes were ordered before the war broke out. Delivery was said to have been rushed because of the sudden Russian attack last Thursday.

(Reuters News Agency reported from Stockholm that 50 Italian airplanes had been delivered to Finland by air.)

Combat of the two air forces would permit comparison of the merits of the Italian-made and Russian planes, it was said, with Italians confident their product is superior.

While scores of Italians sought to enlist in the Finnish Army, Italians held little hope Finland long could resist the Russian drive. Applications of volunteers poured into the Finnish Legation, and many young men appeared to offer their services.

Finnish Minister Eero Jarnefelt told applicants their aid would be accepted gladly, if they found means of reaching Finland. The difficulty of obtaining passports while Italy is intent upon defending her own territory was regarded in diplomatic circles as barring any

The Law Works

DETROIT, Dec. 6 — (AP). — Nineteen Detroit policemen found out how the other half lives. Emerging from an examination for prospective sergeants, they found their automobiles ticketed for illegal parking. Protests did no good. They were told to bring their tickets to the Violations Bureau.

Surprised Reds

Stockholm, Dec. 6 (CP-Havas) THE Helsingfors correspondent of the newspaper Social Demokraten today said disorders had occurred in the Leningrade garrison, base for Soviet Russia's invasion of southern Finland.

The dispatches said the disorders resulted from the unexpected resistance put up by Finnish troops. Societ soldiers apparently had been led to believe, he said, that they need not expect any fighting.

British Nab Ship Before Nazis

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 6. — (CP). — British warships have captured the German liner Ussukuma, 7,834 tons, in the South Atlantic, it was officially stated today.

The ship was the third the Germans have lost in the same region in the last 10 days. The others were the Watussi and the Adolph Woermann, which were scuttled. Attempts to scuttle the Ussukuma failed.

Naval authorities said the Ussukuma left Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, 24 hours after war was declared and later arrived at Bahia, Brazil.

Officers and crew were taken aboard the British ship as prisoners. The liner is expected to be taken to port as a prize.

The passenger liner Ussukuma is owned by the German East Africa line.

She arrived in Bahia Blanca, Argentina, November 10, reporting that British Warships had chased her near the Cape of Good Hope and that she had sailed across the south Atlantic to avoid capture.

Argentina officials ordered her to leave port within three days because she lacked necessary papers.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO—(CP). — Charles H. Millard, organizer for the congress of industrial organizations in Canada, was arrested here today by Provincial Police and charged with contravening the Defence of Canada Regulations.

LONDON.— (CP)— Authoritative sources disclosed today that British firms had arranged to supply a score of fighting planes and "a considerable quantity" of other war materials to Finland.

LONDON.— (CP)— The 8,196-ton British steamship Huntsman, belonging to the Charente Steamship Co., with Liverpool her home port, was reported tonight to have been lost at sea. No details were immediately available.

Nazi Monoplane Crashes Off Norfolk

The wreckage and the body of a German airman were washed ashore on the east coast. The pilot apparently had lost control. No air raid warnings had been sounded and no British fighting planes had been seen.

The Air Ministry said it "presumed" the plane was "engaged in mine-laying operations."

The Air Ministry also said British fighters had taken to the air, but had been prevented by bad weather from meeting the enemy.

Unidentified aircraft were reported at a high altitude over the Thames estuary today. No air raid warning sounded, and the planes disappeared to the northeast.

Pilot Laid To Rest

FREDERICTON, Dec. 6—(CP).—Funeral services were held Saturday at nearby Devon for Laurence A. Clements, pilot officer who was one of four men killed in the crash of a Royal Canadian Air Force plane near Belleville, Ont., last Wednesday.

NazisMassing Before Luxembourg

London, Rome Tips Predict Drive On Maginot Line

LONDON, Dec. 6—(CP). — The Daily Mail headlined reports today that German divisions are massing for an attempted drive into France by way of the Duchy of Luxembourg.

"The Nazis are massively gathering against Luxembourg," the newspaper reported. "It seems they are prepared to attack soon the principal fortifications of the Maginot Line across Luxembourg.

"Troops are filling the roads of the inner Reich towards Trier (Treves) and Mertig. Ten German divisions are being concentrated in this part after being massed at the Dutch border."

Germans Massing.

ROME, Dec. 6—(CP-Havas). — Heavy German troops concentrations close to the frontier of Luxembourg were reported today by the Luxembourg correspondent of the newspaper Piccolo.

Daily arrivals in the area from the border back to Trier (Treves) have brought the number of troops in the region to "formidable" proportions, the correspondent said. Heavy artillery is accompanying these forces, the dispatch added.

Danes Walk Out When Reds Speak

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 6 (AP)— Members of the Danish parliament walked out of the lower chamber in an anti-Communist demonstration today and a Nazi member suggested that Denmark break of diplomatic relations with Russia.

When the Communist leader, Axel Larsen, rose to speak, all parties, from Conservatives on the right to the Social Democrats on the left, departed, leaving only two Communist members to listen to their leader.

When normal deliberations were resumed, a Nazi member asked Prime Minister Thovald Stauning if he did not think it was high time to sever diplomatic relations with Russia. This was taken to mean that not all Nazis approve of Germany's present relationship with Moscow. Stauning, however, answered in the negative.

In Iceland, which is joined to Denmark, it is legally impossible to expel Communists from the parliament. However, the interparliamentary union, an unofficial body representing all parties, expelled the Communists from its membership.

Even before the Russian invasion of Finland this action had been contemplated as a result of a government exposure of the extent of Communist propaganda among Iceland's 120,000 population.

The government published the press cable wordage received in Iceland annually from various countries, showing that Russia cabled 118,000 words to a single Communist newspaper of small circulation as compared with Denmark's 85,000 words and Great Britain's 37,000 words to all newspapers.

Reds Attempting To Cut North Finland Off Drive Throug Uninhabited Area Toward Sweden And Rich Mining Belt

KIRKENES, Norway (at the Finnish Frontier), Dec. 6—(AP). —On this 22nd anniversary of Finnish independence, a Soviet Russian army was reported to have driven almost a fifth of the way across Northern Finland—apparently under orders to cut the country in two.

This army was said to have penetrated 35 miles into Finland, reaching Kuolajarvi, on the seventh day of the war, and leaving only 150 miles to be covered before Finland would be bisected.

Completion of the drive would put Red forces on the Swedish border. Just beyond the border lie Sweden's rich iron mines. Observers saw in the repentlessly developing Russian strategy a great menace to Sweden—apart from the disaster it might mean for Finnish troops in the far north.

Finnish sources contended the Russian advance was discounted in advance because the region already penetrated is practically uninhabited. The Finns declared invaders would encounter "unbreakable" resistance when they reached Finnish defence positions west of Kuolajarvi.

The base of this Russian cross-country thrust was reported to be Kandalaksha, at the westernmost extremity of the White sea, railway station nearest the Finnish border in that region. Kandalaksha lies 50 miles east of the Finnish border.

Important Highway.

In reaching Kuolajarvi, the Russians also gained access to a good highway running 110 miles northwest to the important communications centre of Rovaniemi, where Finland's Arctic highway continues north-east to Petsamo and a railway runs southward to the Gulf of Bothnia, between Finland and Sweden.

To support this drive ,the Soviet Union continued the landing of troops along Petsamo Fjord and aerial forays for reconnoitring and bombing.

Finns, fighting stubbornly in the cold and twilight of the Arctic, told of repulsing sporadic Russian attacks and of shooting down a Russian bombing plane. A detachment of 200 Red soldiers, apparently part of the parachute infantry dropped in Northern Finland, was said to have been

Judge Demands Apology From Accused

Half an hour late this morning and missing again when the county court resumed at 1.45 o'clock this afternoon, Robert Hamilton, on trial for alleged reckless driving in a motor accident, exhausted judicial patience.

The trial jury was in its place and the court and counsel were ready to proceed, but Mr. Hamilton was "absent without leave." Obviously annoyed, Judge McGibbon said he did not intend to put up with a repetition of the morning's delay, keeping a jury of twelve men waiting on an accused man.

Crown Attorney McElderry suggested that a bench warrant be issued and His Honor agreed, sending Constable Bruce Menzies after the accused.

Two minutes before two o'clock, Hamilton arrived alone.

"What does this mean, coming here at 2 o'clock when you should have been here at 1.45. I didn't say anything to you when you were half an hour late this morning," Judge McGibbon said in an angry tone.

"I had to go home to dinner, five miles in the country," Hamilton answered.

"Had you no money in your pocket to stay down town?" His Honor said. "I should have sent you to jail for the noon hour after the delay you caused this morning. When you are ordered to be here at a certain time you'd better be here."

Pausing for a moment Judge McGibbon said, "You had better apologize to the court and the jury."

Mr. Hamilton did so.

Constable Menzies returned at 2.15 o'clock.

New Polish Army Of 75,000 Trains In France

By JOHN H. MARTIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Dec. 6 — (AP). — General Wladyslaw Sikorski, Premier of the Polish government in exile and commander of the Polish legion in training to fight Germany, hopes to recruit 200,000 more soldiers from the United States and Canada.

Without counting the thousands it hopes to enlist from Polish colonies in North America, the Polish command expects to have a fighting force in France of 75,000 when three more divisions are added to the two already formed. A Polish division numbers 15,000 men.

The Poles in the present two divisions are mostly miners from Northern France and Belgium. Daily recruits drop from trains in this wind-swept corner of France to start their training with machine-gun and other infantry units.

Their comrades-in-arms include remnants of the shattered Polish forces who fought Germans and Russians in September and lived to escape to France through neutral countries.

They are given light-colored khaki uniforms, modelled after the French military dress, and berets. The men in training do not all have guns. They double up on equipment and parade before General Sikorski without arms.

West Warms Up On 67 Above Zero

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6 — (CP). — Western Canada glowed today under the influence of high temperatures that broke December records and raised hopes of a green Christmas.

Highest temperatures in the West yesterday were recorded in Alberta, at Calgary and Medicine Hat, where maximums were 67 above zero—almost summer-like heat with Christmas less than three weeks away. In both places the readings were all-time December highs.

At Lethbridge, Alta., the mercury claimbed to 65 above, warmest in years. Regina recorded a high of 58, two above the former record of the past 55 years.

One Ship Lost In 750 Convoyed

Sink U-Boats Faster, Says Churchill, Than They Are Made

LONDON, Dec. 6 — (CP Cable). —British naval and aerial patrols have destroyed five German submarines in the past week, Winston Churchill told the House of Commons to-day when giving a reassuring picture of the war at sea.

The First Lord of the Admiralty claimed flashing guns and explosive bombs and depth charges of the Navy and Royal Air Force were destroying the U-boats faster than Germany could build them and train crews.

Here are other features from his statement:

Britain has installed defensive armament in 1,000 merchant ships and before long the total will reach 2,000.

Only one ship in 750 has been sunk in British convoy.

Britain has "several million" tons of neutral shipping under charter, and wants more.

The magnetic mine is a "characteristic weapon" of Adolf Hitler and "one that will be for ever associated with his name."

Mr. Churchill said the magnetic mine had hit neutral nations a bigger blow than Britain. In November neutral losses by mine were twice as great as British losses, and neutral losses by submarine and mine were one-third greater than belligerent losses.

In one of his characteristically pungent comments, Mr. Churchill exclaimed: "So far as sea war is concerned German friendship has proved far more poisonous than German enmity."

Referring to the two-day blockade of German trade he said wharves and docks of the Reich already as piling up with goods for export "to such an extent we are told they hamper handling of incoming merchandise." Then he added, "This latter congestion will, however, be relieved as our blockade tightens through the growing strength of our patrolling and blockading squadrons."

In regard to submarines, Mr.

Last Stone Laid In Rip Rapping

Plans for a monster regatta on Little Lake early next summer were broached today when Mayor James Hamilton tendered a banquet in celebration of the completion of the most ambitious beautification project ever to be launched by the Dominion Government in this city—the transformation of Little Lake's borders from an eyesore to what promises to be one of the finest parks in the province.

At noon representatives of the government's Department of Works were present, along with outstanding Peterborough citizens, to watch J. J. Duffus lay the last stone in the rip rapping that now extends from Little Lake Cemetery to George street wharf, thus completing a scheme of beautification that has lasted four more than three years, and one that was done in the face of scepticism.

At the luncheon meeting, given privately by Mayor Hamilton, leaders in the community expressed their appreciation for the work in so decided terms that when J. M. Wilson, chef eningeer for Ontario, spoke, he said that it was seldom his department ever received such thanks for any work they did. "It is a real pleasure to find that our effort is appreciated, and I hope we may have more work to do here," he declared.

Trade Blockaded, 4 Chief Ports Near Ruin Says Nazi Article, Astounding Germany

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(CP Cable.)—The Exchange Telegraph Agency in a dispatch from Zurich said today that a sensation had been created in Germany by an article in Marshal Hermann Goering's periodical "the five-year plan," admitting strangulation of German trade by the British contraband control.

The writer of the article, Emil Helferrich, one of Germany's leading economists, was quoted as saying:

"We must face the facts. The same as in 1914, England's power has brought German overseas trade to a complete standstill.

"German ships are lying in more than 10 harbors all over the globe. Those goods and ships are blockaded by the British Navy and part of them already have been confiscated.

"Furthermore, the enormous quantity of goods ready for shipment and manufactured against orders received is piling up in all larger German ports—thus blockading the warehouse against further transport possibilities.

"The Fuehrer himself has said: 'Germany must export or die.' The whole of the import and export trade, particularly the export, has made the greatest efforts to carry out the Fuehre's wishes and the result is that Kiel, Luebeck, Bremen and Hamburg are all gradually heading toward ruin.

"None of the firms has been able to build up any financial reserve owing to heavy taxation and, as they are compelled to meet their interest payments and all liabilities to cover their overheads, they are all heavily involved."

Helfferrich was further quoted as saying that three important decisions must be taken immediately by the Reich.

First the German government must provide the necessary capital to keep these firms afloat. Second, Facilities must be granted releasing them from the obligation to pay rent and they must be allowed to dismiss employees. Third, the authorities must provide them with some other kind of business.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency said it is believed the article was allowed to be published because there was a difference of opinion between the Reichsbank and Marshal Goering who strongly favors subsidizing importers and exporters. The Reichsbank refused this help, it said.

Kaiser's Adviser Mackensen 90 To-day—Hitler Drops In

By LOUIS LOCHNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

BERLIN, Dec. 6—(AP).—Adolf Hitler visited Field Marshal August Von Mackensen, one of the foremost cavalry leaders in German military history, today on the latter's 90th birthday.

Von Mackensen was a close friend and military adviser of the Kaiser, and during the first great war won fame which made him a rival of Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg as the popular hero of Germany.

Jap Wiles Bested By Death In Plot Upon 'Honest Wu'

By JAMES WHITE
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

PEIPING, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The death of Marshal Wu Pei-Fu was preceded by a fantastic Oriental intrigue in which the retired warlord drove a Japanese general to the threat of hara kiri by stubborn refusing to help form a Japanese-controlled government for China, a highly reliable source declared today.

Wu, known in his active years as "the only honest warlord in China," died Monday of an infected tooth.

Several months ago, the Japanese army assigned Major-General Kawamoto to the sole mission of persuading Wu Pei-fu to participate in, or at least to support, a Japanese-sponsored government for China.

Wu, for the past dozen years, had devoted himself to a study of the Buddhist classics, and, in

Ice And Blockade Cripple Nazis' Rumanian Trade

BUCHAREST, Dec. 6 (AP)—The British-French blockade has become the most serious obstacle to Germany's plans to get the Rumanian oil and wheat she needs for a long war.

Before the war, 57 per cent of Rumanian oil shipments and 70 per cent of her total exports to Germany moved by the Constanza-Hamburg sea route through the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean and the Straits of Gibraltar.

British warships have cut off that line of communication, leaving Germany only two limited routes—by rail and by Danube barge. There is little prospect that the Germans will be able to boost commerce through these two sources to the pre-war level of shipments by sea.

Rumania, above all, wants to refrain from any move which would give the Germans an excuse to march into her rich petroleum and wheat fields as they did in 1916. Therefore, she is seeking to facilitate shipments to the Reich, instead of impeding them.

Since the war started, Germany has been getting a greater percentage of Rumania's oil than in normal times, but less in actual volume.

In 1938, Germany and Czecho-Slovakia got some 80,000 tons of Rumanian oil a month about one-fourth of the total petroleum ex-

Quake Every Day In November Shakes America

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP)—Old Mother Earth has the shakes again, and she just won't sit still.

What's more, she's still wheezing from a bad cold she caught 10,000 years ago.

Rev. Joseph Lynch, Fordham University seismologist, gave that explanation today for the recent series of earthquakes which have rattled both sides of the North American continent.

Fordham's eight seismographs—sunk 30 feet deep into bed rock in a tomb-like vault on the university campus—recorded more than a quake a day during November, ranging from window-rattling fidgets in Eastern Canada, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware to more severe tremors in the far West.

"The East and West quakes are not related," Father Lynch said.

"Out West, the tremors result from a continual mountain-building process, probably caused by thermal circulating currents sufficient to start an upheaval.

"In the East, it's just the opposite. From Ohio to the Atlantic forces in the earth's crust are trying to recover from the depression formed by the last Ice Age at least 10,000 years

Nearly 1,500,000 Britons Now Under Arms, More On Air Duty Says Hoare; Halifax Blames Nazis For Attack On Finns

LONDON, Dec. 6 — (CP). — The House of Commons expected Winston Churchill to supply further details of the blockade against Germany to-day as the First Lord of the Admiralty supplanted Prime Minister Chamberlain's weekly war review with an account of activities at sea.

The Government, meanwhile, condemned Russia's invasion of Finland as "an inexcusable act of aggression" and prepared to send a delegation to Geneva for the League of Nations Council meeting on Saturday to discuss Finland's appeal.

Addressing the House of Lords yesterday, Lord Halifax, the Foreign Secretary, blamed German foreign policy for the Finns' plight, saying Adolf Hitler, in dealing with Russia, had "bartered what was not his to barter—namely the liberties of the Baltic peoples."

Shortsighted Stand.

Lord Halifax said: "I have heard it suggested that an immediate peace (with Germany) on almost any terms would be desirable in order to save Western civilization from worse perils. I think that view is shortsighted."

He reiterated that Great Britain wants a peace ending "the fear of aggression in Europe."

Diplomatic quarters predicted public indignation over the Finnish conflict would result in dropping of the current British-Russian trade negotiations.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, told the House of Commons yesterday Great Britain had 1,350,000 to 1,500,000 men under arms and 1,500,000 to 1,750,000 men and women on air raid precautions duty. He said munitions production had doubled in six months with contracts totalling £195,000 ($887,750,000 let since the outbreak of the war.

He reported a program had been launched to double airplane production; that production of military vehicles in January would reach 10 times that of a year ago, and that 13 ordnance factories already are in production, with 16 more being built.

Russia's refusal to attend the League of Nations meeting called to consider Finland's charges of aggression was criticized by the press. The Times was especially critical.

Burglars and Fences.

"Russian newspapers complain that Cajander (Aimo Cajander, Premier of Finland until last Friday) and Tanner (Foreign Minister in the new Ryti cabient and Finance Minister under Cajander) Finnish statesmen, were unable to find a common language with the Soviet Union, where as between Stalin and Kuusinen, (head of "People's Governmet of the democratic Republic of Finland") a common language was found from the first word," said The Times.

"This is not surprising. It is well-known that burglars and fences are accustomed to converse in thieves' argot, which is unintelligible to law-abiding people. A fascinating specimen of this esoteric dialect has just been published in the form of an answer by Molotoff (Vyacheslaff M. Molotoff, Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar) to a communication from the League of Nations inviting the Soviet to appear at the council of which its own ambassador in London is still president."

Kaiser's Adviser

Poland in 1915. He was made a Field Marshal and given command of the campaign in the Balkans. In seven weeks he occupied Serbia. He remained in the Balkan post until the armistice.

In the absence of startling war news, the entire press paid tribute to the field marshal.

Authorized German reaction to the speech by the British Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, was that it was premature for Britain to demand removal of the Nazi government before the Allies won the war.

Loss of a German coastguard vessel Dec. 4 in the great mine belt off the Danish coast, presumably from a mine explosion, was reported by the German news agency. The agency did not say how many lives were lost.

Stormy weather the past few days has torn loose a number of mines which German naval vessels now are sweeping, the agency reported. It said this was removing many enemy drifting mines.

Fatal Cave-in

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Trapped in a pit by a cave-in on a Works Progress Administration concrete mixing project on Detroit's east side, one worker was injured fatally yesterday and 10 others were hurt. Charles Brown, 40, died last night of his injuries. Another of the men, a Negro, suffered serious injuries.

Washington Acts To Assist Finns In War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP) — The United States Government began today a series of steps to aid the besieged people of Finland and emphasize its condemnation of Soviet Russia.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, on instructions from President Roosevelt, gave orders that Finland's forthcoming semi-annual debt payment of $234,693 be held in a special account.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated he would ask Congress for authority to use the money for the benefit of the Finnish people.

The President denied at a press conference yesterday, that Russia might consider such action unneutral. He said the money might be used to help the wounded or refugees.

The State Department was ready, meanwhile, to join with the Latin American Republics in a Pan-American denunciation of the Russian invasion.

Reliable sources said also that Government credit agencies are studying the possibility of advancing credits to Finland who has indicated she want sto purchase military supplies in the United States.

The State Department announced the American Red Cross is beginning a survey to ascertain what the relief needs of Finland would be. At Palo Alto, Calif., former President Hoover undertook to set up an organization to appeal for and coordinate American contribuations to the homeless in Finland.

There were indication that decisions as to invocation of the United States Neutrality Act and severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia might be awaiting the outcome of possible peace negotiations between Russia and Finland.

New Collegiate Wing In Cobourg Opened

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 6 (C.P.) Cobourg Collegiate's $52,000 new wing was officially opened last night. The new wing is to provide extra class rooms and to enable students to participate in the new Vocational training course. C. S. Rutherford, director of vocational education for Ontario, told an audience at the opening, that the old curriculum was designed for University-bound students. The plan was therefore now to provide a more general education.

Well "Heeled"

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Police arrested Nicholas Olskewsky, 54, shaggy-haired street musician who plays a French horn, on a charge of putting a "slug" into a subway turnstile. Police who searched his pockets said they found six bank books showing deposits of $47,830, cash totalling $691—and three more slugs.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6 — (CP). — Mixed trading shunted wheat futures prices along an irregular path on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Quotations were up nearly a cent at one stage but profit-taking crept in to leave them ½ to ⅝ cents higher, December at 79½, May 83¾ to ⅞, July 85 to 85¼ cents.

Crerar Sailing Inside 10 Days

LONDON, Dec. 6—(CP Cable). — Hon. T. A. Crerar, Canadian Minister of Mines and Resources, will leave for Canada within a week or 10 days after clearing up certain financial and trade matters outstanding between Britain and Canada.

He arrived October 28 to represent Canada at informal discussions on co-ordination of the Empire's war effort and has been engaged the past 10 days in negotiations with the British Government on problems peculiar to Canada.

When asked about a Canadian Press dispatch from London yesterday regarding the Anglo-Canadian bacon agreement, he declined to confirm or deny it beyond saying he considered the negotiations as progressing satisfactorily.

(An announcement in Ottawa yesterday disclosed the Canadian and United Kingdom Governments have reached an agreement whereby Canada undertakes to supply Britain with 4,480,000 pounds of bacon and ham weekly until October 31, 1940).

Since his arrival Mr. Crearer has been given the opporunity of seeing every phase of Britain's war effort and will take back with him first hand knowledge for the guidance of the Canadian Government.

Grove School Boys Visit Armouries

Last night was quiz night at the Armouries, when a group of about 20 cadets from Grove School invaded (on invitation) the building and were shown the training of a modern army.

Under guidance of an officer of the Prince of Wales Rangers they saw the entire training program from start to finish, saw guns stripped, and asked questions at rapid fire pace. They came to the Armouries under supervision of Major Mason, O.B.E., and Capt. Smith, both masters at Grove School, and were entertained in the officers' mess after their inspection.

School Notes

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 6. — (AP). — Miss Claire Elliott noticed a series of notes being passed between two of her Seventh Grade pupils. She intercepted one of the messages. It said:

"Dear Donald:

"I can only give you three cents now, 'cause I just swallowed the other one.

"Charles."

PRINCESSES SHOP.

LONDON.— (CP). — Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose went Christmas shopping in Scotland today and bought trinkets and handkerchief gifts for war refugee children.

Civil Marriage

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP)

THE possibility of providing for civil marriage in Ontario will be considered by the Ontario government, Premier Mitchell Hepburn indicated today.

The suggestion advanced by several church organizations that clergymen should not be required to marry those who are admittedly non-believers has prompted the government to canvass the situation.

In Ontario, marriages may be performed only by clergymen.

Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary, by whose department the marriage laws are administered, told the premier that he had encountered "no great demand" for civil marriage, but agreed nevertheless that the proposal should be considered.

Churchill said that destruction of U-boats is proceeding normally and "we are inclined to think that five certainly have met their fate in the past week, either from our flotillas or from the valuable copoeration of the Royal Air Force."

U-Boats By Chain Belt.

He believed destruction of underseas craft was at a rate superior to the German power to replace them: When he heard that Germany is producing these vessels by a chain-belt system, he wondered "if they are producing U-boat captains and crews by a similar method."

Britain started the war with 21,000,000 tons of merchant shipping, including vessels on the Canadian register plying the Great Lakes. Losses in the three months, he continued, totalled 340,000 tons, but this figure was reduced to a net loss of 60,000 tons by transfers from other flags, prizes captured from Germany and new construction.

In November 250,000 tons of shipping entered or cleared Britain's ports for each 1,000 tons lost.

The British navy had lost 50,000 tons in the first three months of war, including the aircraft carrier Courageous, the battleship Royal Oak, two destroyers and a submarine, but nearly 1,000,000 tons of warships of all classes are under construction.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, while confident the Royal Navy would maintain mastery of the seas, cautioned the nation that further losses, probably further disasters, should be expected as the price to be paid.

Germany's magnetic mines accounted for more than half the British sea losses within the last month, Mr. Churchill said. He added that magnetic mines were neither new nor mysterious and preparations for counter measures already were far advanced before the first magnetic mine was sown in British waters.

Mr. Churchill said the charter of several million tons of neutral shipping already has been arranged and it is probable the process will continue By such charter, he said, neutrals "can be sure of making larger profits than they ever made in peace, and have a complete guarantee against loss."

Mr. Churchill compared the German use of torpedoes with the "welfare of the Irish Republican Army in leaving bombs in the parcel offices at railway stations."

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the Commons the question of making permanent the association of Britain and France as a basis of an international structure open to other nations was premature.

He made the statement in answer to a question by Geoffrey Mander,

Paying Soldiers' Dependents Keeps 150 Busy

OTTAWA, Dec. 6—(CP).—Keeping track of the money paid out to soldiers' wives and dependents and the money members of the Canadian active service force send to the folks keeps a staff of 150 on the Dependents' Allowance Board of the National Defence Depatment working day and night.

In the three months since the war started, however, the board has succeeded in catching up with the flood of applications looked after some 40,000 claims with thousands more to come. The Dominion Treasury sent out cheques in November amounting to some $1,196,000 in dependents' allowances and assignments of pay from C.A.S.F. personnel.

first from J. J. Duffus, who said the city now has every possible attraction to keep people within Peterborough limits on national holidays. He suggested July 1 as a suitable date. Al Sharpe, president of the Business Men's Association, agreed with the idea, and said the organization would be ready to meet the city council to further such a scheme at any time chosen.

Former Mayor George Macdonald, Ald. R. S. Cotton, Ald. James Dutton, Ald. Herb McCannan, Ald. James Juby, Al Sharpe, A. R. Kenfiedy, Ald. R. M. Glover, former Mayor Roland Denne and A. L. Killaly all spoke in tribute of the work that has been done. All were agreed that the new park would be the equal of any in the province, and that it would contribute a great deal to the happiness of the citizens of this city in years to come. A. L. Killaly forecast the time when shallow parts would be dredged out and a sand beach laid in front of the rip-rapping to make a great bathing beach.

Roland Denne urged the erection of a bridge from Burnham's Point to complete the beautification of that district.

Red Cross Work Is Begun At Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 6—(ENS).—A meeting of the war workers to organize for Red Cross work was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Mann, with an attendance of 14. The president, Mrs. George Dart, had charge.

The secretary, Mrs. Harry Mann, gave the report of the patriotic tea held September 20 at the home of Mrs. George Dart. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Bert Robson, was received.

The members decided to join with Havelock Red Cross as a unit and secure supplies from Havelock and from Campbellford. The money on hand is to be kept for future use. It was decided to purchase a rubber Red Cross stamp with the name of 'Trent River Red Cross Unit.'

Spool Shower.

A spool shower is to be held, every home in the district to contribute spools Nos. 10, 40, 35. The members discussed a suitable location for their work for the winter months. Mrs. H. Mann very kindly offered a room in her home and has also offered to contribute a pair of chickens at Christmas time, the money for which to be used for Red Cross work. Mrs. Pollock also donated material for quilt blocks. A letter of appreciation was ordered sent to Mrs. Pollock for her generosity in 'doing her bit' for the worthy cause. Mrs. Harry Mann has also received a quantity of material for quilt patches from a friend in Toronto.

Mrs. W. G. Barrie was in attendance at the meeting and spoke regarding the use of the building recently purchased by Mr. Barrie from the late James Paget estate, and situated in the central part of the village. Mrs. Barrie turned the key of the building over to the war workers, free of rent until such time as Mr. Barrie needed the building. A hearty vote of appreciation was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Barrie for their generous offer.

It was decided to start a 'remembrance fund' to provide means for suitable gifts to any of our boys going overseas. Mrs. M. T. Lean kindly offered the use of her car to take a committee appointed to go to Campbellford to make inquiries regarding securing of war supplies. A number of the members met Tuesday afternoon at the building to clean the interior so as to get away to an early start. The first week to be 'open week' with some of the members present daily to give out supplies. Donations already have been received of a stove, pipes, several sewing machines, work tables, chairs, curtains and wood, for which the members are most grateful. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

King Tours Front With Lord Gort

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec. 5—(CP-Reuters).—The King, travelling in a powerful car camouflaged so as to be almost invisible from the air, started out this morning on his first day with the B.E.F.

With him was General Viscount Gort, the commander-in-chief, and Major-General the Duke of Gloucester, chief liaison officer for general headquarters.

Lord Gort's chauffeur, who drove the King's car for 15 years, was a driver for members of the royal family. The King's first visit today was to a Royal Air Force airdrome at which army co-operation aircraft under orders of Lord Gort are stationed.

After that His Majesty went up to the forward area. He lunched with officers of a battalion of the Guards. Later he was to tour a part of the British front and see for himself the conditions under which the soldiers are holding and strengthening their sector of the Allied front. He was to inspect trenches, tank traps and a steel and concrete blockhouse.

It was a dark, raw winter day and rain was falling steadily as His Majesty travelled along the front.

Couple Are Honored Wedding Anniversary

MILLBROOK, Dec. 6 — (ENS). — The L.O.L. Hall at Carmel was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Elmer, Jr., who were celebrating their thirtieth wedding anniversary.

Ex-Warden James L. McCamus was the chairman, and the highlight of the evening was the presentation to the guests of honor of two handsome wicker chairs, the appreciative address being read by Will Lunn, and the gifts offered by S. Elmer and V. Kennedy. Among those who spoke briefly, following "groom's" words of thanks on behalf of his "bride" and himself, were Joseph Thorne, W. Elmer, Sr., and Benjamin Olan.

Dancing, with music supplied by Roy Bryans and J. Patton, and the service of lunch, filled out a memorable evening happily.

St. James' Class Presents Play

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Dec. 6.—(ENS).—"That Watkins' Girl," a comedy-drama in three acts, was presented by the Cheerful Workers' Class of St. James' United Church, in Lakevale Church here on Thursday evening, to a fair-sized audience.

Mrs. Henry Turner directed the play with Mrs. Atkinson as prompter. However, there was very little prompting to do, each member of the cast taking his or her part exceedingly well. Special mention might be made of the character portrayed of "Tommy," Dan Watkins' girl, by Mrs. Leslie McLaren (formerly Miss Hazel Palmer).

Rev. J. M. Young acted as chairman and welcomed the players back to Lakevale, later thanking them for a fine presentation.

Between Acts 1 and 2, Mrs. L. McLaren sang, "Danny Boy." Between Acts 2 and 3, Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner contributed a vocal duet, "Whispering Hope." Mrs. Atkinson was the accompanist.

The cast of characters is: Dan Watkins, an oldtimer in mining, Henry Turner; Sourdough Pat, Dan's Pal, George Martin; Tommy, Dan's daughter and a Tomboy, Mrs. Les. McLaren; Jerry Hughes, a young mining engineer, Les McLaren; Mrs. Bulwer Stratton Smythe, society lady from Boston, Mrs. H. Turner; Thelma Smythe, Miss Dot Drysdale; Carol Marlboro, Thelma's chum, Miss Gladys Rutherford; Mr. Deton, Mrs. Smythe's lawyer, H. Pavy.

At the conclusion of the play, lunch was served to the players by members of Lakevale Ladies' Aid.

5 Cities Oppose Two-Year Plan

TORONTO, Dec. 6 — (CP). —Five Ontario municipalities were on record today as being opposed to Premier Hepburn's announced plan to pass legislation making civic elections for 1940 effective for two years, or the duration of the war.

At local elections Monday, the people of London, Hamilton, Brantford, Chatham and Ingersoll were asked to express their opinion on the question, which is to be introduced at the next session of the Ontario legislature, and all voted against the plan.

In Ottawa, however, there was a plebiscite on the matter of electing civic officials for two-year terms instead of one and the vote was two to one in favor.

At Brantford, the vote was 6,490 against suspension of elections for the duration of the war and 3,689 in favor.

At London 5,667 opposed the plan and 4,838 approved.

Chatham rejected the idea by 2,468 to 1,787.

In Hamilton the question was divided into two parts, but both were rejected. Opposition to having this year's council serve for the duration of the war was three to one.

There was a small majority opposed to the plant to elect officials for two-year terms.

Not Boasting Of It Now

Jerome E. Davis, a former professor of theology at Yale University, is suing the Curtis Publishing Co. for $200,000, and naming Benjamin Stalberg as party to the suit. Stalberg wrote an article in the Saturday Evening Post which said that Davis was a "Stalinist who is and was wrecking the American labor movement.

It is becoming a more serious thing to say that an individual resembles Stalin; that he is a follower of his, or that he is under his direction or influence or has anything whatever to do with him.

It was not so long ago that this continent had a number of folk who, if they were not Red, were quite decidedly Pink. They appeared to think it was clever and quite the rage to puse as being dissatisfied with the form of government under which they lived, and were coming to the conclusion that Stalin "actually had something" to make people happy and contented. They even hinted broadly that when this country had freed itself from the hands of exploiters and when the boots had been vigorously applied to the capitalistic system, we would begin to live. So they worshipped Stalin even if afar off and were prepared to do their bit to spread our sandwich with Moscow dressing.

Today it is different. People are not so glib in stating they have leanings toward Russia or communism. They scarcely admit such connections at all. They have seen Stalin in action; they have found him to be a grabber compared to whom the most grasping capitalist on earth is a poor piker. Plain evidence has been brought before them showing Stalin as a murderer of helpless people and a plunderer of the weak. The Utopia to which they looked has all gone haywire and they wouldn't go to Russia if cabin passage and a bonus were offered.

We have no way of knowing whether or not this Professor Davis feels that way when he is suing for $200,000. But we do know there are mighty few people who desire to be known as communists now that there has been such an unmasking of what Russian communism actually is and what it actually does.

Russians In The Dark

Despatches from Moscow say there is trouble in reconciling Premier Molotoff's speech of midnight on November 29 with what took place at dawn on November 30. Curiosity alone, if not intelligent concern, would cause such questioning to come to the surface.

Molotoff made use of the charge that Finns had fired across the border, and that is admitted even in Russia as something which never took place.

He broke off relations with Finland, but in doing so said Russia would take only such action as would put a stop to military moves in Finland.

He guaranteed the independence of Finland regardless of what sort of government the people desired.

He declared Russia was not at all concerned about what relations Finland might desire to observe with other nations.

What took place is such recent history that it is hardly necessary to give it detailed review. Just this—

Russia began at once with the invasion of Finland, the bombing of civilian centres and the machine gunning of people on the roads.

Russia set up and recognized a puppet government under the wing of the Red army, a government which has neither a capital nor a country.

Finland by this arrangement is completely at the mercy of Moscow, and can make no alliances with any other nation nor enter any combination considered hostile to the Soviet Union.

Then we come to one of the most astounding facts in the history of wars and attacks. There was not one word given out in Russia regarding the attack on Finland until the movement was 16 hours old. Troops had been on the way, bombers had done their deadly work and Russia had never been informed. It is small wonder that even in a country where people live continually in fear that the desire to ask questions should be touched into action.

The answer seems plain enough. The Red Army was all primed and set for action while Molotoff was bluffing with his addresses. He was seeking to make Finland feel that there was no immediate danger of military action, and even if action were to be taken it would be modified and not at all serious. Truth is complete plans must have been made days before for the ravaging of this little nation and the slaughter of its people. Possibly it has occurred to some of the intelligent people of Russia that their accredited spokesman—and their President as well—is nothing short of a plain liar. Hence their reported uneasiness.

The Blood Count

Toronto had another case where an accident took place—a fatal one—and the point at issue became whether the driver of the death car was sober or not.

There had been a blood test taken and it showed a percentage of 1.4 alcohol. The coroner stated, "It is accepted in this country and in the United States that drunkenness usually begins when a percentage of 1.5 alcohol is found in the blood."

We heard that point discussed the other day by a couple of men who know nothing at all about blood tests, but who have seen a good deal of life and its ways. One of them stated: "If I were to take two inches of whiskey in a glass I know well enough what would happen. My head would go around like a top and I would stagger. I know one chap who can take on an enormous load and appear just as sober as can be, and the reason may be he is accustomed to what I would regard as heavy drinking. I mean he's used to it and I am not."

Whether coroners could take this into consideration we do not know, but we believe it is true that a 1.5 alcoholic count in the blood of the man who drank very little would mean much more than a similar count in the blood of a man who had become accustomed to the consumption of whiskey in large amounts.

These People Voted

Voters in London, Hamilton, Brantford and Chatham were wasting their time. In these cities they went forth and declared they were not in favor of doing away with civic elections during the period of the war.

But Hon. Mr. Conant, in most cases a level-headed gentleman, had previously declared that it made not the slightest difference what the municipal voters might do. The Legislature was going ahead just the same with the business of putting through legislation which would forbid municipalities from having any more municipal contests until the war was concluded.

But would it not be well for Mr. Conant or any other person in a place of authority to pay heed to what the electors in these four cities decided the other day? They said they wanted to keep on having elections as usual, and we believe their opinion deserves more consideration than the stated desire of a few men in Toronto even if they are high rankers in provincial circles.

Many centuries ago there lived a Chinese philosopher who had something to say about the right way to govern a people. Just this: "It is like frying a small fish—don't overdo it."

Haggis In Scotland

We noticed several references to haggis in recent accounts of dinners given on St. Andrew's Day, and the impression was in several reports that the dish was one reserved for just such an occasion. That may be true among the Scottish folk in Canada, but haggis in other years—and even today—is an article of household diet in Scotland.

A soft-spoken Scot from Ayrshire related to the Examiner that it was one of the staple articles of food in his home, and was still being made when he last visited his folk. "As a lad I helped make it, and one of the first things was to secure a sheep's stomach. That was washed in lime to make it thoroughly clean, and then the ingredients were stuffed in and the end tied up. It was boiled and never allowed to get away from the boiling point while the cooking process was on, otherwise it would become soggy. The ingredients were finely-chopped liver, kidneys and generally some cheap cuts of beef, together with oatmeal. Seasoning was added according to the taste of the family. First day it would be served hot; next day it might come on cold, and after that it would be warmed up again," and so on until there was none left."

Haggis is associated with St. Andrew's Day in Canada and other places outside of Scotland, but in Scotland itself there is no particular association between the two.

Too Much Smoke

The City Council decided to leave a smoke nuisance bylaw alone for the present, one reason being that the civic buildings are themselves offenders. It was also contended, and with good reason, that if a bylaw were placed in operation now or in 90 days, it would be in the season when heating units would be in operation and it would be impossible to change them.

It might be possible to have some definite suggestions which would tell people what to do in order to abate the smoke nuisance. It can be done, and it should be done, but so far Peterborough has not walked far along that path. This is a smoking city when people begin to stoke.

It is possible to go to a number of sections and find some great old smoke belchers in operation. They must have been working at it for a long time because they seem to know how to do it with the maximum of disagreeable result. The law of perfect combustion is being entirely ignored, but the theory of a perfect smoke screen is being gloriously exemplified.

The matter may stand aside for the moment, but it should not be pigeonholed but placed some place within easy reach. Meantime offenders should play the part of good citizens and make an effort to cut down on their contribution to what is nothing short of a common nuisance.

NOTE AND COMMENT

On a farm near London 150 bushels of beans were stolen from the barn. What would make that theft a hard one to bear is that a few months ago beans were $1 per bushel, and today the price is about $2.

There is nothing new in women participating in war. Mrs. Minerva Greenhill died in Moose Jaw at the age of 97. She served for three years as nurse and despatch rider in the U.S. civil war of 1861-64.

On Saturday the Chatham News printed this: "If you're on the road this week-end drive carefully." Monday morning there was a heading: "Auto Crashes Take Six Lives Over Week-end."

Broker in Vancouver has been fined $5,000 and sent to jail for 18 months. We can understand a man staying in jail 18 months but paying a fine of $5,000 is something quite beyond our limited powers of understanding.

Report from Ottawa says that although four by-elections are coming on soon all seems to be quiet along the political front. There is no particular reason to become much excited, for no matter which way the elections go the present government will remain in power by a large majority.

Strange indeed has been the working out of the exposures and convictions in the Philadelphia insurance ring. There have been 14 found guilty of murdering for insurance benefits, and some of the cases date 14 years back. No doubt those old cases caused the belief that people could "get away with it," a mistaken idea too often embraced by criminals.

COUSIN EZRA

¶ My Cousin Ezra had a plan, so he can be a well-liked man, a big shot in the place; a reputation such as that, is what my cousin's shooting at, and going at quite a pace.

¶ At church he met new folk in town, and on them Ezra placed a crown, he shook them by the hand; he rubbed them on the shoulder too, and said their like was all too few, and they thought he was grand.

¶ Then Ezra jabbered on some more, before he left them at the door, a gallant jay was he; his home was open to them now, and with a smile that reached his brow, he asked them up for tea.

¶ And every place that Ezra goes, he blooms and blossoms like a rose, a high spot in this life; come up for dinner, come for tea, you are a welcome guest with me, and you must meet the wife.

¶ His wife has seldom ever heard, when Ezra spreads the welcome word, there's daggers in her eyes; for folk walk in expecting meals, she knows right well how punk it feels, when taken by surprise.

¶ But Ezra's trying to build a name, that way he gathers friends and fame, his fancy and his whim; that way he leads a care free life, for all the work comes on his wife—the credit goes to him.

No Shots Fired Across Border By Finn Troops

By H. B. ELLISTON
(Financial Editor of The Christian Science Monitor)

For the Soviet's invasion of Finland upon four fronts is seen here as nothing less than the result of Russia's intention to establish its virtual suzerainty over Finland.

The day-long bombing of Helsingfors occurred within 12 hours of my return from an inspection trip along the southern end of the Karelian Front—a squat neck of land drooping away from Eastern Finland till it is rounded off by Leningrad and the River Neva. The Finnish frontier cuts the Isthmus of Karelia in two within 20 miles of Leningrad on the water side.

Surveyed Both Positions

On the very edge of this border our party surveyed both Finnish and Russian positions. Not the slightest untowardness could be observed. But it could be seen plainly that the frontier was held like a front, and the Finns appeared alertly prepared.

The tour was planned by the Finnish Government for the purpose of investigating at first hand the Soviet allegations of Finnish shooting on Nov. 25. We took affidavits from the front line guards. Both officials and men talked freely and showed us the entire "log" of the week's events.

Their account revealed that all that had happened was some cross shooting within the Russian lines with a view, the Finns thought, to giving color to the allegation of Finnish firing. Today's events seem to confirm their further statement that the Russians had been putting up smoke screens as if to disguise the movements of artillery.

It is the oddest sensation to go to a front lines and peer at the "enemy" after leaving a train which was going straight through to Leningrad. An overnight run from Helsingfors took us 300 miles to Viipuri (Viborg). I looked out of the window at a landscape little different from Canada and parts of rural New England in winter.

Finland is 75 per cent forest and water, and we were passing through forests of pine, spruce, and birch.

This is the source of Finland's wealth. And well it takes care of it. New saplings in the marshy clearings testify to the manner in which the prudent Finns have kept their land reforested since the day of their national birth.

A gentle but heavy snow had fallen in the night and the entire scene had a Christmas card look.

Such weather conditions are important in observations in this situation. Military movements are facilitated in winter by ice-covered lakes and packed down snow. But this was not military weather. It was not even freezing.

Our Finnish hosts rubbed their hands with perhaps premature satisfaction when they saw the flaky snow. The Finns, unlike the Russians, are an Army on skis. I subsequently saw skis coming up to the front line in sleighsful. The men likewise were being equipped with snow-white overalls to become an invisible army.

THE INSPECTION party detrained and military cars then took us to the front along roads cut through deep snow-covered forests. The Army was said to be quartered in those vast woods.

Every open space seemed to be protected against hostile tanks with granite blocks standing up like miniature monoliths. Even the road along which we passed was flanked by similar obstructions ready to be moved across this single line of communication.

No troops were observable on the actual frontier. The Finns keep frontier guards here of men who are detached from their regiments for this special duty. Still it was unmistakably a front. There was no intercommunication of any sort, and on both sides I saw observation nests and observation turrets erected on huge stilts. And the guards kept reminding us to keep under cover while we freely surveyed the "no man's land" and the few Russian guards beyond it.

On the Finnish side I saw not the slightest preparation, for attack in either gun emplacements or trenches or infantry details. For lunch we were taken to a barn.

We passed a memorial in the form of a stone pyramid to 200 Finnish peasants who had repulsed as many as a thousand Russian troops back in 1555. It is a shrine for today's defenders of the frontier.

Our group had the weird experience again of joining the train from Leningrad back to Helsingfors.

But the line is bound to be closed with today's events. For I was wakened this morning by Russian bombing which turned out to be the first of a group of major air raids on a capital where a renascent Finland had centered its new independence in public buildings of surpassing beauty and design. Apparently the Russians were aiming at Saarinen's famous railroad station. They missed their mark but hit houses and schools. The all clear signal was sounded as I finished this message at what would be 9 o'clock in America.

• Speculating On Night Bombing

IN THE MAIN it is probable that bombers will work singly at night, the machines of a squadron starting off with a few minutes' interval between each. The only protection on which the raiders can rely is evasion in the darkness. Their machine-guns are all but useless. For this reason they are likely to avoid clear nights. They want clouds to hide them with plenty of breaks through which they can look. When a balloon barrage is guarding the target there will be no inclination for the bombers to come down low.

By night the defence relies on the searchlights, and the searchlights rely on the sound-locators. If the bomber is caught in the beams it should invariably fall an easy prey to the fighter patrols, which would attack out of the darkness. The crew in the bomber will certainly keep their parachutes handy. Clouds, however, are not a complete protection to the night bomber. The sound-locators can still help the personnel in the training of the searchlights and they can point out the spot above which the unseen raider is moving.

Years before the war a bomber pilot told me how he had flown on top of a thin layer of clouds which concealed his machine from the view of people on the ground. Yet he could see the light of searchlight beams filtering through the clouds below his machine and they followed him all the way. The fighter pilots will certainly climb up through the clouds and look for the glare from the bomber's exhausts. In fact, night bombing should be a rather desperate business.

When raiding by daylight formation flying is both possible and desirable. Probably the same sort of weather conditions will be sought. Theoretically a bomber formation ought to be able to beat off fighter attacks by the cross-fire of its rear gunners. That, at least, is the contention of the bombers. The fighters' case is that, with superiority of speed, manuvrability, and fire power on their side, they will still be able to get the mastery. So far in this war the case has not been put to the test.—Manchester Guardian.

• Good Story . . . But Not True

DENIES information in wartime, how silly may be our misgivings, how harmful our mischief. Take the rumor about the clock told about in the London Times.

An ancient clock in an old town in the west of England stopped at 3 o'clock one afternoon, says the Winnipeg Free Press. Not in the living memory of man had that clock stopped before, or had such an augury for good or ill ever been recorded in the annals of the old place, but the stoppage of that clock in that west of England town was announced on the English broadcast from Berlin at 6 o'clock that same evening.

England was deeply stirred at this evidence of the intimacy with which the Higher Command was informed to every little detail, of high or low import, of every happening in Great Britain. This was disturbing, even frightening, as it was whispered from friend to friend, from neighbor to neighbor, from barb to customer.

Only a few details did not click. No German broadcast mentioned the stoppage of any clock in England. The clock mentioned in the West of England town had not stopped all the month. And the town in the West of England in which the clock was said to have stopped hasn't got a clock.

Give a reasonable amount of authoritative information and the readers of the newspapers won't give a hoot about the Germans knowing anything that can scare folk waiting for clocks to strike or not to strike.

To The Editor

NATURAL LAWS IMPERATIVE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Armed aggression results from a primary defect inherent in all forms of government, but its existence and significance are not generally recognized. Lasting peace is impossible, when by superior forces, aggressor nations are compelled to cause hostilities, leaving this defect unremedied. At best but a temporary truce results, followed by a mere devastating conflict. This is the verdict of history.

This inherent primary defect is in enacting legislation that ignores and violates the natural laws relative to the natural rights of human beings, as if natural laws had nothing to do with the business of government. The universe is subject to natural laws, and until it is proven that human governments are something outside of and beyond the universe, which is impossible, it follows that human affairs are also subject to these laws.

It cannot be too often re-iterated or strongly insisted upon that the most heinous crime possible for men to commit against humanity is to enact legislation violating the natural rights of human beings. Such laws are the primary source of all social problems. For these problems there is no solution short of removing their cause.

During the past thirty years the great increase in our knowledge of constructive chemistry, metallurgy and electrical appliances were achieved by meticulous observance of the natural laws relative to these subjects. The same progress in the solution of social problems will result when our legislation is made conformable to the natural laws relative to human affairs. To continue as we are means a succession of bloody wars and the final destruction of a civilization that failed to establish governments based upon moral principles; or the natural laws of the universe.

THE KING'S DEMOCRAT

The famous democrat in which King George VI and Queen Elizabeth made their tour of Banff this Summer may be bearing another couple into Calgary any day now, I am told.

It seems that the democrat, following its use in the mountain resort, found its way down to the Sarcee Indian Reserve, just south of the city, later in the Summer. In the meantime it has been brilliantly painted in royal purple and gold.

Now it is the proud possession of an Indian brave on the reserve, and is parked outside his cabin.

So any day now the "Royal Carriage" may be rolling into Calgary, bearing a stoical Sarcee brave and his squaw through city streets on their way to market.—Calgary Albertan.

"TURKEY DAY"

Another step on the road to progress has been taken by the Lindsay Town Council in deciding to make arrangement for a Turkey Day to be held for the farmers of the district during December. Every farmer is invited to attend, and bring along a number of his turkeys. — Lindsay Post.

DANGER HIGHER UP

In some quarters there is a demand that Tim Buck be interned, but everyone knows who he is, what he stands for and where he gets his orders. More dangerous by far are the intellectuals wearing university gowns who condemn Mr. Chamberlain, denounce Canada's part in the war, blame capitalism for all the trouble and talk learnedly about true democracy, Munich and that sort of thing.—Farmer's Advocate.

MORE FARM HORSES

There has been small comfort in recent years for those who sigh for the good old horse and buggy days, but at long last here's a crumb. It is officially reported that there are more horses on Canadian farms this year than last. The 1939 total is 2,824,340, as compared with 2,820,700 in 1938, an increase of 3,640.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

STARCHED SHIRT IN PERIL

Because the war is causing a shortage of starch, the British Launderers Research Association are trying to find a substitute. Unless it is found there will soon be a run on soft-fronted dress shirts. A member of a men's clothing firm says: "Soft shirts have been competing with the stiff variety for some time. It would not be surprising if, before the Winter is over, soft shirts have won."—London Evening Standard.

Jewish Service Organization Launched In City

Peterborough's Jewish citizens launched the Peterborough Lodge of the Order of B'nai B'rith under most favorable auspices on Tuesday night when the initiation of members, the institution of the new lodge and the installation of officers were impressively carried out in the Paragon Hall in the presence of a very large gathering that included many prominent non-Jewish citizens.

Peterborough Lodge will be No. 1392 of the Order of B'nai B'rith, which is a Jewish service organization first formed ninety-six years ago. Its objects are best explained by the preamble to the constitution which reads as follows:

"B'nai B'rith has taken upon itself the mission of uniting Israelites in the work of promoting their highest interests and those of humanity; of developing and elevating the mental and moral character of the people of our faith; of inculcating the purest principles of philanthropy, honor and patriotism; of supporting science and art; alleviating the wants of the poor and needy; visiting and attending the sick; coming to the rescue of victims of persecution; providing for, protecting and assisting the widow and orphan on the broadest principles of humanity."

The First Officers.

The officers of the local Lodge who were installed on Tuesday night are as follows:

President—Maurice Cowan.
Vice-president—Sidney Goldstone
Recording secretary—Jacob Low.
Financial secretary—Zimel Levine.
Treasurer—Ben. Swartz.
Monitor—Isadore Black.
Assistant monitor—M. Levine.
Guardian—Hymie Smith.
Warden—M. Black.
Trustees: Ben. Rogow, Martin Hollend, Lakefield, S. Moldaver.

The occasion was featured by the presence of a large delegation of Toronto members of the organization, including Grand Lodge officials and the degree team of the Toronto Lodge and Rabbi Reuben Slonin, the eloquent young Rabbi of the McCaul Street Synagogue, who was the guest speaker, and whose address was one of the highlights of a memorable evening. Greetings were brought by His Worship Mayor Hamilton, J. J. Duffus, M.P., Rev. F. W. Craik, president of the Ministerial Association, Ross L. Dobbin of the Rotary Club, president of the Peterborough Service Club Council, and A. R. Kennedy, editor of The Examintr, while other service clubs and organizations were well represented in the gathering.

A Symbolic Pilgrimage.

The impressive ritual associated with the initiation of members as smartl ycarried out by the Toronto degree team was rightly termed a symbolic pilgrimage that travelled back far into the history and traditions of the Jewish people. It was performed with dignity and striking effect by the visiting degree team, which was in charge of Jack Gringorten as chairman, and included Dr. A. Lipson, Rabbi R. Slonin, Elliott Marrus, Hart Wintrop, and Jack Kaplan. The pianist for the occasion was Miss Adeline Nathanson of Toronto, who performed efficiently at the piano, while the vocal music incidental to the ritual was supplied by Cantor Bernstein of the University Avenue Synagogue, whose fine rich tenor voice was admirably displayed.

Isadore Marcus of Toronto, past president of the District Grand Lodge, was chairman during the ceremonial portion of the program and after the initiation and its interpretation to the candidates installed, the officers of Peterborough Lodge, with the assistance of Irvine Oldbaum, chairman of the Canadian Conference of B'nai B'rith.

Mr. Marcus emphasized the duty of Jewish people who were citizens and residents of Canada to be loyal to the country that had given them freedom and the right to live their own lives.

Following the installation the Grand Lodge officer presented the charter of the Lodge to the president, Maurice Cowan, who took charge of the meeting.

His first official act was to express thanks to the visiting degree team and to the Grand Lodge officials for their assistance and to voice appreciation of the singing of Cantor Bernstein and the accompaninent of Miss Nathanson, as well as to the work done by Jacob Low in the organization of the local Lodge.

The Guest Speaker.

The guest speaker, Rabbi Slonin, who was introduced by Dr. A. Lipson, delivered a challenging address in which he emphasized the importance of individuals. One of the most serious mistakes possible, he said, was for people to think that there was no contribution they could make to the welfare of the world or the observation of peace and the overthrow of tyranny.

"The individual does count; he is important," declared Rabbi Slonin. "No matter how small we are we can bring out the best in the other man. It takes hundreds of thousands of ordinary beings to see that the heritage of the past is not lost.

"We all have something to give the world and those around us."

Especially, he reminded his audience, the Jewish people had something to give at this time. They were, he said, known as stiff-necked people, and the spiritual obstinacy that had stood them in such stead down through the ages was particularly valuable in this time of crisis and would prevent them from becoming museum pieces.

Rabbi Slonin said that he could wish to be a recruiting officer to urge men to go out and fight against the enemies that would destroy freedom. It was their duty to see that for every Jew left homeless, homes would be provided for ten Jews, and for every human being destroyed ten human beings would be saved.

Irvine Oldbaum of Toronto, president of the Canadian Conference of B'nai B'rith, congratulated the members of Peterborough Lodge in adding another link to the organization ,and reminded them of their obligations as members of the organization.

Mayor Brings Greetings.

Introduced by H. Abramson, Mayor James Hamilton brought greetings and good wishes from the citizens of Peterborough to the new organization. "I know you are going to be a success," he said, "and prove a decided acquisition to this community."

Speaking on behalf of the Ministerial Association, as its president, Rev. F. W. Craik said that he had been thrilled by the impressiveness of the ceremony he had been privileged to hear, and with the message of Rabbi Slonin, who was, he said, representing the Jewish people in a very fine way. Mr. Craik said that he would like to have Rabbi Slonin deliver that address in his church.

J. J. Duffus, M.P., introduced by Jacob Low, paid a tribute to the Jewish people of Peterborough, and congratulated the new organization. Referring to the ritual that had been featured in the ceremony, he said that it went back deep into Jewish tradition. In that connection Mr. Duffus pointed out the debt that was owed the pioneers who had made Canada what it was to-day, and said that there was a challenge to present day Canadians to measure up to those who had gone before, and to those who 25 years ago had gone across the seas to battle for their country.

Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin, president of the Service Club Council, brought felicitations from the service clubs of the city to Peterborough Lodge B'nai B'rith, and promised them every assistance in their work. "I have often gone to some of your members for aid and always obtained it," he said.

A. R. Kennedy, editor of The Examiner, humorously said that the ceremony and message had been worth "sitting three hours on a hard and far-from-comfortable seat." He added congratulations to Cantor Bernstein for the splendid tenor voice he had displayed in the musical portion of the ceremony.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program, and a very enjoyable social hour spent before the gathering dispersed.

Japs Court United States By Paying Claims In China

TOKYO, Dec. 6—(AP).—Looking toward better relations with the United States, Japan is paying off numerous claims for damages to American property in China, authoritative sources disclosed today.

They said Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura informed the United States Ambassador, Joseph Grew, yesterday that Japan was prepared to settle such claims.

These sources declared, however, the Japanese disliked use of the United States-Japanese trade treaty as a "club' for influencing policies in China. The treaty, denounced by the United States in July, is due to expire January 26.

It was said Mr. Grew and Admiral Nomura temporarily shelved discussion of such problems as the open door in the Orient and the nine-power treaty, Japan being primarily interested in bridging the period immediately following the treaty's expiration.

For this reason, many long-standing United States damage claims for bombings in China are being compensated. It was understood reliably the government soon would release a compilation of evidences of Japan's good intentions, enumerating the cases and amounts paid. This list also probably would include instances of soldiers being disciplined for face-slapping incidents in Tientsin and Hankow.

Two 1939 Reeves Are Returned

LINDSAY, Dec. 6.—(ENS).—Elections were held in two municipalities in Victoria county on Monday. In Sommerville township a red hot fight was waged for the Reeveship by Joseph Handley, a former reeve, and Neil Wilson, of Kinmount, who held that office during 1939. Mr. Wilson was elected by a majority of seventy over his opponent. There was also a contest for the council, the following being elected: J. Byrne, C. Hodgson, W. Quinn, W. Watson. In Dalton township, Reeve Andrew McGaughey was returned for another term, defeating his opponent, Herbert McGaughey, by 46 votes.

Orange Hall Burned.

Lindsay was threatened with a serious fire Monday night about 9.30 o'clock when the Orange hall, a large frame structure on Peel street, containing lodge and living apartments, was partially destroyed. The firemen fought the flames for over two hours. Families living in the apartments quickly removed their furniture. The fire started in the western section of the building and close to the large frame curling rink, which fortunately escaped the flames. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The building was covered by insurance.

Services Retained.

Lindsay council has decided to retain the services of Industrial Commissioner B. L. McLean during the month of December. The commissioner, it was pointed out, was busy on some industrial prospects.

Present Play.

A group of young people from Sacred Heart church, Peterboro, scored a splendid success in the presentation in the local town hall of the comedy, "Ace High." It was presented under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, and a large audience witnessed a presentation replete with laughable situations and very clever acting on the part of every member of the cast. The play was under the direction of Rev. Father Grant.

Dr. Crippen was convicted of murder and hanged in the most sensational murder case of the Edwardian era. He was caught in a liner en route to Canada together with a woman disguised as a boy. He was convicted of slaying his wife, whose body he stuffed in a trunk.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 — (CP). — Organizing and equipping a division for war is a gigantic task, a spokesman for the Department of National Defence said last night in the sixth of a series of broadcasts on the war effort, carried over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The task involves recruiting, training, clothing, feeding, and outfitting with thousands of different articles.

"So long as the units of a division are dispersed about the country the business of rationing the troops is a simple matter and attracts little or no attention," he said. "But when a division is concentrated, as our divisions will be in due course, the quantities assume rather gigantic proportions.

"If, for instance, a division numbered some 16,000 men, the daily issue would amount to eight tons each of beef, bread, potatoes, to say nothing of some twenty-eight pounds of pepper. Most of you will agree that the breaking down of these quantities and their prompt delivery, which devolves upon the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, represents quite a fair-sized housekeeping chose."

Stress Medical Fitness.

No military unit in Canada is maintained at war strength in peacetime. When the outbreak of war brought a decision to mobilize two divisions at war strength new men had to be enlisted, and to emphasize the voluntary nature of Canada's war effort every man in the Militia was re-attested, given the option of volunteering again before being taken on the Active Service Force.

The medical examination of volunteers was important. The State wanted only fit men, and every man had to pass a board of medical officers before being accepted.

Each recruit's attestation paper contained a full record of his physical condition, his education, and experience. It was also his contract with the State. The paper is made out in triplicate; two copies being retained with the unit, and the third being sent to the record office at Ottawa.

Convert Fair Buildings.

Due to the rigors of the Canadian winter, the housing of troops is not a simple matter, the spokesman said. Military stations and barracks are few, and district armories consist only of drill halls, store and recreation rooms.

So all across Canada wherever units were mobilized large buildings were in demand. In many cases fair and exhibition buildings were turned into barracks. In some hutted camps were quickly constructed.

Due to recent changes and increased specialization in the army the problem of clothing and equipment presented difficulties. In peacetime funds available were rarely sufficent for more than the maintenance of old equipment and the purchase of small amounts of new. It was now estimated that upward of 30,000 different items had to be provided to mobilize a division.

Canadian requirements of armament were too small to permit economic manufacture here. For this reason some mobilization requirements would have to be obtained elsewhere.

Transport was different. Canadian industry was able to supply the lorries, trucks and tractors used by a modern mechanized division in place of horses.

Cloth Situation Better.

The clothing situation was rapidly becoming more satisfactory, the spokesman continued. At the start the demand for wool for the manufacture of uniform serge, underwear, socks, sweaters and blankets, placed an abnormal tax on the country's wool supplies. Canadian industry had responded to the sudden demand and issues of clothing were now being made steadily according to priority of need.

"The amount of clerical work involved in the ordering of clothing and equipment for a division is really astonishing," he said. "In view of the quantities involved and also for accounting purposes separate orders are required for each item."

"Specifications and samples must be provided and the finished article subjected to expert inspection and testing before it can be accepted In the case of uniform clothing orders have first to be placed for the manufacture of the necessary cloth which must comply with the specifications as to strength moisture content, color and so forth, and then further orders placed for its manufacture into the garments required.

"The next step is to get the clothing into the hands of the troops and with units spread over half a continent it will be realized that this is no little task in itself."

All Tired Out Before Day Half Over

Women who should be strong and healthy become weak, run down and worn out, and are unable to attend to their household duties. They get up in the morning dreading the day's work ahead of them.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of shattered nerves, impoverished blood, and an exhausted condition of the entire system.

Women will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills the remedy they need to supply food for the exhausted nerve force, and one that will help them back to sound, perfect health again.

R. A. F. Raid Heligoland

One German cruiser was reported directly hit and other warships, including a second cruiser and several destroyers, were said to have been damaged by R.A.F. planes, who staged a daring raid on the strongly fortified German naval base at Heligoland. One German pursuit plane was shot down by the raiders, all of whom were reported to have reached their home base safely.

R.A.F. Lists Are Open To Outsiders

OTTAWA, Dec. 6—(CP)—Enlistment for the Royal Canadian Air Force has been opened for United States citizens and non-Canadian citizens of European descent living in Canada, it was reliably understood here today.

These recruits must make application in Canada personally and must take an oath of allegiance before they are accepted.

Many American fliers have been trying to enlist and have filed applications, it was learned. However, with R.C.A.F. enlistment practically at a standstill at present in Canada because of the huge numbers of Canadians who recruited in the first month of the war, it was not considered likely many American or foreign applicants would be accepted for some time.

Just how many Americans came to Canada and enlisted in the air services during the first Great War could not be learned here because at that time enlistment in the air force came under the direction of the imperial command.

However, some 18,000 men who identified themselves as Canadians, served in the Royal Air Force during the Great War and many of these were undoubtedly United States citizens.

Under an agreement in force for some years between the United States and Canada, American citizenship is no bar to a pilot from the United States taking out a commercial pilot's licence in Canada. The number of such licences held by American pilots runs into the hundreds.

Thus, it was pointed out, an American holding a Canadian commercial pilot's licence, could qualify as an instructor in civilian aviation and could be used in that capacity in the flying clubs giving preliminary training to R.C.A.F. recruits.

Among United States applicants wanting to join the R.C.A.F., are a number of experienced pilots, offering themselves as instructors.

Indian Potlach To Be Probed

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6—(CP).—Indian Department officials yesterday said Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating reports an illegal Indian potlach was held in Central British Columbia early in November.

Potlaches, traditional Indian feasts, in which chiefs receive gifts, are banned under the Indian Act. However, Indians have been allowed to hold them if exchange of gifts is small and if they do not become orgies like potlaches of past years.

Reports from Smithers, B.C., near Hazelton, said chiefs of several tribes participated in the recent potlach at Kitsequekla, Indian village, after the death of Chief Dan Cookson, buried at Kitsequekla November 7.

The reports said the potlach was the "largest for many years" and that gifts to the chiefs included an expensive radio and nearly $500 in cash.

All-Time Scoring Champ Returns

Bicker Over Money In Jr. Playoff

OTTAWA, Dec. 6—(CP)—Manager Ernie Stanyar of Ottawa Gladstones last night expressed surprise at the Sarnia report claiming officials of Sarnia Juniors had received no word from Ottawa regarding the proposed game between the two teams for the Eastern Junior football title. Gladstones are Interprovincial Rugby Union Junior champions, and Sarnia the Ontario Rugby Union Junior titlists.

Stanyar said that Coach Claude Harris had received a telegram from him stating that Gladstones would go to Sarnia if all expenses were paid. A return wire offering $500 was refused because it was thought the sum was insufficient.

Another offer guaranteeing all gate proceeds and payment of officials also was refused. Ottawa asks that $600 be posted to cover transportation and hotel expenses, and that their request be replied to not later than Wednesday. Stanyar feels that the Gladstones have made their position clear ,and it is up to Sarnia whether the game is played or not.

Speaking at the Press Club, he said boxing as a whole "appeared to have fallen to such a low state that Federal supervision of it might be its salvation.

Dempsey took the occasion to salute Gene Tunney, to whom he lost the heavyweight title, as an "outstanding fighter of his time." He predicted Joe Louis would hold the championship until he retired.

Dempsey's departure by plane for Manila, where he is slated to referee the middleweight title fight between Ceferino Garcia, champion, and Glenn Lee of Nebraska, was delayed 24 hours.

Birch Brings Back Three New Titles

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—(CP)—Dick Birch, tall Vancouver badminton ace who now lives in Montreal, returned here yesterday with three titles to add to the Dominion crown he hopes to defend this winter.

Birch, Canadian singles champion in 1937 and 1938, gained his new laurels at Baltimore during the week-end, winning the singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles titles in the first Mason-Dixon invitation tournament.

The 25-year-old champion said he would be on deck this winter to defend his Canadian crown, "but first I must get one of those warm coats."

Royal Canadians Ousted In Tankard Play

HAMILTON, Dec. 6.—Two rinks from Hamilton, and one each from Toronto, Sarnia, Kitchener, Grand Valley, Galt and Detroit will battle it out on Thistle and Victoria ice today for the seniors' Tankard. The eight rinks each won two games in what was considered by close followers of the ice classic as a day of upsets.

Dr. J. A. Wright, London, provided the first upset in early morning play when he defeated Rev. Dr. J. A. Cranston, Royal Canadians, Toronto, last year's winners of the premier award, but in his second start of the day he bowed to A. Menary of Grand Valley to suffer elimination.

The Hamilton rinks are both from the Victoria Club, P. F. Towner and J. W. Rickaby. The Towner rink, after having a close call with A. D. Somerville of Hamilton Thistles in a first round match, easily disposed of an out-of-town rink in their second test by a score of 13-1. The Rickaby four also disposed of two hard opponents, their last victims being the classy G. B. Lepan rink of the Thistle Club.

The surprise package of the day proved to be the Detroit Rink skipped by A. H. Greene. They won both starts in rather handy style, disposing of M. W. Binkley's strong Stratford four in the afternoon by 9-4.

In the Hudson Ross Trophy event there are also eight teams left and they will also battle it out today. All semi-finals and finals will be played on Thistle ice.

Nearly 150 devotees of curling were guests at a dinner in the Thistle Club last night following the first day of the two-day 'spiel. Walter Reesor, past president of the Ontario Curling Association, who said that curling was not only a game but an activity and that it was sent from Heaven to Scotland and from the land of heather here, was the chief speaker. R. G. L. Hartstone, president of the Dominion Curling Association, presided in the absence of R. R. Tony Evans and other speakers included Mayor William Morrison, K.C.; W. H. McPhie, R. A. Gillies, A. E. Dyment, T. C. Hudson, A. P. Ross, Ernie McMurty, Dr. J. A. Wright and E. T. Lihtburn.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

There'll be a few die-hard grid folk journey from here down Ottawa way this week-end to see the Winnipeg Bombers and the Rough Riders in the Dominion senior final. Coach H. L. Bamforth of the Orfuns and senior P.C.I.-ers is one of those football enthusiasts willing to take a chance on a sellout in the cramped quarters at Lansdowne Park. Should be an even-money bet on the tilt, two powerful clubs fighting it out for dcah old alma money, plus the pennant. Just possibly that "everlastin' fumble" will undope this football game. Incidentally, all those fumbles ye see players commit in a melee aren't the result of butter-fingers, either. Quite often they're caused by rival players giving a yank on the arm of the ball carrier or pushing a fist against the pigskin where it rests in the crook of an arm. But players and coaches realise that all's fair in love and football—and they don't go panty-waist and wail about such actions.

* * * * * *

F'instance, Gus Dorais—coach of University of Detroit—said not so long ago: "Chief among football breaks are fumbles and this year we have had a rush of fumblitis all over the land. Coaches have been asking why, but general opinion seems to be that there has been a decidedly increasing effort on the part of defence to cause fumbles by pulling the arm or ball way from the carrier. This is good football and the second man in on a tackle grabs for the arm or ball instead of tackling. I saw more of this practice this year than in any previous three years combined." It's the same way in baseball when a guy sliding into a base on a close play sometimes kicks the ball out of the fielder's hand, as he is about to be tagged. It is scored as an error by the fielder, who looks and feels like a two-bit piece at a swank poker game! Tricks and tricks.

Southend Loop Starts

Annual re-organization meeting of the Southend Hockey League is set for next Wednesday, Dec. 13th, at eight p.m. in the Sacred Heart Church clubhouse. Those interested should attend for the election of officers, team entries and general plans for the coming season. Three sections in the loop this winter, bantams—under 14 by Jan. 1st—midgets, under 16, and juveniles, under 18 years of age. At least a dozen teams operated in this important minor league last year and as many are expected this season.

Industrial Puck Loop has a meeting tonight at eight in Duffus' to pass on the schedule and clean up on all details before this fine first-year league swings into action—not, of course, until there's ice. Eight teams in at present, not counting possible entries from C.G.E. and Ventilating Shade Co. Squads in are: Canada Packers, Outboard Marines, Canoe Co., Westclox, Quakers, Raybestos, Lock Co. and Brintons. With no O.H.A. puckists allowed—and only 100 p.c. employees playing—a raft of chaps, cheated out of the ice sport ordinarily, will get into action here this cold spell.

Petes Have A Game

Probably a fair number of hockey fans will trek to Oshawa on Friday eve to see the 1939-40 squad of Petes in action against the junior "A" Generals of the Motor City. The Petes are shaping up okay, whilst the Memorial Cup champs are big, young and flashy players picked up from all over Eastern Canada. Incidentally, Hockey Club draw ducats are on sale till the first home Petes' tilt, tickets being 15c or two for a quarter—dough defraying costs of preseason practices and equipment. Prizes are $50, $15 and $10, with additional bonuses if enough do-re-mi is raised. Players and officials have tickets, besides a number of special club representatives.

* * * * * *

Not so many players turned out to the Lacrosse Club meeting last night, possibly—in fact probably—the players having a suspicion that the cash register registered a vacuum on the season's play. But it's most amazing how they'll turn out, whether it be hockey, ball or lacrosse, to a financial meeting when a grapevine message gets around that there's a few bucks to the good. With possibly a windbreaker or similar gift per player in the offing. Yep, the lacrossers dropped a little oughday this season but will take steps to clear up the deficit ere next campaign rolls around.

Spreading Ski Gospel

Jerry Duffus, as vice-chairman of the Eastern District of the Ontario Ski Zone committee, is busy checking over district prospects for the popular winter sport of slithering downhill on the long bent boards. He has contacted Lindsay and asked ski enthusiasts there to form a club, and some action may follow. Scugog scribe observes: "Our own opinion is that there are plenty of guys and girls in this town who are interested in skiing and would be tickled to death to join an organized club. Should enough people show interest, a meeting will likely be called shortly and an invitation issued to Jerry Duffus to come over and meet the local enthusiasts."

Three Girls' Cage Loop contests on tap at the Y.W.C.A. this week, two of 'em Friday. The tilt Thursday after twilight is at seven bells betwixt Quaker Aces and the Quaker Debs — and should be filled with thrills, spills and frills. At 7.45 Friday e'en, Orfuns tangle with "Y" Gym, with St. John's jousting at 8.45 with Westclox. Orfuns pack a lot of basketball power in this circuit, but may be overhauled yet by their up-and-coming opponents, whilst the other squads appear well-matched in a fine cage setup for the fair ones. Nor do the mademoiselles sacrifice pulchritude for muscle—oh, gosh, no!

Ottawa Moguls Unworried Over Bombers

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP)—Quiet confidence marked the Ottawa Roughrider camp last night as Coach Ross Trimble called his warriors to a football workout in preparation for Saturday's Dominion final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Trimble scheduled only a light workout under the lights of Lansdowne Park but said he planned a real scrimmage later in the week.

The Rider coach was none too talkative, but his players expressed the opinion the Grey Cup, emblematic of Dominion supremacy, will belong to Ottawa by sunset Saturday, though admitting the Bombers would be "tough nuts to crack."

"I'll tell you later in the week," said Trimble when asked about the game, but he admitted he felt no great concern. Nevertheless, he was not taking the Bombers lightly.

"The Bombers are 40 per cent stronger than last year, particularly in reserve strength," Trimble said. "They have a triple threat in Wayne Sheley, their fine halfback who passes, runs and kicks equally well. We shall have to watch him."

Unless something unforseen develops, Trimple said he couldn't see how any injuries suffered in last Saturday's game with Sarnia would keep any Riders out of the final.

He came home yesterday from Toronto after watching his crimson-clad men trampled Sarnia Imperials 23-1 in the Eastern final Saturday. Accompanying him were Sammy Sward, Riders' star kicking half, and Jack Taylor, powerful snapback.

Both players nursed minor bumps and bruises, but sai dthey expected to be in A-1 shape in a day or so. Tony Golab, who since last week has been resting a sore ankle and fighting a cold in hospital here, was reported responding to treatment and about ready to resume his plunging duties.

Texas Footballers In Sugar Bowl Tilt

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6 (AP)—The New Orleans Midwinter Sports Association announced yesterday that Tulane University and Texas A. and M. College had accepted invitations for their football teams to play in the sugar bowl here on New Year's day.

Texas A. an d M. undefeated and untied in ten games, is currently ranked as the United States' No. 1 team in the Associated Press roll of sports editors. Tulane, which has been tied by North Carolina and won all the rest of its nine-game schedule, is No. 5.

The Sugar Bowl announcement climaxed a day in which an offer of $85,000 each to Texas A. and M. and Tennessee to play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas failed to bring results.

Tiff Soft-Pedalled

TORONTO, Dec. 6— After returning to Toronto yesterday, Conny Smythe, Maple Leafs' manager and N. H. L. governor, expressed an opinion that Sunday's argument during the Leafs' game in Chicago, between James Norris Sr., Detroit club owner, and Referee Bill Stewart will not amount to anything much. In some quarters it had been expected Norris' criticism of Stewart's refereeing would be aired during the N. H. L. meeting which had been slated for today at New York. The Leafs' boss said this meeting has been postponed for a week. Maybe evrybody will have cooled out by that time.

Yoga Man In Cactus Land

Away where a man can forget such things as the flailing fists of Tony Galento, Lou Nova, not so very long ago the "logical opponent" for a world's heavyweight championship bout with Joe Louis, rides over the arid, cactus-bearing plains of Arizona, where this picture of him and his steed was taken. The Yoga man and Mrs. Nova are holidaying, with no pugilistic plans for the immediate future. Nova was a technical knockout victim of Tony Galento in one of last September's big bouts.

BRUINS SHADE AMERKS AND SHARE SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

Conacher's Tally Beats Amerks 2-1 In The 3rd

BOSTON, Dec. 6—(CP). — Roy Conacher's third-period goal gave Boston Bruins a 2-1 victory over New York Americans last night and moved the world champions into a second-place tie with Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League standing.

Murray Armstrong, Amerks' good rookie forward, gave his team the lead late in the first period. He picked up a poorly cleared puck at the Bruins' blue line, pushed it between Shore and Portland, and coasted in to beat Brimsek.

Roy Conacher broke the deadlock early in the final period with a short shot after Cowley had provided an assist.

Late in the game, Bruins had another chance when young Roy Conacher was awarded a penalty shot after brother Charlie had tripped him. This time the youngster failed to score.

Ice Experiment Proves A Flop

YORKTON, Sask., Dec. 6—(CP)—Yornton's experiment in transferring ice from Hopkins Lake to the rink didn't work and opening of the Saskatchewan senior hockey league season here is set over until the weather turns colder.

H. J. Gordon, who contracted to move the ice from the lake a mile distant, cut the frozen surface into squares, hauled them by truck to the rink and attempted to fit them there like a jig-saw puzzle. Thickness of the various pieces was too uneven. Gordon tried crushing the ice blocks into small bits to provide a cold foundation for flooding. He was foiled by week-end temperatures well above freezing.

Monday's scheduled Yorkton-Saskatoon game was postponed for lack of ice and it was feared Friday's game against Regina also would have to be postponed.

Firm Links In Winnipeg Front Line

When Winnipeg Blue Bombers take on Ottawa Rough Riders for the Dominion championship, these four players will bear considerable responsibility to make holes in the opposing line on attack and reverse the procedure on defence. Westerners think they can do it, easterners argue the point. Saturday, December 9, will settle it. The players are Herb Peschel, LEFT; Lou Mogul, TOP CENTRE; Martin Gainor, LOWER CENTRE, and Mel Wilson, RIGHT. The first three are middle wings (tackles, as they are sometimes listed on the prairies), Wilson the snap. Mogul has been with the Bombers longer than any other player, this being his eighth season, while Peschel is in his fifth, Wilson his third, and Gainor, about whom there was considerable controversy before last year's final, also his third. All four register 190 pounds or better when they step on a set of scales.

Minor's Claims Laid Boldly Before Judge Landis

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6 — (AP).—In one swift swoop yesterday, the minor leagues told baseball's Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis they wanted restrictions on the big farm systems relaxed and also disposed of an impressive agenda of fifty proposed code changes.

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues passed not one but several amendments upholding the rights of major league clubs to maintain and increase their relations with clubs of lesser classification.

The problem still has to come before the major leagues in their meetings beginning Thursday, when Commissioner Landis himself will be on hand. But most clubs in the majors were expected to be guided by the sentiment of the minors and there seemed no doubt that all of yesterday's amendments would be incorporated promptly into the major-minor agreements.

Each Club Separate Unit.

Roughly, the rules passed yesterday affecting Landis fell into three classifications:

1. Restrictions on an entire farm system in player transfers where the rules restrict only one club were removed.

2. Rules regarding player transfers cannot be interpreted to mean anything more than is stated.

3. Representatives of one club can be empowered to sign players to contracts for affiliated clubs.

One of the most sweeping moves of the meeting brought a unanimous vote in favor of an amendment, which reads:

"Working agreements shall be permitted and the words 'club and/or clubs' as used in this section or elsewhere in the National Association agreement shall be interpreted in strict accordance with Section 4 or Article 20."

Landis announced last September that he would consider this rule had been superseded by a clause in the major-minor agreement (Section 11-I). Both rules concern transfer of players.

The first says that every club shall be considered a separate unit irrespective of its stock ownership or affiliations, and the second that a club making an outright assignment of a player to a club of lower classification could not reacquire him until he had been subject to draft.

Extend Authority of Scouts.

Landis' interpretation was that the player not only could not be regained by the same club, but also that he couldn't be taken by any other affiliated club.

The amendment passed yesterday concerning interpretations stated: "All rules and regulations passed or adopted by the minor leagues are to be construed and interpreted in strict accordance with the provisions of this section (Rule 20, Article IV) unless specifically exempted therefrom."

Executives of several major league clubs operating extensive farm systems said it assuredly meant the baseball owners wanted Commissioner Landis to liberalize his views toward working agreements.

The minors also voted to allow scouts of the big league clubs to sign players for the farm teams. The rule amended had stated that scouts could recommend players, and, although it did not specifically bar signing by one club for another, Commissioner Landis had ruled that this was what was meant, and had imposed fines and other penalties for infractions.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Bears Nose Out Leaf Squad As Fielders

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The fourth-place Newark Bears were the best fielding team in the International Baseball League last season.

According to official figures released today, the Bears nosed out Rochester Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs by .971 to .970 each for the latter two. In addition, the Bears had the most assists, 1,821, the most total chances, 5,934, and had but 19 passed balls credited against them.

Buffalo Bisons, which ended in third place, made the most double plays, 152, but at the same time came up with the most number of errors, 258. Jersey City Giants won the "futility" honors, hitting into 115 double plays, to lead in that department. Montreal Royals left the most men stranded on bases, 1,246. Rochester made the most put-outs, 3,970.

Some noteworthy individual fielding features included Herman Schulte's new mark for assists for second basemen in one game, when the Bears played Syracuse June 1. The Newark ace had 12. Marius Russo, who later went to New York Yankees, possibly set a new record in assists for one inning by pitchers when he made three in the first against Buffalo April 25.

Toronto's Bill Schuster was the league leading shortstop, with a defensive percentage of .953; George Kurowski of Rochester topped the third basemen with .960. Sammy Bell of Montreal headed the second basemen and Ignatius Walters of Syracuse was the top first baseman, defensively.

Forrest Jensen of Jersey City, and Bob Elliott, Toronto, tied for top honors among outfielders, each with a mark of .991. There was a tie also in the catching department, with Tom Heath of Syracuse and Toronto and Tom Padden of Jersey City deadlocked at percentages of .989.

Greys, Indians Both Advance

TORONTO, Dec. 6— Owen Sound Greys and Aurora Indians moved into the semi-finals of the S. P. A. junior "B" competition last night as a result of victories scored over Hamilton and Barrie, respectively, at Maple Leaf Gardens, Owen Sound trimmed Hamilton 6 to 3, while Aurora blanked Barrie 2 to 0.

The Greys took advantage of every opportunity to build up a 4-0 advantage over Hamilton, withstood a determined comeback that netted the losers three straight goals in the final period, and added two more on breakaways to clinch the verdict. Oddly enough, Burlington was one of the chief thorns in Hamilton's side. The Owen Sound centre of that name scored two goals and assisted in two. Russel, Karston, Prokop and Hale were the other marksmen for the winners. McIndoo, Sheddon, and Lawson scored for Hamilton, with Swan being the playmaker in each case.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A little old man came slowly through the smoky mist of the hotel lobby and wrote on a slip of paper, "Do you know where I can find Connie Mack and Clark Griffith?"

A quick look around showed neither and the little man wrote again: "I am W. Hoy. I used to play with them. They called me dummy. I haven't seen Griffith since 1901, when I was on his White Sox."

"Dummy Hoy!" he exclaimed, "I'll find Grifith."

He did. The "old fox" of Washington took one look, and haltingly greeted "Dummy" with his fingers.

"Dummy Hoy," he said aloud. "My old lead-off man when we won the pennant in Chicago. One of the great players of baseball. One of the first to play centre-field short.

"I had to learn the sign language to talk to him then and I can still do it. Let's see. . . This was the hit-and-run sign."

He spelled it out slowly on his fingers and "Dummy" waved a bat and started for first.

Griffith got Mack. Connie raised his hand, thought a minute, and then gave the sign for the letter "S."

"Steal," Griffith translated and Hoy laughed.

The three of them sat down. Hoy told them of all that had happened to him.

He lives a retired life in Cincinnati now, but the big baseball meeting brought him something he had wanted for a long, long time.

New Detroit Club Rumor Is Spiked

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6— William Harridge, president of the American League here yesterday declared that the unanimous consent of the club owners was necessary before a rival league could place a club in the other loop's city.

This spiked a rumor that consent of only four American League clubs was needed to permit the National League to place a club in Detroit. It was reported that Sam Breadon wanted to transfer the St. Louis Cardinals to Detroit and hoped to do so by getting the blessing of four American League owners other than Walter O. Briggs, who obviously would be opposed to the plan.

Religious Play Is Presented At Springville

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 6—(ENS) — A religous play "The Perfect Gift" formed a most appropriate and helpful programe for the Young Peoples service on Sunday evening.

Miss Mary Staples, Fellowship Convener was in charge and the "White Girt" service was observed.

"Holy Night" played softly by Velma Staples opened the worship period; this was followed by the hymn "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night." Janet McIntosh read the scripture lesson from Luke 2, Lois Windrim gave a Christmas reading and Ruth Hunter closed this part of the program with prayer.

Miss Helen Staples then spoke on the spirit of giving and while Manson Cathcart and Charles Whittington brought the large white basket filled with white gifts to the front, the hymn "We Give Thee but Thine Own, O Lord," was sung.

The opening scene of "The Perfect Gift" showed four travellers (Nora Staples, Clairmont Morgan, Gordon Morrison Duncan Seymour) resting on the highway of an eastern country. It was nearing the Christmas season, and they were on their way to the Emperor's feast. At this feast the Emperor was to receive gifts from his subjects and great honour would come to the one whom the King selected as bringing "The Perfect Gift. "

Each of the travellers in turn, was bemoaning the time and money which he had had to spend on his gift, but each was hopeful that he should be the fortunate one.

At this time a stranger, (Jim Hunter) joined the group. He too was on the way to the emperor's feast. Compared to the gifts of the others, his seemed very humble indeed, merely a loaf of bread made in his own bake shop. He had made it himself out of the choicest ingredients which he had been able to secure. He had been happy in doing this, and hoped that the Emperor would enjoy his gift.

Weeping was heard and a lost child (Patricia Staples) appeared. The child was hungry and frightened, but each of the four travellers refused to give his gift to help her. Then the stranger offered his loaf to the hungry child and she became comforted.

The Emperor (Irvin McIntosh) rushed up to the group and joyfully claimed his lost child. The travellers in turn immediately began to present their gifts, but alas!—the precious diamond had turned to stone, the snow-white pigeon had died, the beautifully embroidered cloth had become rags and the scroll on which was written the song for the Emperor, was blank.

The stranger, apologising for the partly eaten loaf, came forward to present his gift, and this the Emperor accepted and proclaimed "The Perfect gift."

Y. P. U. will be held this week on Thursday night, because of the cast of the play going to Fallis' Line on Friday. The election of officers will take place at this meeting.

Harold Cathcart shipped a car load of choice Holstein springers to Fresniere, Quebec, last week. This is the third load Mr. Cathcart has shipped to Quebec this past month, totalling seventy in all.

Paying Soldiers

Field men of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, the Dominion Treasury, and the Department of Pensions and National Health co-operate with the military all over Canada by making detailed investigation into statements and claims made in the applications.

Many Pathetic Cases.

Many pathetic appeals for allowances reach the board, but the financial regulations governing the C.A.S.F. leave little leeway for sympathetic reconsideration of the board's decisions.

The treasury regulations stipulate that allowances may be paid only to certain eligible persons and on a prescribed scale. Misunderstandings have complicated the work of the board. For instance, there was was an impression that any dependent of an enlisted man was eligible for an allowance of $35 a month, which led to a deluge of applications for all types of "dependents."

The regulations, however, make clear that only the wife of a private or equivalent rank is entitled to a $35 allowance, and then only if her husband assigns to her at least 15 days' pay, amounting to about $20 from his wage of $1.30 a day.

A wife's allowance varies in proportion to the rank of the husband, but the maximum is $60. Only other recognized "dependent" is a close relative, qualified by that relative's private means of support. If allowed, such a dependent's allowance is set at $20. There is an allowance of $12 for a dependent minor child.

Other Allowances.

Dependents already in receipt of a pension, allowance or relief from a "public authority" are ineligible unless such income is less than the military allowance, in which case the Allowance Board pays the difference to bring the total income up to the military allowance level.

Allowances, also, are not granted if the peacetime contribution of the soldier to the dependent did not exceed his assignment of pay.

Special cases of financial reverses at home sometimes alter circumstances and the board stretches regulations where possible to be of help. The allowance, it is pointed out, is not a "right" of the soldier's dependent, but an attempt by the Government to promote morale on the home front.

Each application grows rapidly into a thick file of printed forms, decisions and investigation reports. Marriage certificates and birth certificates are carefully checked. Out of a batch of nearly 13,000 applications, about 1,000 were granted, 2,000 held for further investigation, and about 7,000 awaited additional information.

The German-Rumanian trade agreement of last March opened the way for increased oil exports, and the monthly average from January to August of this year rose to about 120,000 tons, or 32.5 per cent of the total.

But in September, the month the war started, Germany got only 71,465 tons—a reduction of about 40 per cent. Nevertheless this figure represents 34 per cent of Rumanian oil exports for the month's total fell to 208,981 tons.

October figures are not yet available, but the Germans were understood to have fared better than in September for the rail and Danube routes became better organized.

Now, however, the Danube is freezing sufficiently to halt navigation for the next three months, leaving only the rail route. Rail shipments are expensive and, furthermore, the lines can handle only small amounts since they are single-track and the number of tank cars is limited.

Agricultural shipments to Germany appear likewise to have diminished—and for the same reason.

OBITUARY

ARCHIE WADDELL.

HASTINGS, Dec. 6.—Highest tribute to the memory of one who had served his country during the Great War, was paid by friends of the late Archie Waddell, who passed away at the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday evening, when funeral services at the home of his brother, Mr. Matthew Waddell of Percy, were conducted on Monday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. D. K. Perrie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Hastings.

Although a patient in the Christie St. Hospital for years, his sudden demise was not expected as he was able to be about the grounds and associate with other war veterans. He was suddenly seized with a heart attack which culminated in his death.

The late Mr. Waddell was born in Percy township 64 years ago and came of fine pioneer stock, being the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Waddell, early Scottish settlers of the community from where his funeral was held. He spent his childhood and young manhood days on the old homestead.

After returning from the war he was employed in Toronto until the effects of war service forced him to remain in the hospital.

A large number of old friends and neighbors paid their last respect to one who was highly respected. The service at the home was conducted by the minister of the church he attended when residing near Hastings. He was borne to his last resting place in the Trent Valley cemetery by Messrs. Wm. Brooks, N. Rusaw, W. Cooke, Jas. Gibson, R. Williamson and W. Whitred.

Beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which deceased was held.

Surviving him are two brothers, Matthew of Percy township, John of Montana and two sisters, (Belle) Mrs. J. Stewart, of Toronto and (Mary) Mrs. Ben Stewart of Montana.

Hull Denies U.S. Farmer Hurt By Tariff Deal

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—(AP).—Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, has carried to the country his contention that the administration's program of bargaining down tariffs reciprocally should be continued to help reconstruct the world along lines of economic security and order.

With the reciprocal trade agreements policy facing a concentrated attack from some Republicans and Democrats at the next session of Congress, the Secretary laid his counter-offensive along the agricultural front. Speaking before the American Farm Bureau Federation last night, he challenged contentions that the agreements had harmed the American farmer. He accused some of his critics of "palpable and insidious falsehood."

Hull promised that the administration would strive to keep the United States out of war.

"With the same zeal with which we strove to avert this catastrophe," he said, "our government is now seeking to provide every possible assurance against our being drawn into it. This country should not, and must not, be drawn into war."

The Secretary rejected suggestions that the trade program be abandoned for the duration of the war, although he admitted wartime controls were interfering with the execution of the trade agreements. Canada is among the nations which has a trade agreement with the United States.

Paris has a war knitting vogue.

Harvey Driver Faces Charge In Police Court

An accident that happened on the Buckhorn Road when members of a hunting party were on their way home from the north, took up the attention of Magistrate O. A. Langley, KC., during most of this morning's session and was still unfinished when court adjourned for luncheon.

W. J. Irwin, Harvey township, was charged with careless driving on the Buckhorn Road on November 12 and pleaded not guilty.

He was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C. while Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C. prosecuted.

Archie Burley, Deseronto, member of the hunting party told the court that as he was driving from Buckhorn to Peterborough on the day in question he was "nearly run into on a curve". He testified that a car coming from the south and driven by the accused had come "almost straight at me" and that although he veered his car to the right, possibly about a foot it had been struck by Irwin's machine and damaged at the rear. Burley swore that he was on his own side of the road and was driving about 30 miles an hour at the time and had not driven faster than 35 miles an hour anywhere on the journey from camp down. He estimated Irwin's speed at at least 40 miles an hour.

E. G. Wagar, local teacher, and another member of the hunting party, said that he in his car had been following about 75 feet behind the Burley car and that they had not travelled faster than 35 miles on the journey. Nearing the curve where the accident had happened witness said that Irwin's car had almost hit his and he said the accused was driving 40 miles an hour, although in cross-examination he said that was only an estimate and that he had not had much time in which to make an estimate.

Floyd Wagar, father of the previous witness gave similar evidence to conclude the crown's case.

For the defence Bert Cribbis, garage mechanic for 24 years produced a sketch of the scene of the accident and gave some measurements he had taken there the second week after. He also produced a piece of metal which he said was part of the fender of Irwin's car and a hub cap off the same machine. Cribbis gave it as his opinion, based on the marks on the hub cap that Irwin's car could not possibly have struck Burley's machine but on the contrary that the Burley car had struck the other vehicle. He also stated that from the condition of the road, a car coming from the north as Burley's car had been could not make the turn in safety and remain on its own side of the road.

The court adjourned at this stage.

Board Sanctions Trip To Museum

For Tuesday night, the Board of Education gave its sanction to a C. N. R. scheme for taking groups of school children on a tour of the building. Each youngster will pay his or her own fare, and teachers will act as supervisors. If 140 or more signify they are going a special train will be provided each way, H. Barnes, ticket agent, said. Special street cars will carry them from train to museum and back, and lunch will be provided in the building. Inspector Wightman and Principal Dr. Kenner were instructed to make necessary arrangements.

DOLLS AWAIT DRESSES.

Firemen have got tangled up in the underpinnings.

To-day they sent out a hurry up call for help in dressing dolls they have patched up for Christmas presents.

They have dozens and dozens of dolls waiting to be dressed and Captain Jones thinks it had better be done pretty soon. He says the department will send dolls to anyone, or to any group of women, who telephone to 5712. Or he'll conduct them on a personal tour of the fire hall's toyland if they care to call for the dolls.

In any event, he says the department needs help, and needs it urgently.—P.

Board To Name Part-Time Health Officer

Co-ordination of public health services in Peterborough was pushed forward a cautious inch Tuesday night by the Board of Education when it decided to appoint a part-time, temporary school health officer and that he and the two nurses already employed "be under the general supervision of the Medical Officer of Health for the city.

The decision was a first step toward complete co-ordination, at some time in the hazy future, of all health services here. The aim is to have one M.O.H. who will direct all public health measures, but the Board felt that any man who may be hired by the Board of Health in the absence of Dr. G. Murray Fraser, will be only temporarily, and will probably be a man of little experience. They believed a temporary, part-time medical officer for schools was necessary because they doubted the new M. O.H., who will probably be unacquainted with the city, would be able to do all the work for some time.

Adopting a resolution put by Dr. Moir, member of a special committee appointed last month to investigate the possibility of such co-ordination, the Board approved of the principle of co-ordination, and expressed a desire to be represented on the Board of Health.

The Board of Education will receive applications for the post of part-time, temporary health officer for public schools until December 15, duties to commence on January 1, 1940.

The special co-ordination committee, whose members were Acting Chairman Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. A. Moir, and D. G. H. Melton, reported they had conferred with the Board of Health at that body's invitation.

Board To Hold Teachers' Jobs

Peterborough school teachers who leave their work to go on active service in Canada's defence, will find that the Board of Education is grateful.

Tuesday night Dr. A. Moir, chairman of the committee on appointments recommended to the Board that the positions of such teachers be kept open to them, that the Board continue superannuation payments, and that any increases in salary that might have accrued as a result of length of service, be paid on the return of those teachers. The report was adopted unanimously. Dr. G. Murray Fraser was voted $100 for his work in looking after the city's public school children during the illness of Dr. McPerson.

Otonabee Man Is Charged With Reckless Driving

The crash of two automobiles at the corner of Reid and McDonnel streets in the evening of July 1 last re-echoed in the Crown's evidence against Robert Hamilton of Otonabee township on trial by jury this morning in the county court with Judge J. A. McGibbon, Lindsay, presiding, on a charge of reckless driving.

Hamilton's car, eastbound on McDonnel street, was in collision with another driven by Donald S. Reid of Detroit, going southerly on Reid street.

Prosecution was conducted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and W. J. Arthur Fair defended Mr. Hamilton.

Describes Accident

William Johnston of Dawson's service station at the southeast corner of McDonnel and Reid streets was the first witness. He was sitting on the front step of the office overlooking the intersection of the two streets. In the evening of Dominion Day last, about seven o'clock, he saw a car going south on Reid. It was driven by Don Reid of Detroit. Witness said he had known him for years. Reid's car was travelling about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

Mr. Johnston said he also noticed a car, driven by Robert Hamilton, approaching the corner from the west on McDonnel street at 40 to 45 miles an hour. Stop signs at the corner are set against trafic on McDonnel street.

"The impact of the two cars made a terrible noise. You could hear it for blocks," witness said to Mr. McElderry.

Reid's car was flung over on one side with extensive damage to both automobiles.

"I asked Mr. Hamilton what had happened. He said he stepped on his brakes and there weren't any brakes. When I got a glass of water for a girl who was in the accident I saw Hamilton running by as I came out of the office. He was carrying a paper carton that looked like a beer carton. Its top was covered with blood."

William Millen, 533 Waterford street, driver of the city's street flushing truck, testified that he was returning from Jackson Park on McDonnel street, on the evening of July 1st last. Between Monaghan Road and the Bonner-Worth factory an automobile driven by Robert Hamilton passed him "at an excessive speed of about 45 miles an hour."

Mr. Millen said he called at a house on Park street and when he arrived about 20 minutes later at the corner of Reid and McDonnel streets he saw Hamilton's car and the other that had been in collision. Most of the persons in the accident had been taken or had gone away.

William Easton, 499 Donegal street, was an eye-witness of the accident. He was watching the Reid car coming down the Reid street hill at about 30 miles an hour. As it was crossing McDonnel street, "this other car, going at an excessive speed, although I can't say how many miles an hour, shot out and hit the one going south on Reid street.

Paul Imming and Bert Young, both 13 years, said they were cycling on Donegal street when they heard a loud crash, and located the accident at the Reid street corner. Both boys say they saw a beer carton covered with blood behind the garage next door to Johnston's service station. Bert Young said he saw a man take a carton out of one of the cars in the tangle and carry it around the corner of a house.

Seven Injured.

Constable Archie Menzies said seven persons were injured in the accident. Four of them were taken to the hospital. He stated that the stop signs on McDonnel street were clearly visible.

Constable McGillen testified that he placed the accused, Robert Hamilton, under arrest between 10 and 10.30 p.m., about 2 hours after the accident, in the office of Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

He noticed an odor of liquor from the accused and agreed with Mr. Fair's suggestion that Hamilton "had plenty of time to take a shot of liquor to spruce him up after the accident." Mr. Hamilton had gone to the doctor's office to have an injury to his back examined.

R. G. Cottrell, 301 McDonnel street, one block off Reid street, was sitting on his verandah in the evening of July 1.

"A car went east at an excessive speed. I wondered whether it could stop at Reid street and I started out to see if it did. I took about two steps off my verandah when I heard the crash. The car did not stop. It was travelling about 45 miles an hour."

Because of difficulty in getting shipping space South Africa is keeping its best fruit, usually exported.

A local man, facing a drunk charge, was not on hand this morning and it was explained to Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court that he was ill. The case was adjourned until Monday next.

A SPRING NOTE OFF KEY.

An anomaly of the season was noticed, along the walk leading up to St. John's Church this morning where spring and winter were hand in hand in the falling of a few stray flakes of snow among the green and filling buds of the lilac trees.

OUTBREAK OF MEASLES

Despite outbreak of chicken pox and measles in this city, attendance in public schools had dropped only about 4 per cent. during November, Inspector K. S. Wightman reported to the Board of Education Tuesday night. Attendance usually stands at about 94 per cent. and he said the mild epidemic was the cause of lower attendance.

OBTAINS POSITION.

Reginald McClavery, of this city who was employed as a weaver at the Auburn Mill for several years is now at Ottawa where he has been appointed an inspector of cloth for Department of National Defence. He was an honor graduate of St. Peter's High School in this city and his many friends wish him every success in the new work.

MILK FUND BOOSTED

Public and Separate school pupils who are underweight can drink milk to the tune of an additional $170, it was reported to the Board of Education last night. H. G. Walker informed members that the Peterborough Automobile club had given its yearly grant of $100, and Inspector K. S. Wightman reported that an anonymous donor of other years had once more sent $70. Every year this generous individual, whose name is never revealed, contributes that amount.

ACTION ON SCHOOL DENTIST

Hint that some drastic action is going to be taken at last in regard to the deplorable condition of school children's teeth in this city, came Tuesday night when D. G. H. Melton, chairman of the supervision committee, reported in guarded words to the Board of Education that his committee had been in consultation with Dr. J. C. Green and with the Department of Health in regard to dental services in the city's schools, and that they were continuing their efforts.

REFORESTRATION USELESS

A member of the county council today mentioned an advertisement in a Toronto paper offering five thousand Christmas trees, three to 40 feet, for sale, and remarked that reforestation seemed useless against this year-end custom. "There is nothing we can do about it but wait until the public becomes convinced that this vast December cutting of trees is a mistake. It will then demand action, but in the meantime we have to do our own bit in trying to provide for forestry requirements in the future."

Crown Witness Unable To attend Hearing

When a charge against Nelson McConnell, Ida, of careless driving was called in police court this morning, Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., informed the court that an important witness whose testimony was material was still in hospital and as a result the crown was not ready to proceed.

T. J. Carley, K.C. who appeared for McConnell protested against the delay and also complained that when the case was adjourned a week ago he was to have been told in advance if the prosecution found iself not ready to go on today and that this had not been done.

It was finally decided that there should be a long adjournment to give the injured man a chance to recover and January 10 was set as the date for hearing the case.

Peterborough Board Of Education Refuses Aid To Windsor In Separate School Appeal

Windsor's Board of Education will have to carry its appeal to the Privy Council in England without the support of the Peterborough Board. Tuesday night a request for a donation for the purpose was shelved here.

The Windsor group are protesting against an action by the Ford Motor Company, who arbitrarily set aside 18 per cent. of its school assessment for separate schools. The Windsor Board maintains such action is a guess or estimate, and has won its case once, but was defeated in a Supreme Court appeal. Its secretary said in a letter that boards in Ottawa, London, and Toronto, had volunteered financial assistance if the case were carried to the Privy Council, and maintained that if the decision were allowed to go unchallenged, boards of education in manufacturing districts would lose a great deal of money in the future. The communication was marked "received."

George Filion Passes Away In 101st Year

Peterborough's grand old man, George Filion, is dead. The city's only centenarian died at the House of Providence here last night after a two-weeks' illness.

His passing closed a life that was keynoted by action for he had been a woodsman, had built railways, had made bricks, had operated a saw mill, and had lived all over Eastern Canada. To the last he was a man of independence and of activity. He smoked a cigar daily, sat outside on warm days, and carried on a tempestuous conversation with all and sundry.

Born Near Montreal.

Born March 11, 1839, at the tiny French settlement of Baie St. Paul, near Montreal, he used to recall that it was only two years earlier that Queen Victoria had ascended the throne of Britain to begin one of the longest reigns of any monarch in all history. And yet George Filion outlived her reign and that of three other kings—two Edwards and a George.

He was one of nine children and outlived them all. At the age of 17 he left home to work in the woods; then he built railways for a time; he was in construction work in Halifax; he made bricks in Boston.

In Peterborough District 70 Years.

Seventy years ago, he made his first appearance in this district when he went to work in Haliburton as a lumberjack. Half a century ago, he was a saw operator at the Red Mill at Nassau, and once travelled on a raft of white pine square timbers from Buckhorn to Montreal.

He went to Lindsay 40 years ago to become caretaker of the Roman Catholic church and school, a post he held for many years. He had been resident at the House of Providence for four years last August, after he had fallen and fractured his hip bone. It was thought then that he would not survive, but the remarkable 96-year-old man surprised them all and made a complete recovery. The past four years were happy ones for George Filion. He was surrounded by friends and his every need attended to. Even his last illness was kind to him, lasting but two weeks and sending him peacefully out of this world.

He was a bachelor all his life, and leaves no relatives so far as is known.

His body was taken to Lindsay for funeral service and burial.

Traffic Court Has Heavy Docket

E. W. Seeney, of Havelock, entered a written plea of guilty in traffic court this morning, to a charge of careless driving, arising out of a minor traffic accident and was fined $5 and $2.50 costs.

It cost Norman W. Robinson and Ross Kennedy $5 and $2.50 costs each for failure to produce a driver's permit or chaffeur's license when asked to do so by an officer.

As the result of a recent accident on the Lakefield Road in which a car was damaged in a collision with a trailer load of logs, Bruce Parker pleaded guilty to two traffic charges, one of not having proper lights and the other in regard to an overhanging load and on each charge was fined $5 and $2.50 costs.

Driving without a license resulted in Harold Buchanan, Coldwater being fined $10 and 75 cents costs.

Mrs. Thomas Gray, Millbrook and Thomas Zackos, Kingston, pleaded guilty to illegal parking and were fined $2 and 75 cents costs.

Grand Jury Upheld By Judge Coleman

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 6.—(CP)—The Grand Jury is a democratic institution designed to ensure an accused man a fair trial, and as such should not be abolished, stated Judge D. B. Coleman of Whitby in county court here at the December sittings.

His Honor's remarks yesterday were in comment on the recent suggestions on court reforms. "The matter of abolishing grand juries is under consideration at the present time, but my own opinion is that their abolition would be a great loss to the country as a whole and to the administration of justice. I am satisfied that a great many judges agree with me. After all, this country and empire are at war to preserve and keep democratic institutions and in my opinion, the Grand Jury is a democratic institution," declared Judge Coleman.

HORSES RAN AWAY.

A runaway accident typical of the old horse-and-buggy days was staged on George street south Tuesday when a team of horses attached to a waggon laden with grain made a break for liberty on Ware street, turned south on George street and travelled down into a Highway sign at Lansdowne street breaking it off and then came to a sudden halt when they tangled with a post, with one horse on each side. The animals were not injured and little damage was done.

Cadet Uniforms Are Required For Collegiate

Pupils at Peterborough Collegiate may soon be able to say that it took a war before they got new cadet uniforms. The subject of heavy criticism by inspecting officers for the past several years, the uniforms were reported on by Cadet Instructor H. A. Craig Tuesday night when the Board of Education met.

The report was from the Inspector to Principal Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, and was forwarded to the Board by him. The supervision committee will bring in a report.

Instructor Craig's report left no doubt as to the conditio nof the uniforms. Those of the officers are unfit for use, he stated, and related that it has been the custom in the past to borrow service uniforms from the Prince of Wales Rangers. But with war on, the school can't count on being able to get them again, he ventured. The bugle band is garbed in the discarded scarlet uniforms of the Rangers.

The last grant made for cadet uniforms was three years ago when the Board gave $100, which was spent in dyeing blue 120 uniforms, "but the result was not altogether satisfactory for the uniforms were old and worn." He said there have been no replacements since he has been Instructor. The school can now outfit 220 cadets. Last year 75 had to be excused from parades because they had no uniforms. Most pressing need, he said, is for uniforms for officers and non-commissioned officers, with the bugle band running a close second. "But," he wound up, "it is only a matter of a few years until all our present uniforms will have to be discarded.

Rural Debaters Given Decision

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 6 — (ENS).—The Burnbrae Young People's Society were hosts to St. Andrew's Y.P.S., on Monday evening of this week when a debate, "Resolved that Rural Life is Better than Urban," fostered lively interest. The affirmative side was supported by two members of the Burnbrae organization, C. Carter and H. Twigg, while for the locals, Mrs. Bruce Grills and Ronald Hazel argued for the negative. The judges, Miss V. O'Neil, Miss E. Wallace and Mrs. M. McFarlane gave judgement in favor of the Burnbrae team. Rev. M. E. R. Bourdeau contributed several piano selections during the program of which other items were a guitar solo by Miss Doris Locke; a reading, "Wanted—A Minister's Wife," by Aylmer Haig; piano duet, M. McFarlane and Wilsie Phillips. After a singsong and several contests delightful refreshments were served by the hosts of the evening.

Ten Days Left For Firemen To Secure Toys

Today marks the opening of a 10-day drive by firemen of this city for toys repair and distribute among the city's needy youngsters. Fire Chief George Gimblett decided that his department can handle any toys they receive up to and including the 15th day of December. That late date means that firemen will have to work overtime painting and repairing, but they don't mind. They want every youngster in the city to feel he has not been neglected this Christmas.

But if that is to happen, there must be a generous response from Peterborough citizens during the ten-day drive, for there is a vast shortage of toys this year—particularly of the larger kind such as waggons, sleighs, doll carriages, kiddy cars, and so on. The state of their repair isn't important; you'd be surprised at the workmanship of these firefighters when they know they must make something look like new if a child is to be happy.

Toys Have Been Scarce.

They've been a disappointed group of men so far this year. Work in the toy department has been far below the production level of past years, because people don't seem to be responding to their appeal for old toys, despite continued newspaper publicity. It is as though war had driven the thought of unfortunate children from the minds of Peterborough folk—a sort of unconscious phychological reaction to the brute force that is rampant in the world today; a denial of sympathy for the weak and an assault on the young. That's the way it seems, because the floor of the toy department is still empty and Christmas is less than three weeks away.

That's why these men, who receive no reward for their attempt to make youngsters happy, are launching a 10-day campaign for old toys. When tonight's paper comes off the press they will be waiting at the fire hall telephone, 5712, for calls from generous people. At the door to the hall a fireman will be waiting to receive toys from people who can bring them. A truck will be waiting, ready to start off on a tour of the city to collect toys from those who are unable to bring them to the Hall but who telephone to say where they may be picked up.

"This drive will last for ten days," said Fire Chief George Gimblett. "But we hope people will not wait until the last day to let us have their toys, because it would be too great a job to complete before Christmas. We wan toys now, and we want them badly."

PRICES TO ADVANCE

Dealers in English chinaware in the city report they are selling present stocks of English china at regular prices but when these stocks are exhausted the price is due to advance considerably. The advance is due directly to war conditions which has reduced production and complicated the shipping problem. Howard Shimer at Soden's reported today the prices had advanced on only two patterns so far.

May We Suggest

You know we believe in this "Shop Early" idea too, it's a great thing. But there are people who just won't do this, and that's where we come in.

If you shop early or shop late we suggest you drop in to either of our stores and look at our suggestions. Here's a couple: If he smokes, why not a good pipe (we have them from $1.00 up) or maybe 50 flat cigarettes. For her, we have a dandy miniature red seal box filled with chocolates. And oh numerous other suggestions, but drop in when your down town tomorrow, at Dick Raine's "The Friendly Stores", George at Brock or Rubidge at Sherbrooke and see for yourself. (Adv.).

An Appreciation

To everyone—manufacturers, merchants and citizens—who co-operated with us so wholeheartedly to make possible Peterborough's successful Santa Claus' Parade, we extend our sincerest thanks.

Christmas Meeting Is Held By W.A.

Rev. M. C. Parr was special speaker Tuesday afternoon at a Christmas meeting of George Street Church Women's Association, and brought a Christmas message "Stars of Life." "The wise men of old were star-led," he said, "and we, too, can be led by the star." The Three Wise Men were called the "Watches of the Night." The one great star led them on to Bethlehem, their one ray of hope. The first was the star of Faith, the Christ Child who came into the world to increase our faith; the second, the star of hope, which fulfilled a better life; the third star of love, for the greatest of these is love; and a bright and morning star is Jesus Christ for the whole world. Mr. Parr closed his talk with a poem, "A Song, A Gift, A Star."

Miss M. E. Elliott opened the meeting with a poem entitled "A Smile" which was followed by the theme song "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me." The devotional period, conducted by Mrs. J. H. Pleasing Program Given At 16th Annual Recital

Displaying fine musical understanding and careful training, pupils of F. G. Mann, L.Mus., were heard in recital Tuesday night at the Parish Hall of All Saints' Anglican Church in an almost entirely English program of pleasantly varied numbers.

The fresh, pure and finely modulated voices of the singers were heard in solo, duet, trio and quartet numbers, and outstanding among the piano offerings was a transcription by J. Ascher "Alice, Where Art Thou", a difficult number played by Miss Eleanor Glover, a senior pupil, with splendid fingering and technique.

Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, gold medalist soprano, was heard in several numbers that were, as usual, delightful.

The audience of parents and friends was keenly enthusiastic and evidenced their appreciation by warm applause.

The presentation of certificates to successful students in music examinations was made to pupils of theory, singing, piano and organ by Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, B.A., B.D.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL.

A children's program with Christmas as its theme was a feature of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association meeting, with Mr. J. E. R. Monroe, school principal, as chairman.

The meeting opened with the Christmas hymn, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Mrs. V. R. Henry, president of the Association, presided at the opening of the meeting, and expressed appreciation to the parents for their work in preparing the program. Announcement was made that Mr. Jack Telford is to be guest speaker at the January meeting of the Association, to be held Thursday, January 4th, in the form of a Music Night.

Two fine numbers by the school choir, under the direction of Miss Eagleson, were heard at the first of the children's program, "The Ash Grove" and "Come to the Fair." The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, December 7.

Excepting for social, domestic, sentimental or artistic interest, this may be an involved and difficult day, judging by the ruling transits. In purely personal engagements things may be lively and intriguing, but in more practical obligations there may be deep and difficult undercurrents to negotiate with shrewdness, tact and keen insight. Restraint and amiability also are in order lest impetuosity, rash judgments, and bad manners complicate peculiar situations. Personal astuteness and constructive ideas may save the day.

Those whose birthday it is may turn a troublesome year into profit, security, and fair fortune by individual restraints, calm deportment, and constructive rather than tumultuous and destructive thinking, when confronted by peculiar, deep-rooted on chaotic situations. Social, domestic and affectional affiliations may offer relaxation and inspiration.

A child born on this day, while usually gentle, genial, good-natured and affectionate, may be given to extremes of temper, with violent and reckless impulses and outbursts, which should be subjected to rigorous discipline in early life.

Consider Your Income When Buying Gifts

Isn't it true that the greater part of our life is spent in useless worrying—for of course worrying is always useless. This is especially true of Christmas buying. Because the wise men of old brought priceless gifts for the Baby whose birthday we celebrate, we try to approach the material value of their presents with tragic results—we lose sight of the shepherds who came first with only adoration.

Be honest with yourself this Christmas. Spend only what your income will allow. It is the thought and the work behind the gifts and its usefullnes which makes it valuable. There is another extreme. Sometimes families who have had financial setbacks become discouraged and do nothing about Christmas at all. Don't let it take the spirit out of you. The mother who bakes can make some cookies from her favorite recipe, some pretty little cake or a plate of homemade candy. These tied up in some cellophane (saved form a parcel) and decked with a sprig of pine will be a pleasant surprise and perhaps a relief from the endless array of costlier gifts.

Men who are handy with tools can turn out clever little gadgets, girls can sew, boys can help with the woodwork, too. Remember that personal touch, the little bit of handwork that is priceless.

Statistics From Divorce Courts Show That The Earlier In Life Young People Marry The Less Chance There Is For Them To Continue Wedlock.

WHAT is the best age at which to marry? Twenty-four for women, 28 for men. At least that is the conclusion at which the statisticians have arrived who have been analyzing and comparing the records of the Marriage License Bureaus and the Domestic Relations and Divorce Courts. They say that marriages under 20 are almost predestined failures, while next in point of risk comes the marriages of the 21, 22 and 23-year-olders.

But between the age of 24 and 30 is the auspicious time to enter into the holy estate, as after 30 the divorce rate soars and marriage again becomes a hazardous venture. Of course, even the least intelligent of us know that these marriage statistics are among the figures that don't lie. Every one, except the young themselves, knows that marriage is a strictly adult proposition, calling for more strength and endurance than the young possess, and that callow boys and girls simply court disaster who undertake to cut their wisdom teeth on a wedding ring.

All of us who have passed through adolescence know that children in their teens are undeveloped, with changing tastes, and that the girl a boy thought his idea of perfection at 19 or 20 is apt to bore him to extinction by the time he is 25; that the youth who thrilled a girl of 17 to the marrow of her bones can seldom raise a single palpitation in the beast of a woman of 25. The fires of love that warmed sweet and 20 have generally burned out and are nothing but a pinch of gray ashes at 26.

So these young marriages come to grief without anybody being to blame except Old Mother Nature who hurled a youth and maiden into each other's arms on the gust of sex attraction when they were too young to know what they were doing. The peak of the tragedy is reached when these disillusioned young husbands and wives find, as they almost invariably do, the woman or man who is their real mate and who answers all of their mature needs in a wife or husband.

Furthermore, these children who marry before they have had their playtime furnish scandal for the community when they take their fun later on. The boy husband isn't willing to spend his evenings sticking around the house. The girl wife doesn't want to be tagged down by babies. Both husband wife want to be out with girls and boys of their own age having good times. So they fight and quarrel and the marriage degenerates into a battle that ends in the divorce courts.

But if a couple wait until the woman is 24 and the man 28 they automatically eliminate most of these perils of matrimony. They are old enough to have settled down into whatever mold they are going to take; their tastes and habits are formed, hence they pick out for life companions those who are congenial and who will not change because they are also mature.

The woman of 24 and the man of 28 do not look upon their home as a prison from which they are pining to break and their children as excess baggage. On the contrary, they regard their homes as temples of refuge to which they can fly from the strife of the world, and they look upon their babies as little bundles from heaven. For they have waited to marry until they are ready to settle down. They are tired of running around and a quiet evening at home looks better to them than a night club.

Moreover, those who marry in the late twenties have a better chance of happiness because by that time

Latest in Costume Jewelry

A smart way to add to your collection of costume jewelry! Make this clever necklace of gold and silver nuggets—really chick peas in disguise!

All you need is a handful of chick peas—75 to be exact.

First soak the peas until they can be pierced with a needle. Then string them, holding the peas as shown in diagram—36 on one thread, 39 on another. Allow them to dry.

Then dip the string of 36 into clear shellac, liquid gold bronze, and shellac again, hanging up to dry between baths.

The other string of 39 you dip in shellac and liquid silver paint. When dry, restring the peas on stout white thread, doubled. Fasten ends of thread to a clasp.

Or make a bracelet of safety pins and sealing wax! Or a peanut boutonniere!

BABY'S STOMACH UPSET?

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep and when she awakened was her own good self again."

Equally effective for diarrhoea, colic, teething troubles, simple croup, constipation and simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action yet harmless. Ontario Entries Are Placing Well

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (CP).—Chicago entries placed well yesterday in various classes judged at the International Livestock Exposition here. Charles J. Shore of Glanworth and H. M. Lee, Highgate, were most successful of the Ontario lamb exhibitors and Edwards Brothers were big winners in cattle classes.

Shore won second and third prizes with his Cotswold wether lambs and first prize with his pen of three Cotswold wether lambs with William Goddard of Denfield, Ont., second.

Lee placed first in the division for Lincoln wether (lambs) and Goddard was third and fourth. Lee also placed first and third with his pens of three Lincoln wether lambs. Goddard was second in this class.

Edwards Brothers took many prizes in the Aberdeen Angus division of cattle judging. They won firsts in the classes for bulls calved between May 1, 1937, and Dec. 31, 1937, and for bulls calved between Jan 1 and April 30 of this year. They placed third with a group of five Aberdeen Angus bulls, third with a group of two bulls of the same breed.

John Gardhouse and Sons of Weston, Ont., today were awarded first prize in judging summer yearling shorthorn bulls. Second prize for junior shorthorn bull calf went to E. J. Murphy of Orillia, Ont., and third for two-year-old shorthorn bulls was won by T. A. Russell of Downsview, Ont.

Hastings Honors Her 19 Sons Who Are With Canadian Forces

HASTINGS, Dec. 6—(ENS)— In a rousing farewell to nineteen boys of Hastings and district who have enlisted with the Canadian active service, a capacity attendance of more than three hundred jammed into the hown hall here Monday night. Father Costello delivered a speech directed to the boys which touched deeply into the hearts of everyone present.

"These boys throughout the Dominion who have joined the army are worthy of our special attention above everyone else in the country," he told the gathering.

Crusaders of God.

"Our country is God's Garden of Eden. We have everything fair nature can give. We have freedom and a wonderful civilization under God. Another power would take away from us this freedom, destroy christianity and take away our enlightenment. These boys here with us tonight will do their share to help us retain these gifts. You will shed every last drop of blood against the enemy. On the sea, in the air or on land, the British Tommies and the Canadian soldiers have never met defeat and never will. (Cheers).

"You boys are called upon at this time as crusaders of God. At one stage of the war we thought Hitlerism was our chief enemy but now we find the Red Forces of Russia a rising menace. Hitlerism and Stalinism must be crushed. Father Costello laid blame on the leaders of these totalitarian states for the war. He said we are not to hate anyone, even the enemy, but we do despise principles for which they fight against us.

Giving a word of advice to the men he was addressing, Father Costello told them to do their duty as clean noble men and to keep their hearts and souls clean. "We shall be looking for everyone of you to come back to us as our own heroes," he added. Following singing "For they are jolly good fellows" three cheers rang out for the soldier youths. Father Costello, who served as a chaplain in the Great War, congratulated the reeve and the council on arranging "such a magnificent assembly" of Hastings citizens for this memorable occasion.

Rev. D. K. Perrie, said the young men who have enlisted have made a great choice. "Our choice, caused somewhat by circumstance, is also a great choice," he said. "These boys will be looking for us to do our part on the home front and let us not fail them." Rev. Perrie drew a distinction between modern and old time warfare. He said we have four fronts today to fight on as compared to just one front—the battle front—in olden times. "We have the economic front, the diplomatic front, the battle front and the home front," he told the gathering. "We have the consciousness that this is not our battle, it is the Lord's. Let us all do our part," he concluded.

Address Read.

Rev. J. E. Glover read the following address to the young men after they had assembled in line on the stage. "We have gathered here in honor of those of you who have enlisted and have been accepted. To say that we are proud of you is to put it mildly. Immediately when war was declared by the Mother country and our Dominion, you offered yourselves without any compulsion for the defence of those principles for which ou rdemocracy exists.

At the outset, war was declared to protect the rights of smaller nations against Nazism and Hitlerism but the events of the past few days have convinced us that it is a fight against communism as well. It is the fight for the maintenance of liberty, justice and righteousness, for the rights of the individual to live and worship as he pleases. It is a case of religion fighting atheism and anti-Christ. And as you go forth to fight our battles, we can assure you that we will support you to the very utmost. We are here to bid you farewell and God speed. We can do no other than commend you to our great Heavenly Father's care knowing that in time of danger, He will never fail you. We hope and pray for your safe return and we are looking forward to the time when a just and lasting peace will be established and men everywhere will have the opportunity to live together as Christians.

At this point in the program, eighteen soldier boys of Hastings and district were presented with engraved fountain pens as a gift from the council and community. Rev. William Stocks made the presentation and delivered a brief address in which he said the pens would join them with the people of Hastings while they were overseas.

The following were recipients of the gifts: Gunners, James Ryder, Elmer Richardson, Albert Nelson, Patrick Doyle, Alfred Lemoire, sr, Alfred Lemoire, jr., Gerald Calberry, Arthur Wheeler, Victor Scriver, Melville Killenbeck, Richard Watson, all of the 14th Field Battery at Cobourg; Vernon Phillips, Jack McCarthy, Alexander "Sandy" MacDonald, John Butterworth, Fred Hand, Elmer Faux, Elery Smullin, all of the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment at Picton; Howard Fairman accepted the gift for his brother Gordon Fairman of the R. C. A. F. who is in hospital recovering from injuries sustained in a car crash.

Sandy MacDonald on behalf of the soldiers, thanked the council and people of Hastings for the gifts and told the gathering the memory of the occasion would remain in their memories forever.

The first part of the evening was taken up with playing euchre when one-hundred and sixty people took part. About ten o'clock, lunch was served to the many who attended.

Highlight of the entertainment came when a group of soldiers from the 14th Field Battery at Cobourg offered talent vocally and instrumentally. Sgt. G. Thompson was in charge of the group of entertainers, with Bombadeer Rowden second in command. A male quartette composed of Gunners Wilton, Haines, Snowell and Stephens rendered several quartette numbers assisted on the piano by A. H. Mortimer, organist of Cobourg Presbyterian church who trained the men. Gunner Sweet, accordianist and Gunner Ryder who played the bones also rendered several selections and were exceptionally well received by their audience. Community singing with the soldiers taking the lead led the audience back to days of the last war when several numbers which came into prominence at that time were sung.

Walter Fowlds moved a vote of thanks to the group of entertainers at the conclusion of the entertainment and Reeve Lewis Kelley chairman of the evening extended all the good wishes of the citizens of Hastings to its soldier youth. The young people then enjoyed an hour of dancing to music furnished by Jack Hennessy on the violin and James Montgomery on the banjo.

Four Applicants For Citizenship

Applications for naturalization of citizenship were made to Judge J. A. McGibbon at the opening of the General Sessions of the Peace here Tuesday afternoon by George Sorensen, florist; Anton Felizean Seidel, draughtsman at the Canadian General Electric Company; John Edward Krogh, also an employee of the C.G.E., and Krikor Takvorian who is farming near Warsaw.

His Honor intimated that he would recommend all four applications to the Minister of Justice, the Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Mr. Sorensen and Mr. Krogh were born in Norway, Mr. Seidel in Austria, and Mr. Takvorian in Armenia.

Anton F. Seidel, represented by John A. Bradshaw, said he was born in Vienna, where he learned drafting, and came to Canada in 1928, married there an Austrian girl. They have two children, one nine years and the other two months.

The motive of his application for citizenship, Mr. Seidel said was "I feel I owe it to Canada who has given me such a nice home."

Mr. Bradshaw: "Are you prepared to take the oath of loyalty to the King?"—"Yes."

"And, if necessary, fight in defense of Canada?"—"Yes."

Mr. Seidel said his father was a police inspector in Vienna where both his parents are living. He has one brother, a high school teacher, near Vienna, one sister a teacher, and another who is married. He stated that he was opposed to the Nazi ideas because he had become so accustomed to the British view. "I can't agree with the way they are doing things over there."

"Good luck to you," Judge McGibbon said. "You are a clean cut young man, and I am glad to see young men like you coming forward in this country."

Mr. Sorensen was represented by Reg. Chandler, and Mr. Krogh by W. F. Huycke, K.C.

Krikor Takvorian came to Canada from Armenia in 1923, as a boy of eight years, brought out by the United Church. His parents were dead and he had no other relatives he said. He has taken up farming in Dummer township, and is unmarried.

"I did not know that I could bring a witness, or I would have done so," Mr. Takvorian said. He mentioned as one of his friends a son of Bruce Johnston, clerk of North Monaghan. The young man answered correctly that Mr. King was Prime Minister of Canada and Mr. Hepburn, Premier of Ontario, but he didn't know the leaders of the Opposition, and he was rather hazy on his geography.

He didn't know the capital of Canada, but he answered that the Parliament met in Ottawa and the provincial Legislature in Toronto.

Judge McGibbon's friendly advice was Takvorian should brush up on the geography of Canada if he was to become an intelligent citizen.

The World At War

In his address to the Grand Jury of which Verne A. Selkirk was chosen foreman, Judge McGibbon not only expressed his agreement with opinion that the Grand Jury had outlived its usefulness in the administration of justice, but also referred to the strife abroad in the world.

"On this wonderful day in December passing through the villages on my way here, little would one think that all the great civilized countries are engaged in deadly combat, and that three major wars are going on, one for some two years or more, and another only a few days old. We in this great Dominion of Canada are enjoying privileges far in excess of anything enjoyed by those people in other countries. What a Godsend it was for us that six months ago we were privileged to entertain amongst us our King and Queen of the greatest country civilization has ever known or ever will know. To you and to me and to our forefathers our monarchs had been only a tradition, but in this year we saw them in the living flesh and they partook of the pleasure we provided for them. That was one of the greatest events in the history of the British Empire, occurring at a time when disunity was going on among the provinces. I shudder to think of what might have taken place if Their Majesties had not visited us this year. May God grant that he and his wife may be long spared to the Empire and the British people."

His Honor added a denunciation of Hitler and Stalin, although he did not name them, seeking the downfall of Great Britan, men who have been dubbed the very enemies of God. He suggested that the Grand Jury might make some reference to these things. "I hope the people of this country will fully understand the position we stand in today, and be prepared to see that our rights and liberty are not trampled on. If that day should come, then Christianity is done. There is only one other country remaining, the United States, to take up the torch where we would throw it."

"It is inconceivable to me that there should be any apparent lackadaisical attitude of the people of this country when we realize that there are enemies trying to bring about the downfall of Great Britain and her Empire. What would happen if an enemy cruiser, an airplane carrier, appeared off our coast. What would happen to our safety and security? It is time this country rose up with an answer in no uncertain effort to see that our arms are crowned with success."

a man has usually got on his feet in business and is able to support his family. So both husband wife are saved the terrible strain upon affection that comes when their nerves are stretched to the breaking point over how the rent is to be paid and where the next meal is coming from.

The danger to those who wait too long to marry, however, is that after 30 we begin to harden in our characters. We are no longer plastic; we find it difficult to adapt ourselves to others; we acquire ways that are as the breath of life to us, and it irritates us to have any one interfere with our habits.

So common observation, as well as statistics, show that the proper time to marry is when we are old enough to know our own minds and young enough to change them.

Jury Declines Hasty Assent To Abolishment

Exercising its sovereign right as an integral part of the courts of this country and of the administration of justice, the Grand Jury in the present sittings of the County Court and General Sessions of the Peace declined in its reply to Judge J. A. McGibbon to give hasty and briefly considered assent to His Honor's approval of a proposal to abolish the Grand Jury.

"We would respectfully point out to Your Honor that such abolition should be carefully looked at from every angle. It has shown its usefulness under our democratic system of government by preserving every safeguard devised for the protection of each and every citizen of the state, and it would seem well to carefully consider its abolition so that we do not leave ourselves open to any radical principles of justice which have been carefully preserved and handed down to us from the time of Magna Charta.

In concluding this report we express our deep appreciation of your remarks anent the loyalty of each and every resident of this our beloved Dominion to the Crown and Empire, so well exemplified by the recent visit of Their Majesties, the King and Queen, when for the first time in the Dominion of Canada's history, we were enabled to show and give that loyalty in person. In these times it behooves each of us to keep the torch of Empire high, so that the highest of ideals of loyalty to King, Dominion and Empire shall not be forgotten."

—V. A. SELKIRK, (Foreman).

The members of the Grand Jury were:

Donald N. Cameron, farmer, Otonabee; Irwin Chittick, farmer, Smith.

Deburke Sproule and W. J. Swanger, accountants, Peterborough.

E. G. Taylor, gentleman; Peter Wallace, plumber, Peterborough.

W. G. Waterman, farmer, North Monaghan, and Harold Throop, employee of the Quaker Oats Company.

An interesting observation of the Grand Jury's independence of thought and the collective caution of its members was the incidental fact that Judge McGibbon, winner of the Military Cross, and Verne Selkirk, foreman, were both in the Canadian army in the Great War.

Jap Wiles

an effort to ingratiate himself, Kawamoto became a disciple of Wu in the study of Buddhism. Wu's answer remained an adamant "no."

Wu previously repeatedly had stalled off the Japanese by last-minute manoeuvres and by presenting exorbitant terms for his aid.

Three weeks ago, Kawamoto returned to Peiping from conferences in Japan and Shanghai and informed Wu the Japanese government and its Chinese collaborator, Wang Ching-Wei, were ready to accept Wu's demands.

These were that Wu would head the proposed government, that he must have his own sphere of influence in Peiping or Nanking, and that he must be accorded real military and political powers.

When Wu continued to temporize, Kawamoto told him he (Kawamoto) had lost enough "face" already, and that unless Wu acted immediately he intended to commit hari kiri in Wu's home.

Wu said he must consult his god before giving a final answer. He accordingly ascended a platform in his home, as he was accustomed to do twice weekly, and there knelt before an image of Buddah and asked divine guidance in drawing his answer from a series of specially-prepared lots.

It was said the altar attendants, in the pay of the Japanese, had stacked the lots.

At any rate, Wu drew a reply which advised:

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

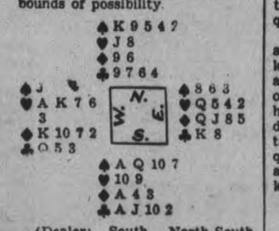
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP HIM GUESSING

BEFUDDLING your opponent, so that he has to guess and with a good reasonable chance to guess wrong, is one of the attributes of fine bridge. Many a time careful use of such tactics can enable you to make a contract which otherwise would be far beyond the bounds of possibility.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Edward Kenton, famous Knickerbocker Whist club campaigner, used two rather fancy plays to make the contract on this deal, one which he called a "pseudo-end play" and the other a "semi-end play." He was in 4-Spades, having bid 1-Spade himself, North 2-Spades, he 3-Diamonds as a mild semi-psychic slam try, North 3-Spades and he 4-Spades.

Off-hand, he is destined to lose two tricks in hearts, one in diamonds and one in clubs, but he made his contract just the same. West took the heart king and ace and switched to the spade jack to the ace. Two more spades settled the opposition, then the club 9 was covered by the king and ace. On the seventh trick came the "pseudo-end play," Mr. Kenton leading the club 10. West, believing his partner might have the jack, ducked. This made it possible to throw West into the lead then with the club jack to the queen.

West was on the spot. He was afraid to lead from his diamond king into a possible ace-queen and so counted on South for another heart. He therefore led the heart 6, on which a diamond was discarded from the dummy, the trick being ruffed with the spade queen. Followed then the diamond ace, a diamond ruff, the spade king and a club.

Tomorrow's Problem

After the lead of the spade deuce, how should South play for overtricks at 3-No Trumps?

Hand-To-Hand Scrap Swings Tide In German Attack

PARIS, Dec. 7—(CP Havas) — Along a broad section of the front from west of the Vosges mountains to the Moselle river, numerous German raiding parties during the night crossed no man's land in a series of sharp raids on French outposts.

The attacks followed 24 hours of comparative calm and began shortly after nightfall. In virtually every case the fire of automatic weapons supported by batteries farther back forced the German patrols to retire before actually reaching the advanced French positions.

An attack of considerable magnitude was also staged on the Lorraine front in the vicinity of Wissembourg, where on Tuesday three successive attempts were made to take advanced French posts. Throughout the night there was machine-gun fire and the explosion of shells until finally in the early morning hours a broad attack was launched. In all these attacks the German objective of taking French prisoners was not realized.

Outpost Raids

Details of one of these attacks Tuesday, as revealed by military authorities today, show the extent to which the German command is expending forces on this type of operation. The number of men used in the attacking party was considerably larger than usual. Divided into separate columns, approximately one company of German infantry left different parts of their line and converged on the small French outposts. Their advance was supported by extremely violent fire from "minenwerfers," or mortars, which dropped their missiles in an arc around the post being attacked.

Despite this strong fire, the attackers were stopped by the French automatic weapons. Instead of retreating to their lines, as is usual in

London, Dec. 7 (CP)

WHO'S WHO FOR 1940 today gave Adolf Hitler the same 29 lines for his biography as in 1939, but his foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, gained four lines and credit for Germany's expansion.

Prime Minister Chamberlain got less space than Hitler even with the addition of a new line describing his book—"The Struggle For Peace, 1939."

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, was given 64 lines with two changes, the publication of "Step by Step" and change of his address to Admiralty House.

American Finns 230 Strong Race To Front

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 7—(AP).—Two hundred and thirty Finnish-Americans arrived today to enlist in the Finnish army to fight against Russia.

A spokesman for the group said they left New York as soon as they learned Finnish independence was threatened. They sailed for Norway, and then journeyed by train across Sweden to Helsingfors.

News of the Russian invasion reached them as they were waiting in a railroad station in Sweden. When they boarded their train they offered the conductor money for every minute cut off the regular schedule, the spokesman said.

The group expects to be sent to the north central sector of the front. More Finnish-Americans will follow as soon as possible, they said.

Rumors circulating in the capital today that Russian forces had broken through the Mannerheim line—the system of defences on the Karelian Isthmus—were discounted.

Reliable sources disclaimed any knowledge of sudden Russian gains in that sector and it was suggested the rumors probably originated with Russian broadcasts.

Helsingfors itself was quiet. The early dark ended another day without air raids

North Sea Battles Prove R.A.F. Tops In Air Scraps

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(CP)—German warplanes raided the Firth of Forth area shortly after noon today, but the air ministry said they were driven off by British fighting planes "and one of their aircraft was seen to be hit."

Authoritative sources also reported air engagements over the North Sea yesterday in which two big German Dornier flying boats were said to have been badly damaged.

No bombing was reported in today's raid on the Firth of Forth, strategic inlet on which lie Edinburgh an dthe Rosyth naval base.

It was authoritatively reported that in two North Sea encounters yesterday German Dornier flying boats were badly damaged.

Real Fighters

It was said yesterday's North Sea fights "again demonstrated the superior fighting qualities of British air crews."

One British pilot said of his fight against one of the German flying

German Crew Saved By Coastal Ship Says Berlin Report

BERLIN, Dec. 7 — (AP). — An aerial combat in which a German flier finally plunged his plane directly on to a British plane, causing both to fall into the sea off the Netherlands island of Texel, was described to-day by the German News Agency.

The agency said the two German planes and one British plane engaged in a bitter fight with one of the German ships firing successive volleys on the pursuing British airman.

After the short dog fight during which the two German planes were unable to fight off the single British ship, one of the German planes was flown directly into a collision with it, the agency said.

The German communique recorded artillery action on the western front and referred the collision in reviewing aerial manoeuvres of yesterday and last night.

It said:—

Coffee Will Be Most Prized German Gift

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 — (C.P.)—John Rawley, a National Broadcasting Company Representative in Berlin, described his Christmas shopping in a short-wave broadcast from the German capital yesterday and said the most appreciated gift in all Berlin would be a pound of Coffee—but that was out of the question There are toys aplenty but of food and other necessities, Rawley said, the supply is limited. The largest section in the shops, he said, are devoted to Military toys.

Rawley wanted to buy a Necktie for a friend. He discovered that would take three "permission" slips out of a book of 100 which must last him a year. Candy came to Rawley's mind next, but he had long since had the ½ pound which was his quota. Gloves and handkerchiefs require permission slips and so does everything else except household furniture and fixtures.

The German Newspapers, he said, which usually carry many pages of Christmas advertising are almost barren. Even with extra food allowances for the Christmas season, he said, the festive boards in Germany this Christmas will be "pitifully laden." There will be no meat, perhaps some extra dried peas or beans and perhaps a little gingerbread.

Nazis Tip Dutch To Cut U.K. Off

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (AP)—The German government will consider the Netherlands truly neutral only if she should refuse exports to the British Isles, informed sources said today.

A system by which British consular authorities would issue certificates of origin, it was said, would be regarded as tantamount to "giving comfort" to Britain.

(The Netherlands government yesterday officially denied it had agreed to submit certificates to British authorities showing the origin of Netherlands exports before they leave the country.)

Such a system, one source said, would be a "breach of international law" and the Netherlands should decline to ship anything to the British Isles in retaliation.

(Britain has suggested the certificate system to speed the transit of cargoes through the British contraband control.)

Last Minute News Flashes

OSLO, Norway.—(AP)—An agreement to do "whatever possible through the League of Nations to inaugurate peace negotiations between Russia and Finland" was reached today in a conference among the foreign ministers of Sweden, Denmark and Norway. A communique announced they also discussed "consequences which the war in Finland may have on the general situation," but the results were kept secret.

Ankara Charges Nazis Brew Russo-Turk War

ANKARA, Dec. 7 — (AP), — Turkish newspapers to-day accused Germany of trying to provoke a Turkish-Russian war and said Turkey might demand the recall of German Ambassador Franz von Papen.

The incident arose over circulars bearing the watermark of the German Embassy Press Service, which reprinted an article from the Moscow newspaper Pravda, Communist Party organ, attacking the Turkish press.

Turkish newspapers declared the Pravda article had been mistranslated. The circulars were distributed especially to newspapers and press correspondents.

Turkish newspapers charged the German Embassy with attempting to stir up a bitter debate between the Turkish and Soviet press which might have serious consequences.

"We realize your intriguing aims, but will not fall for your game," the newspaper Aksham declared.

Acquit Constable On Perjury Charge

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 7—(CP).—Arthur Millson, county constable, residing near Bowmanville, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in county court here, when he appeared on a charge of perjury. The charge was laid after a liquor trial in Bowmanville against William Simpson. At that time two witnesses, MacKey Richards and Clifford Brannigan, of Bowmanville, testified that Millson permitted them to take two pints of beer from a case under seizure by Millson and Provincial Police in a raid.

Britishers Buy $93,000,000 Defence Bonds

LONDON, Dec. 7— (CP). — The British public already has purchased more than £21,000,000 ($93,000,000) in defence bonds and war savings certificates, the House of Commons was told today by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer

"The House will appreciate," he said, "that it is not easy to give precise figures to date, since new issues are on sale in thousands of banks and post offices throughout the country.

"I am glad to say, however, that the response of the small investor to the offer continues to be very gratifying. To Tuesday, savings certificates known to have been applied for were 13,250,000 units, representing £10,000,000, not allowing for applications in transit. The sale of defence bonds to yesterday was £11,226,370.

Veteran Of Trail Is Ready To Retire

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 7—(CP).—Sam Pranteau, veteran of Manitoba's northland dog trails, mushed eastward with the Christmas mail today, but "Old Sam" thinks it may be his last Yuletide trip. Now over 60 he's ready to retire and turn his postal route over to one of his four sons.

Pranteau, slightly stooped from years of battling northern blizzards, his face burned almost black from the wind sun and snow, left yesterday with three dog teams and sleds carrying more than 7,200 pounds of mail for the settlements of Cedar Lake and Grand Rapids, 150 miles east of The Pas on the shores of Lake Winnipeg.

Finns, Russians Resort To Indian Fighting; Knives Popular Weapon in Twilight Raids

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 7. —(AP) —The Kirkenes correspondent of the newpaper Dagbladet today described the Finnish-Russian warfare in the Arctic darkness around Petsamo, Finland, as "old-fashioned redskin fighting," including hand-to-hand encounters with long knives.

The correspondent described detachments manoeuvring carefully in the winter dusk, patrols suddenly clashing, and brief but furious exchanges in which the Finns' automatic rifles were said to have been of great advantage.

One Finn was credited with the single-handed slaughter of 70 Russians attempting to land at Liinhahamari.

Although Russian pressure was said to be increasing, their airplanes and heavy artillery were described as being of little value due to the long darkness and rough terrain.

(From Kirkenes, the director of the Canadian-owned nickel works in Northern Finland reported all foreign employees had been removed safely from the Petsamo district and that many already were en route to England and Canada).

Neutral Victim

Amsterdam, Dec. 7 (CP)

THIRTY-FOUR survivors were picked up by a lifeboat when the 8,159-ton Netherlands motorship Tajandoen was torpedoed in the English Channel today.

The fate of the remainder of the vessel's 67 passengers and crew was unknown.

It was the eighth Netherlands ship sunk during the war.

Bound for the Netherlands Indies, the freighter, which had accomodations for a limited number of passengers, carried a mixed cargo.

Air Force Grows, Moves Into Bigger Quarters

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 (CP) — The Royal Canadian Air Force is growing. Indicative of added stature was the establishment today of the R.C.A.F. in new headquarters, much more commodious than the restricted offices in the Canadian building which have served since 1924 when the R.C.A.F. was established.

The Canadian Air Force, predecessor of the R.C.A.F., was created in 1920 with an authorized peacetime establishment of 1,340 officers and 3,005 airmen. However, there were only 54 officers and 239 airmen in the service at that time.

In 1926 the strength numbered only 190 officers and 1,115 airmen while there were no more than 172 aircraft available for a wide range of duties.

No indication of present R.C.A.F. strength can be published. But the authorized strength at the outbreak of war was 1,500 officers and 15,000 airmen and since then material advances have been made and the empire air scheme has been put forward.

Provision has been made for the training of army co-operation squadrons at Ottawa. An air training command with headquarters in Toronto, is responsible for intensive training of flying personnel in Trenton, Ont., and Camp Borden, Ont.

Finally 22 flying clubs throughout the Dominion are at present co-operating with the R.C.A.F. in providing elementary training for provisional pilot officers.

Canada's Buying Power Increases 5 P.C.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7. — (CP).— A bountiful harvest and the outbreak of war spurred Canadian business and stimulated the steady recovery of the first 10 months of this year.

In the first six months improvement was moderate but the advantage has been widened in recent months and present indications point to the purchasing power of Canadians increasing at least five per cent during the year with a more equitable distribution throughout the nation, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day.

Industrial production showed a gain of more than nine per cent in the first 10 months compared with the same period in 1938. A reactionary factor has been decline in wholesale prices and the 10-month average of common stock prices was three per cent lower than 1938.

Mining stocks advanced nearly four per cent and the bond market was steady until August when war threats led to a precipitous decline. Prices rebounded, however, in October.

Canada's mineral production was about 10 per cent higher than last year, the Bureau said, with gold, nickel, zinc and coal output reaching encouraging levels. Nickel exports in the first 10 months amounted to more than 197,000,000 pounds, nearly 20 per cent more than last year.

Gold Shipping Advances

Gold shipments to the Mint reached 4,042,650 ounces, valued at $141,000,000 and a gain of 12.2 per cent over 1938. "Canada's coal mining industry has at last been reinvigorated after years of discouraging conditions," the Bureau reported. "Increased activity in the iron and steel mills is responsible for part of the current advance.

The barometer of manufacturing activity shot up with all principal

Finnish Line Cracked Says Moscow

Drive Toll Costly For Russians Says Swede Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 7—(AP).—The Soviet Russian Army claimed today it had smashed the main Finnish defence line on the Karelin Isthmus and was advancing northward.

The Leningrad command's communique said that "Soviet troops, after artillery preparation, broke through the main defence line of the Finns along the Vuoksi water system, known among Finnish White Guards as the 'Maginot-Kirke' Line."

The natural defences of the Vuoksi water system, a chain of lake sand watercourses zig-zagging almost acros sthe 65-mile wide isthmus north of Leningrad, had been augmented, it is said, by pillboxes, trenches, wire entanglements, tank traps and mines.

(A Swedish woman newspaper correspondent reported to Stockholm that the Finns were exacting a tremendous price for the invasion of the Isthmus.

(She quoted a Finnish commander, Alexander Keelblom, as saying that the Russian frontline forces there, counting airmen, numbered at least 100,000 with another 100,000 in reserve. Helsingfors military experts have estimated that about 200,000 Russians were engaged in the campaign on all fronts.

("Whole companies advancing in line were mowed down by Finnish artillery and infantry in thousands," the correspondent wrote. "Many Russians had no leggings, only overshoes, which were filled with straw and bound with cord.")

The Russian advices said that the isthmus line lies about 16 miles from the border at its nearest point and that, aside from the break-through, Red forces advanced all along the

30 Boys And Girls Raid, Loot Santa Toy Shop

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7 (AP) — Thirty boys and girls, impatient for Christmas, stormed Santa Claus' storehouse and ran away with 400 toys.

Later seven repntant raiders helped the Santa Claus Club, Inc., recover most of the toys, intended for poor children. But scores of playthings, including 50 dolls to be given to orphan girls, were missing or broken.

The children, six to 16 years old, met outside an abandoned church where the toys were stored.

"They've moved away. They don't want those toys in the basement," said the youngsters. "They'd have taken them if they did."

That was the signal for the raid.

Boxed packed full of dolls, teddy bears, fire engines, model airplanes and doll furniture were ripped open. Many toys were trampled and torn in the excitement.

Fred J. Hoelderle, who has helped repair the playthings, heard of the raid and hurried over. Boys and girls, their arms full of toys, scurried in all directions.

Plan Secret Sitting

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today that a secret sitting of the House would be held next Wednesday.

The Opposition has been demanding a secret sitting for some time, to discuss questions concerning war supply.

Dutch Motorship Torpedoed; 6 Crew Missing

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 7 — (CP-Havas).—All 14 passengers were saved but six of the 53 crew members are still missing, following the torpedoing in the English Channel today of the 8,159-ton Netherlands motorship Tajandoen, according to a message from the captain received here.

The Belgian steamship Louis Scheir picked up the survivors from one lifeboat, and went in search of another. All ships passing through the Channel were asked to be on the lookout for survivors.

Trawler Hits Mine.

LONDON, Dec. 7—(CP)—The Admiralty announced today the British naval trawler Washington, 209 tons, was sunk by a mine yesterday in the North Sea with a loss of eight lives.

Polish Sub Escapes.

LONDON, Dec. 7— (CP). — The Polish submarine Wilk (Wolf) has escaped from Baltic waters and joined the British navy along with the submarine Orzel, the Admiralty said today.

The Wilk, built at Le Havre in 1929, has a surface displacement of 980 tons, carried six torpedo tubes and two guns.

Holland Resents Nazi Attacks Over Blockade

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Dec. 7.—(AP).—A high official of the Netherlands government took issue to-day with German attacks on neutrals for their lack of strong measures to combat Great Britain's sea blockade.

Likewise, he said, "there is no obligation to answer with violence action of German U-boats or unreasonably long detention by German authorities of numerous Dutch timber ships out of the Baltic."

If German wishes were followed to the letter, this official said, Italy, Japan, Norway and Holland would have to reply to British blockade with violence and this would mean war with France and Great Britain.

"Whether this would please Germany is a question which it is not the place to answer here," he added.

He said it was known in Germany that no neutral country would bow to superior power without protest. He said that in 1870 when neutral Britain was delivering war materials to France, Germany confined herself to diplomatic protests because she recognized her inability successfully to meet British sea power.

Small neutrals must take the same attitude, he insisted, saying "there is no reason why they should lost their neutrality."

He warned, however, hat if neutrals were pushed too far by the belligerents they would "reply to violence with violence regardless of from which said it comes."

Jury's Verdict Surprises Judge McGibbon

"Well, gentlemen of the jury, I don't see how in the world you came to your verdict. But, the responsibility must rest on your shoulders. There is lots more I would like to say, but perhaps the least said the better. You are discharged."

In those words Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay accepted at 6 p.m. on Wednesday the verdict of not guilty from the jury that acquitted Robert Hamilton, 36, of Otonabee Township, an employee of a local factory, of an indictment of reckless driving preceding a collision at Reid and McDonnel Streets between 7.30 and 8 p.m. on July 1 last, with a car driven by Donald Reid of Detroit.

If customary formality was followed to the last little nicety of judicial procedure, it wasn't noticed in the atmosphere of surprise and tenseness that fell upon the court room. So, it may be safe to say that His Honor did not ask the usual question of whether counsel had any comment or motion to present. V. J. McElderry, K.C., Crown Attorney, was silent.

If W. J. Arthur Fair, counsel for Mr. Hamilton made a formal motion for the dismissal of his client, the only reporter present did not hear his words.

And if Judge McGibbon addressed Mr. Hamilton, telling him he was free to go and offering him parting advice, again the reporter heard nothing more from the bench than previously from the two members of the bar.

The only concluding familiar note was the adjournment of the Court

2 Liners Collide Off Scotia 1 Abandoned, Some Drown

HALIFAX, Dec. 7.—(CP)—Crew members of the steamship Manchester Regiment 5,989-ton pride of the Manchester Line merchant fleet, were in Halifax today with story of how their ship was rammed at sea Monday morning by the 14,118-ton liner Oropesa.. An unannounced number of the Regiment's crew were lost in the collision.

When she collided with the Regiment, the Oropesa was carrying 42 crew members of the freighter Chancellor, which went down Saturday after being rammed by the tanker Athelchief.

There were no casualties in the Chancellor-Athelchief crash. The latter vessel was able to proceed under her own power.

The Oropesa was not badly damaged in her collision with the Manchester Regiment, but the latter ship had to be abandoned and is believed to be still afloat as a derelict.

Halifax officials of Furness Withy, Limited, agents for the Manchester Regiment, would not say haw many of her crew were lost. They said that al lwere British and all next of kin have been notified.

Both the Chancellor and the Athelchief were outward bound when they collided. Captain W. B. Wilford of the Chancellor said on his arriva lhere that "the Athelchief just loomed out of the fog and struck us amidships."

The Oropesa was close by and

U. S. Reserves All Its Rights In Face Of U. K. Blockade

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)— The United States it was learned today, has reserved all its rights under international law in connection with Great Britain's order in council to stop German exports from being made through neutral countries.

It is understood this reservation has been communicated to the British Ambassador, Lord Lothian, for transmission to his government.

The reservation of rights, which was said to be strictly not in the nature of an open protest, was based on two points:

1. A question of principle under international law. In the first Great War the United States, as long as it was neutral, refused to accept the British commercial blockade of Germany.

2. The United States really needs some of the articles it used to purchase in Germany. Among these are fine precision instruments. Officials are interested in seeing that these continue to come to the United States.

It is understood here that Britain is willing to make a concession on the point of such essential purchases to permit them to come out.

Having reserved its rights under international law, the United States will be in a position to file any claims to damages which might result from the British order against German exports.

Italian Move Looms To Stop Reds

Alliance Is Hinted With Hungary To Warn Moscow

ROME, Dec. 7 — (CP-Havas). — An Italian move to stop any Russian drive in South-eastern Europe was believed imminent here to-day as the Fascist Grand Council prepared to meet with Premier Mussolini.

The agenda of the meeting, the first since last June, was kept secret, but diplomatic quarters said the most important topic probably would be the threat of Soviet expansion in South-eastern Europe, one of Italy's foremost anxieties at present.

Some observers went so far as to suggest an alliance between Italy and Hungary designed as a warning to Russia, might emerge from to-night's meeting of the Council, highest organ of the Fascist regime.

It was believed likely that the communique published after the meeting would reaffirm Italy's interests in Danubian and Balkan Europe.

Japan Pressing Deal With Russia

TOKYO, Dec. 7—(CP)— It was learned on reliable authority today that conversations looking toward a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia now are in progress.

Despite official denials, it was said that both sides had made tentative proposals while seeking to avoid the appearance of taking the initiative.

Tending to support observers beliefs that the negotiations were designed to impress Western powers, the Japanese News agency Domei published a report yesterday that the United States' attitude toward Japan would affect "to some extent" the future relations of Japan and Russia.

Domei said such a statement was understood to have been made by Seijiro Yoshizawa, chief of the American affairs bureau of the Japanese Foreign Office, in conversations with Eugene H. Doodman, Counsellor of the American Embassy.

Yoshizawa was reported to have said that Japan did not contemplate a non-aggression pact with Russia but was seeking to settle outstanding issues.

The United States had denounced its trade treaty with Japan, effective January 26, and Ambassador Joseph C. Grew has expressed resentment at Japanese treatment of American interests in China.

Sentiment in Japan for a non-aggression pact with Russia followed the Russian treaty with Germany last August. In mid-September, an armistice was reached in the border conflict between Japan and Russia on the Manchoukuoan-Outer Mongolian frontier. Thereafter, anti-Russian expressions by Government officials and in the press ceased.

Dogs Worrying Sheep North Of Hastings

HASTINGS, Dec. 7.— (ENS) — Dogs are reported worrying sheep in the immediate district north of here. One night this week, a sheep was found wandering about the main intersection here at mid-night. When the owner was traced, it was found to belong to Gordon English, a mile north of this village. The next day, one of his sheep was found dead and two others had strayed several fields away and were found wedged under the foundation of a barn apparently trying to evade the dogs.

Help BIG BOWEL First!

When Only Few Inches Need Aid, Don't Upset All 25 Feet of Intestines

Since most constipation occurs in the big bowel (marked X), there's no wisdom in upsetting the whole bowel tract just to help those last few inches. Yet many people still take calomel, salts, and oils — remedies which start their action at some entirely different place in the bowels. And then wonder why the action is so harsh and distressing!

These people should know about CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS. Made with cascara, said to give "nearest to natural action" of any cathartic, these chocolaty tablets concentrate their aid on the big bowel—where waste commonly jams-up. In 10 to 12 hours—overnight, if you take them at bedtime—they move it those last few inches to bring relief. And do so with no unpleasantness, and without upsetting the whole intestinal tract.

Secret Weapon Hinted In Nazi Plane Crash British Officials Silent On Affair After Mysterious Victory Off Norfolk

LONDON, Dec. 7 (CP Cable)—The Daily Sketch said today that a "new secret British weapon is believed to have brought down a German bomber which crashed off the Norfolk coast yesterday."

The tabloid newspaper gave front page prominen e to the report which lacked confirmation in official quarters.

"No official announcement can be expected for some time, but there are very good reasons for the claim being made," the paper said. "Last night a hint was dropped deliberately in high official quarters that the Nazi raider had met its doom through a weapon of which Britain has never boasted."

Official sources refused comment but intimated the story originated from a member's guess in the House of Commons lobby.

Most newspapers speculated that the plane's crash was the result of a mechanical failure with the Daily Mirror suggesting it merely was acting as a decoy to focus attention away from other Nazi craft dropping mines near the Thames estuary.

The air ministry announced that British planes had made a successful flight over northern Germany Wednesday night.

The Greek steamship Paralos, 3,934 tons, was sunk in the Thames estuary yesterday with three of her crew killed. The 22 survivors were unable to say whether the ship hit a mine or was torpedoed.

David Lloyd George observed the 23rd anniversary of his appointment as prime minister during the first Great War by reminiscing of those days in a broadcast last night. In 1916, he said, "The most serious menace of all," was at sea, and the prospect was "dark and well-nigh desperate."

The present government's conduct of the war was approved, 303 to 125, by the House of Commons last night in a vote on Labor party criticism of the organization of manpower and resources.

The ministry of economic warfare announced that 735,000 tons of contraband intended for Germany had been detained by the Allies since the war began Sept. 3. For the week ending Dec. 2, it said, the contraband control board had considered the cargoes of 110 neutral ships.

Mr. Churchill, the paper said editorially, "was the bearer of good tidings, he was able to produce convincing evidence that the Royal Navy was proving itself fully equal to its immensely onerous job, that its manifold duties had been successfully discharged."

One of the First Lord's "invaluable contributions to the confidence which he succeeds in inspiring, is that he gives no encouragement to easy optimism, by attempting to gloss over realities and to minimize their significance," the editorial added.

It is not known how the casualties on the Regiment occurred. Members of the freighter's crew who took to the boats were picked up by the Oropesa.

Both collisions occurred in what was described as "pea-soup fog." Captain E. W. Raper of the Manchester Regiment was among the survivors.

GALE ON LAKES.

At noon storm signals were hoisted on instructions of the Meteorological Bureau.

Fears were expressed for the safety of a survey boat being towed from Kingston by the tug Neshwaak.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

The pilot said the crippled German craft then sought refuge in low clouds, apparently hoping to limp home.

The pilot reporting damaging the second Dornier said he climbed between the enemy and the sun and then dived, "plastering the Dornier with lead."

The Air Ministry announced an air raid warning was sounded in the Firth of Forth region "shortly after mid-day" today.

The all clear signal was given after 35 minutes. Heavy gunfire was heard all along the coast and planes were observed diving from a great height.

"We are pleased to announce that Colonel B. O. Hooper, D.S.O., M.C., has been appointed secretary of the Ontario Conservative Campaign Committee and will also act as secretary of the Ontario Conservative Association.

"We are very fortunate in having obtained Colonel Hooper's services and we feel sure that the appointment of a man of his outstanding experience and ability will be heartily approved throughout Ontario.

"Colonel Hooper has had unique opportunities to study the problems of this province and he brings to the work he has now undertaken active contact with many phases of public service.

"He served during the last war with great distinction. He received the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross for deeds of outstanding bravery. At the end of the war he was in command of the 20th Battalion. Ever since then he has been actively associated with the leading organizations concerned with the welfare of veterans and is today on the management committee of several of the most important organizations of this kind.

"He has held senior positions of great business responsibility for many years and in a very successful career has commanded the respect of all who have been associated with him.

"He will occupy offices in the Victory Building, Richmond Street West, Toronto, Ont. The secretarial duties of the Ontario Conservative Association and of the work connected with the campaign organization will be carried on in this office. As a further step in the strengthening of the organization of the Conservative Party in Ontario, arrangements have been made for the appointment of a field organizer with considerable experience in work of that nature. His present business connections make it impossible to announce his appointment, however, until January."

such instances, the German soldiers hugged the ground even after they saw that their attack had failed. Not even French artillery fire, which caused heavy losses among them, forced a retreat. The French commander then ordered a sudden counter-attack on the flank of the German band, which relieved the post and finally forced the Germans to retreat.

Despite quite favorabel weather, very little aerial activity was reported on the front. The Germans sent over only a few long-distance reconnaissance planes whose presence at an extremely high altitude caused air raid alarms in Northern and Western France.

This morning's official communique said: "There was marked activity by patrols on both sides. There was intervention by both artilleries in consequence."

It was estimated that Lord Nuffield's gifts to the government and to philanthropic and educational institutions during the last 10 years total more than £16,000,000.

Over For Parley With My Boss Says Bennett

TORONTO, Dec. 7—(CP)— Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Prime Minster of Canada now serving as representative in England of the Dominion's Red Cross Society, arrived here on Wednesday for what he described as "a talk to my boss."

Mr. Bennett reached New York Tuesday from his English home and came immediately to Toronto. On arrival here he conferred for a few hours with Norman Sommerville, K. C., national chairman of the Red Cross.

"I've just come to get information from my boss," he told reporters.

"I have seen the advance officers of the Canadian Active Service Force in London and they are working like slaves," he said. "Their job is being well done and they have been well received."

Mr. Sommerville said the conference with Mr. Bennett could not be revealed at length but the chairman of the British committee had reported full co-operation from the British cabinet, the war office, the British Red Cross Society and all other sources.

"Mr. Bennett brought us first-hand information about all the prob-

Drivers Are Given Suspended Sentence

LINDSAY, Dec. 7.—(ENS)—James Clarkson and Leslie Harrison, both of Little Britain, came before Magistrate Gee this week and received suspended sentences of two years each and Clarkson had his driving licence suspended for six months, on charges laid following a motor fatality near Little Britain on November 15th. Mrs. Clarkson was killed in the accident. Clarkson was charged with dangerous driving, and Harrison answered a charge of driving a buggy without a light. County Crown Attorney Anderson said it was one of the most pathetic charges the court has ever had to deal with. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson were on the way home when the lights on their car went out, necessitating the use of a flashlight to complete the trip. They had driven on the left side of the road, and did not see Harrison's team and buggy proceeding in the opposite direction without a light until it was too late to avoid a collision. "The accident was the result of negligence on the part of the two men," Mr. Anderson stated. "If either vehicle had carried lights, the accident would not have occurred. I do think that they have been punished sufficiently already by the realization that Mrs. Clarkson lost her life as a result," concluded the County Crown Attorney.

Campbellford Ladies Start Red Cross Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7 (ENS). An enthusiastic group of ladies attended the initial work meeting called by the local branch of the Red Cross society and held in the council chambers of the public library Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Betty Bright gave a short but interesting talk on the method of rolling bandages, which work will be taken up by the women at a later date. It was announced that wool was being purchased and will be given out at the next meeting to those who wish to knit socks. An even larger attendance is hoped for next Tuesday, when the executive will have a large amount of material on hand.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Dec. 7 — (CP). — Bullish reports from the new crop areas of the Argentine shot wheat futures prices as much as three cents higher on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Light profit-taking occurred at top levels, however, and quotations finished 1⅞ to 1⅝ cent higher, December at 81⅜, May 85½ to ⅝, and July 86½ cents.

Coarse grain trading also followed a spectacular trend as excellent general buying boosted prices in all commodities. Flax and rye values soared to new seasonal highs, while barley prices added two cents and oats were up a cent.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 8.

An extremely strenuous day, with affairs moving at high tension and excitement, is likely judging by the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. Carefully-executed, constructive plans and major objectives may be attained under high pressure and with the co-operation of influential persons. However, these may suggest a drastic about-face in methods, ways and means, even to the point of complete change of environment and associates.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a year of great activity and initiative, with the forces and faculties pitched to high levels of achievement. Decidedly constructive and practical ideas may enlist the ready support of those in power and authority. But it seems that a definite change of plans, processes, place and personnel may be needed for attaining the richest objectives. Manage this with equanimity, precision and faith.

Burgin Produces "The Goods" As Supply Chief

LONDON, Dec. 7—(CP).—When the House of Commons meets in secret session some time next week to discuss supply, one of the chief Government spokesmen presumably will be Leslie Burgin, upon whose broad shoulders rests the responsibility of transforming Great Britain's industrial system into a vast arsenal of war.

When Prime Minister Chamberlain picked his 52-year-old cabinet colleague to take over a key post as Minister of Supply there was a murmur of criticism. Mr. Burgin, the critics said, lacked practical experience.

Undismayed, he applied himself to his task with such energy and efficiency that criticism changed to praise almost overnight. He seized the imagination of the country with his motto: "We Must and We Will Deliver the Goods."

Some idea of what the ministry has accomplished is gleaned from recent statistics. Three years ago Britain had only four ordnance factories in production. Today she has 30. Only half a dozen firms were engaged in shell manufacture a few years ago. Now 68 plants are pouring out munitions. The ministry has contracts with 6,500 firms doing war work and has surveyed the resources of 9,000 others. In the first three week's of the war, orders totalled approvimately £70,000,000 $311,500,000). Since then that figure has been more than doubled.

The ministry has taken over control of iron, steel, non-ferrous metals, textiles, timber, paper and a score of other key materials. Basic prices have been regulated against profiteering.

Their Country Feels The "Squeeze"

Rumania Ignores Red Hint To Sign Pact

BUCHAREST, Dec. 7 — (AP). — Official Rumanian quarters today exhibited scant interest in a Communist suggestion made in Moscow that Rumania sign a mutual assistance pact with the Soviet Union immediately.

The suggestion, public in the Comintern's official organ, was attributed to a Bulgarian Communist who is now in Russia, rather than to Soviet officials.

Foreign diplomats, while doubting that Russia would bring serious pressure to bear on Rumania before the Finnish campaign is completed, expressed belief Rumania might yield somewhat if great pressure occurs.

These circles said Rumania might conceivably cede Bessarabia, the former Russian province Rumania won after the Great War, in return for a Russian guarantee of Rumania's frontiers against Hungary and Bulgaria which also have demands on Rumanian territory.

More War Ahead?

LONDON, Dec. 7—(CP).—"Communist International," Moscow publication that speaks for the Comintern, today published an article that conceivably could be the prelude to war on a vast scale in southeast Europe.

It said Rumania should sign a mutual assistance pact immediately with Russia similar to those signed by the Soviet with Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. Through those pacts Russia gained naval and military bases on the Baltic. Now she is trying to take by force similar bases from Finland.

PARIS, Dec. 7 — (CP-Havas). — The French were called on to-day to work for France as healthy cells within a living body by Dr. Alexis Carrel, famed bio-chemist.

Captured Boatload Of Nazi Spies Only Six Homesick Sailors

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(A.P.)—Government authorities plunged a few sharp facts, which they said were well-established, into the Capital's latest war mystery today and presto! there appeared nothing more sinister than a half-dozen more or less home-sick German sailors.

It all started yesterday when the United States Coast Guard picked up the 43-foot Yawl Lakala near Wilmington, N.C., with no explanation except that it was manned by a crew of German-speaking seamen. All sorts of speculation arose.

Today authorities made public this account for the avowed purpose of avoiding what they said might develop into a spy scare.

The men had been employed on Tankers of a United States Oil Company until outbreak of War, when they decided they had better go home. They bought the Lakala in New York and took her to Baltimore to stock with provisions. There, the quantity of rations taken aboard—nearly enough for six months—aroused suspicions.

When the boat returned to New York, she was detained by the Coast Guard, and the Justice Department was called in to investigate. The Germans told G-Men they took on so much food because if they were unable to find a German ship on the Atlantic they would try to sail all the way to Germany. The Yawl is fitted with sails and an auxiliary motor.

Their story was accented by the United States Distrist Attorney. The Germans then started southward but were picked up again near Wilmington, and turned over to the United States District Attorney for North Carolina for compliance with a law passed during the last war.

This law requires nationals of a belligerent country who leave the United States to contact belligerent vessels to supply bond before they depart.

25 P.C. GERMAN GOODS

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7—(AP).—The newspaper Libre Belgique today said the French and British had agreed to allow Belgian ships to carry German exports up to 25 per cent of a ship's tonnage. This equals the present traffic. German exports via Antwerp have been reduced 50 per cent since the war began.

No Troop Ship Sunk

OTTAWA, Dec. 7—(CP)—The Department of National Defence today issued a statement denying widespread rumors that a troop ship had been sunk with Canadians aboard.

"The Canadian naval authorities state there is absolutely no truth whatever in such a rumor," said the Defence Department statement.

The fire was spreading rapidly, but it was quickly brought under control.

Cheese Factory Output $17,531

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7.—(ENS)—The farmer is the one who prepares the milk and is therefore the most important cog in the wheel of cheese production Dairy Instructor W. J. Moore of Peterborough told patrons of the Trent Bridge Cheese Company at their annual meeting. Mr. Moore, who was principal speaker of the afternoon stressed the importance of clean, well cooled milk without which no cheesemaker can make bonus-producing cheese. He said it would pay patrons "handsome dividends" to help the cheesemaker in installing an artificially cooled curing room. At the conclusion of his remarks this particular matter was discussed by patrons who left it with the president and George Brooks to investigate and report back at a later date.

Mr. Clarke, manager of the Bank of Toronto, Havelock, also spoke briefly congratulating both the maker and the company on their year's work.

The report given by the secretary indicated a smaller volume of business as well as a lower prevailing price during the current year. A total of 1,699,887 pounds of milk were delivered to the factory and yielded 56,053.6 pounds of butter fat. Production average 11.8 pounds of milk per pound of cheese and 2.56 pounds of cheese per pound of butter fat. Averag price for butter fat was 24 cents and for cheese 12.2 cents. The net selling price of cheese totalled $17,531.30 including the bonus of $1,491.91.

Officers for 1940 were elected as follows: President and secretary-treasurer, H. B. Wood; auditor, Wm. Barrie; directors, T. K. Thompson, Harold Van Volkenburg, Oliver Garneau, Rufus Redden, Don Maloney, James McMillen, John Buchanan, James Simpson and Sam Buchanan.

Charged With Murder

PONTIAC, Mich., Dec. 7—(CP).—Satisfactory progress was reported to-day by physicians attending Ernest Edward Best, 42-year-old automobile worker, shot twice in the face while standing with his bride of nine days in front of a restaurant. A charge of assault with intent to murder was laid against Mrs. Esther Wise, 41-year-old widow and former friend of the wounded man.

Swedish Boy Scouts Prepare For Air Raids

Fearing a similar fate as that now overtaking Finland, Sweden is rapidly preparing its defences. Swedish Boy Scouts are shown here as they took part in an air raid precaution drill. Earlier Opening Is Expected For Cheese Factories In Spring

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7—(ENS)—A suggestion that factories might have to open two or three weeks earlier next spring was given by President of the Woodland Cheese Factory, George Van Volkenburg, speaking before patrons at their anual meeting Tuesday. The speaker expressed considerable optimism for prices not only of cheese but also of bacon and butter during the coming year.

Four reasons were given as causing the low average price throughout 1939. First of these was that the consumption of cheese in the United Kingdom was down below normal owing to colder weather throughout the summer. Second was the large stock of cheese on hand in both Canada and the United States while the unfavorable rate of sterling exchange and the international situation further aggravated conditions.

Returning to problems affecting the local patron, Mr. Van Volkenburg explained why it took eighteen days before the patron was able to get any money from his milk at the factory. The cheese must be left for ten days in the curing room and following sale on the board the buyer is allowed another eight days to make payment.

Survey Needed

J. D. Mills, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, offered the opinion that farmers in this country had been suffering from lower prices of recent years largely due to the fact that countries in central Europe which ordinarily would be large consumers of our agricultural products have been erecting tariffs in an effort to force production in their own borders in order to become self-sustaining. He felt that a survey of farmers' costs of production should be made before any price fixing was done by the government. Speaking further in this regard Mr. Mills drew attention to the fact that it took three years before the government attempted to control prices in the last war whereas in the present conflict it was only a matter of hours before the machinery was put into motion.

The patrons passed unanimously a resolution offering to render all such service as possible to Canada and the Empire for the duration of the war and to produce cheese and other products in such quantities as desired. In the event prices were set the producers asked that they should be assured the cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

Secretary M. J. Blakely gave the financial report which disclosed patrons had received an average of 23 cents per pound of butter fat or 25 cents per pound including the bonus of $541.39 and sales of whey cream $421.68. The average price received for cheese was 12¼ cents and though 93 was the top score for the year the average was well maintained with losses of less than twenty boxes during the season. Patrons supplied a total of 1,055,838 pounds of milk which yielded a total of 34,378.2 pounds of butter fat and 87,421 pounds of cheese. Twelve pounds of milk made one pound of cheese and average 2.54 pound per pound of butter fat. Total receipts received by the thirty-five patrons were $11,521.56.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, George S. Van Volkenburg; secretary, M. J. Blakely; auditor, Jos. Quinn; directors, John Quinn, Ed. McConnell, Ernest Stevenson and Fred McCulloch.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Adolf Hitler has been unusually quiet recently. The Nazi dictator has had nothing to say since November 8, when he narrowly missed death in the Munich explosion.

Yesterday Hitler entered the news briefly by reason of a call on Field Marshal August Von Mackensen, one of Germany's heroes of the first great war who celebrated his 90th birthday.

Hitler's silence on war developments since November 8, however, gives rise to renewed speculation about the possibility of divided counsel within the Nazi regime.

Just before he left the Munich beer hall a few minutes ahead of the explosion Hitler told his followers he would speak to England in England's own language and that he had given orders to prepare for a five-year war.

Since then Germany has intensified its war on Allied shipping by the indiscriminate laying of a new type of mine and Great Britain has retaliated by the seizure of German exports. Russia has invaded Finland.

Hitler has watched all these events in silence. Perhaps he is too busy to make speeches and perhaps he is in doubt as to what to say. While his forces have suffered no serious defeat on land, sea or air he and his followers have other troubles.

Chief among them are: The slowness of his economic experts in getting supplies moving from Russia; the growing effectiveness of the Allied blockade; the difficulty of reconciling intelligent Germans to Russian aggression against Finland, hitherto regarded as within the German sphere of influence.

Butter In Week For Cleveland Relief Hordes

CLEVELAND, Dec. 7 — (AP). — Ohio's relief crisis comanded wider attention today as Governor John W. Bricker clashed with New York's mayor and the Works Administration commissioner over conditions.

The statewide situation remained critical, with the two hardest hit cities, Cleveland and Toledo, striving to get enough funds for the rest of the month.

Mayor Fiorella La Guardia of New York, quoting Governor Bricker as having said "we should stop waste and extravagant use of public funds and federal expenditures for social betterment," declared:

"I call upon Governor Bricker to take back those words and provide the necessary funds to take care of the people starving in Cleveland and elsewhere in his state."

Governor Bricker denied having made such an assertion, adding:

"Mayor La Guardia was not elected governor of Ohio, and as I understand it he has plenty to do in New York. When we need him in Ohio, he will send for him."

In Washington some house of representative members said congress might consider providing for unemployables in light of Ohio's plight.

At least 12,000 persons here are "surviving" on food from the federal surplus commodities corporation. These thousands were loped off the relief rolls when the city's funds ran out.

Aid Greatly Reduced.

The rest of Cleveland's relief dependents, almost 50,000, are getting sharply curtailed aid or nothing at all.

There is little evidence of knowledge of Cleveland's relief condition on the main streets of the city where business is at its best in years.

This week the F. S. C. is giving out 14 carloads of apples and 10 carloads of flour. That is all. Schedules explain that single persons get three pounds of flour and four pounds of apples, couples get six pounds of flour and eight pounds of apples and so on.

Next week they will get rolled oats, butter and squash.

Need is most evident in the negro districts. Steady streams of people file in and out of the store rooms where distribution stations have been set u.

A woman was asked how her family gets along on just apples and flour.

"We make pancakes," she said.

A man was told that he would get butter next week. His reply was "what will we put it on. I haven't a nickel to buy bread."

ARTILLERYMEN AND SAPPERS COP "Y" HOUSE CAGE CONTESTS

Tank Corps Win Wild Fray From Pursuits

Artillery gained a contending position by beating Bombers 32-23; Sappers edged Machine Gunners 20-16 to continue their victory march; and the Tank Corps sunk Pursuit Squadron 71-49 in a wild finale.

Artillery won their second straight by trimming Bombers in a fast battle, taking a 13-9 lead in the first half and adding more in the final period. Both teams checked stubbornly and the points by both sides were made the hard way. Artillery took a lead early and stayed in front all the way, despite a brief rally by the losers at the start of the last half. Thorburn lead the winners with 16 while Gillespie had 9 with Levine topping the losers in scoring with 11.

Strengthen Lead.

Sappers fattened their winning streak and strengthened their position at the head of the league by edging Machine Gunners, their nearest rivals. The winners lead 8-4 at the half but just managed to break even at 12 points each in the final period. The shooting of both teams was poor. Holmes was banished with four fouls for the losers, and both teams roughed it up a bit. Sedgwick paced the Sappers with 10 points as McIntyre also stood out. Dougherty was the losers' top scorer with 6.

The Tank Corps finally broke into the win column again, lacing Pursuit Squadron in a wild marthon contest that concluded the night's card. They led 23-18 at the half and then went wild to score 48 points in the final period, while Pursuit Squadron could only tally 30. Both teams' shooting was far above average and defense was a forgotten factor. All players on both teams shared in the scoring with Jakafby, Rennie and Weese leading Tank Corps and J. Paterson and Ferguson atop the losers with 23 and 22 points. The teams:

Bombers:—Levine, Mortimer, Murray, Gillespie, Grose.

Artillery: — Currie, Thorburn, Craig, Thomas, Gillespie, McDonald.

Sappers:—Whaley, Stewart, Marshal, McIntyre, West, Sedgewick.

Machine Gunners: — McArthur, Ward, Harle, Dougherty, Holmes.

Pursuit Squadron:— J. Patterson, B. Patterson, Rogow, Ferguson.

Tank Corps:— Jakafby, Lacheur, Broadley, Rennie, Weese.

Remember When—

Eight years after losing the world heavyweight boxing title to Jess Willard in Cuba, Jack Johnson was refused a licence by the New York Boxing Commission 16 years ago today because he was "too old." The colored battler, who held the crown for five years, was granted a conditioner's permit by the commission.

To Hold Grand National

MANCHESTER, Dec. 7. — (CP Cable)—Sir Warren Fisher, regional commissioner for Northwestern England, in a dinner speech here last night said "we are going to have the Grand National at Aintree" in 1940.

The Liverpool Spring meeting, during which the Grand National normally is held, is scheduled for April 4-6. During the war years 1916-17-18 the Aintree event was cancelled and a substitute race run at Gatwick.

Playoff Is Off

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—(CP)— The proposed playoff for the Eastern Canada junior football championship between Sarnia Imperials and Ottawa Gladstones is definitely off, Coach Arnie Morrison of Gladstones said today.

"I was talking to the Sarnia coach (Claude Harris) by telephone today and his offer of $300 plus expenses and a share in the gate receipts was unacceptable," Morrison said.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

There were 12 eastern football teams started out the year—11 of 'em were knocked off, and the end is not yet here. Podden the synthetic rhyme; it must be the weather. Or Xmas shopping. Anyway, a dozen senior squads in Eastern Canada swung into action early in October. Four college crews of Western, McGill, Queen's and Varsity. Western won and then settled down to the prosaic business of studying for exams. Four O.R.F.U. outfits left the barrier together, Sarnia, Westmounts, Beaches and Peterborough Orfuns. With Sarnia copping the duke once again but losing in the Eastern Canada playoff. Four Interprovincial teams started, Ottawa, Argos, Hamilton and Mo'real Royals. Ottawa won the group, defeated Sarnia and now meets Winnipeg Bombers in Ottawa this weekend for the Dominion championship. And then rugby, definitely on the wane now, will be shouldered right off the sports pages till next year.

* * * * * *

But first we'd like to suggest to grid authorities that Canada should have a spectacle like the U.S. Rose Bowl game each year. It couldn't be betwixt Canuck teams, of course—there not being enough senior groups — nor would climatic conditions favor a game being held too late. But why not have the Dominion final winnah meet an outstanding U.S. squad the middle of December —or a bit earlier, under arcs? With rules of the two games adjusted somewhat. Maybe in Toronto for the S.P.A. or Red Cross. Call it a Varsity Bowl or a Pickle Bowl or something! Better still, why doesn't the O.R.F.U. executive get smart and bring in the best of the Detroit squads to playoff with the O.R.F.U. winner the first of December? The good U. of M. club, the U. of Detroit or Michigan State. Canadian fans would love to see how an American team shapes up against a good Canuck crew. It's an idea.

Trophy For Bun

The Hiram Walker Co. miniature trophy has been sent to Ed Riley for Bun Kingdon, winner of the most valuable player of the Petes' ballsters trophy this year. The big cup is in Bun's care now, good for a year and with his name inscribed on it. A pip of a trophy, too. This miniature is a neat job, also, and will go to the local second-sacker for keeps. It has his name on it, the moniker of the ball club and the year marked on it. The trophy is not like the big one—which has a ball player atop it—but is one shaped so as to hold about three fingers of whatever ya want to pour into it!

* * * * * *

British Navy is much too busy now—and, in any case, would never consider it—but we just thought it'd be nice if the navy would declare a blockade on athletic imports and exports to and from Peterborough for the winter. And maybe toss an embargo, too, around other centres in the province. See how it would work? The local hockeyists, who haven't an import this year, would not suffer—rather they'd gain by keeping such players as Red Creighton, Bill Calladine and Ned Vitarelli from leaving here. And such spots as Belleville, Trenton Airport and Oshawa would be compelled to use homebrew hockeyists, too. The two-way embargo would see to that and, of course, the British Navy would be equal to all occasions, even magnetic mines placed in the Trent Canal or Otonabee River by rival marauding managers! Naturally, this blockade would last only till spring—on account of we need imports for lacrosse and baseball!

First Of Season

Petes have an exhibition puck fray 'gainst the Generals in Oshawa at 8.30 tomorrow eve, and local fans may turn out for the tilt in fair numbers. To see how the new Buckland bunch looks, and also to get a look-see at the Memorial Cup champs. Benefit game, dough going to the Red Cross. Locals will use a full squad in uniform this joust and have a return tilt with the same team later. The contest is billed to start at 8.30 sharp.

* * * * * *

Belleville Redmen and their press agent have agreed but quite reluctantly to have Oshawa grouped with the Redmen, Fliers and Petes. They don't like the idea—fearing the ex-Senior "A" squad, which is now shot up considerably. Quinte columnist says: "Maybe before next spring, the Petes' crowd may wish they'd never sponsored an Oshawa entry into this setup." He adds that the locals appear pretty weak on paper, and that their defence is knocked into a cocked hat. Golly, we'd better hunt up those crying towels—tucked away in the grid midseason. Didn't realize the Petes were so awful. Strikes us that two pretty fair forward lines can be fashioned out of such material as Tompkins, Kingdon, Starr, Coughlin, Blewett, Heal, J. Jopling and Cadd. And a good rearguard out of such experienced gees as Crowe, Gardner, F. Jopling, Ellis and Burton. With Harding and McNabb for goal. Yeah, our Belleville pals, we're not worrying too much.

Lakefield Team In

Comes a letter from Lakefield this a.m. informing us that the Lakefield Junior Hockey Club has been organized and will operate in the O.H.A. junior "C" series. All Lakefield and district junior puckists will be asked to try out for berths as soon as ice appears. Executive is: Hon. President, G. K. Fraser; hon. vice-prexy, E. S. Northey; president, T. W. Chaplin; vice-president, F. L. Erskine; manager, C. Calhoun; assistant, R. Kilbon; coach, Dr. Morin; secretary-treasurer, Jack M. Morrison. We are tickled to see the Lakefield puck moguls hop in again with a junior team and they ought to be able to line up a right potent pack of young puck-chasers.

* * * * * *

Still nothing comes in officially regarding O.H.A. groupings. Seems to us the O.H.A. executive is most lax and tardy in this respect. They're holding up a lot of plans by such slipshod methods —and, what's even nuttier, the various members of the executive are giving out unofficial group versions here and there. Latest one that is announced—though not okayed openly by the odd O.H.A.-ers as yet—is a five-team junior setup including our Colts and Oshawa as "B" teams, with Cobourg, Lindsay and Port Hope as "C" clubs. Probably an interlocking schedule will be drawn up shortly, N. S. Moore being convenor at Port Hope. Wonder if the association secretary is slipping in his press timing and releases.

Eastern Play Puts Bombers Under Handicap

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 7—(CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers learned the lesson of their football lives last year when Toronto Argonauts whipped them 30-7 in the national final.

As the Bombers prepare in Hamilton for the 1939 final with the Rough Riders at Ottawa Saturday, it is evident in the absence of rash talk that coach Reg Threlfall and his Bombers absorbed more than just a beating when the Argonauts ran over them. They may surprise everyone in the degree to which they picked up angle son eastern play.

No longer does Threlfall speak of how his big, fast linemen will "butcher" the East's linemen, or of how his charging outside wings will stop end runs "like nothing at all."

He says he has learned that, under the three-yard interference rule in the Canadian rugby union code, Eastern linemen can shift just enough that swift blocking won't do them too much harm. A lineman who recedes with a three-yard charge can still be standing up to tackle when the ball-carrier comes along.

Threlfall apparently has patterned a defence aimed at letting a secondary defence player nail the last man on an end run. Red Storey was the last man on the Argonaut end runs in 1938 and there is no need to recall that Storey ran for three touchdowns and set up another.

Interference Big Difference.

Threlfall is almost non-committal this year, but he acknowledges the biggest difference in the Western Canada conference game and the C. R. U. game is created by the amount of interference allowed.

"If we only could play with our 10-yard interference and send our linemen through at Ottawa's secondary defence, we'd put on a show for the people in the East," de declared.

"No, I'm not conducting a campaign for adoption of Western rules, because I know the people here like their own game. But I'm trying to point out that we do come under a handicap in rules and may look sloppy trying to adjust ourselves to a different style."

The charging tactics of such Winnipeg linemen as Martin Gainor and Herb Peschel won't have all the effect Threlfall would like them to have, but Ottawas massive linemen will know they have been to the wars after 60 minutes against the young, battering frontwall. Then the Bomber wingline may block a couple of kicks, the way Sarnia did against the Riders in the Eastern final last week.

BILL COWLEY
Boston Bruins

By Central Press Canadian

When a couple of young fellows named Roy Conacher and Mel Hill started hitting the headlines with their scoring feats for Boston Bruins last season, one of the big reasons was Bill Cowley, their centre, one of the best hands in the National league at setting up a play for his wings. He led the league in assist with 34 and while assists are sometimes peculiar quantities in the N.H.L. you can count on most of Bill's being earned. He's been a Bruin now for four seasons, going into the fifth, and in the last three he has been the team's chief point-getter with totals of 35, 39 and 42. Makes his home in Ottawa, where he began his hockey career, going on a European tour with the Shamrocks of that city in 1933. Started the 1934-35 season with Halifax seniors, later turned pro with the St. Louis Flyers, that being the Flyers' year in the National league. When the Flyers folded Bill, was secured by Boston. Achieved fame there on a line with Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands until Art Ross moved him to the pivot post between Conacher and Hill, as recently as last February, after he had missed a month of play with a wrenched knee. Production of the trio immediately doubled. Cowley is on the small side as the Bruins standards of measurment go, weighing around 170. Has lifetime mark of 54 goals, 105 assists, only 41 minutes served in penalties.

Leo Rodak Is Given 10-Round Decision Over Canada's Lightweight Champion

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7—(CP). — Leo Rodak learned a lesson the night he fought the Canadian lightweight boxing champion, Montreal's Dave Castilloux, in Toronto last July.

The Chicago fighter lost that 10-round go, but he profited by the experience. He said later that he had learned the way to beat Castilloux was to fight back whenever he was hurt.

Rodak put his schooling to good use here last night in a return match with Castilloux. His constant aggressiveness kept Castilloux, who also holds the Dominion's featherweight title, from getting set and he boxed his way to an easy, 10-round decision before a poor crowd of 3,776. Both fighters weighed 132 pounds.

Castillouv had Radok in trouble twice, once in the seventh round and again in the ninth, but the Polish fighter stood up gamely to his opponet and weathered the bad moments.

Kilrea Leads Parade To Indianapolis

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—(CP)—Dissatisfied with the way Detroit Red Wings are faring in the National Hockey League, Manager Jack Adams plans a new deal. He's going to strike a goal-getting combination or know the reason.

Hec Kilrea

The Wings haven't fared so well since the start of the season. They have played 11 games, winning 4 and tieing one. They have scored only 22 goals while 34 have been parked behind Tiny Thompson, Detroit goalie.

Adams announced four players will be shifted to Indianapolis, International-American League leaders. Three players will be brought up as replacements.

The shift sends "hurricane" Hec Kilrea, veteran Ottawa winger, to the minors for the first time in his playing career. He will be accompanied by his younger brother, Kenny, Jack Keating and Scotty Bowman. Bowman is a defenceman while young Kilrea and Keating are forwards.

Connie Brown, the Int-Am's leading scorer, Byron (Butch) McDonald and Alex Motter will move in from Indianapolis to take their places.

Now 32 years of age, Hec Kilrea broke into professional hockey with Ottawa Senators back in 1925. After the Senators' franchise was shelved in 1931 the league governors divided the players among the various team. Kilrea coming to Detroit.

Later he was bought by Toronto Maple Leafs and after two seasons there returned to Detroit where he has been used mainly as a utility forward.

Kilrea's name was written in hockey history in 1936 when he passed out to Mud Bruneteau who scored to give Detroit a 1-0 victory over Montreal Maroons in a Stanley Cup playoff game. The deadlock was broken after 176½ minutes of play, the longest game on record.

Boston Purchases Les Scarsella

CINCINNATI, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The first important player deal of the baseball convention was closed yesterday when the National League champion Cincinnati Reds sent Les Scarsella and a "small amount of cash" to Boston Bees for Pitcher Jim Turner. Scarsella was a reserve first-baseman for the Reds last season.

Turner, a veteran right hander, should bolster an already strong Cincinnati staff. Scarsella will play first for the Bees, it was announced, enabling Manager Casey Stengel to transfer Buddy Hassett to left field.

In 1937, his first year in the majors, Turner won 20 games for Boston and led the National League in earned-run average. He is 33. He was badly hurt last season when struck in the face by a line drive.

Rough Riders Be Taken To Gatineau Hills

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—(CP).—Ottawa Rough Riders hold their last workout to-day before being spirited away to Gatineau Hills retreat for a few leisure hours far from the maddening crowd of this football crazy capital.

Riders will remain in hiding until Saturday morning when they pop back into town for the Dominion title game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Manager Jimmy McCaffrey hopes that if the team gets out of the city the players will get a real chance to rest in a place where they won't' be hounded by ticket chasers. The scramble for tickets has become so keen that Wes Brown, club treasurer, is in hospital suffering nervous prostration and McCaffrey doesn't want any of his footballers jittery with the same affliction.

About 15,000 fans are expected to overflow Lansdowne Park stadium for the gridiron battle. Special bleachers are being built on three sides of the field and tickets have gone so fast they are just about ready to hang out the standing room only sign.

A new press box to accommodate between 20 and 30 sport writers and their telegraph operators has been erected to replace the old one which bore a striking resemblance to an oversized soap box. The field is being harrowed and if the mild weather of the past few days holds, will be in excellent condition.

Grimes Resigns As Manager Montreal Royals

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 — (CP). — Resignation of Burleigh Grimes as manager of Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League was announced last night by Business Manager Guy Moreau. The veteran spit-ball pitcher, who managed the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League before coming here, still had a year of his two-year contract to run.

Moreau made the announcement after a telephone conversation with President Hector Racine, who is attending the baseball convention in Cincinnati. Racine, Mareau said, felt it was "in the best interests of all concerned that Grimes not return to Montreal next year."

He added that "Burleigh and the club parted on the best of terms, and everybody feels better about it."

Grimes' successor was not announced, but it was believed that a new manager would be named shortly.

Royals had a disastrous season after getting away to a flying start. They won eleven games on their first road trip and opened their stand here high in the standings.

Injuries, failure of key players to live up to expectations, and a jittery pitching staff soon started them down the ladder, however, and they wound up in seventh place, escaping the cellar only by sweeping their final series against Toronto Maple Leafs.

One of the old school of ball players who became known as "Boiling Billy" because of his frequent clashes with the umpires, Grimes came here at the start of last season, replacing Alex Hooks. He had managed the Dodgers for two seasons.

Grimes' successor will be the fourth Royals' manager in less than two years. Rabbit Maranville was Hooks' predecessor and he gave up the job only a short time before the 1938 season closed.

Club officials said Grimes' departure would not affect Royals' agreement with the Dodgers, although it was understood that Larry Macphail, head of the Brooklyn system, would have liked Burleigh to complete his term.

Most prominently mentioned as new managed was Del Bissonette, former Brooklyn first baseman, who also played here. Popular in Montreal, Bissonette managed Quebec to the championship of the Provincial Baseball League last season.

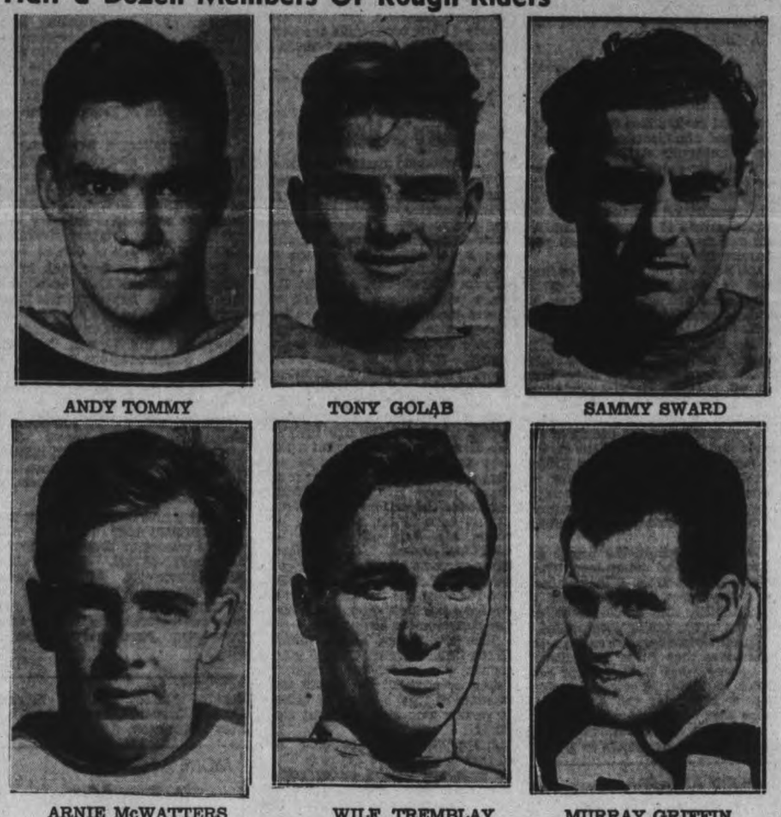
Half a Dozen Members Of Rough Riders



ANDY TOMMY — TONY GOLAB — SAMMY SWARD

ARNIE McWATTERS — WILF TREMBLAY — MURRAY GRIFFIN

Come Saturday members of Winnipeg Blue Bombers will have the task of stopping these players on the attack and getting past them when they're on the defensive. They represent part of the backfield of Ottawa Rough Riders, eastern Canada grid champs, who battle the Blue Bombers for the Grey Cup and Dominion title in Ottawa. Sward and McWatters are newcomers to the team this year and look after the kicking, in which department they are expected to hold an edge over anything Winnipeg can offer. Tony Golab is another newcomer and one of the most powerful backfielders in the game. He is expected to constitute problem No. 1 for the Bombers. Tremblay and Griffin are playing their second seasons as Rough Riders while Tommy is the veteran of those shown here, with seven seasons behind him. He and Tremblay feature the eastern champs' running attack, while Griffin quarterbacks and passes.

Stewart Still Hot

His tirade came in the wake of a stormy verbal battle between the two men during a hockey game between the Blackhawks and Toronto Maple Leafs in the Chicago Stadium Sunday evening. Stewart, who refereed the hockey match, is here for a meeting of National Baseball League umpires.

"I'm not going to let Norris tell me how to run a hockey game," Stewart declared.

Judge Landis To Crack Down On Majors

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 7 — (AP) —There was a new high note of anticipation around the baseball circus to-day, a sure sign that "the Judge" — Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis — had arrived.

The baseball gathering had struck a sort of "dead centre" after three days. The minor league magnates had departed for their respective homes, and with three days still to go there was a crying need for new talent.

Landis was confidently expected to jerk the production back on its feet. Nobody knew exactly what he had on his mind, but there was an undercurrent of feeling that he intended to "crack down" on somebody. The big league magnates, with whom he was closeted to-day, have been worried and in a state of indecision about their "working agreements" with the minors.

The difficulty seems to be that the Judge, employing the "broad" powers vested in him, has continued to insist upon making his own interpretation of the baseball rules.

The owners say they certainly never intended to have a rule in the book, for instance, that would obstruct working agreements between big league teams and the minors. They even passed a silly-sounding amendment two days ago to the effect that the rule about working agreements meant only what it said and was not open to any other interpretation.

The Judge, meantime, sent word here that the boys could go ahead and make their working agreements if they wished. But none of them has done it—and none will until after Landis' temper has been sampled.

Goodyears Win Seven Straight

TORONTO, Dec. 7— Seven came up for Toronto Goodyears last night as the O. H. A. senior leaders rolled the hockey dice against Hamilton Dofascos at Maple Leaf Gardens and came away 7 to 2 winner for their seventh straight success.

An incessant offensive, as potent as it was prolonged, gave the Tire troop a decisive edge throughout Only Peg Hurst in the Hamilton net prevented them from reaping another rich harvest of scoring points. He was harassed from the first drop of the puck, but conceded the goals grudgingly and came away with the night's star honors.

The Tiremen raced away to a 2-0 advantage in the first period, widened it to 4-1 by the termination of the second and won going away They found the Hamilton defense in a weakened state because of the absence of Ab Tonn, who is ill, and Ted Manorek, who played only the final frame, and they sailed right through with little hindrance.

In the face of Goodyear's withering powerhouse, Dofascos suffered in comparison and only Peg Hurst performed up to expectations. McLeod, their most successful attacker, and Miocinovich scored their goals. Goooyears, who were supposedly travel-worn from their tour last week of Eastern U. S. hockey centres, didn't give them a chance to get started and majority of Hamilton's chances came on breakaways that usually were thwarted by fast-returning Goodyear pursurers.

Eddie King, fleet left-winger, and Johnny Inglis, rough-and-ready centre, paced the Goodyear assault. Both picked up four points. King assumed the league's scoring leadership as a result, now boasting seventeen points. Inglis is second with sixteen and O'Flaherty, former leader, who was held to one goal last night, is third with fifteen. Johnny Conick. Hamilton's ace marksman, was shutout completely.

Nazi Aide Slain; Had Food Stored For Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Clad only in a white lined nightshirt, Walter Engelberg, 42, a secretery attached to the German Consulate-General here, was found battered to death yesterday in the Brooklyn house he had stored with food and wine to last a year.

Manuel Martin, assistant medical examiner, said Engelberg, apparently had been attacked in his sleep and hit over the head with a heavy object. Dr. Martin said the ferocity of the blows indicated a crime of vengeance. The weapon was not found.

District Attorney William Geoghan asked the police to broadcast an alarm for an unidentified man, described as of small build and wearing a moustache, who had resided with Engelberg.

The secretary's body was found by Fred Doell, another Consulate employee, who was sent to Brooklyn by Dr. Hans Borchers, the Consul-General, to learn why Engelberg had not reported for work since Monday. Telephone calls to the house had gone unanswered.

Dr. Martin said the secretary had been dead about twenty-four hours. Blood had soaked through the pillow and mattress.

Neighbours informed Police Inspector William Reynolds that Engelberg, a bachelor, who held the degree of Doctor of Laws from a German University, had recently given a number of noisy parties, which lasted far into the night.

The police found food supplies in the kitchen alone to serve a man for a year, they said, and in the cellar wine enough to keep a man satisfied for a year. In a garage at the back of the house they found eighteen packing cases filled with dried and canned food.

Neighbors long ago had sensed something strange in the two tenants. One woman said they frequently had visitors, who arrived in expensive-looking cars.

The neighborhood buzzed, too, at times with talk of a mysterious radio in the house, and one of them said she had called the Federal Bureau of Investigation, whose agents investigated the house.

The F.B.I. offices here said today they had looked into Engleberg's home, and would not comment further.

Engleberg came to the United States about a year ago and for a time was stationed at the German Consulate in Chicago.

narrow neck of Finland north of Leningrad.

Reds operating against the Finns' western flank in the isthmus reported capturing Ino and Mesterjarvi, in the Fort Ino area on the Finnish gulf, and Perkjarvi, 22 miles from the border on the Leningrad-Viipuri railway.

Slogging through snowy forests north of Lake Ladoga, on the middle eastern front, Reds were said to have cut a railway line running from that large body of water across Finland to the Swedish border. The Russians said their forces had crossed the railway between Nurmes and Joensuu, 140 and 80 miles north of the lake, respectively.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, meanwhile issued a denial of Norwegian reports of Tuesday that Finnish airmen had destroyed 60 Russian planes at Murmansk with incendiary bombs. This, Tass said, was a "complete fabrication."

lems and factors that enter into our plans and organization in England," Mr. Sommerville said.

"Plans for the hospital at Taplow, its furnishings and equipment, the progress being made in setting up our organization in England and the future extent of hospitalization for our own men and our allies all were matters for discussion."

Mr. Bennett said the spirit of England is calm, serious and determined, the average Englishman, he said, is grateful for Canada's support.

"My trip has no political significance," he said, "but since telephone communications have been cut off between Canada and England I found it necessary to return."

"One quarter of the people of the world and one quarter of the earth's surface go to make up the British Empire," he continued. "Now we know that one tyrannical dictator has declared that it is his purpose to destroy this empire and all that it stands for."

"In Great Britain the people are calm, serious and determined. Their calmness rises from a long experience that goes with centuries of responsibility and achievement, especially in the art of government.

"Their seriousness arises from the realization that Hitler is dedicated to destroy what it took them centuries to build. Their determination is based on the sure knowledge that life itself will be sacrificed by the English people, rather than existence as vassals to Hitler."

The construction industry registered minor acceleration and great industry activity was reflected in a nine per cent. increase in electric power output. "Producers are beginning to look to their resources for future demands," the Bureau said.

The Bureau also stated that "the railways are beginning to see daylight again." Car loadings rose 3.3 per cent. in the 10 months and earnings of the Canadian National Railways domestic lines advanced nearly 7.5 per cent. while the Canadian Pacific Railway went ahead 3.7 per cent.

Jury's Verdict

of the General Sessions of the Peace until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The reporter did not even notice the twelve men of the jury leave their seats and the room. Attention was too closely fixed upon the silence of Judge McGibbon, Crown Attorney McElderry, and Mr. Fair, while the judicial signature was placed upon the record of the trial. The silence continued for only a minute or so, but the time seemed longer, until E. W. Boyer, court crier, was signalled to pronounce the adjournment of the Court.

The Grand Jury had returned true bills in the only two actions before the court, the one involving Mr. Hamilton, and the other a theft case against another accused man that was set over until Friday morning. Crown Attorney McElderry concluded the evidence of the Crown at the noon recess, and after luncheon Mr. Fair called only Mr. Hamilton himself for the defence. The addresses by counsel were comparatively brief, and Judge McGibbon reviewed the law relating to the charge of reckless driving in a manner dangerous to the public.

The jury retired at ten minutes to four, and returned at 5.40 with a request for advice on a question raised by some of the jurors as to whether it was a criminal offence to pass a stop sign (without stopping).

Judge McGibbon answered "no" to that query. "The Highway Traffic Acts say that a motor vehicle must stop before crossing a through street, but you are not concerned about that. The Act also says that if the speed of an automobile in a city is more than twenty miles an hour, that is an infraction of the Highway Traffic Act. You are to consider whether the accused, according to the evidence before you, was driving his car in a reckless manner."

The jury returned to their room and came back again in ten minutes with their verdict freeing Robert Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton's Evidence.

In his own defence on Wednesday afternoon Mr. Hamilton, examined by Mr. Fair, frankly acknowledged he had forgotten that the traffic signs at the place of the accident had been changed from the direction to which he had become accustomed some years ago while living in the west-end. The stop signs had previously been against the traffic on Reid Street, but are now against the McDonnel Street traffic. He said he was driving easterly on McDonnel Street at a usual speed of about 35 miles an hour.

"As soon as I got on to the intersection at the corner it came to me that I should have stopped," Mr. Hamilton said. "I didn't see the traffic sign. I used to live in the west-end of the city and at that time I knew McDonnel Street was a through street."

Mr. Hamilton said he had not been drinking, and it was not until some time after the accident when a friend invited him to his home and gave him "about an inch of brandy" because he was nervous and feeling blue as an effect of the accident.

To Mr. McElderry, he said the accident would not have occurred if he had stopped at Reid Street, and he added, "I should have stopped." His defence was simply that he had forgotten the change in the traffic signals at that intersection.

Mr. Fair stressed that point to the jury, especially the effect of habit and sub-conscious direction of actions. "You don't always think about what you are doing," Mr. Fair said, "but certain impressions are made on your mind that come back to you as they did to this man when his car entered the intersection of the streets.

Both Mr. Fair and Mr. McElderry spoke in turn about the duty of a jury. In his carefully measured remarks, Mr. Fair went further in relating them to the observations Judge McGibbon had directed to the Grand Jury on Tuesday in which he expressed his approval of a proposition that the Grand Jury should be abolished. His Honor also referred to trial juries in the administration of justice, emphasizing the seriousness of the oath taken by jurors and referring to several important cases within recent months in which the verdicts "were, shall I say, a miscarriage of justice."

Mr. Fair, in his address to the jury, said "some other members of the Bar and also of the Legislature have other ideas, and are in favor of the Grand Jury and the petit jury in our democracy."

Mr. McElderry simply remarked that the oath taken by the jurors required them to decide the case fairly an dimpartially between the Crown or the people and the accused, "and that is all I ask you to do. My duty is to bring out the facts relating to this case, and my friend's duty is on behalf of his client."

Mr. McElderry said he had seldom seen such unanimity, clearness and fairness of evidence as that which was presented by the witnesses for the Crown in this case. They were men who were unbiased and independent. "They just happened to be there at the time of the accident." He especially mentioned the evidence given by William Johnston who saw the accident from Dawson's garage; Robert G. Cottrell, who testified that Hamilton's car was travelling at a speed of 40 to 45 miles an hour passing his house, two hundred feet west of the corner.

Edmonton Regiment Of Same Stock That Formed The Famed "49th"

EDMONTON, Dec. 7—(CP)—Inheritors of a hard-fighting tradition that sent an earlier generation of Canadian infantrymen into many of the fiercest battles of the First Great War, the 800 officers and men of the Edmonton regiment are training for action in Europe's new conflict.

This battalion, a non-permanent unit mobilized and recruited to war strength since the start of the present hostilities, was chosen as one of four from Western Canada to make up the second infantry brigade of the first overseas division of the Canadian active service force.

Three of every four men in the original unit, the 49th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, were casualties as the regiment took part in such terrific engagements as Vimy 1917, Hill 70 and Passchendaele. Members of the unit won 200 decorations, two of which were V.C.'s, and the battalion was mentioned twice in dispatches.

The old 19th did its full share to shape the enviable record which caused Lionel Hart, British military critic, to recognize Canadian soldiers as the ace"shock" troops of the First Great War.

Officers and men of the new unit are confident they will prove worthy successors to those who fought at Mount Sorrel, Somme 1916, Fiers-Courcelette, Ancre Heights, Arras 1917 and 1918, Vimy 1917, Hill 70, Ypres 1917, Passchendaele, Amiens, Scarpe 1918, Hindenburg Line, Canal Du Nord and pursuit to Mons.

Organized in January, 1915, by Major-General W. A. Griesbach, the 49th was the only Edmonton unit which retained its identity in France. Major-General Griesbach, who had returned from France to organize the unit, took command and the 49th reached France Oct. 9, 1915, after four months' training at Shorncliffe, Eng.

Major-General Griesbach, now a Conservative member of the Canadian Senate, is the senior officer on the Dominion's active list of officers but has not been mobilized for the present war.

In the 21 years since Armistice, the Edmonton regiment has established Empire alliances which are believed by its officers to be the most complete in Canada. It is allied with the Loyal Regiment (North Lancashire), a famous regiment in the British army with battle honors dating back centuries, the Kimberley regiment of South Africa and the Wide Bay regiment (Ruth Battalion) of Australia.

Another distinction of the regiment is that it is one of two in Canada, not Highlanders, allowed to have pipe bands. When the unit's pipe and brass bands play together—also an accomplishment—their rendition of the regimental march, "Bonnie Dundee," is rousing martial music.

The present unit was recruited from the same territory as the 49th in 1915. About half the men are Edmonton residents and the other enlistments were from Northern Alberta, mainly from the Peace River district.

Italian Move

Meanwhile the Italian Government was reported to have abandoned, for the first time, the idea of a common front of Southeastern European powers against the Soviets. Observers said formation of such a bloc would be vain until the relations between Rumania on the one hand, and Hungary and Bulgaria on the other, have been cleared up. Hungary and Bulgaria claim slices of Rumanian territory.

Debate Russo-Finn War.

It is understood developments of the Allied-German and Russo-Finnish War will be discussed. The Allied blockade of Germany and its effect on Italian shipping also are to be debated.

Premier Mussolini conferred yesterday with Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German Labor Front.

Although Italy's attitude on the Russo-Finnish conflict is again making her the centre of world attention, "it is too late for Italy to resume her seat in the League of Nations," Virginio Gayda wrote in the Giornale d'Italia. He was replying to suggestions that Italy, an anti-Soviet power, attend the League sessions next Saturday and Monday to hear Finland's case against Russia.

Italy ceases to be a member of the League next Monday, when the assembly meets at Geneva. The expiration of Italy's membership, said Gayda, "is the one sure fact today."

Wine Plebiscite Being Held Not Democratic

Criticism of the method in which Peterborough City Council intends to hold a plebiscite on operation of the Hilrust Wine Company store in this city, found its way to the fore today on grounds of democractic principle.

Only those persons whose names appear on the municipal voters' list will have an opporunity to decide whether the company is to be permitted the right to decide whether the company is to be permitte dthe right to continue operation here, City Clerk Armstrong admitted this morning. When plebiscites on the operation of hotels or liquor stores are held under the Liquor Control Act — they may be held once in every three years—all adult residents of a community who have lived there for 12 months or more are qualified to vote. The terms of the L.C.A. however, do not apply to wine stores, it was learned from another source.

While Mr. Armstrong could not say how many residents of Peterborough would be deprived of a vote on the matter of a wine shop, it was learned elsewhere that an approximate 40 per cent. of the city's voters will not be eligible under the Municipal list.

Were the vote held under the Provincial election list, those 40 per cent would be included.

But most serious objection to be taken was to the inclusion of the name of the Hillrust Wine Company in the plebiscite.

"That is the rawest kind of discrimination, "one legal light declared this morning. "If they wanted the people to vote on the question of whether or not there should be a wine store in Peterborough, all well and good but this vote is on the question of whether or not this city wants one particular winery to sell its products here .If the answer is no the Liquor Control Board would be quite justified in saying, "Apparently you folk in Peterborough do not want this particular winery. Very well. we will meet your wishes this far that the Hillrust Company will be out but we will allow some other company to open up in Peterborough."

He is an old Peterborough boy, having been educated at Central school and the Collegiate Institute. He once worked in the Royal Bank here, but has been out of the city for a number of years. He was a member of the 48th Highlanders when that unit was organized on a non-permanent basis, and enlisted for active service with it the day war was declared.

Firemen Appeal For Old Toys

Firemen waited in vain Wednesday night for a deluge of old toys to be repaired and distributed to Peterborough's needy children this Christmas.

Yesterday they launched a 10-day drive for toys because there is a vast shortage this year and the deadline for repairs is drawing close. They expected that generous citizens, delaying donations until the last minute, would flood the Fire Hall with telephone calls and personal deliveries of toys. But the day closed with only a scattered few responding to the appeal.

"If yesterday was any indication of what we are to expect during the days that remain until the deadline on December 15, then I'm afraid there are going to be a great many unhappy children in this city Christmas morning," commented Fire Chief George Gimblett. "We wouldn't mind so much if we didn't know there are all manner of toys in the city that are just rotting away in attics and cellars—toys that are of no value or pleasure to their owners. These are the toys we want in the next nine days."

Kiwanians Aid Lytle Family

The Peterborough Kiwanis Club to-day came to the aid of the Lytle family of Dummer township, three of whose children died when their home burned to the ground recently. President W. A. Richardson said the club will donate ten dollars in new goods to the destitute family.

Meanwhile Mr. Lytle expressed his thanks through the Examiner for the assistance he has received, in addition to that previously mentioned in the Examiner. He said furniture, bedding and $3 cash had been received through the Norwood-Peterborough bus driver, and that a quantity of like donations had been received through Percy Little of Peterborough, where they had been left. He also expressed appreciation for a donation from the Eastern Star lodge, and to A. Ketchum for lending a truck to deliver the goods.

Campbellford Grocer Fractures His Arm

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7 (ENS). —L. M. Wood, local Tice street grocer, received a compound fracture of the arm, together with facial and undetermined chest injuries when he fell from a ladder in front of his store at noon Tuesday. Mr. Wood had been standing on a ladder stretched up from the sidewalk to the sign over his store which he was endeavoring to clean with a pail of water. The step-ladder apparently slipped on the walk, letting Mr. Wood fall unconscious to the pavement, where he was picked up by a couple of neighboring storekeepers and taken into his own establishment. Following emergency and first aid treatment, Mr. Wood was taken to his home.

Runaway Girl Hid In Barn Several Days

The story of how, after she had left her foster home in North Monaghan on Hallowe'en night, she had slept in barns and been supplied with food until finally she had been taken to Campbellford where she obtained a job, was told by fourteen-year-old Doreen Smith, ward of the Galt Training School for Girls, in Police Court this morning when Ross Kimball, 18, of North Monaghan, was charged with aiding her to escape from a training school.

The charge was laid under the Training Schools Act and judgment was reserved for a week by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., after he had heard the evidence and the argument of counsel, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for Kimball.

The Girl's Evidence.

Doreen Smith, the first witness for the Crown, said that she had been placed in a foster home with Mr. and Mrs. Adamson on Highway 7, in North Monaghan, coming there in April last after having spent a year and two months in the Galt Training School.

On Hallowe'en night she had left the Adamson house at 7 o'clock and had been picked up in a car by Ross Kimball. There were some other people in the car and Kimball had driven them to where they wanted to go, and then there was discussion as to her leaving the Adamson place. The girl stated that Kimball did not want her to leave, but she had determined to go. Finally he drove her to his own home and she spent the night in the barn there, Kimball bringing her some blankets and in the morning some food. The next day he had taken her to the Forster place where he was working and she slept in the barn there for several night, Kimball continuing to supply her with food.

Later Kimball took her to the home of a friend of his and afterward to some relatives in Keene, where she spent a night. Finally she was taken to Campbellford where the day after her arrival she obtained a job and remained until the authorities located her.

Couldn't Swim in River.

To Mr. Carley the girl said that she had not been satisfied with the Adamson home because it was out in the country and because they would not allow her to go swimming at Crawford's Grove, but made her go to the Y. She repeated that Kimball had tried to persuade her not to leave her foster home, but that she had persisted. She had said that she would hitch-hike and find a job and Kimball had warned her that that was a dangerous proceeding. She said she was not paid anything at Adamson's except 15 cents each Saturday.

Jean Murray, placement officer for the Galt Training School, told of Doreen Smith being placed in the Adamson home and of being visited there several times by her. She was not working there, but was boarding at the house.

Miss Murray told of coming to Peterborough to investigate after the girl was missing from her foster home and of interviewing Kimball who told her several times that he knew nothing about the whereabouts of the girl.

Questions Barred.

Mr. Carley tried to cross-examine Miss Murray as to the financial arrangement between the Adamsons and the School in regard to Doreen Smith, but Magistrate Langley refused to allow that point to be introduced. Miss Murray said that in August she had found that Doreen was becoming dissatisfied with her foster home, because she thought her liberties were being curtailed.

Mrs. Mary Adamson was the last witness for the Crown, and her evidence corroborated some of the previous details. She had not allowed Doreen to have a boy friend, she told Mr. Carley. The girl had never told her, she said, that she was not satisfied to stay with her.

Mr. Carley did not put in any defence, and in his argument contended that while the Training School Act did say that a boy or girl who escaped from a foster home could be considered as escaping from a training school, it had not made the two synonymous. The Legislature might have intended to have done so, but it did not do so, he declared.

As for Kimball's conduct in assisting the girl, Mr. Carley described it as misplaced gallantry. "His humanitarian instinct in supplying food for this girl after she had escaped," said defence counsel, "is rather to be admired. He tried to persuade her not to leave, and he warned her against hitch-hiking."

Magistrate Langley anncunced that several points required consideration, and he had decided to reserve judgment.

Supply Of Foolscap At Court House Has Dried Up; Lawyers Are Blamed For Making Too Freely A Use Of It

There is exceeding husbandry in foolscap paper at the Court House. In the ungrammatical phrase of common acceptance, try and find a sheet, just one sheet. You may try but you won't find. The supply of foolscap has dried up, and according to Jim Brownlee, caretaker, the lawyers used too much of it. Presumbably, Mr. Brownlee was simply repeating what he had heard from some higher-up, because he doesn't requisition paper.

So, the lawyers have to be content with small sheets of plain white paper, of good quality, 8½ inches by 5½ inches, about one-third the size of a sheet of foolscap. Some unidentified finger has been pointed at the whole legal fraternity of the city, adding possibly an injury to the earlier insult of having the county council chambers' doors barred against them as an accustomed and convenient avenue to the barristers' withdrawing room, adjoining the court room.

It may be that Alderman Gordon and other King's Counsel were too free and easy with the free foolscap. No names have been mentioned, and it is unfair to single out Mr. Gordon in this way, when no doubt the alleged prodigality applies to such others as Crown Attorney McElderry, T. J. Carley, K.C.; F. D. Kerr, K.C., and various other members of the Bar.

At any rate, the fact is that someone decided the consumption of foolscap was too high, and there is no more of it in sight. According to a forgotten arithmetical table on the back of scribbling books there are 480 sheets to a ream, 24 sheets one quire, 20 quires one ream—and at Soden's they quote foolscape at $2.75 for 1,000 sheets. Obviously county economy is sweeping into the corners, and according to Alex Elliott, secretary of the Peterborough Bar Association, he doesn't know of any reason why the ratepayers of the county should buy and provide paper in the court room for him and his associates.

"I suppose it is just an old custom," he remarked today, and on the strength of that statement the abbreviated sheets of paper are a gift. Incidentally no one has complained about the paper shrinkage, and the chief interest in the change lies in the fact that someone noticed an opportunity of microscopic economy. But, microscopic or not, the pennies still make the pounds.

Hunters Have Cleaned Out The Pheasants From Hastings Area–Sportsmen Annoyed

HASTINGS, Dec. 7.—(ENS) —Unscrupulous shooting of pheasants by hunters in this district has made farmers and sportsmen indignant. They claim pheasants would have become plentiful in the matter of a few years and that possibly the department of Game and Fisheries might have declared an open season for hunters. Scarcely a bird is to be found for miles. Bill Wellman said last night.

About eight years ago, the Department of Game and Fisheries made it possible for farmers to secure eggs of the pheasant and several took advantage of the offer in the district. Young pheasants were released in the woods but, sportsmen claim, many of them did not live long enough to hatch their young. It is known that winters in this district test the stamina of the birds but bird loving farmers have fed them when the snow was too deep to secure their feed from the land. Charles Peterson sad he fed about two dozen last winter but they disappeared one by one. George Lynch said he had seen several birds in the woods a couple of years ago. "Just try and find one now," he challenged.

Mr. Lynch said pheasants were a hardier bird than partridge which are reported plentiful this fall. "A pheasant does not possess the intuition of the partridge and will feed in the open fields where it is an easy mark for a hunter," he explained." A partridge stays well under cover and it takes a good hunter to beg even one of them."

East City Parish To Observe Silver Jubillee

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Church of the Immaculate Conception will be celebrated on Friday, its patronal feast day. Bishop O'Connor will be present for this event of the rounding of the first quarter of a century of life and service in the worship of God. His Excellency will sing pontifical High Mass beginning at 9 o'clock, and will also address the congregation.

Many of the priests of the diocese are expected to assist at this silver jubilee of the church, which also becomes the occasion of the dedication of a new organ installed by Casavant Brothers of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec.

Rev. P. J. Butler of Kinmount, the first priest ordained from the parish, will preach the sermon at benediction in the evening.

The parish of the Immaculate Conception was established in 1914, and has already inscribed an interesting and lengthening scroll of recent history. The corner stone of the church was laid on September 27 of that year by Bishop M. J. O'Brien, the present Archbishop of Kingston, and because the world was at war it was decided as a necessary economy to roof the basement and postpone the erection of the building as planned until some indefinite and more favorable time. On Friday December 6, 1914, the church was opened and blessed by Bishop O'Brien. The sermon of that morning was preached by the late Bishop Scollard of Sault Ste. Marie, a native of Ennismore, who for a time had been priest at St. Peter's Cathedral.

First Pastor

Right Reverend W. J. McColl, now of Lindsay, was the first pastor, assisted by Rev. John J. McCarthy, who was later transferred to Norwood and is now in charge of the parish of Douro. Father McCarthy was succeeded in March 1916 by Rev. T. J. Scott who was temporarily appointed from the arch-diocese of Kingston who remained a year. The next assistant was the late Rev. J. J. Collins who continued as assistant for two years, and was followed by Rev. Albert Cote, now of the Dominican Order.

The next curate was Rev. John V. Power, a young priest whose home was in the village of Hastings. He assisted Monsignor McColl for three years, from 1922 to 1925, when he was appointed parish priest at Kearney where he was drowned on December 6, 1931. The records of the church recall that Rev. James Guiry succeeded Father Power, and was administrator of the parish in 1927 during the absence of Monsignor McColl in Lindsay. At that time Rev. Cyril Carroll was the assistant priest, appointed in May 1927.

The end of the first pastorate at the church, and the beginning of a new one was marked by the year 1928. Monsignor McColl was appointed to Lindsay, and Dean O'Sullivan, pastor at Port Hope, was named by Bishop O'Brien to succeed him in the parish of the Immaculate Conception. He assumed his duties on July 7, 1928. Father Carroll remained with him as curate until 1931 when he was transferred to the Cathedral staff by Bishop O'Connor, and his place was taken by Rev. C. J. Begley who has been associated with Rev. Dean O'Sullivan as assistant for more than eight years.

The material growth of the parish included the opening of a seven-room school during the pastorate of Monsignor McColl. Early in 1933 it was decided to proceed with the erection of the church. Work was begun on March 19 and was completed for the patronal feast day, the Immaculate Conception, December 8. Bishop O'Connor was the celebrant of pontifical high Mass and also blessed the edifice.

In April 1936 the Sisterhood of the Precious Blood became a part of the parish occupying the fine old home of the late J. C. Sullivan. Since then it has been extensively improved through the assistance of the late Senator F. P. O'Connor.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SPECIAL PERMIT TO WED.

There's one young man in this city who won't brook delay when he decides to be married. His bride-to-be turned up at the City Hall a short time ago and filled out her section of the license. The wedding was to be last Saturday and it was not until Thursday that the groom-to-be managed to get in to complete it. Informed then that he couldn't be married until Sunday, because three days must elapse after the license has been granted, he waxed highly indignant. Where most would be stumped, he was adament in his intention and started climbing high in the ladder of officialdom. He must have reached the top rung for he came back with a special permit and was married on the day he had planned.—P.

Army Hut Drive Well Received

Reports from canvassers for the Canadian Army Huts Fund indicate that this week's campaign is moving along with heatening promise of success.

The appeal has brought fine responses of goodwill and good wishes for the attaining of the financial objective to be expended in providing free comforts for Canadian soldiers in the present war.

The following are two examples of voluntary responses that are being greatly appreciated.

"Along with this cheque goes my best wishes for a successful issue to the campaign, and also for good success in the work you are seeking to do on behalf of the men who are serving in the armed forces of the Empire," Alderman Dutton wrote to V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Dr. E. M. Crough, chairman of the local campaign committee, received a cheque from E. G. R. Clarke, sales manager of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company, with an appreciation of an old service as follows.

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to support this move as I have happy recollections during the last war of the service performed by the K. of C. Huts, which was outstanding. I trust it will meet with unqualified success."

Cheese Is Wanted And Not Butter

GANANOQUE, Ont., Dec. 7—(CP) —Vivian Milburn, secretary of the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation, in an addres sto the Gananoque Concentrated Milk Products Association last night said "Farmers are willing to render their share of sacrifice in this war, but they do not want to see the things that happened the last time, happen again."

"The thing the people want in Europe is cheese and not butter," said Mr. Milburn. "The English people are not going to be exploited in this war as they were in the last and at the same time, we as Canadians should try to see that we get a price for our cheese sufficiently high that milk will flow into cheese instead of butter."

Irwin Acquitted On Charge Careless Driving

"I cannot say I am definitely satisfied there has been lack of care on the part of this man to convict," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in acquitting W. J .Irwin, Harvery township, Wednesday afternoon on a charge of careless driving after a trial that lasted all day. "Indeed," added the magistrate "I am inclined to believe that the defence was right."

Bert Cribbis, garage mechanic, who had given expert evidence on behalf of the defence at the morning session, was cross-examined by Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, at the opening of the afternoon sitting. Mr. Kerr used two toy models of automobiles in questioning the witness and interestingly enough one of these was labelled "Leaping Lena."

Irwin, himself, swore that he had driven past the curve on the Buckhorn road where the accident had happened on an average of several times a week practically every week for the past 21 or 22 years. On the day in question, he said, that he was driving north at a speed of 25 or 30 miles an hour and on approaching the curve could see a number of cars coming south. He lost sight of them behind a slump of trees and when he next saw Burley's car which was leading the on-coming cars it was only 40 feet from the curve and witness was sure that it was coming too fast to get around safely. Irwin said that he remained on his own side of the road and was struck by the rear end of Burley's machine. He stated that the marks of his own car showed celarly that it had been on the right hand side of the road.

King Tours Lines Right To Wire

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec 7—(CP-Reuters). — The King yesterday set out for his 2nd day of inspecting the British army in the field. The weather was cold and misty, but fairly dry.

Another full program had been drawn up for His Majesty so he could see as much as possible of the different fighting units of the B.E.F.

The King left general headquarters before 9 a.m. He had had breakfast of porridge and bacon and eggs at the early hour of 7:30 which is part of the strict routine observed by General Viscount Gort and his staff at G.H.Q.

For dinner last night the menu at G.H.Q. offered the King was lobster, chicken with salad and roast beef.

The Royal Car, camouflaged and bearing the royal standard as the only bit of color in the khaki-clad procession, covered more than 100 miles yesterday during the King's inspection.

Frequently His Majesty was afoot, walking at salute through lines of cheering troops, plodding through the mud to talk to gun crews or climbing ladder-like stairs to the top of block-houses for a better view of battle positions.

Commander Gort Along

The King was accompanied by Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British field forces, and his brother, Major-General The Duke of Gloucester.

School children, waving hastily-made Union Jacks and veterans of the first Great War, wearing faded uniforms, turned out in a dozen crossroads hamlets to shout "Vive Le Roi."

Included in the King's inspection tour was a Royal Air Force airdrome at which army co-operation aircraft, under direct orders of Lord Gort, are stationed, he also inspected trenches, tank traps and steel and concrete blockhouses.

In the final inspection of the day, the King reviewed a battalion of Highlanders, the first time this unit has been on parade since arriving in France. The parade took place only a quarter of a mile behind barbed wire defences facing no man's land.

To Attempt 19,000-Mile Voyage

Long Lost Poet Found Penniless

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—The New York World-Telegram says the 16-year mystery of the disappearance of Francis Carlin, the poet once lionized by New York's literati, was solved yesterday when he was discovered "following a golden thread" of scholarship in a $3-a-week furnished room.

Gray now and ailing, Carlin disclosed that physicians had given him little time to live; that his tired heart might stop at any moment, and his task not yet done.

The long years of silence began when the poet, author of "My Ireland" and "A Cairn of Stars," dropped from sight at the zenith of his meteoric career.

Almost penniless now, Carlin says he hunts along the Sixth Avenue employment agencies every day for a job as a dishwasher or a watchman. If he could get a job at $10 a week, hed be able to "finish the work I was put here to do before I fade out."

Lack Of Material Slows Factories

TORONTO, Dec. 7 — (CP). — Manufacturing plants in several Ontario municipalities have been forced to curtail operations because of failure to receive supplies of raw material, according to the weekly report of labor conditions issued today by Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor. Most of the firms "have a good volume of orders on hand but are awaiting delivery of raw products," Mr. Hipel said.

Relief rolls in some cities have been cut as high as 50 per cent. in the past month, as compared with November, 1938, the report said.

Steel and iron companies are working full time at London, as are textile factories and shoe plants. There is an increasing application for factory work by women, but little demand.

Logging is at its peak stage in the North Bay area, with much of the cutting expected to be completed before Christmas. Camps are fully staffed. Heavy demand exists for domestics.

Relief rolls at Owen Sound show nearly 50 per cent. reduction over last year, with grain shipments continuing to arrive from the lakehead.

STRENGTH IN UNITY

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 7—(AP)—President Kyoesti Kallio today declared "our greatest strength is our unity" in a broadcast on the 22nd anniversary of Finland's independence.

Kallio continued that Russia's "methods show that the safety of Leningrad does not enter into the question as we have been attacked all along our eastern frontier."

Cheesemen Honor Robert Allen

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 7—(CP).—Extended a civic and county welcome by Mayor Jamieson Bone and Warden George Thompson, the Central Ontaro Cheesemakers Association opened their convention in this city yesterday with more than 300 delegates in attendance. In conjunction with the convention is arranged the Empire Cheese Exhibit, where more than 50 cheese, white and colored are on display and judged.

Greetings were extended to the Central Association by Charles Richards, president of the Western Ontario Association. Joseph Burgess, chief produce grader from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa asked suggestions as to how Central makers could be induced to take a greater part in the exhibition.

Veterans of the cheesemaking industry some with 50 years service were presented and these included, William H. Doughty of Lennox and Addington, James G. Shillinglaw. 43 years service, Robert Allen, Peterborough, 43 years service, W. I. Hicks, Prince Edward, 40 years service.

Dr. A. L. Gibson spoke on the value of the Kemptville Agricultural School and the course now running for the restoration of soil fertility.

Silver Stainless Steel Appears

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP).—First pieces of a new metal, silver stainless steel, were exhibited today at the exposition of chemical industries.

The silver steel is the usual stainless steel, to which is added one-quarter of one per cent. of silver, in a way that permeates the entire metal with silver particles so fine that one of them has to be magnified about 500 times to be visible.

A sheet of this metal, the size of a medium bedroom mirror and nearly as bright, and some commercial castings that look like silver, are shown. With them goes the story of an unexpected list of far-reaching industrial improvements promised by this metal.

Discovery of the process for making the metal was announced last May, the work of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

First commercial results have gone beyond expectations. The original discovery was that silver-impregnated stainless steel was immune in the laboratory to salt water pit corrosion, the one kind of natural rust to which stainless steel was known to be susceptible. It now appears the new metal resists also various chemical corrosives that attack stainless steels.

Whitby Merchant To Stand Trial

WHITBY, Dec. 7. — The Grand Jury at the County Court sessions here returned a true bill against Alvin Marlowe, Whitby merchant, who is charged with reckless driving under the Criminal Code.

The charge followed a fatal accident in which a car, allegedly driven by Marlowe, killed Frank Adams, 21, on the night of May 9. Adams was walking south on the Oshawa-Port Perry Highway and Marlowe was driving south when the accident occurred.

A true bill was also returned in the only other criminal case on the docket, a charge of attempted relief fraud against Benjamin Corson, Oshawa. Three civil cases are also to be heard and twenty-four applications for naturalization were heard, with only three rejections.

In his remarks to the Grand Jury Judge L. V. O'Connor declared that "it has been declared, and rightly, that the jury system is one of the strongest bulwarks of democracy."

Here's a way to make cleaning easier. Avoid harsh gritty cleansers. Remember scratches on bathtub, washbasin, and sink, catch dirt and stains and make cleaning harder. Use only Old Dutch, the cleanser that doesn't scratch, because it is made with Seismotite.

And here's another time-saving, step-saving suggestion: keep a package of Old Dutch in your kitchen, bathroom, laundry and garage. Then you have this safe cleanser handy for cleaning porcelain, enamel, painted woodwork, linoleum, and pots and pans. MADE IN CANADA

OUR STATEMENT

For some time now we have been in the fortunate position where we could offer very special values on steaks and roasts to our customers.

These outstanding low prices on beef may cause some people to question the quality of the meat. You may feel that steaks and roasts at such low prices must be cut from inferior quality beef, rather than from prime quality beef.

This is a point on which we would like to make a statement.

We want to say very definitely that every steak and roast sold in our stores is cut from prime beef, the kind that is raised expressly for eating purposes and matured for tenderness.

Our large volume of business, which gives us a quick turnover with low operating expenses, enables us to sell this fine quality beef at these low prices.

We would like to ask you to try one of our steaks or roasts because we know that one trial will convince you.

Before making this trial, we would also like you to keep in mind our guarantee that every article purchased in any A & P Store must give complete satisfaction or we will be very happy to refund your money.

States Replaces Russia As Japan's Foe

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (AP)—The United States was portrayed in the press today as the potential foe of Japan, replacing Russia in that position.

Although Yakichiro Suma, the foreign office spokesman, declared that strengthening of the United States fleet in the Orient was not regarded by Japan as a threat, the newspaper Miyako took a different view.

"If America does not want war with Japan, she must reconsider her attitude toward this country," it said editorially.

(On Dec. 1, the United States fleet at Manila was augmented by arrival of six 1,400-ton submarines, announced as intended for normal replacement purposes. No announcement was made regarding disposition of six older-type submarines already at Manila, however.)

Miyako said the Japanese believed the naval move was designed to intimidate Japan into meeting American terms for a new trade treaty. The old treaty, denounced by the United States, is scheduled to expire Jan. 26.

Miyako said Japan long had regarded a war with Soviet Russia as inevitable, but never had believed in the possibility of a conflict with the United States.

"But lately," it said, "Japanese sentiment toward the Soviet Union has been greatly appeased, while sentiment against the United States has greatly stiffened."

The newspaper Yomiuri expressed similar sentiments, saying United States policies were forcing a Russian-Japanese rapprochment.

Carl Baaksvik, noted Canadian skier, who was a member of the Peterborough Ski Club when this picture was taken, shows here the absolute top of skiing enjoyment. This is the kind of thing that is reserved for the fortunate who start to ski when they are children and keep it up every winter. The Peterborough Ski Club trains its newcomers carefully, teaching them fundamentals of skiing, then junior jumping, and gradually leads them on to the big jump. There are also classes for adult beginners. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Canadian Coach Finds American Football Dull And Uninteresting; Few Passes Thrown

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 7—(AP)— From a Syracuse backfield ace of a decade ago, comes the assertion that Canadian football — played by Canadians—not only would jampack United States stadia but also would dazzle America's grandstand quarterbacks.

Warren Stevens, triple-threat Syracuse University star of 1929, now athletic director and football coach at University of Toronto, says:—

"Spectators would go wild over the Canadian brand of play.

Stevens, who played on three Syracuse teams that futilely attacked Syracuse's traditional rival, Colgate, claims he found this year's game with the Red Raiders "dull and uninteresting."

"I was amazed," he told Mike Quinlin, sports editor of the Niagara Falls Gazette, "at the enthusiasm shown over plays that any Canadian fan would consider anything but sensational."

Describing the Canadian game as "wide-open," Stevens commented that Dominion fans "are really given something to cheer about" when several players handle the ball in a single play.

DOROTHY DIX

Be Kind To The New Baby—Give It a Name It Will Like When It Grows Up Instead Of Trying To Please Some Cantankerous Old Grandparent.

DEAR MISS DIX—I dearly love my mother and my mother-in-law, and I would hate to do anything that would hurt their feelings, but I simply can't bring myself to name my little girl baby after either one of them because both of them have perfectly hideous names. Do you think it is my duty to call my child a name that sets my teeth on edge every time I hear it just to please one of them?—YOUNG MOTHER.

ANSWER:

Indeed, I don't. I consider it an unforgivable crime to afflict any poor helpless little babe with an ugly name just to flatter a vain old woman.

Furthermore, consider that if you do so you are just adding another link to the chain of ear-rasping names that future generations will have to carry on, for if your little Mahitable, or whatever she is called, has to be named for her grandmother, Mahitable's children will have to be named for her, and so ad infinitum. So break the chain and emancipate future generations. There is no more sense in perpetuating an ugly family name than there would be in carrying on any other family affliction if you could eradicate it. You wouldn't wish the family gout or the family dyspepsia or the family rheumatism on a child if you could help it. Why, then, handicap it with the blight of an ugly family name?

Especially should girls get a kind deal in christening, because a girl's name makes a lot of difference to her. She has to be called by it as long as she lives, so give your baby a moniker that will come trappingly to the tongue and sound pleasing to the hearer, and she will arise and bless you in after years.

Probably there is no other one subject that is more filled with controversial angles than naming the baby, nor is there anything that has started more family feuds, or that has more amply proved that a large number of parents should not be intrusted with slapping a lifetime brand on a defenceless infant, but that it should be given a number to be known by until it is old enough to pick out a name for itself. To begin with, most grandparents fight over the new baby like dogs over a bone and the winner gets to name it. Nobody considers the poor mother's and father's taste in names, nor how bitterly they are writhing under the names their own grandparents fastened on them, nor how they dread thinking that the poor little mite in the cradle has got to carry on the hideous name of somebody who came over in the Mayflower or fought in the Revolutionary War. Then, if there happens to be a rich old maid aunt or a wealthy bachelor uncle, it is a cinch that Babykins is called after him or her, and goes stumbling along through life handicapped by a name he or she attempts in vain to hide under a nickname. And then gets left out of the will.

Somehow fathers never seem to have much say in naming the baby, but when Mother is given a free hand she simply lets herself loose and all of her repressed yearnings after the romantic and the "whatness of the ain't" come to the surface. Hence we have the poor little girls afflicted with the names of flowers and stars and the Muses and Graces, and the double-barreled names, and as if to make a bad matter worse, the unfortunate victims of their mothers' fancies never grow up to look the part. The Violets are always strapping hoodlums, and the Brunhildes anemic little girls who toe in.

Then there is the school of thought that causes bookish mothers to name their children after the heroes and heroines of popular novels, which would be all right except that it dates a girl, and there is no use in pretending that she is still 23 when she is named after a best seller of thirty years ago. Father makes a still worse break when he names his son after a famous scholar or politician and institutes a comparison that lasts as long as he lives between little Thomas Jefferson Jones who can never make his grades and the great original T. J.

And, crime of crimes, is when parents give children a first name without any reference to their last name that makes them a target for all the low wits they ever encounter and a laughing stock for everybody who has a funnybone. So it is no wonder when we hear of a new baby we ask: What are they going to name it? There is no telling what crazy things parents are liable to do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Here is a question I would like you to answer if you can: I have two sisters. Both in their late thirties. One is a blonde; won a beauty prize when she was young; married a poor man and they have had a hard struggle to get along, but she loved him and they have always been very happy. The brunette sister has always had things easy. She henpecks her husband, corrects him in front of guests, nagged her two children until they hate her and have left home, yet this sister has always been the centre of a crowd at her home, drinking and dancing. She never bothers with people when they are sick or in trouble. Now my question is: Why is my brunette sister in on all the fund and parties? Why is my sister who is a second angel just popular when people need help? —PERPLEXED.

ANSWER:

I think you are mistaking excitement for happiness. You think that your sister who has a crowd of people around her all the time drinking and carousing is popular, but that is an error. She is surrounded by a lot of social deadbeats, good-time Charlies and Charlottes who will go anywhere where there is free food and drink and plenty of noise and laughter. But if tomorrow your sister should lose her money and be unable to entertain there is not a one of them who would come near her.

When a woman of middle age always has to be in a crowd, always has to be rushing from place to place, it is an infallible sign that she is restless and discontented. She has no inner peace nor comfort and she is seeking abroad what she lacks at home. Your sister treats her husband badly, she has been brutal to her children and driven them from home, and she is trying to fill their places with dissipation. You might better pity her than envy her.

The angel sister does not need your sympathy. Her fun is in doing good, not in wild parties. Her friends are the people she has helped. Her home is a place of peace and rest, not a rough-house party. She has th love of her husband, and that makes her rich beyond the dreams of avarice. Don't pity her, envy her.

DOROTHY DIX.

Havelock Women's Institute Hears Excellent History Of Christmas

HAVELOCK, Dec. 6.(ENS)—With Christmas Day but three short weeks distant, the meeting of the Havelock Branch Women's Institute held Monday afternoon in the local council chamber took on a decidedly Yuletide spirit. A brilliantly lighted Christmas tree lent an air of festivity to the scene and further atmosphere was provided by the exchange of gifts among the members.

Also in keeping with the occasion, Mrs. R. E. Lemon of Norwood, as guest speaker chose "Christmas" as the subject of her most interesting address. "There is no other word in the English language, she began, which calls forth such a flood of joyous emotion as that which designates the festival of humanity: "Christmas." It is essentially a household festival, a season when our domestic comforts and social joys are the brightest.

"Where did Christmas originate? How did the fashion arise of celebrating the birthday of our Lord on the 25th of December, not only with religious observances but with feasting and jollity? There is no record of the actual date of our Saviour's birth, no reven is the year absolutely known. It is generally agreed however that the traditional date of birth was about December 25th B.C. 5 or 749 A.U.C. St. Matt: distinctly states that "Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the King, who died in A.U.C. 750. We must allow a certain period between the birth of Jesus and the death of Herod for the visit of the wise men from the East, the escape into Egypt and the slaughter of the innocents, Matt. 2:2 states that at Christ's birth a wonderful star appeared... "His Star." The great astronomer Kepler observed in the year 1603 an unusual conjunction of stars, and by careful search he found that in 747 A.U.C. a similar conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn had appeared to which in 748 Mars was added.

Chinese records affirm that in 749 and 750 a comet was visible. In regard to the recent criticism of Prof. McMillan of Chicago University, in the face of the foregoing it seems very foolish that he should set himself as an authority on an event which happened 2,000 years ago. A more eminent authority than Prof. McMillan recently stated in England that the Biblical statement is not contrary or in conflict with the views of modern astrologers. The most likely meaning of "His Star" is some celestial phenomenon as would indicate the birth in Judea was destined to greatness.

As already pointed out, there was a remarkable conjunction of two planets about the time when Christ was born, although we are nowhere told that Jesus was born exactly at the time when the star appeared. Further we have no exact proof in the New Testament to fix the day and the month of His birth. The days of His death and ressurrection are clearly recorded in the gospels but not until the third century do we find any attempt to fix with authority the day of His birth. There was at this time a common belief that the nativity took place on the 25th day of the month, but the exact month was not certain, and there was scarcely a month in the year to which some guesser did not assign it.

Clement of Alex named five dates among which was December 25th. There was in the third century a common belief that our Lord was born on the day of the winter solstise, which was supposed to fall on the 8th of the Kalens of January, which is December 25. Soon after the third century the Roman Church definitely fixed that date as the birthday of the Lord, and we may conclude that it was selected more for symbolical and practical reasons rather than on historical grounds. At this season the pagans observed feasts in honour of the victory of the god of light over the god of darkness, since from December 25 the days lengthened. How natural it was to substitute for those heathen feasts the birthday of the light of the world. Neander the historian thought that the church favored this date and season to keep its members away from these heathen feasts.

Christmas Customs

Many customs have originated concerning the Christmas season, tradition prescribing Christmas Eve as the correct time for placing the festive evergreens in the home. To do so beforehand was considered unlucky. The mode of decorating with evergreens both in house and church was left to individual taste. As to their removal, custom was not uniform. Some removed them the 12th night, while others regarded the festive season as lasting to Candlemas, the fortieth day after Christmas, when according to the law of Moses, the mother of our Lord presented Him in the temple together with her thankoffering and Simeon recognized the Holy Child as the long awaited "Light to Lighten the Gentiles."

The fortieth day after Christmas has been the more general English custom. In many places it was a rule that the evergreens when taken down should be left to perish by natural decay, to burn them was very unlucky.

Of Christmas Eve, I fear we do not make enough of this important night, certainly not as much as our forefathers did. It was the general custom to sit up until midnight to see the dawn of Christmas, and in many places, especially in Scotland it was once almost a religious obligation. On Christmas Eve the house was thoroughly cleansed, all borrowed articles returned, all tools laid aside and all work stopped. Finally a cake was baked for every person in the house. Now almost every country has its traditional Christmas cake, varying from the ordinary fruit and spiced variety, to the yuledoughs made in the shape of sacred figures. In Roman Catholic countries Christmas Eve begins with a fast but as soon as the first star appears the feast begins. In Poland a few straws were scattered under the table and a chair was left vacant for the Holy Child. The priests brought round small wafers of flour and water, stamped with sacred figures of which all members of the household partook. In Wales the outer doors are left unbolted in case the Holy Family should wish to enter.

Since Christmas in most lands is usually a cold one, the most indispensible addition to the comfort of the home is the yule log, which is generally selected beforehand and brought home with considerable ceremony on Christmas Eve. In France it was always kindled at one end and replaced on the hearth every evening until the twelfth night, when if any remained, it was carefully preserved as a charm against lightning and chilblains during winter. In Brittany it is still the custom to light the log with a brand preserved from the year before, at the moment when midnight sounds from the church tower. It must always be remembered that the yule log (oak) with all its sentimental associations belong to the open hearth.

The burning of candles is a custom which can claim a high antiquity, the Jews at their yearly "Feast of Lights" in addition to the candles and lamps necessary for illumination, set up many others in honor of the feast. In Scotland it was once thought that if the candle went out before midnight, that it portended a great disaster for the family.

The Christmas Tree

One of the most popular additions to the merriment of Christmas is the Christmas tree. Its origin unknown, many legends however are told in connection with this custom. In Germany a story is told of a stormy Christmas Eve in which a cold, hungry child was received into a home and little Hans insisted upon giving up his bed to the stranger. The next morning the Child was recognized as Christ, who broke a branch from a fir tree and set it in the earth. Speaking, He said, I have gladly received your gifts, this is My gifts to you. Henceforth this tree shall always bear its fruit at Christmas and you shall have abundance.

The Christmas tree first became known in Germany about 1605, but did not become common before the 18th century. It was introduced into England by a German Princess in 1629, and it became naturalized after it had been set up in Windsor Castle by Prince Albert in 1841. Since then it has found a welcome in other parts of Europe and America. Symbolically it represents vegetation. It was first just adorned with lights, but how soon it became the vehicle for gifts is more doubtful.

Christmas carols were very popular during the 15th to 18th centuries when minstrels travelled about singing them during the Yuletide season. Another custom, that of sending greeting cards originated sometime about 1844, when an artist is said to have made a small sketch to send his friend, symbolizing the spirit of Christmas.

About Santa Claus

The origin of Santa Claus is shrouded in mystery, and in times passed he was never seen except in pictures. It is said that St. Nicholas lived in the fourth century. A very rich man, he liked to help people but hated being thanked for it, so as result he always left his gifts at the homes of the poor, without revealing his identity. It became the custom then for people who received gifts from unknown sources to attribute it to St. Nick or Santa Claus as he is better known as here.

The message of Christmas, "Glory be to God in the Highest, on Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men," is really the most important thing of all. Shall we all at this Christmastide learn that there can be no peace on earth until Christ rules in the hearts of all men and women. As we look out on this world of strife, may we look into our own hearts and make perfectly sure that the true peace which passeth all understanding is there and as Tiny Tim so strikingly says in Dickens' famous Christmas Carol, "God Bless Us Everyone."

Included also on the afternoon's program of which Mrs. Joseph Little was the convener, was the singing of carols, with Mrs. Robert McCutcheon as piano accompanist. "Holy Night" was contributed as a vocal solo by Mrs. C. Jamieson and current events were related by Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke.

Many interesting highlights of the recent convention of the Central Ontario Area Women's Institutes held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto were given by the local delegate, Miss Ina Morrison, in a most complete report of the happenings.

During the business period, conducted by the president, Mrs. Clare Price, it was reported that the Albion Club had postponed their banquet until January.

The Institute continuing their yearly policy of distributing Christmas cheer boxes appointed a committee to superintend this work. Mrs. F. Wrightly is convener of this committee and will be assisted by Mrs. A. McMullen and the president.

Plans were also made for a sale of home-baking which will be conducted Saturday afternoon, December 9, at Denike's drug store.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting by the lunch convener, Mrs. T. W. Quinn, assisted by Mrs. L. Weese, Miss M. Williams and Miss M. Seeney.

Attacks on Sweden in the German press demanding the removal of Swedish Foreign Minister Sandler, have aroused grave fears in Europe that Germany is about to apply pressure to Sweden, in an effort to stop her from sending supplies and arms to Finland. Sweden is preparing to defend herself should she become the next victim of aggression, and here you see Swedish artillerymen camouflaging a field piece during recent manoeuvres. Must Justify Faith For Christ

KEENE, Dec. 7.—(Special)—The third sermon of a series on the Parables taught by Christ, namely, "The Wise Builder" was the topic at the United Church last Sunday. "Christianity never separates in precept or in promise the life that now is and that which is to come" Work out your own salvation. While faith in Christ is essential for entering into the Kingdom of God we must try to justify our faith by our works. There is only one solid foundation on which to build our lives, it is "The Rock of Ages." A very fine rendition of "Sun Of My Soul" was given by the choir which was much appreciated by the large congregation. Preparatory services will be held on Friday at 8 p.m.

Pimples Kill Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples on the face.

The trouble is not so much physical pain, but it is the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement of the face which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.

The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood of its impurities.

Why Army Huts?

To Bring Help and Comfort to Our Boys In France!

Canadian people will remember with satisfaction the work of the Knights of Columbus in the last war in establishing religious and recreational facilities and providing Creature comforts for soldiers of all nationalities and creeds, where the widely accepted slogan was "EVERYONE WELCOME AND EVERYTHING FREE."

To-day, the same urgent need exists and His Excellency the head of the Canadian Catholic Chaplain Service approved and urges the campaign with the significant words: "I make a very special appeal to all to help the Knights of Columbus reach their objective."

DECEMBER 3rd to 11th

Are the dates on which a nation-wide campaign will be sponsored and led by the Knights of Columbus in the name of all Canadian Catholics in an endeavour to raise the sum of

$200,000 For Canadian Army Huts

TIME IS BRIEF, YOUR HELP IS VITAL

While the appeal is made primarily to Catholics, the humanitarion nature of the undertaking will doubtless receive the financial support of peoples of all denominations.

THE PRESENT WAR IS AGAINST CHRISTIANITY AND YOUR HOME

Treu Patriotism a Matter of Deeds Rather Than Words. This campaign is conducted under the provisions of the War Charities Act 1939, and the Secretary of State has issued a certificate of registration.

All Will Share Alike.

A quotation from one of the many letters from the Canadian Hierarchy, "to the many who can help in no other way, the giving of a substantial contribution towards the moral care and the material comfort of our soldiers, should be counted a privilege and a duty."

Honorary Officers

Great Humanitarian Effort

No more eloquent tribute could be offered for the generous and equitable distribution of the Knights of Columbus Catholic Hut Fund in the last Great War than the words of the late General Sir Arthur Currie who said: "I know that men of every denomination were accorded the same cordial welcome, and that all received the same generous treatment."

Bowen, convener of the nomation committee, read a list of the officers for 1940, these to be installed at a Sunday morning service.

In keeping with the theme "Jesus, the Light of the World," a candle-lighting ceremony was effectively carried out. Mrs. J. F. Reed, leader of the service, lit a tall white candle while quoting the words of the Saviour and His command to His followers to ever let their light shine and so glorify God. Mrs. R. Williamson opened this service, singing sweetly the Christmas hymn "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and while members lit candles from the large one, acted as reader, stressing everyone's responsibility to ever hold high the sacred light and not allow it to grow dim.

Mrs. George Hutchinson read the story of "The Service of the Holy Fire," a story of the Christian pilgrimage to Jerusalem to the church of the Holy Sepulchre, where they received a flame from the Holy Fire.

With Mrs. J. Donaldson in charge, "Christmas at Madras, 1938" was brought vividly before the Auxiliary in the form of a make-believe radio broadcast, in which eight members impersonated great leaders of this memorable conference of Christians from seventy countries, and reproduced their messages. As a fitting conclusion, Mrs. R. Williamson sang a Christmas hymn. A social period followed.

WEDDINGS

Holland—Leahy

DOURO, Dec. 6 — (ENS). — St. Joseph's Church Douro, was the scene on Thursday, November 30, of a lovely wedding when Mary Margaret Leahy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Leahy, was united in marriage to John Francis Holland, son of Mrs. Holland and the late Daniel Holland of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. McCarthy, who also said the nuptial mass. The wedding march was played by the organist, Mrs. Victor Kennedy, and the choir rendered hymns during the Mass. Serving the Mass were Michael Leahy, the bride's brother, and Gerald Walsh, a former pupil of the bride. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, and wore a beautiful gown of white moire with basque bodice, fine ruching outlined the neck-line and the front of the bodice which was fastened by a row of tiny covered buttons. Wed in St. Mary's Church, Campbellford

Kingsway Workers Tea Event Of Holiday Season

Senator Iva Fallis and Miss Mayme Montgomery were awarded door prizes at the Kingsway Workers' tea Wednesday afternoon. Mayor James Hamilton won the draw for the electric clock, and the Christmas cake was won by Mrs. Grayce Bletcher.

Scarlet yule berries brightened branches of the small Christmas trees that lined the steps of Mrs. J. H. Vernor's home, 320 Boswell Avenue, where the tea always an interesting event of the holiday season, was held. Inside, trees glittering with ornaments and gay lights created a festive atmosphere, and on the mantel in the drawing room was arranged a village in miniature—tiny houses with windows alight, nestled in a bed of drifting snow—looking very much as if they were sleepily awaiting the dawn of Christmas.

The many guests who called during the afternoon were welcomed by the hostess and Miss M. English.

Tea was poured by Mrs. T. A. Mackay and Mrs. W. J. Thompson. Dining room conveners were Mrs. A. L. Killaly and Mrs. A. H. Stratton, and assisting to serve were Mrs. Gordon Munro, Mrs. R. Abbott, Mrs. G. R. Scott, Mrs. D. Lawrie. A strikingly effective table arrangement fashioned of sparkling scarlet and silver cellophane matched the scarlet and silver yuletide flowers used to deck the tea room.

Mrs. J. Langley was in charge of the tickets and door prize, and Mrs. G. H. Thompson and Mrs. F. L. Roy were treasurers. The touch and take table was a centre of interest all afternoon, its mysterious parcels wrapped in blue, white or scarlet tissue. In charge were Mrs. L. W Scott, Mrs. A. Howson and Mrs. J. Blaiklock.

Mrs. V. Eastwood was in charge of the tickets on the electric clock, Mrs. P. Bond of tickets on the cake. Mrs. B. B. Gillespie and Miss E. Scott were home cooking conveners, and the Christmas cakes, puddings and mince meat were sold under the direction of Mrs. G. Wood.

Buffalo Steaks Highly Prized

An interesting variation in the meat menu will be available throughout Canada during December and January. By government orders, surplus young buffalo from Canadian National parks are being made available for tasty steaks and roasts.

This is the meat dish which provided our early settlers with ample meat supply during the pioneer days in Western Canada when these mighty animals roamed the Prairies in hundreds of thousands. Now from the government abattoir carloads of fine young buffalo carcasses are being shipped to every part of the Dominion. This exciting treat will be available to all Canadians.

In view of its rarity and novelty it is surprising how little more buffalo meat costs than good beef.

While buffalo is similar to beef in appearance, it is pleasingly different in flavor and tenderness. Its enticing aroma, tastiness, and high food value will give buffalo wide appeal. It is excellent served as steaks, roasts, or as a stew. Buffalo retail cuts are almost identical with the popular cuts of beef.

Buffalo porterhouse steaks, as well as t-bone, and sirloins are exceedingly tender and easy to cook. They are best when broiled and panfried, as quickly as possible.

Buffalo round steaks and round roasts are juicy, and full-flavored. They contain very little bone or fat. The round steaks may be fried, broiled, or cooked Swiss style. The round roast is exceedingly delicious when slowly cooked in an open roasting pan, or as a pot roast.

Buffalo prime rib roasts are easy to carve and rank among the very choicest cuts. Cook in open roasting pans.

Buffalo blade and chuck roasts provide an economical cut that is very popular. When slowly cooked as a pot roast, a most palatable and acceptable meat dish is provided.

Chopped buffalo meat is excellent for patties and loaves, or may be used as a casserole dish.

Buffalo stewing cuts from the shoulder and shank are economical and yet provide a highly nourishing and appetizing variation in the menu.

With The Girl Guides

1st Company had a full turnout, and great enthusiasm is shown since we had new headquarters. Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held next Wednesday, each girl to bring a gift.

3rd St. George's had an enrolment ceremony, when Shirley Siddall made her promise. Service stars were awarded Olive Hutton, Jean Hutton, Josie Julian, Beatrice Dolman, and Irene Kelly. This company tenders their apologies to Mrs. Cummings for the loss of the quilt, but another one is being made.

A meeting of St. George's Mothers' Auxiliary will be held to-night, Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Wilson, 202 King George Street. 4th S.A.G. are holding an open meeting on Friday, mothers and friends cordially invited. Several Guides are taking the examination for their entertainer's badge.

War Brings Check On Maid Problems

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(CP).—Employers are now to have a union as well as domestic workers. It is known as the Household Service League and its aim is to help domestic workers.

Actually the league has existed for some time as a research body interested in the efficient running of the home. Since war broke out, however, it has been turned into a domestic employers' association, with membership open to men and women.

"We welcome it because it constitutes a body with which we can negotiate to fix standards of wages, hours, living conditions and other essentials," said Miss R. Bezzant, organizing secretary of the Domestic Workers' Union.

Miss M. Randle, organizer of the league, said: "We wish to make it a representative body of employers with branches all over the country. It will be extremely useful to discover local conditions and suggest adjustments accordingly. Regular conferences will be held with the Domestic Workers' Union and we shall co-operate by every means to raise and fix standards in domestic employment."

The present problem for both unions is the unscrupulous mistress who is taking advantage of war conditions to dismiss domestic employees at a moment's notice, or to engage them at very low rates.

We Noticed

....That a dramatic and chic presentation of black lisle and white lisle hosiery worn by mannequins costumed in black or white full-skirted cotton dresses was one feature of a recent collection of millinery shown in New York.

....The hosiery served to spotlight the hats which are gay, daring in silhouette, and in the majority of instances, lively with color.

....The use of black or white lisle hosiery to go with cotton frocks has been given high style consideration in a minor way for several seasons.

SOME CROCHETTING!

NEW YORK—(CP).—Mrs. E. N. Noble averaged 10 cents an hour for the 2,500 hours she spent crocheting a banquet cloth, 10 feet by 6¾. She entered her effort in a contest and won a prize of $250.

MIDWIVES PREFERENCE

LONDON—(CP).—Britain's motorcycling midwives are not worried about running out of gas. They have been allowed extra gasoline under the petrol rationing scheme because their work is important.

NOW—THE RIGHT SIDE

LONDON—(CP).—Miss Marjorie Ascot is on the other side of the line now. Last July she won compliments for her tap-dancing from Hitler at Berlin—now she is entertaining the British troops in France.

IN MEMORIAM

BLACK.—In fond and loving remembrance of our dear mother, Helen Taylor Black, who fell asleep in Jesus, December 7, 1938.
—Even remembered by the family.

BLACK.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Helen Taylor Black, who passed away December 7, 1938.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.
—Ever remembered by daughter Isabella, and son-in-law Harry.

LLOYD.—In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. A. E. Lloyd, who left us four years ago to-day, December 7.
Four years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers upon her grave may wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Ever remembered by Mr. and Mrs. R. Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Holland.

BLACK.—In fond and loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Helen Black, who died one year ago today, December 7, 1938.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

WATCH THOSE DISCARDS

KEEPING your eye on the cards thrown off by your opponents and thus developing a clear picture of the cards remaining unplayed, points the way to many of the prettiest plays in the game. Doing that may result in your making a difficult contract, producing an overtrick or cutting down the size of a sacrifice.

Here South bid 1-Club, North 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 3-Hearts and South 3-No Trumps, at most tables of a duplicate tournament. Top score came at one table where West led the spade 2 to the jack and king. This declarer then led the diamond 5 to the jack and ace, and took the return with the spade ace. Next followed five clubs and two diamonds.

On that sequence East had played three clubs and four diamonds, West two clubs, two diamonds, two hearts and a spade. Certain that West had the spade queen and therefore probably two hearts, East having three hearts, South led his singleton heart and played the dummy's 10. After East took this he had to lead into North's tenace, so that five-odd were made, as against only four-odd where the declarer took the heart ace because he could not finesse the suit twice.

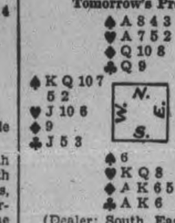
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If using the Blackwood convention, how should North and South bid to reach a diamond grand slam here?

TORPEDOED BRITISH DESTROYER MAKES PORT

Ten Missing; Plane Evens Deed, Gets Sub

3 British Steamers Torpedoed Or Mined In Day

LONDON, Dec. 8 — (CP)—The Admiralty announced tonight that the destroyer Jersey was damaged by a torpedo fired from a German submarine yesterday.

Two officers and eight men are missing and believed killed and 12 men were injured.

The Jersey is now in port, it was stated.

The Admiralty also announced tonight the name of a destroyer sunk by a mine Nov. 13 which had been withheld with announcement of the vessel's loss. She was the 1,360-ton Blanche, normally carrying 138 men.

Plane Gets a Sub

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP).—The Air ministry today announced a British plane sank a German submarine with bombs this morning.

The announcement said one bomb struck the submarine amidships, a yard to starboard of the conning tower. The submarine began to sink.

A second bomb fell directly above as the submarine foundered.

"For some time after the submarine disappeared, oil and bubbles were seen rising to the surface," the announcement said.

43 Missing in Mail Ship.

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP).—Forty-three members of the crew of the Royal Mail cargo liner Navasota, 8,795 tons, were reported missing to-night after the vessel was torpedoed in the Atlantic.

Cargo Ship Mined.

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP). — The British cargo steamship Medel 1,088 tons, sank after striking a mine off the south-east coast of England today with the loss of about 15 men.

Brazil Silences Nazi Raider

SANTOS, Brazil Dec. 8—(AP). — Brazil's neutrality laws were applied today to seal the wireless room of the German passenger liner Windhuk, which arrived here yesterday in disguise and equipped for sea raiding.

The master of the 16,662-ton vessel, Captain Willy Brauer, declined to give details of the ship's long voyage from Lobito, Portuguese West Africa, flying the Japanese flag and displaying the name "Santos Maru." She carried 35 passengers and 5,000 tons of cargo.

The Windhuk's disguise apparently enabled her to escape the fate of other German vessels which either have been captured by the British navy or been scuttled by their crews.

The passengers said they were required to sleep in their lifebelts during the long zigzag journey because the crew had signed an agreement to sink the ship rather than let it be captured.

Before making fast here, the Windhuk, which left Lobito November 17, hoisted her German colors and the crew painted out the false Japanese name.

Grand Change

Berlin, Dec. 8 (AP)

A COMMISSION of 307 German officials, doctors, nurses and chauffeurs reached the Russian-occupied section of Poland today to start removing 100,000 persons of German blood into the Reich as part of a population exchange with Russia. Most of the Germans to be exchanged are in Wolyn (Volhynia), eastern Polish povince.

No Neutral Bloc In Southeast Europe To Stop Germany Getting War Foods and Supplies, Says Berlin; Mussolini States His Alliance With Hitler Still Stands

Balkan Readjustment Necessary Say Nazi Heads

BERLIN, Dec. 8—(AP)—Germany is determined that no neutral bloc in southeastern Europe cross her plans of obtaining wartime foodstuffs and raw materials in that area, Nazi spokesmen said today.

"There are only two powers which might undertake to weld such a neutral bloc," one authorized spokesman said, "and at the same time be acceptable to us—Soviet Russia and Italy.

"Russia, however, is not acceptable to several of the eastern nations concerned. And as to Italy, Premier Mussolini has himself stated that his country must not be regarded as neutral, but merely as not in a state of war.

"Naturally, none of the other states in southeastern Europe could assume leadership in any proposed neutral bloc. Rumania and Yugoslavia both have profited from the peace treaties of 1919 and would naturally defend the status quo.

"We believe that peace cannot come in the southeast without a general adjustment. And, of course, neither Hungary nor Bulgaria—from whom so much was taken—could lead such a bloc."

(In Rome last night, the Fascist grand council reaffirmed Italy's military alliance with Germany and the present Italian policy of non-intervention in the European war.)

Bucharest Stands Pat

(In Bucharest, however, continued Rumanian resistance to German trade demands was disclosed when a Nazi mission yesterday asked the government for prompt delivery of increased quantities of petroleum and grain on credit and was told Rumanian needs cash sales.)

In the view of one Nazi editor, "it is more advantageous for Germany to deal separately with each country."

"Ententes and blocs are mere excuses for the single states composing them to escape confessing just where they stand," he said.

Recent German editorial comment has indicated that the close understanding between Holland and Belgium is none too welcome to a Germany which, since the accession of Adolf Hitler to power in 1935, has been wedded to the idea of bilateral pacts between herself and individual neighbors rather than with groups of neighbors.

There also is frank disappointment in German official circles over the failure of Belgium, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark to assert themselves more aggressively against the allied blockade.

Jury Did Not Pay Sufficient Attention To Oath Before Deliberating Hamilton Case Judge Smoke Tells Jurors

The jury that brought in a verdict of not guilty in the trial two days ago of Robert Hamilton of Otonabee township, charged with reckless driving, did not, in the opinion of Judge Sheldon Smoke, "pay sufficient attention to the oath they took before the trial commenced."

Judge Smoke did not preside at the trial of Hamilton, which arose out of an automobile collision on July 1 at the corner of McDonnel and Reid streets and in which several persons were injured, which was held under Judge J. A. McGibbon on Wednesday. But today, when he dismissed the petit jury he meted out judicial criticism to the former jury. He first thanked the petit jury for attending the hearings this week, and then he said, "I'm going to say something that perhaps I shouldn't say." The jury that tried the case the day before yesterday did not, in my opinion, pay sufficient attention to the oath they took before the trial commenced."

Bristow, a former Purity bread salesman, pleaded not guilty. The indictment charged that the thefts were made over a period that extended from March, 1938, to May, 1939. W. J. A. Fair conducted the defence.

In his opening remarks, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., told the jury the crown would prove Bristow had pocketed receipts from customers during winter months when impassible roads made it impossible for the company to check on bills he claimed customers owed for purchases. A check-up afterwards revealed that Bristow had colected the money he said was owing, but had not turned the money in to the company, he claimed. Bristow's route was along Highway 28 and side-roads it, nearly as far

Rome Warns Russia, Says Shipping Must Be Left Alone

ROME, Dec. 8 (AP)—Diplomatic circles reported today that Robert Ley, German trade union commissioner, had brought Premier Mussolini a long oral message from Adolf Hitler which may have entered into the Fascist grand council's statement of policies.

After a four-hour meeting yesterday, the council:—

Reaffirmed Italy's military alliance with Germany;

Stated grounds for the present non-intervention policy;

Warned Russia by implication to stay out of the Balkans;

And

Although Ley said his mission was non-diplomatic, the impression existed in well-informed quarters that when he was received by Mussolini two days ago he had something more important to discuss than the recruiting of more farm labor for Germany.

Mussolini and his Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, reviewed international developments at length in speeches at the council meeting, first since the war began.

Alliance Still Good

The council declared relations with Germany "remain as established by the treaty of alliance and the exchanges of views which took place before and afterwards at Milan, Salzburg and Berlin." The military pact was signed in Berlin last May 22 after conferences in Milan May 6 and 7.

In diplomatic circles it was believed these exchanges considerably modified the solidity of the Rome-Berlin axis, by eliminating a war over Poland as a cause for Italian aid and informing Hitler that Fascism was not prepared to join in coming to terms with bolshevism.

War developments, the Fascist council stated, "fully justify the Italian decision to remain non-belligerent."

It said this decision "prevented extension of the conflict to south-eastern Europe and the Mediterranean."

A hint to Soviet Russia was seen in the council assertion that "everything which may happen in the Danube-Balkan basin cannot fail to interest Italy in view of the common territorial and wartime frontiers which were lengthened since the Albanian kingdom's union with Italy."

Falkland Harbor "Prize" Port

PORT STANLEY, Falkland Islands, Dec. 8—(CP). — This 25th anniversary of the battle of the Falkland Islands, in which Vice-Admiral Sir Doveton Sturdee crushed the roaming German squadron of Admiral Graf Von Spee, finds the Falklands playing an important part in Britain's new war with Germany.

While casual questioning and sightseeing are forbidden, it is easy to learn that operations of the British blockade in the South Atlantic are concentrated here, at Britain's most southerly naval station.

Behind the hills that hide the inner harbor are a number of steamships, reputed to be captured German merchantmen. British authorities refuse to speak of their number or identity, but say officially that 'quite a number' of German sailors are being held.

Governor Sir Herbert Heniker Heaton is in charge of a prize court to judge captured vessels and handle contraband control.

In 1914 the residents used oil drums to make crude mines and manned old cannon from a stranded British warship for defence purposes but today Port Stanley and other sections of the islands are well fortified.

Fun For The R.A.F.

London, Dec. 8

"THE Royal Air Force will cram into the Christmas holidays all the fun and festivity that the time allows," an official said.

Christmas celebrations will be bigger, brighter and better than ever, with this proviso—the vigilance of patrols—must none of them be relaxed for an instant."

Neutral Ships Leaving Finn Waters

Will Be Blockaded Saturday Moscow Warns

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Neutral ships in the Baltic hastily began leaving waters adjacent to Finland today as a result of Soviet Russia's announcement of a blockade of Finland.

They will have until noon tomorrow to leave the blockaded zone. After that Russia will declare the waters "dangerous for shipping."

The new Russian weapon, supplementing attacks on Finnish soil by land, air and sea, was disclosed last night when the Danish ministry of commerce announced it had been notified by Moscow of the blockade, effective at noon today.

The Scandinavian governments have not adopted an official position regarding the blockade. Official circles here, however, pointed out that the Soviet Government was within its rights under international law in declaring it.

But whether it would be effective was another question.

Both Finland and Sweden have mined approaches to the Gulf of Bothnia, the east shore of which is Finnish, and doubt was expressed here that any Soviet warships would be able to enter it.

Blockade By Air?

In such an event, observers said, traffic could continue across the gulf between Sweden and Finland unless the Red air force could enforce the blockade in those waters with effective bombing.

The consensus in diplomatic quarters was that the neutral Scandinavian states simply would take cognizance of the blockade, leaving it up to shippers to decide for themselves whether to run the risks involved in defying it.

The fact that Russia has not declared war again Finland is not involved in the situation, according to

Nazi Mine Layer Draws Fire Off East Coast

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP).—An unidentified airplane, flying low over the sea and believed to be a German aerial minelayer, was sighted early today near the English east coast town.

Searchlights swiftly probed the dark sky and the firing of machine-guns was heard in the area.

The Air Ministry said later:

"Enemy aircraft were reported off the East Coast during the night.

"Royal Airforce fighter aircraft were sent up to intercept them. One enemy aircraft approached the Thames estuary and was driven off by anti-aircraft fire."

Admit One Plane Down

BERLIN, Dec. 8—(AP).—The Nazi high command today reported patrol flight by "larger air force units" over the North Sea and Scotland yesterday.

Its communique said:—

"In the West, little local reconnaissance activity.

"Larger Air Force units carried out patrol flights over the North Sea and touched the east coast of Scotland, flying at low altitude.

"One German group was attacked without success by British chasers east of the Firth of Forth. One German plane on the return flight was forced to descend at sea owing to motor trouble. The crew abandoned the plane in a collapsible

Finnish Tactics Play Havoc With Red Troops

KIRKENES, Norway, Dec. 8. — (AP).—The brief, gloomy daylight of northermost Finland, combined with the Finns' camouflage tactics, were reported here to-day, to be causing heavy Russian casualties against relatively small Finnish losses.

The Finns were said to be making good use of white uniforms and other devices to camouflage themselves against the background of Arctic snow on the far northern Finnish front.

These reports said that the result had been that only Russian troops could be discerned from a distance or from the air and that Soviet fliers had been machine-gunning their own troops.

As far as could be learned here the Russians have made no progress in their drive to cut Finland in two since their advance across the eastern frontier as far as Kuolajaervi.

The Russians were said to have been driven back with heavy losses after an engagement near Ovre Slottet.

Finnish scouts again reported sighting warships resembling British vessels off Petsamo but said Russian men-of-war apparently had gone.

Neutrals Warned To Shun League

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 8 — (CP Havas).—The newspaper Nationaltidende, in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent, said today that German political circles are warning neutral nations mere attendance at the League of Nations Council and assembly session scheduled for next Saturday and Monday may be interpreted as a violation of neutrality.

The dispatch said the Nazis consider the League to be a "purely private Anglo-French enterprise," and state that nations taking part in its sessions will find themselves "in a very precarious situation."

Chief's Wife Aids But Gang Escapes Trap

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 8 — (CP).—A robber gang, blamed for at least three night raids including a safe-cracking, in this district, escaped early to-day from a trap set by a chief constable and his wife. The officer fired several shots as the gang made a successful getaway.

Break-ins included the blowing of the office safe at the Ilderton Farmers' Co-operative, Ilderton, and forced entry into a flour mill at Thorndale, and a garage at Ailsa Craig. All places are within a radius of 25 miles of London.

The Ilderton safe contained no money, and loss in the other robberies is thought small. Police fear there were other night raids which have yet to be reported.

Seven men are believed to compose the gang, which was surprised while attempting to rob a garage at Ailsa Craig, according to reports reaching London this morning.

About three a.m. Constable Bert Keene, of Ailsa Craig, telephoned an alarm to the home of Police Chief Roy Fraser at Parkhill reporting that a large auto with a gang of raiders was heading toward Parkhill, eight miles away.

Chief Fraser was on duty in the downtown district and Mrs. Fraser took the call. Without hesitation, she jumped in the police car and warned her husband. Together they

Hepburn Defying Law On C.T.A. Says Dr. Coburn

ST. MARY'S, Ont., Dec. 8.—(CP).—By refusing to recognize or enforce the Canada Temperance Act in Huron, Perth and Peel, though it has been found by the Supreme Court of Canada to apply there and by the Supreme Court of Ontario to be valid, the Hepburn government is defying the law, it was declared by Rev. Dr. John Coburn, Field Secretary of the Department of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church, addressing a temperance gathering here last night.

In regard to continuance of beverage room authorities in these counties, the Ontario Temperance Federation has said in effect to the government after the court decision in September: "Now you keep the law."

"It is not only a question of temperance," said Dr. Coburn, "but of freedom and democracy, of the rule of law and order, whether a man, because he happens to occupy the position of Premier, is able to say whether or not a law shall be observed or whether a government of which he is head will simply defy the law."

US Warns Russia About Damage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP). — State Secretary Cordell Hull said today the United States' Government would hold the Russian government responsible for any damages or injuries to Americans or American interests as a result of Russia's announced blockade of Finland.

Soviet Russia has informed the United States government among others by a general circular of the imposition of a blockade around Finland.

Hull said that at present there were no American ships sailing to any place in the area referred to by Russia.

Officials pointed out however, that American goods might still be carried to Finland through the Baltic by ships of other nationalities.

All RAF Orders Now In Teleprinted Code With Lines Believed Almost Tap-Proof

By GODFREY ANDERSON
(Written for the Canadian Press.)

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec. 8.—(CP)—The familiar tapping of typewriter keys will spell out the fateful order to the Royal Air Force when Great Britain's bombers first go into mass action against the enemy.

Like the managing director of any business firm, the air officer commanding will just say: "Take a signal" and dictate the words which a score of teleprinter machines will soon flash to every secret airdrome in France.

No hoisting of flags, no staccato thudding of morse, no strained voices bellowing ove rfield telephone, no general order by radio. A typewritten slip in code—that's all.

The problem of guarding from the enemy the exact location of the secret airdromes back of the Maginot line is one of the gravest the R.A.F. has had to face out here.

If the A.O.C. has orders for one of his officers at a far-off airfield, he doesn't just life the telephone and talk. That would be too simple for an eavesdropping enemy agent who might tap the line. Nor does he use his powerful wireless transmitting set, for that would enable all the world to hear and might give away both the positions of headquarters and the secret airdrome.

He hands his message—in the R.A.F. they call them "signals" like the navy—to an orderly who takes it to the coding room.

There, half-a-dozen officers who look like mathematical professors and are just that, take the message in hand and put it into code. They multiply and they add and they take away the square root of the number they first thought of, and when they have finished with that message it looks like a piece of Greek prose written by a man who stutters. Every few days they change all the codes.

In one room—the holy of holies—they have a machine which translates messages into code and back again. Down in the basement of the chateau where headquarters is located the message is transmitted in code to its destination.

The big, low-ceilinged room with its clattering teleprinter machines has its counterpart in any Canadian newspaper office. But here all the operators are in uniform and loaded rifles lean against the walls. Night and day these machines pound out urgent orders for the commanders of the R.A.F. airdromes all over France.

If by any chance an enemy agent succeeded in tapping one of the lines—and experts believe they are almost tap-proof—then, thanks to the code experts, he would obtain only a string of letters forming gibberish without the key.

VonPapenKeeps Turks Riled And Mystified

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 8.—(AP) —Franz Von Papen, German ambassador who has been bitterly criticized by the Turkish press, arrived here unexpectedly today from Ankara, causing much speculation as to the significance of his movements.

It was reported that the ambassador would hold a closed meeting tomorrow of the German colony here.

Meanwhile the entire press of the country redoubled its attacks on German propaganda in Turkey, in which Von Papen, Adolf Hitler's diplomatic trouble-shooter, has had a directing hand.

There have been unofficial reports that Turkey would ask for Von Papen's recall unless propaganda activities were halted. One paper demanded the German ambassador stop his propoganda activities or "pack up and get out."

The Germans are accused of attempting to provoke a conflict between Turkey and Russia.

Press attacks were touched off by the distribution of circulars bearing the watermark of the German embassy which purported to reprint an article from a Moscow periodical which attacked the Turkish press.

Meanwhile, President Ismet Inonu returned from an inspection of the Turkish-Russian border. Officials asserted that Turkey was ready to defend herself and "the mighty

Blockade Breach Of The Law Says U.S. Protest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP).—The United States, formally reserving all its rights to recover on damages which it may suffer as a result of Great Britain's blockade of German exports, today called the blockade a breach of the principles of international law.

In a formal note to Great Britain made public by the State Department, the United States government said it was "under the necessity of requesting that measures adopted by the British government shall not cause interference with the legitimate trade of its nationals and of reserving meanwhile all its rights and the rights of its nationals whenever, and to the extent that, they may be infringed."

Some Other Reasons.

The State Department's note said, "Quite apart from the principles of international law thus involved, the maintenance of the integrity of which can not be too strongly emphasized at this time when a tendency toward disrespect for law in international relations is threatening the security of peace-loving nations, there are practical reasons which move my government to take

"Death Notice" Of Nazism Goes Rounds In Germany

BERNE, Dec. 8.—(CP-Havas)—An ironical "death notice" of Nazism is being circulated secretly in Germany, the Swiss newspaper Berner Tagwacht reported today. A translation follows:

"On Sept. 25, 1939, there fell in the prime of prosperity, aged 20 years, on the Russo-German demarcation line in Poland, German National Socialism, in the faithful accomplishment of its duty, its eyes still turned toward its great fatherland.

"Its life was consecrated to anti-Bolshevist action, in which it uncovered the plague of the earth.

"Cradled by the Republic of Weimar, having grown up in the struggle against Marxism, it exterminated communism on German soil ,then followed it into infected Austria and into Czecho-Slovakia.

"It had even started to purge the western democracies when, already affected by the absorption of the Czech foreign body, it fell on the field of foreign policy at a time when, obeying an order from on high, it extended a hand to the Bolshevist devil.

"It was laid to rest at Danzig. On the tomb is written: 'The dead did its duty. The dead was ready to depart.'

"This notice will serve in place of letters to former soldiers of the party."

Fraulein Carrying $14,800 Spy Or Husband Hunter?

TORONTO, Dec. 8. —(CP)— A German woman, 30 years old with dark eyes and a handsome silhouette, was in jail here today and police wondered whether they were holding a Nazi spy or a much-travelled fraulein in search of a husband.

Immigration officials said she entered Canada illegally. One paper in a copyrighted story said she was rowed across the Niagara River at Fort Erie by night.

The young woman's passport showed she had recently visited every European country engaged in the current war. When arrested in a Toronto hotel she had $1,800,- in cash and about $13,000 in traveller's cheques.

Her answers to many questions have been changeable, but one story she sticks to, acording to another Toronto paper, is that she wants to persuade some Canadian to marry her so she can stay here.

The fraulein says she smuggled certain valuable papers out of Germany when she left and also money that belonged to Jews. She does not want to return.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police said they have no information on the woman from the Toronto Police, but would have if a spy charge were involved.

The press story continues:

Red Columns Advancing On 3 Fronts

Now 46 Miles Inland Says Moscow Of Finn Invasion

MOSCOW, Dec. 8 (AP)—Soviet Russia today reported advances of Red army columns pushing into Finland from three sides.

A communique of the Leningrad military area headquarters claimed that the advancing Russian forces had seized Finnish supplies and downed two Finnish warplanes. The communique covered military activity of yesterday.

In the north, it said, Soviet troops reached a point 28 miles south of Petsamo, Finland's outlet to the Arctic Ocean, advancing over Finnish minefields and piercing entanglements erected by defence forces.

Along the centre of the Finnish eastern frontier, the 800-mile border between Finland and Russia from Lake Ladoga to the Arctic Ocean, it said, Soviet troops broke the resistance of "Finnish white guards" and pushed the Russian vanguards 43 to 46 miles within Finnish territory.

These forces, it said, captured six 75-millimetre (2.95-inch) and nine 37-millimetre (1.46-inch) guns, 20 heavy and 37 light machine-guns and several storehouses filled with food and supplies.

The Finns were said to have left many wounded and more than 300 frost-bitten soldiers on this front.

In the south, on the Karelian isthmus between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, the communique reported Russian advances on two lines.

Another 7 Mile Advance

It said Red army forces had progressed from five to seven miles after breaking through the Main defence line along the Vuoksa water system and had reached a point beyond the Taipaleenioki River.

Sen. Vandenburg Would Split With The Soviet

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, suggested to State Secretary Cordell Hull to-day that the United States "harmonize" its attitude with that of Latin American nations by breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia.

Vandenberg said in a letter to Hull that he had noted that a number of Latin-American governments had urged the United States to join them in joint condemnation of the Russian invasion of Finland.

Vandenberg called attention "to the little known fact that the United States is the only country in the western hemisphere which recognizes Soviet Russia and maintains diplomatic relations with Moscow.

He said his investigation showed that only three American republics ever had attempted to maintain relations with Moscow. Mexico had severed relations in 1930 and Uruguay in 1935. Colombia agreed in 1935 to resume relations but there never has been an exchange of diplomatic representatives, he added.

Belgian Rescue Steamer Goes Aground

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP). — The crew of the Belgian rescue ship Louis Schied themselves were rescued by a breeches buoy today after their vessel went aground in the English Channel.

The Louis Schied, which yesterday had picked up 34 survivors of the sunken Netherlands motorship Tajandoen, was abandoned.

The Louis Schied went aground south of Dartmouth, England, last night.

The 8,159-ton Tajandoen, eighth ship lost in the war by the neutral Netherlands, previously had been reported torpedoed after leaving an English contraband control port on the east coast.

Her master, Captain Bernard Roderink, however, said he could not tell whether she was "sunk by a mine or a submarine." He said a terrific explosion sent his ship down in darkness within 15 minutes.

Row Through Fire.

The explosion, he said, set fire to a spreading pool of oil and the Tajandoen's boats had to race for life from a "huge blazing lake." Two members of the crew were burned severely.

"We had to row like hell," said the Tajandoen's mate.

The Daily Telegraph charged today that the sinking of the Tajandoen "was a deliberate attack by a German U-boat" designed as a demonstration "that Germany means to forbid the seas surrounding this country to Dutch shipping."

"The act was a sequel to the German government's angry complaint that the Netherlands had not taken any genuine steps against the British and French blockade, by arming their cargo boats and collecting them in their own convoys," the editorial said.

The Tajandoen, the newspaper pointed out, was not on her way to the United Kingdom but was going from Antwerp to the East Indies.

At the time of her arrest, in a downtown Toronto hotel, her baggage was being held in an Atlantic City hotel and her passport was held by Philadelphia police.

Police caught up with the woman's trail at Atlantic City, it was stated here today. Suspicious of her actions, they called at her hotel to question her. While searching her room they found several letters from German military officials. Atlantic City police decided to turn the matter over to J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation.

But the woman was too clever for them. Pausing for a moment in the lobby of the hotel both police officers went to the door and the woman passed through the bar-room, out the bar-room door, and hailed a taxi on the street. She taxied directly to Philadelphia.

Police again caught up with her in Philadelphia. They obtained her passport which showed she had been in most of the capitals of the countries now at war. But again she gave them the slip by a clever ruse.

Making for Buffalo by train, she did not try to cross to Canada by ordinary routes, but contacted smugglers and was rowed across the river at night.

From Niagara Falls, she made her way to Toronto and took a room in a downtown hotel. She had no baggage, but made an excuse, and the next day bought a cowhide bag.

Police watched her movements here and discovered she was visiting important men in the city. Finally, they arrested her.

In Toronto, according to people who met her, she was trying desperately to marry a Canadian. She offered to pay all the expenses. At least three men were approached. Besides staying at two Toronto hotels, she took a suite in a private rooming house.

Her story here to one man was that she "had worked once for Hitler, but had to leave German in a hurry."

Her passport bore the information that she was born in Berlin and left there in April, 1937. On this passport she travelled to Monte Carlo, Paris, London, Amsterdam, Switzerland, Palestine, Buenos Aires, Portugal and the United States.

First witness for the prosecution was Gordon E. Clayton, Purity Bakeries bookkeeper. Clayton said that Bristow had repeatedly told him the bills were owing but that subsequent investigation had revealed the bills were paid. Drivers are paid $18 a week and sales records do not affect it, he said.

Twenty-four witnesses appeared to deny they owed amounts charged on the company's books as customers of Bristow. Up to the noon recess witnesses called had included Mrs. Percy Maybee of Campbellcroft, Mrs. Manley Beer of Campbellcroft, Mrs. William Horner of Campbellcroft, Mrs. Stanley Little of Campbellcroft, Mrs. Fred Sidey of Bewdley, Mrs. A. Sinclair of Pontypool, Mrs. D. Logan of Manvers township, Athur Boddy of Hope township, James of Campbellcroft, Mrs. H. Bradbun of Cavan. Gordon Bullock of Bewdley said he had not kept an accounting and that while he believed the amount charged against him was too great, he did not know how much he actually did owe. Another witness, Mrs. David Sharpe, was absent through illness, a medical certificate being presented to the court.

"I wasn't very far out of town," Chief Fraser related this morning, "when I noticed an auto coming toward us at high speed.

"I swung our car crosswise on the highway to try and block it, and my wife and I got out. When about 200 yards away, the lights of the oncoming machine picked out our car, and it swayed to a stop with brakes screeching.

"In the dark I couldn't tell how many men were in the auto, but I hollered at them. Within a matter of seconds, however, the driver had swung the car around. I fired a number of shots, as the auto pointed east and sped off, but I don't know whether any of the bullets found a mark."

All police in Western Ontario have been notified to be on the lookout for suspects, as well as a car which may have one or more bullet holes.

Sinks in Collision.

LONDON, Dec. 8 — (CP).— The sinking of the 734-ton British steamship Whintown in a collision yesterday with the trawler Leo was disclosed to-day with the arrival here of survivors.

Lloyd's Gazette listed the 1,478-ton British merchant vessel Orsa as an October war victim. An Admiralty spokesman said the ship sank on October 23. There had been no previous announcement here.

Blast Kills 16.

OSLO, Dec. 8 — (AP). — The British steamship Thomas Walton was reported today to have sunk in Vestfjord, on the northern Norwegian coast, after an unexplained explosion last night which killed 16 of her crew of 46.

Some of the survivors were rescued by a German ship which put them ashore at Bodoe, Norway.

The 4,460-ton vessel was en route to Narvik to load iron ore for England. She broke in two almost immediately after the explosion.

One report quoted the master as saying he was convinced his ship was torpedoed.

5 Nazi Planes Hit.

LONDON, Dec. 8—(CP).—It was authoritatively stated today that five German airplanes were hit in an engagement over the east coast of Scotland yesterday when British fighters attacked nine German planes.

One German plane was previously reported hit.

One British pilot was wounded but returned to his base.

notice of the Order-in-Council here in question."

These practical reasons were listed as:

1. In many cases orders for goods of German origin have been placed by Americans for which they already have made payment in whole or in part or have otherwise obligated themselves.

2. In other cases goods purchased from Germany or which might be purchased, cannot readily, if at all, be duplicated in other markets, and are needed by American purchasers for carrying on their legitimate trade, industry and professions. This was a reference to such items as fine precision instruments.

All Forced To Report.

The note said that the British order if applied literally, "would subject American vessels to diversion to British ports if they are found to be carrying goods of German origin or German ownership regardless of the place of lading of such goods or the place of destination and regardless of the ownership of the goods at the time that the vessel is intercepted."

Britain's attention was called to the combat area order under the United States' neutrality act, which prohibits American ships engaging in commerce on the west coast of Europe between Bergen, Norway, and the northern part of Spain, and said that "consequently, justification for interfering with American vessels or their cargoes on grounds of breach of blockade can hardly arise."

Peace Of World Safe In Hands Of Service Clubs

"If Stalin and Hitler and Mussolini could attend your club luncheon for a year, provided the club and the city could stand it that long, I am sure the peace of the world would be safe for a long time to come," declared Dr. Perry Dobson, principal of Alma College, St. Thomas in addressing the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel today.

Dr. Dobson, native son of Ashburnham, spoke on the subject of "Living With Others." In addition to his inspirational message he brought tangible greetings from the St. Thomas Club, of which he is a member, in the form of some very fine McIntosh Red apples that were thoroughly appreciated by the Kiwanians.

Miss C. Arnold of Pickering contributed two very enjoyable readings to the program, being forced to respond to an encore in answer to enthusiastic applause.

Introduced by Kiwanian Dr. E. W. Young, Dr. Dobson expressed the enjoyment he had obtained from a visit to the town in which he had been born.

"The great objective of teaching and of club activities and of church work," he said, "is to teach people everywhere the great marvellous art of living with other people." That, he said, was the principle upon which the great universities of Oxford and Cambridge were operated and it explained, perhaps, why the English people had been so successful as colonizers. They had been taught to live with other people and to adjust themselves in an understanding manner.

Dr. Dobson was of the opinion that if the people of the world knew the art of living with other people there would be no international trouble. He differed from those who said that the chief cause of war was an economic cause. There was no economic problem that could not be solved by people of good will.

Nor were international boundaries necessarily a leading cause of war. They presented no trouble in the case of the United States and Canada, he pointed out. The same was true of "corridors" of which so much had been heard. There was a corridor, he pointed out, between the United States and Alaska, but there was no talk of war because of its existence. There was a corridor, too, between the American cities of Detroit and Buffalo, across Ontario and Canada had a corridor across the eastern part of the United States, but these did not cause any trouble.

Dr. Dobson remarked that the minority question, so stressed by Hitler, did not present any difficulty where there was goodwill and understanding. Detroit was perhaps the fifth Canadian city because of the number of Canadians living therein, but there was no difficulty occasioned by that condition.

Racial differences, too, should not be a cause of war. Canada had many races, and the two great races making up her population had learned to get along together as members of the Canadian family.

Home Good Test.

The speaker added that a good test of one's ability to live with others was in the home. If people could adjust themselves so they could live in harmony with those in their own household there would not be much trouble elsewhere.

As a means of cultivating the art of living with others, Dr. Dobson recommended three things. The first was good humor. "An international grin," he said, "is more valuable in developing goodwill than the ability to speak seven languages." The second was to learn to respect the personality of other people, and the last was the right brand of religion, without which, he said, the art of living with others could not be mastered.

Kiwanian Bill English expressed the congratulations of the club to President Richardson and Kiwanian Ivan Lillico upon the success of their daughter and son, respectively, in the Collegiate commencement.

supporter. Whether or not they agree with the law, the duty of the Attorney-General and Premier is to enforce the law, and not to authorize people to fragrantly defy it.

"I submit that is more than a temperance issue, more than a party issue, and is a great national issue involving democracy, the thing for which you fathers and mine fought. If you can do that with one law, why not with another; if authorities at Queen's Park have the right to choose what laws they will or will not enforce, why not the man on the street?"

Dr. Coburn said that if the Hepburn Government appeals the Ontario Supreme Court decision, the Temperance Federation will send lawyers across the ocean to "fight for democracy."

In regard to the liquor traffic in wartime, the Dominion Government will be urged to put in force as a war measure "the most stringent regulations they think desirable to reduce to a minimum the evils of the traffic."

OBITUARIES

JOHN HOOPER HEAL

The death of John Hooper Heal occurred at his home 509 Gilmour street Thursday in his 79th year. He was born in Otonabee township, son of James Heal and Margaret Fife, and had lived in this city forty-eight years, having come here from Alnwick. For years he had carried on a retail grocery at 261 Charlotte street. Mr. Heal had been ailing for some time. He is survived by his wife, Mary Finlay, and four sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) H. A. Boyce, Kingston; Mrs. J. Lyons Young, Carrying Place; Mrs. C. M. Kemp, Detroit; Mrs. J. F. Ferguson, Toronto; and two brothers, Alex J. Heal of Perth, North Dakota, and W. B. Heal, Peterborough.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 2 p.m. from the family residence 509 Gilmour street to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church, of which the deceased was a member, will conduct the service.

JAMES RAYMOND CLANCY.

The sad death occurred in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, on Monday, December 4, of James Raymond Clancy of Ops Township. The late Mr. Clancy was well known as a leading agriculturist, and dealt extensively in pure-bred Hereford cattle until he was forced into retirement from active work, through illness, five years ago.

His was a quiet, retiring, unassuming personality, and he was at all times held in the highest respect by all who knew him. A sad coincidence of his death is that it occurred during the anniversary week of the death of his wife, who died six years ago, leaving six small children to his care, now left to mourn the loss of a loving father.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Thursday morning at St. Mary's Church in Lindsay, when Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Corkery, who also preached the funeral sermon. Rev. Father Corkery and Father McFadden of Downeyville officiated at the interment services at St. Mary's Cemetery.

The honcrary pall-bearers were his six sons, Clifford, Clement, Joseph, Ambrose, Wilfred and Paul, ranging in age from nine to seventeen. The active pall-bearers, six of his kind neighbors who were unceasing in their efforts to lighten his burden of care and cheer him throughout his long illness, were: Nicholas Shea, Leo Carlin, Joseph Tully, Hilliard Hickson, Pete Murphy, Joseph Clancy.

Hungary To Oppose Expansion Of Communism

At a secret meeting of the Council of the Regency, the Hungarian government is reported to have decided to oppose with military force any attempt to extend communism across the Carpathian Mountains. It has long been feared by Hungary that Russia, when she has completed her plans in the Baltic, will turn to Danubian Europe and the Black Sea. Hungary's regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, shown by arrow at TOP, is pictured conferring with the army's general staff, while Hungarian troops, BOTTOM, stand ready to resist a Russian invasion such as is now taking place in Finland. Girls, as well as boys, must now undergo military training in Hungarian schools, and these two young lassies, RIGHT, are learning how to use regulation army rifles.

Officers Named In Fairview W.A.

FAIRVIEW Dec. 8—(ENS).—The regular meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbet Rosborough, with eighteen ladies present.

The president, Mrs. Albert Armstrong, led the devotion; Mrs. Fred Brown read the Scripture, and Rev. J. Trumpour led in prayer and Mrs. W. Fowler gave a reading.

It being the election of officers for the coming year, various reports were given, showing a most prosperous term. During the year the association pieced and quilted several mission quilts, redecorated the vestry, varnished and waxed the woodwork and linoleum in the church, held a successful strawberry social, catered for the county plowing match; also this fall some of the ladies prepared a three-act comedy drama play entitled "The Red-headed Stepchild," which has been presented four times and which has added a good deal to the treasury.

The association also contributed $25 to the missionary and maintenance fund, also $20 to the general church funds. The sick were remembered with fruit and flowers.

The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on hand of nearly $100.

Rev. J. Trumpour was in charge of the election of officers, which were as follows: President, Mrs. Fred Brown; Vice-President, Mrs. Wm. Fowler; Secretary, Mrs. Cephas Heard; Treasurer, Mrs. Harold Lewis; Pianist, Mrs. Walter Heard; Official Board Representative, Mrs. Ross Harrison; Group Leaders: Mrs. Robert Fowler, Mrs. Wesley Bell and Mrs. Everett Cockburn.

The committees were arranged differently this year. Each group will be responsible for all meetings for three months and there will be representatives of the social, flower, visiting and devotional committees on each group, and when that group is finished the next group follows on for the next three months and so on.

The Rev. Trumpour closed the meeting with prayer, after which a delightful lunch was served.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Bell. Mrs. Rosborough was given a hearty vote of thanks for the many tmes that she has opened her home to the association.

South Will Use Its Own Paper

LUFKIN, Tex., Dec. 8—(AP). — Southern newspaper readers literally will turn over a new leaf January 1.

Many of the principal newspapers will be printed on paper from Texas pine. Heretofore, the bulk of the newsprint has come from Northwestern United States, Canadian and European sources.

A $6,000,000 plant is nearing completion. Production will begin about January 1, said E. L. Kurth, president of the Southland Paper Mills, Inc. The corporation, working with the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association and aided by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, started the plant in February on a 200-acre site three miles northeast.

The mill site has been christened "Herty, Tex.," in honor of the late Dr. Charles Holmes Herty. With the late Francis Patrick Garvin, he developed a process for making newsprint of Texas pine pulp. From processing experiments in Dr. Hertys' laboratory at Savannah, Ga., and from actual test runs of the finished product, there evolved a newsprint which experts say will meet all requirements of today's high-speed newspaper presses.

The plant, employing about 800 persons, will have a capacity of 50,000 tons annually. Southern publishers have contracted for the output during the first five years. In its wake, leaders say, will come other plants and industries to speed the South's chemurgic development.

Car Collides With Locomotive

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8.—Two Seymour township youths narowly escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding collided with a C.N.R. locomotive on the Grand Road crossing at four o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Jack Stephens, R.R. 5, Campbellford who was said to have been driving the car told police that he had seen the freight as he drove north along the road but thought it would pass over the elevated track 200 yards farther north. When he realized the train had turned and crossed the canal bridge in his path it was too late to stop. The car ploughed into the left front end of the locomotive with such force as to push the drive cylinder from 4 to 5 inches out of place. More than $100 damage was done to the car. Neither he nor his brother Donald was injured.

48th Highlanders Maintain Tradition Of Forefathers

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—(CP)—In the 48th Highlanders of Canada a new generation of Scottish-Canadians prepares to follow the path which led three kilted battalions from Toronto to the battlefields of France and Belgium in the first Great War.

One of the crack units of the non-permanent active militia and the senior kilted unit in Toronto, the 48th holds an honored place among the units selected for the First Overseas Division.

Kilts are much in evidence at the 48th's training quarters in Exhibition Park, Toronto. With the Toronto Scottish, also a First Division unit, the 48th occupy the horse palace. The huge structure, built to accomodate blue-blooded livestock brought to the Canadian Exhibition each year, provides ample space for sleeping, messing and administering two battalions at full war strength.

Soon, however, the men of the 48th must discard their blue Davidson tartan kilts for the more practical but less showy khaki battle dress.

All ranks realize the advantage of the new garb over the Scottish national costume for modern war but are hopeful they can retain the kilt for special dress parades and leaves.

At least two battle-wise veterans, steeped in the traditions of the 48th, will guide the younger warriors of the unit in the present war. They are Major E. W. Haldenby, acting officer commanding, and Major R. Y. Cory.

All Served in 15th

Both went overseas and saw active service with the 15th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, in the first Great War. Lt.-Col. J. H. Chipman, officer commanding, is ill and he too served with the 15th. All three have been with the unit continuously since the last war.

The 48th Highlanders was formed in 1891 by a group of patriotic Scottish-Canadians, eager to provide Toronto with a kilted unit. The number 48 was arbitarily chosen and the Davidson tartan was selected in honor of the first commanding officer, Lt.-Col. John I. Davidson.

The regimental crest is a falcon's head which forms part of the Davidson crest. Choice of a motto was peculiarly fitting in view of the trials the men of the 48th were to endure a quarter of a century later. The Gaelic motto "Dileas Gu Brath," means "faithful unto death."

During the first Great War the regiment raised and equipped the 92nd and 134th battalions as well as the 15th which went overseas in 1914 with the First Canadian contingent.

The old 15th Battalion was one of the units whcih bore the brunt of the first German gas attack at the second battle of Ypres. Stubbornly the Highlanders hung on to their position as the strange green smoke crept up on them, improvising gas masks with their handkerchiefs. Their losses were terrific but the deeds of valor performed there were only the first of many.

In the ensuing three years the 15th distinguished itself again and again. It was in on the capture of Vimy Ridge in the spring of 1917. Its battle record includes Messines, the Somme, Bulay Grenay, Hill 70, Passchendaele, Loos, Amiens and the Canal du Nord.

The Shame Of It

There is something in the announcements coming from Moscow which is hard to understand. Hard to the point of being impossible. We refer to the claims of the Red Army regarding the progress which is being made in the conquest of Finland. "We have smashed through the main defence line on the Karelin Isthmus."

The "we" in this case, meaning Russia, represents the military force of a nation of 180,000,000 population.

The line through which "we" are claimed to have smashed represents the defensive work of a nation with 3,500,000 people.

So as far as strength of numbers is concerned "we" are fifty times as great and strong as the people through whose lines "we" have smashed.

If Moscow had the feelings of even a second-rate gentleman there would be no announcements made regarding the way in which the campaign is going in Finland. The great man claims to have smashed the small man in one place and hastens to tell about it. And that is the company Hitler selected with which to team up in world domination!

What Did Take Place?

On the evening of July 1 Robert Hamilton was driving his car along McDonnel Street toward Reid Street. At the same time another car driven by Donald Reid of Detroit was proceeding along Reid Street toward the same intersection.

Reid is a through street, and traffic east or west on McDonnel must stop, and there are signs there to that effect. There was abundant evidence that the car driven by Mr. Hamilton did not stop, and there was abundant evidence to show he was approaching that intersection at what was described as excessive speed. The fact that the two cars came into collision at that intersection was final and conclusive evidence.

Mr. Hamilton was charged with reckless driving, and the case was disposed of when a jury in County Court found him not guilty. Under the circumstances there was nothing for Judge McGibbon to do but accept the verdict, although he made it plain enough he did not agree with the verdict. He was moved to inquire how it was jurors had arrived at such a conclusion.

The verdict leaves a large question unanswered. If Mr. Hamilton was not guilty of reckless driving by running through a stop street at excessive speed, then what did take place? If there were no recklessness and no disregard for traffic signals how could there have been a smash at that corner with a number of people injured and cars damaged? The answer of the jury presents one of those problems where the figures are added up but they do not produce the right result.

The Wine Shop Vote

The City Council has given instructions that on voting day electors shall have furnished to them a ballot with the following question:

"Are you in favor of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario closing up the Hillrust Wine Company, Limited, wine shop on Charlotte Street in the city of Peterborough?"

The Examiner is not at all interested in the fortunes of this or any other wine shop, but for the moment the question is whether the city is going about this in the right way, and if it is meeting the procedure set up and recognized by the provincial authorities.

This procedure is set forth in Section 69 of the Liquor Control Act, and it states exactly the way in which the question shall be placed before the electors In this case, where the sale of beer and wine and liquor has been in operation, the only question which includes wine would be this one:

"Are you in favor of the continuance of Government stores for the sale of beer and wine, under the Liquor Control Act?"

As near as the Examiner can come to an understanding of the provisions there is no recognized way open to ask the electors if they are in favor of the closing of any one particular establishment. The sale of beer and wine are coupled together and come in the way of a general question of policy rather than an opinion regarding the future operation of one dispensary.

It is proposed in taking the vote on January 1 that electors qualified to vote in municipal elections shall express an opinion. Under the local option provisions it is provided that those who shall vote will be all persons eligible to vote at an election for the Provincial Legislature. That would include persons on Part 3 of the voters' list, and they are not entitled to vote in a municipal contest, and therefore they cannot vote on this proposed referendum, although provincial regulations say they can.

In case the people indicated they favored closing the wine shop the result would be forwarded to the Liquor Control Board, but it is doubtful if that result would carry weight there because the vote would not have been taken in the way the Liquor Control Act requests or directs. Whether an application to restrain the store by injunction would make progress this paper does not know. The Liquor Control Act provides for the taking of a vote at the end of any three year term on the general policy of a community being wet or dry, but otherwise we can find no provision made for dealing with one particular point of outlet.

Job For Police

Under the office of Samuel B. Rollins of Tweed was placed a charge of explosive. It was described as a poorly arranged job, but it was sufficient to blow part of the building away and smash windows. A few minutes before there had been about 25 persons in the office and the intention probably was to cause damage to them. An election had just been concluded and there was some local feeling raised about the site of the post office.

It does not make much difference whether the job was bungled or not because the intention of damage was there just the same. Using explosives for such purpose is something which is foreign to this country and we insist that it shall be kept that way. One could have a good deal more patience with an individual who would meet a citizen in broad daylight and double up his fists for a fight than he could extend to the individual who sneaks out after dark and plants explosives.

There is a job there for the police and a real one.

U.S. Aviators May Come

When Canada declared war there were a number of trained aviators from United States who desired to enlist in the Royal Air Force. They found a barrier over which they could not go, and that was that only Canadians were considered eligible.

Word from Ottawa is to the effect these restrictions are to be altered. An American aviator can join the air force in Canada but he will be required to take an oath of allegiance to the King. An instructor from United States would be able to work in Canada if he held a commercial license issued in this country.

Several months ago when a party of young people were in New York as guests of the Examiner, the circulation manager of this paper had occasion to speak with a number of aviators who were then engaged on one of the major concessions at the World's Fair. They were all highly trained air-men. They said as soon as they were through many of them intended going to Canada to join the air force. At that time they could not have done so, but now it looks as though such a thing would be possible. The services of well-trained and competent men may mean much in the building of the giant air force planned in Canada.

Must We Believe This?

One report which is not official tells of a German bomber which crashed off the coast of Norfolk. There was no evidence that the plane had been attacked; there was no evidence of damage from gun fire. The pilot was dead and there was nothing to indicate how he came into that condition.

With those circumstances as background the London Daily Sketch appeared with a page one story to the effect that some new and hitherto undisclosed British weapon had been at work. Readers are supposed to accept the theory that this new method simply brings planes to earth, leaves no marks to show that the plane has been in operation, but disposes of both the plane and its crew.

It is even added that officials had nothing to say about the matter, and in that way there is added another touch of mystery on the assumption that officials do not wish to admit there is a new and secret device in operation.

By the time the story had been printed and then turned over to the commentators on the radio it looked even better. Sounded that way too.

Possibly there is no way of declaring a closed season for stories of this kind. It would cramp the style of some writers and interfere with the talents of men on the radio, but actually it would take a person with more than his share of credulity to accept the report as being true. Admittedly it would be a nice way to deal with enemy planes—just cause them to come down and leave no marks on either craft or occupants. It looks as though writers of fiction and high adventure have had a new plot and idea tossed on their doorstep.

Spelled Two Ways

In a note sent to the Examiner a reader says a mistake was made in spelling the name of Methusaleh.

"I seldom miss reading that philosophy in rhyme in your paper, on page four, but you spelled the oldest man in the world as Methusaleh. I refer you to the third chapter of Luke and the 37th verse, beginning: 'Which was the son of Mathusala, which was the son of Enoch,' etc. Even if he did eat everything that was put on his plate and lived 969 years, I think he is entitled to have his name spelled correctly."

It does look as though the people of today are not the only ones who now and then have trouble with the spelling of their names. What our correspondent says is quite correct regarding the spelling used in Luke. In turn we suggest that he look up Genesis, fifth chapter, and it will be found the name is mentioned four times, terminating with verse 27: "And all the days of Methusaleh were nine hundred sixty and nine years, and he died."

We have heard the explanation that the difference comes from translating from Hebrew in one case and from Greek in the other. So if our observant correspondent will agree we are 50 per cent. right we glady extend the same degree of accuracy to him. For there it is—Methusaleh in Genesis and Mathusala in Luke.

NOTE AND COMMENT

At several places individuals have been arrested for distributing copies of the Mid-West Clarion. It would be much quicker to stop the circulation at its point of origin.

Pittsburg man was ordered in court to kiss his wife once a day for a year. Shucks! As the bright young folk of today say there would be no oomph in such a gesture.

One unfortunate man in Manitoba was shot in mistake for a coyote. There are some odd looking men in existence, but never yet have we seen one which looks like a coyote.

One report has it that Dallas, Texas, has offered two football teams $80,000 each for a game in that city. Teacher must have been wrong when he used to say the road to success was strict attention to business and hard work.

Man in New York seeking to draw small offerings by playing a horn on the street was arrested, and it was then found he had on deposit in banks no less than $47,830. It was all in cash as any notes in his possession were blown away.

Woodstock, Ingersoll, and Brantford voted against having daylight saving. Peterborough did the same thing several years ago, after which the council of that time decided to try the plan regardless of what the voters said. And we've had it ever since.

In Stratford at the municipal elections there was but 60 per cent. of the vote polled last year. The Beacon-Herald of that city takes a little sunshine from that cucumber by saying such a vote can be counted quickly and all hands can then be away home and to bed at a decent hour.

George Bernard Shaw is reported as saying Finland is to blame for its own trouble, and it could readily enough have submitted to Russian demands. The past brilliance of the man appears to be overshadowed by his present stupidity and his love of seeing his name in print.

Motorist from Tillsonburg drove his car into the ditch, through a rail fence and then stopped in a farm field without being injured. Perhaps it is an old-fashioned view, but it has always seemed to us that it is so much more comfortable and enjoyable just driving straight along the road.

COUSIN EZRA

¶ My Cousin Ezra does not drift, in fact he's filled night up with thrift, in that there's no mistake; he talked to me just yesterday, of presents that he'd give away, and what he'd send to Jake.

¶ Last year my Cousin Ezra got, six pair of socks all rather hot, he wore not even one; the boys he feared would yell at him, laugh at his decorated shin, when they would see him come.

¶ And they're as good as new I know, he had them laid out in a row, had papers and some string; and he was taking up each pair, and wrapping them with extra care, a rather clever thing.

¶ And Ezra got some Christmas ties, the sort which sort of hurt the eyes, admittedly they're gay; he has some boxes from last year, and now that Christmas time is near, they'll all be shipped away.

¶ And Ezra has a system now, he has it all worked out somehow, the names of all these men; so he won't make the sad mistake, of taking one from Cousin Jake, and send it back again.

¶ So he eliminates a lot, by shipping out the stuff he's got, a rather clever bloke; but he'd feel better if he gave, and for a spell forgot to save—and felt that he was broke.

Finns Capture Russ Troops Coming By Air

THE Petsamo region at the northern tip of Finland is a country of rolling hills cut by deep ravines. At this time of the year snow up to 8 feet deep, constantly banked and drifted by the Arctic wind, covers the barren ground and blocks the few roads.

Last week, as the Russians drove into the Petsamo district and the Finns resisted fiercely, the Soviet troops were reported to be using a trick of which the Red Army has been boasting for the past four years: detachments of men equipped with rifles and machine guns and dropped from huge transport planes by means of parachutes. The Russian units that captured—and lost—the port of Linahamari reputedly arrived by aerial taxi.

The Soviet first demonstrated this method at army manoeuvers near Kiev in 1935. As astonished foreign attaches watched great bombers roar over, 40 well-armed infantrymen bailed out from each, and in a few minutes 500 parachutes were drifting toward the earth. When they hit the ground the men threw off their harness and formed into military units.

The value of such formations was obviously to disrupt enemy communications and in smaller formations to sabotage vital plants and junctions. But in addition to this the mere threat to use such tactics might force the enemy to divert needed front-line troops to guard his rear. The German Army in particular took up the idea with enthusiasm and developed a corollary technique: the actual transport of troops in planes. In this manner some thousands of men were landed from the air during the occupation of Vienna in March 1938.

In the Polish war, however, the German Army never used its parachute units on a large scale. The Poles said they had caught some men dropped behind the lines to disrupt communications, but the Reich, claiming that they were soldiers who had bailed out of damaged planes, formally protested against their execution as spies.

ALONG the Karelian Peninsula the Finns emulated the strategy of the French in front of the Maginot Line. They fell back slowly to their own line of fortifications, the so-called Mannerheim Line, selling ground as dearly as possible. Marshal Mannerheim himself, the leader in the war of independence, had again taken active command. Just north of Lake Ladoga the Russians launched their heaviest attack. And there the Finns tried their own special tactics. Squads of six men, armed with rapid-fire weapons—including a new "machine pistol" firing 250 rounds a minute—took shelter behind the great granite outcroppings and in the forest of that desolate country and ambushed several companies of Soviet troops.

Far north, in the Petsamo district of Finnish Lapland, where the Russians had also demanded territorial concessions, women and children were packed up and sent across the border into Norway with all the goods they could carry. Then the Finns copied the "scorched earth" tactics of the Chinese: villages were burned, cattle slaughtered, and boats destroyed so the Reds couldn't use them. At first the Soviet troops crashed through, captured the region's chief port, Linahamari, and pressed on toward Salmijarvi and the rich nickel mines at near-by Kolosjoki. But the Finns slipped behind them on the snow-covered fells and in 14-below-zero cold surrounded the ill-clad Russians and recaptured Linahamari.

This battle up in the Arctic, where daylight lasts only four hours at this season, produced some of the most weird incidents of the war. At one point the Finns saw six planes pass over, then discovered a company of Russians in their rear—apparently dropped by parachute, although no 'chutes were visible in the snow. The Russians were wiped out. Finnish ski troops said they had no trouble out-manoeuvring the Russians in this rough country; for the Reds, equipped only for flat terrain, had only a loose leather toe strap and no heel strap on their skis.

By this week Finnish troops were apparently carrying out a careful strategic withdrawal along the entire Karelian frontier. On Dec. 2 air raids on Helsingfors ceased and Finns attributed it to Russian fear of hitting two Nazi steamers, the Brandenburg and the Donau, which had arrived to evacuate German subjects. Sunday, a soft snow began to cover the capital's scarred face. By midnight Finland's only ally had come to its aid: a raging blizzard was sweeping across the forests.

A PERFECT FIT

A new line of shoes introduced in the Middle West are actually molded to one's feet. The inner sole has a gutta percha filling which becomes soft and pliable at 250 degrees, when the shoe is fitted on. The customer walks around a few minutes as the plastic solidifies and in a half hour it has its original hardness and perfectly fits the wearer's foot.—Neal O'Hara, in New York Post.

IF THEY HAD CONTROL

One way in which to bring about real confusion at Ottawa would be to allow all the small and inexperienced critics of the present government to assume control of affairs and let the country see what a mess they would make of the national business and the war program. —Brockville Recorder and Times.

"No kissing! Why baby, you ought to get yourself one of those halo hats."
—London Opinion.

• Thirty to Forty Alarms Each Day

THE MEN who are in charge of anti-aircraft guns along the French line have two enemies with which to contend—mud and monotony. E. A. Montague, writing in the Manchester Guardian, says he could find little monotony during a visit owing to the number of alarms which were registered. He explains the situation:—

I saw recently by practical example why it is so difficult and dangerous for German 'planes to come reconnoitring over our army in France. I had gone to visit an anti-aircraft battery which projects a valuable railway station from air attack, and had splashed my way through the mud to where one of its sections was located.

Suddenly the section commander broke off his explanations to blow three blasts on his whistle; the section observers had seen a 'plane. Gunners rushed out of their dugouts and manned the guns. The men at the height-finders and predictors shouted strings of incomprehensible figures round in concert, searching for the 'plane, so distant that I could hardly see it.

Within a few seconds of the alarm they were on the target, and following its course ready to fire the instant that it was identified as an enemy. In a minute or two, however, the section commander lowered his glasses and gave the order "Stand easy." It was a friendly 'plane, and the gun crews went back to their dugouts to wait till the whistle should call them out again.

That is the daily routine of one of the most uncomfortable jobs in the expeditionary force. Always the observers, taking half-hour shifts turn and turn about, are sweeping the sky with their glasses. As soon as a 'plane is sighted, however far away, they give the alarm, and the section commander has identified the 'plane as harmless is the tension relaxed.

On a fine day there may be thirty or forty alarms between dawn and dark; I saw three in less than ten minutes, all of them abortive. In the intervals the men have to strengthen their defences and keep their dugouts in good repair. On a wet day there are few alarms, but most work is also impossible, so that boredom takes the place of constant, jerky activity.

The anti-aircraft gunners have been issued with a higher proportion of gum boots than any other branch except the signalers, and they need them. The gun positions are difficult to hide, and so the gunners have to build dugouts for their protection against machine-gun attack from the air.

In those dugouts they live throughout a much longer working day than falls to most of us. In some mysterious way they keep them dry, and the warmth of their stoves makes them not unpleasant on a Winter day, but the ground around them is as muddy as any I have seen in France.

Such is the life of the men who keep ceaseless watch and ward over our army. Their job is a skilled one, involving a good deal of delicate instrument work, and certain parts of it, such as the observing, cannot be done adequately, except by certain types of men.

Their enemies are mud and boredom—the enemies of everybody, but more so for them than for most—and their great longing is to fire their guns at a hostile target. They have had weeks now of standing to again and again, but the section I saw had not yet had a single alarm that was genuine.

• Was He Being Paid For Talking ?

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON. — Strange animals prowl in the dark—not only in the jungles, but in the very streets of London.

London at night is a war-time picture of intense blackness. If someone accosts you, unless you have a flashlight and break the law by turning it in his face, you can never recognize him again. And maybe that is an opportunity for friends of Germany.

For instance:

This correspondent the other night wanted a breath of fresh air. So he stood just outside the main entrance to his hotel in the Egyptian darkness. He did not even realize that anybody was beside him.

"This is a helluva war," grumbled a voice. "The Royal Air Force drops love and kisses pamphlets over Germany but you don't catch the Boche doing that sort of thing. Right on our own doorstep, so to speak, they come with their submarines and their bombers.

"Loop at Scapa Flow. A submarine waltzes right in, torpedoes the battleship "Royal Oak" and waltzes right out again. If we can't protect our warships put to bed for the night in that harbor, where can we protect them?

"Then to add insult to injury, they flew their bombers over that same harbor and took a crack at some more of our ships. Those Germans are devilishly clever and efficient. Looks pretty bad."

"Are you English?" I asked in some surprise.

"No. I am Australian and I don't like the way things are going. . . . The British Broadcasting Company this evening on the radio advised people here to stay indoors, close to their air raid shelters. They say they had information that German bombers were coming over London tonight."

Now this correspondent happened to know that the B.B.C. had done nothing of the sort.

"Your line of defeatist talk to an utter stranger certainly sounds queer to me," I said. "The B.B.C. did not say such a thing."

Then I found I was talking to a void. The man with the voice had vanished.

Maybe he was on the level—just a chap from the antipodes getting rid of a grouse against his own empire to anybody who would listen to him. But, again, he may have been a man who had undertaken to work for the enemy of his couhtry for 30 pieces of silver.

Such an agent does not do espionage work. He is not a spy. His job is to undermine the morale of the people. He is to talk in a despondent patriotic tone in street cars, in pubs, in restaurants, in any place where he can engage a few people in conversation.

He is the kind it is almost impossible for the police or the intelligence service to bag, officials have told me. It is hard to pin anything on him. In a democratic country a man can criticize his government and its conduct. It is a trying job to distinguish between the man who really loves his country and is distressed by some of the things that happen in a war and the man who has sold his country and is talking to earn his pay.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

RIGHT HERE where hard wheat is grown and flour is manufactured, the Aberhart Government has issued an edict that the price of bread to the consumer is to be "upped" a cent a loaf. That makes the price 10 cents a loaf to Lethbridge housewives.

Out in Vancouver, where the baker must pay the freight on the wheat or the flour, the price dropped recently to six cents a loaf—a cut of two cents.

Just why bread should sell at six cents in Vancouver and 10 cents in Alberta is one of those mysteries that only Mr. Aberhart can explain.—Lethbridge Herald.

GOWN NOT EXCLUSIVE

Barbara Hutton was one of the 300 guests who attended Mrs. Gilbert Miller's party. She arrived laden with jewels and wearing a new gold-and-silver dinner gown. Barbara walked through the room and was startled to discover that another guest was wearing a gown exactly like hers—the only similar ones in the place. "There's one thing about America," sighed Barbara, who recently has learned a few more things about America, "a girl never knows when exclusive model is exclusive."—Leonard Lyons, in New York Post.

FEW ESCAPE

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you.

Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.—Rom. viii: 5, 8, 9, 12-14, 16.

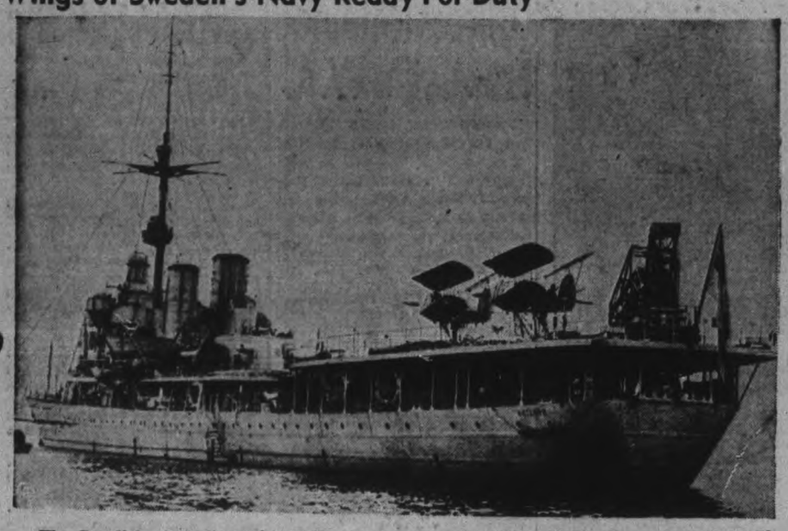
Wings of Sweden's Navy Ready For Duty



The Swedish aircraft carrier Gotland is shown here with some of her planes on the flight deck. Sweden has a small, but excellently equipped, navy that, experts claim, could give a good account of itself in the Baltic if the German navy remained aloof from any trouble there. But Germany has shown indications of playing ball with Soviet Russia in the matter of Finland. The German press has caused uneasiness in Sweden by demanding the ouster of Swedish Foreign Minister Sandler in an attempt, it is believed, to scare Sweden from lending aid to Finland.

Mrs. Darling Elected President Of Lakefield WMS

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8—(ENS). —"Jesus the Light of the World," was the theme carried throughout at the annual meeting of the W.M.S. of the Lakefield United Church held in the church auditorium for the December meeting. The theme was vividly exemplified by a silver candlestick with tall white taper which adorned the president's desk. The first vice-president, Mrs. Percy Darling presided for the meeting. She opened with an appropriate poem "His Star and Cross" and all joined heartily in singing a Christmas hymn. After which the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison.

As the leader lighted the candle she repeated Jesus own words, "I am the Light of the World, he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life."

Miss M. Milburn read a touching poem, part of which follows:

A little light in Bethlehem, no larger than a candle flame,
A wee white light in Bethlehem, silent and small it came,
And many slept and did not see the faint far gleam when dark unfurled,
The little light that grew to 'light of all the world.'
God's lamps are we to shine when He shall say,
And lamps are not for sunny rooms nor for the hours of day.
But for dark places of the earth, where crime and sin and want have birth,
The leader then told the story of the "service of the Holy Fire."
So shall the light be passed and shall not fail, you are the keepers of the ancient flame of that eternal candle God hath set.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. D. H. Charlton.

A much appreciated and very appropriate vocal number "A Little Town of Bethlehem" was given by Mrs. J. R. Hull with Mrs. J. McKercher accompanying.

The treasurer's report was given by Miss M. Sanderson which showed that the allocation has been almost reached.

It is hoped that a liberal response would result from the "Live Gift Offering" to be held at the home of Mrs. James Hendren on Wednesday evening, December 13.

Reports were given by various secretaries: Mrs. Stanley Richardson, corresponding secretary, reported eight cards sent to sick members who were ill during the year. The financial secretary, Mrs. W. Leonard, expressed her wish that each member would do her best to help reach the allocation. Miss M. Milburn, temperance secretary, brought home some startling facts on the wiles of alcohol.

It was recorded that a letter of thanks be sent the "Missionary and Service Club" for its donation of $10. The Mission Band was also tendered a vote of thanks for its work during the past year.

Mrs. E. J. Millage presented the claims of the Missionary Monthly and urged members to renew their subscription promptly.

The following slate of officers were elected to office. The installation to take place at the January meeting:

Mrs. (Dr.) Finnemore gave a concise and comprehensive review of the third chapter of the study book.

Centreville Y.P.S. Has Fine Session

CENTREVILLE, Dec. 8—(ENS). —On Tuesday night Miss Robena Tate was hostess to the Young People's Society. There was a large gathering and an interesting and profitable meeting. During the first 15 minutes there was community singing, the president, Miss Vera Bradshaw, presiding. It was decided to accept an invitation from Gwen Hutchinson to hold the next meeting at her home on Dec. 19.

NOT A POLITICAL MURDER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—A German Embassy spokesman said today further reports on the killing of Walter Engelberg, employee of the German Consulate in New York, proved fairly conclusively that no political aspect or motive was involved. The spokesman characterized the case as a personal one which, because of the absence of a political element, would be handled by the German Consulate-General and not by the German Embassy here.

FORD TRUCKS LEAD!

Sales Leader by Wide Margin for 5 Consecutive Years Leads Again in Value for 1940

By outselling every other make of truck to date in 1939, Ford Trucks have established paramount sales leadership in Canada over a five year period. Ford Trucks have actually occupied first position in sales during twenty-one of the past twenty-five years.

Compare Ford Truck Features

Ford trucks lead the field with V-type 8-cylinder engines. Eight cylinders for power ... small cylinders for economy. ★High chrome nickel-alloy steel valves are used for both intake and exhaust. ★Tungsten steel inserts on both intake and exhaust valve seats practically eliminate need for valve grinding. ★Engines are equipped with semi-centrifugal, single plate type clutch, which has tremendous power-transmitting capacity. The Ford clutch is noted for its ability to stand up in hard service, and for easy pedal action.

Sturdy full-floating rear axles with straddle-mounted pinions, make for reliability, long life, and freedom from repairs. With this type, axle shafts support no weight and take no end thrust. Yet the large axle shafts have ample reserve strength—being forged from special alloy steels, with tensile strengths of 180,000 lbs. to 210,000 lbs. per sq. inch. ★3-Ton Trucks have two speed axles, providing gear ratios which closely fit various load and road conditions, resulting in greater economy. ★Ford Trucks are "full jeweled", having roller or ball bearings throughout in all forward speeds.

TO KNOW why Ford Trucks lead in sales—compare them with all comers! Compare chassis for chassis ... feature for feature ... price for price. As so many alert operators have done, you will find that 1940 Ford Trucks give more for the money ... more performance and reliability, more all 'round economy ... more of the qualities that will insure you a greater volume of work in less time at lower cost.

A few of the features that account for Ford leadership are briefly described here. All Ford features are outstanding qualities incorporated in a Ford Truck to make it tougher, more rugged, more economical, to make the unit easier to handle and operate, increase the driver's comfort, give added protection to the load and contribute to safety. You can find all this out yourself. Accept your Ford Dealer's invitation to make an on-the-job test of a Ford Truck ... with your customary loads.

88,000 Canadian workers and their dependants, 14,000 Canadian shareholders, benefit because Ford Trucks are made in this country. When you buy a Ford Truck, more of your money stays in Canada.

FORD TRUCKS ARE MADE IN CANADA

FOR ECONOMY, PERFORMANCE, RELIABILITY!

- The powerful Ford Truck engines develop high torque over a wide range of speeds—speeds at which truck engines run most of the time—speeds at which greater engine economy is obtained.
- Extra length water jackets extend all the way down the walls of the crankcase, providing more even cylinder expansion, which in turn means reduced wear on pistons and piston rings.
- The short, rigid Ford crankshaft is made of special cast-alloy steel. Main and crankpin bearings are exceptionally hard. Even after many thousands of miles there is practically no wear.
- The distributor is direct-driven from the front end of the camshaft, eliminating backlash and assuring correct timing. It is waterproofed against failure in wet weather. Ignition has "hotter spark" for easier year 'round starting.
- The Ford Engine and Parts Exchange Plan enables Ford Truck operators to replace worn units after many thousands of miles of service, with reconditioned units for less than it would cost to have them repaired or overhauled. No time lost for the truck.
- Safety Glass is used in all windshields and windows of all Ford V-8 Trucks. This, taken with the ALL-steel cab and insulation, ensures safety and comfort for the driver.

Havelock High School Trustees Decide To Shift Science Room

HAVELOCK, Dec. 8 — (ENS). — With barely a quorum in attendance the Havelock High School Board assembled for its final meeting of the year. Thursday evening. Present were Trustees D. F. Miller and Hector Bannon, with chairman Mrs. George Rigby presiding.

Principal R. W. Goheen reported in a detailed summary of the recent visit of high school inspector S. D. Rendall that the latter had condemned the science laboratory for classroom use on the grounds of insufficient accommodation, poor lighting and ventilation. The inspector recommended that the science equipment be removed to the back of another classroom, and that the science room could be turned into a teachers' room.

After much discussion the board finally decided to follow Principal Goheen's suggestion that the science equipment be moved to the back of Form II classroom and a partition be erected to divide the room. The new situation would give twice the accommodation, an extra window and good lighting. Trustee Miller, saying that the plan seemed quite feasible, moved that the necessary alterations be made by the property committee during the Christmas holidays.

Inspector Rendall also recommended that some sets of history and literature books be added to the library. During his visit he had a long talk with the staff, discussing various teaching methods, and checking up on several points relating to the local school. He praised the work of the staff in general, remarking that all lessons were well handled.

Principal Goheen further reported that he had fulfilled the request of the board at the last meeting to supervise the teaching of music. The time table is so arranged now that he can be present during all music classes.

As last year, Secretary-Treasurer Edward Fennell was granted an additional $25 for his services on the high school body, this on motion of Trustees Miller and Bannon.

The question of the formation of a union board of education was again introduced but because of existing irregularities between the public and high school districts, which must first be straightened out, it was deemed advisable to leave this matter until the first of the year. The present Board suggested that a joint meeting of the public and high school bodies be held after the first of the year to further discuss this question.

Mrs. George Rigby, who has presided as chairman of the body for the past three months, following the resignation of T. P. Lancaster, and who is now completing her final term on the board, spoke briefly to the meeting, thanking the members for their co-operation.

The meeting then adjourned until the statuatory session on the first Wednesday in February, or at the call of the chair.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid on motion of Trustees Miller and Bannon: Teachers' and caretaker's salaries, $523.26; Bank of Toronto, hydro, $30.64; James Wilde, electrical work, $1.25; Moyer School Supplies, $1.62; Hubbell Hardware Co., supplies, $29.84; W. Platt, attendance officer, $10.00; R. F. Covert, repairing clock, $1.25; H. W. Krants, pump and furnace pipe repairs, $17.60; A. C. Denike, chemicals, $9.48; G. Wright, microscope, $25; miscellaneous agriculture supplies, $69.11.

Junior Institute

"A gift suitable for a child," was the roll call to which members of Havelock Junior Branch Women's Institute responded at their meeting on Wednesday evening in the Albion club rooms. Fourteen members presented gifts which will be packed in the Christmas cheer boxes which they annually distribute to needy children within the village.

The meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. F. McKenzie, in the absence through illness of Miss Margaret Voyer, president.

Many helpful hints on "inexpensive Christmas gifts' were suggested by Miss Minnie Williams, who had a number of articles on display and gave instructions on how to make them.

Christmas carols completed the evening's program, after which refreshments were served and a social period much enjoyed.

This Peterborough Lady Has High Praise For Syntona

Describes How It Brought Her Relief From 15 Years Of Suffering With Nervous Indigestion, Headaches, Backache and Rheumatic Pains. Felt Fatigued and Rundown.

"After all those years of suffering, I am so pleased with the way Syntona has helped me that I welcome this opportunity to let others know about this medicine," said Mrs. William Murney, 249 Dalhousie Street, Peterborough, in a report recently received at Elliott's Drug Store, here:

"I was told that my trouble was, originally, nervous indigestion, and it surely kept me in misery. I would have hunger pains, but as soon as I ate any food, my stomach became upset and I would feel sick and nauseated. There was a heavy feeling in my stomach and I would get so bloated with gas I could hardly breathe. For years I was troubled with headaches and pains in my back and then the pains spread into my arms and shoulders. I had lost so much sleep and was so nervous that I felt constantly worn out and rundown.

"When I read about how Syntona was helping others, I began taking it, too, and soon found I was getting the same good results myself. I can eat heartily now and I don't suffer with my stomach like I used to. I am relieved of those awful headaches and rheumatic pains. I sleep better and my nerves are relaxed. I take an active part in the unemployed association here, and I often had to curtail my activities because of my health, but since taking Syntona, I am able to carry on with my work without any interference."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure herbal extracts that aid in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and that rid the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter.

All who suffer, are cordially invited to call at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George Street, Peterborough, and learn the plain, truthful facts about Syntona. Make up your mind to begin taking it to-day. See how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Born in the township of Elzevir seventy-eight years ago, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Greatrix. His whole life-time until his retirement some years ago when he moved to Tweed, was spent in Elzevir.

Mr. Greatrix held the distinction of serving on Elzevir township council for forty years, probably one of the longest terms ever held by a municipal councillor in Ontario. He was also a school trustee for a number of years at Actinolite, and was a member of the Actinolite United church.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence on Arthur street to Actinolite cemetery. Rev. H. L. Morrison was assisted at the graveside by Rev. M. Price.

The bearers were: T. S. Rath, Dr. P. T. Bowlby, J. W. Kingston, William Richardson, J. J. Porritt, John Brown.

DIXON GARNETT

Born at Mount Pleasant, Ontario, July 16, 1860, Dixon Garnett died in Misericordia Hospital, Winnipeg, October 20, and was buried at Glenboro, Manitoba.

The following personal reference to him is quoted from the Western Prairie Gazette of Glenboro. "Mr. Garnett was one of the first settlers of Glenboro. He came West in 1884, worked with the railway survey gangs when the Crow's Nest and Kicking Horse passes were surveyed, and was a cook on the C.P.R. at the time of the strike during the Northwest rebellion in 1885. Mr. Garnett brought the first load of lumber to Glenboro when the town was surveyed. He married Sophia Down in 1888. She predeceased him a few years ago. After a few years on the railway he settled on a farm in Glenboro and remained there until shortly before his death.

Mr. Garnett was one of those sturdy, upright pioneers, whose a brother Walter of Otonabee, and sister, Mrs. Bertha Shields, Peterboro; also a brother in Brandon. The kindly genuine honesty and trustworthiness won him the highest esteem of all who knew him. Surviving him are three sons and one daughter: Percy and Ernest of Glenboro; Earl, of Peterboro, Ontario; and Mrs. J. A. Didman of Winnipeg; also a brother in Brandon. The funeral was held from Glenboro United Church to Glencove cemetery."

Havelock Board Reviews Year

HAVELOCK, Dec. 8 (ENS)—The Havelock Public School Board assembled on Monday evening in the school for their final meeting of the year with Trustees Mrs. C. Price, George Iles, D. Anderson and H. W. Roche present and Chairman Bernard Smith presiding.

Principal W. D. Duncan reported the average attendance for the past month to be 173.62. He also said that the public school in co-operation with the high school had planted some bulbs in the school garden.

Caretaker Robert Buchanan advised the Board that the water system pump which had given trouble, was now operating perfectly since a small piece of broken casting had been removed from one of the valves. He also reported that the smoke pipes from the furnace had been replaced.

Secretary-treasurer Fennell reported that the departmental grant had arrived, in the sum of $2,184.52 and that this amount less $153.24 for the superannuation fund had been deposited to the credit of the public school board.

The property committee on motion of Trustees Roche and Iles were instructed to order a small car of Saxton 4" lump coal at $9.85 per ton.

The meeting then adjourned until the statutory session in January or at the call of the chair.

Marmora Laymen Hear Bird Expert

MARMORA, Dec. 8 (ENS). — "Our Canadian Birds" was the title of an illustrated address given at the regular meeting of St. Paul's Laymen's Association on Wednesday evening by Dr. Harrison F. Lewis, chief migratory bird officer of Ontario and Quebec.

Dr. Lewis, before the showing of a fine series of slides, gave a general synopsis of the diversity of Canadian bird life and referred to legislative measures in Canada and the United States for the conservation of bird life.

As the slides were shown he gave an interesting description of the distinguishing features of the various birds thus illustrated.

The ladies having been invited for the occasion the attendance was above the usual mark.

J. F. Baker of Bonarlaw preceded the speaker with the fine rendition of two songs appropriate for the occasion. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell moved a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Lewis at the close of the meeting.

During a social half-hour which followed, refreshments were served.

Petes Listed In 4-Team Group In Intermediate "A" As Colts Get 5-Team Setup

The O.H.A. has released groupings for this winter in the various divisions. Besides the senior "A" series, there is a senior "B" section which includes Stratford, London, Windsor, the winner of the 5th and 6th senior "A" teams and the northern winner. There are four intermediate "A" groups, one of Belleville, Trenton Airport, Oshawa and Peterborough; one in the Midland district; the T.H.A. champions; and one in Western Ontario.

Cobourg, Port Hope and Whitby are in an intermediate "B" grouping; while Sutton, Lindsay, Oakwood and Lakefield are in another. There are 17 groups in the "B" series including Norwood with a bye into the playdowns.

Nine Junior "B"

There are two junior "A" groups, the Big Six and the Northern Ontario champions. Nine groups comprise the junior "B" division. One is in the Kingston sector and another around the Bay of Quinte area. A third includes Peterborough, Oshawa, Lindsay, Port Hope and Coborough. No. 4 is in Toronto and No. 5 around Aurora. The Falls get a bye while Western Ontario has two groupings and Barrie and neighboring towns make up the other. Lakefield gets a bye in the junior "C" series, which covers 14 widely-separated groups.

Group winners in intermediate "B," junior "B" and "C" to be named by Feb. 17. There is no hard-and-fast rule at present covering group winners in other series. The intermediate "A" champion of Ontario is eligible to challenge the senior victor in Allan Cup playdowns.

Group Convener

Sandy Burrows of Belleville is convener for the Petes' intermediate "A" group and the meeting will be held shortly in Port Hope. W. S. Moore of Port Hope is convener for the locals' junior "B" league and the meeting will be held in Port Hope within a few days, likely. Dick Butler of Lindsay looks after the intermediate "B" section of this territory and will hold the meeting in Lindsay soon.

All controversial matters will be ironed out by the various teams at the schedule meetings, when team ratings, objections, dates and such questions will come up and be settled before the schedules are drawn up for each group for the coming hockey campaign. Other O.H.A. information will be forthcoming from time to time.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

Art Coulter
New York Rangers

(By Central Press Canadian)

For the first 11 years of their existence New York Rangers had as their captain the mighty Bill Cook and when he retired after the 1936-37 season the mantle fell on Art Coulter, one of the National League's better defencemen, playing his third year as captain and his fifth as a Ranger. Coulter broke into the N.H.L. eight seasons back and spent his first four and a half seasons with Chicago Black Hawks, before going to Rangers in a straight swap for Earl Seibert, like Coulter a star before and after the deal. Coulter is a blocking type of player rather than a rushing, scoring threat. Quite an orator on the ice and could probably go on for hours, whenever a decision goes again his team—unless the ref called a halt. Born in Winnipeg 28 years ago. First pro team, Philadelphia Arrows in old Canadian-American loop, where he played from the '29-'30 season until bought by Chicago. Shoots right, Teams with Muzz Patrick as one of Rangers' blue line pairs. Last year Boss Lester had them grow beards as something a little different, but soon discarded the idea when lady fans voted in favor of viewing the unmarred Coulter visage. Yes, he's a bachelor. Most goals in a season, five; most penalties, 80 minutes. Lifetime totals; 23 goals, 43 assists, 392 minutes in penalties.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Down in Ottawa tomorrow, the Dominion grid final will be staged to wind up the Canadian football season. Rough Riders are favored slightly in some quarters to take Winnipeg Bombers, but it may be a pretty tight fit. Personally, we'll enjoy the joust parked in an easy chair by the radio. A raft of regular Rider fans are sore as frostbitten ears 'cause no discrimination was used in passing out the ducats. In little over two hours after reserved seats went on sale the middle of the week, they were sold out—and in many cases some folks bought dozens in a block. So the scalpers ought to make hay regardless of what the sun is doing on the morrow. One grid gent figures that if 4,600 pasteboards were sold in 150 minutes, it meant the sale of 30 tickets a minute. A few years ago the same thing occurred here in a hockey playoff, and steady customers were left high and dry—and mighty, mighty angry.

* * * * * *

For tonight's exhibition tilt with the Generals in Oshawa, Coach Frank Buckland expects to use all the Petes for part of the game at least. Though Joe Blewett may not be okay — after getting a cut on the face recently—this tussle. Both Harding and McNabb will see net sevice, with Crowe, F. Jopling, Ellis, Gardner and Burton on defence. Forwards in uniform will be Tompkins, Kingdon, Starr, Coughlin, Heal, J. Jopling, Cadd and maybe Blewett. The powerful and packed Generals easily defeated Trenton Fliers a coupla weeks back and may do a ditto on the locals—but it ought to be a neat number and good practice for both teams. Some local fans will attend.

And Nearly Time

At long last—as the Duke of Windsor would say—the O.H.A. has released all its groupings for the winter. There is one senior "A" and three senior "B" series. The latter includes a Stratford-London-Windsor one, the bottom two teams playing off in the senior "A" section, and the winner of the N.O.H.A. Then, in intermediate "A" are four groups. One includes the Petes, Fliers, Redmen and Oshawa; one is up Owen Sound way; third is the T.A.H.A. winnah; and fourth is in Western Ontario—one of those intermediate "A" and "B" mixed-up groups. No less than 17 intermediate "B" gangs, with Lakefield in with Sutton, Lindsay and Oakwood—while Norwood gets a bye. One junior "A" series, plus the N.O.H.A. victor, but nine junior "B" groups. Colts are in with Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg and Lindsay. There are 14 junior "C" outfits, Lakefield getting a bye.

* * * * * *

So there ya are—the hockey setup for the winter, especially as it affects Peterborough and district. Schedule meetings are due to be called shortly, possibly this week-end, in Port Hope and Lindsay. Probably two or three of the junior "B" teams in our group will seek a junior "C" rating and an interlocking schedule. Which isn't too hot a setup, but may be a necessity. The Petes are in a fine four-team grouping — and the fact that the rating is set at intermediate "A" instead of senior "B" doesn't change the calibre of play one speck. The hockey will be as fast as ever, and possibly faster—what with Oshawa in now and the Fliers loading up.

It Sounds Swell

There is one decided advantage in the intermediate "A" rating. The Ontario winner in this section is permitted a whack at the senior "A" champ in Allan Cup playdowns. And there are but four intermediate "A" groups so the winner of our loop has an excellent chance. Trenton Fliers had a similar crack at Allan Cup playdowns three years ago. Furthermore, the victor of this group in Central Ontario won't have to meet the Falls—or any other senior "A" team, dropping back to a "B" rating coming on toward spring. Personally, we think the Petes have fared quite well at the hands of the O.H.A. this semester, both as to rating and grouping. Hope the schedule is announced soon.

* * * * * *

Puck fans here won't have too tough a job getting onto rule changes this winter, there being but two. As mentioned before, these are in force to cut down on whistle-tooting. New regulations state there shall be no penalty faceoff when a defending team ices the puck down the rink "if a player of the opposing team is able to play the puck before it passes his own red penalty-shot line." And on offsides, where an attacker precedes the disc into the defensive zone, there will be no whistle "if the defending team intercepts the puck cleanly at or near its own blue line." These are matters of the referee's judgment but they're rather obvious and he'd better judge right or have one team and many of the fans after him. Both sound like sensible rules and ought to speed play up more than ever.

Getting All Set

Annual re-organization meeting of the Church Hockey League is Monday eve at seven in the "Y" and all churches should be represented. It is for election of ossifers, rules discussion and general plans for the season. While entries won't be taken till the next session, the executive will want an idea of how many teams will seek entry—so the various churches might have their own club meetings over the week-end. Church Loop of some 20 teams regularly enjoys fine hockey seasons, and prospects are bright for this frosty semester coming up.

Quaker Aces won their second straight Girls' Basketball League tussle last night in the Y.W. gym, taking a 14-8 decision over Quaker Debs. Aces are alone now in second place, just back of the high-flyin' Orfuns. The hustling Debs crowded their Quaker sisters plenty but wobbled a trifle in the dying moments to lose out. Two tilts are listed for tonight in this lasses' loop, Orfuns playing "Y" Gym damsels at 7.45 and St. John's clashing with the Westclox femmes along about 8.45. Both games shape up as tight affairs with action galore on tap. Cage followers are invited.

City Five-Pin League Bowlers Stage Tight Battle

Fred Hickey accounted for 896 of the 3668 Duffus' Recreation team total in the City League last night and it took every pin the long guy made with the 343, 342, 340 and 300 singles, which were spread around by himself, Marsden, Scates and Curvin to subdue the last place Lock Works team. Head pins and splits were only a sideline to the Lockmakers, as they bowled like wild men to win their third point of the year with a 3262 score. They are starting to hit them and will trouble most of the teams in the second quarter.

When George Robertson topped off his 789 with a 345 single, Jay's Cigars did what no other team has been able to do before, take a point from Gord Shantz's streamlined Gordon's outfit. The Gordon gang had previoulsy cleaned up on every squad they met for a 21-game winning streak.

Three to one decisions went to Grafton's and Capitol Grill over C.G.E. and Grant's, the three latter teams being away off color.

The averages for the first quarter of the schedule released by Walter Firth, league secretary, show young Bud White of Jay's Cigars on top with 248. Freddie Martin is second with 247 and Jack Playford third with 245. The complete list will be published later.

THIS SIGNAL MUST NOT FAIL

A DARK night—you're tired and in a hurry—and the express is coming! The unfailing service of the railroad's Exide battery-equipped signal comes to your rescue. Gongs ring, lights flash and signal you to stop. The railroad has once again done its share to protect you.

The railway's code is that signals must not fail. They demand the best and behind the vigilance of these signals stands the dependable performance of Exide storage batteries. It is significant that to help operate railway signals, railways choose Exide batteries. From long experience they know they can place their faith in Exide—the dependable battery.

Don't take chances with the starting and lighting of your car. The average motorist does not have the facilities to test accurately all the different makes of batteries before he buys. Therefore, we suggest that you take the advice of the railway engineers who know a good battery. They choose Exide. What other battery offers you such proof of its merit!

There is an Exide battery especially designed to suit your particular requirements. If you are hard on a battery—if you are starting a lot—if you use a defroster, a radio or a heater, ask to see the Exide Hycap; a battery of high capacity.

There is an Exide dealer in your community. He has been carefully chosen for his ability to give you good battery service. Look for his Exide dealer sign—symbol of honest service.

FLYING FRENCHMEN TRIM MAPLE LEAFS TO SHARE FIRST PLACE

Black Cat Johnny Grabs Two Goals As Montreal's Wild Frenchmen Whip Toronto Leafs In 4-1 Tangle

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Hearken to the purr of the Black Cat, for little Johnny Gagnon has found another life and isn't at all ready to admit even that it's his ninth.

The Black Cat, as Chicoutimi Johnny is called around the National Hockey League circuit, is in his 14th big-time season now with Montreal Canadiens.

Ill at the start of the schedule, Gagnon has played only the last four games with the Habitants.

The veteran made his comeback with a bang, picking up three goals and three assists in the four contests. The high spot was last night when he scored twice and aided in another goal as Canadiens, before a home crowd of 11,300 fans, whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1.

Amerks Fall 2-1

However, while the efforts of Gagnon were conspicuously successful, those of the luckless New York Americans continued on the downbeat. The Americans lost 2-1 at Chicago to the Black Hawks for their ninth defeat in a dozen games.

"I didn't sleep at all the night before the game," Gagnon said afterwards in the dressing room. "I tried to get some rest during the day but I was too nervous. And I was nervous out on the ice too, as nervous as the first time I played professional hockey. Those two goals gave me as much kick as any I've ever scored before."

But the Black Cat didn't show any signs of nerves as he pumped a goal by Walter (Turk) Broda in the early minutes of the second period to send Canadiens into a 3-0 lead. And he gave Broda absolutely no chance in the last minutes of the third session with the shot that made the score 4-1. Doug Young and Paul Haynes scored the others.

Drillon Scores Once

The single Toronto tally came mid-way through the second period when Gordie Drillon punched home a pass from Red Horner.

Manager Red Dutton of the Americans provided most of the fireworks in the contest at Chicago. Referee Norm Lamport twice called back goals by the Americans and the second decision, nullifying a score that would have tied the game, brought a fiery Dutton to the ice. It turned out to be only a battle of words, however, as Charlie Conacher and Hooley Smith placed restraining hands on their mentor.

The Hawks, who went into a fourth place tie with New York Rangers through victory, played defensive hockey after working up a 2-0 lead on a first period goal by Des Smith and a second period tally by Bill Thoms. Tommy (Cowboy) Anderson got the only New York goal a little more than four minutes after the score by Thoms.

N.H.L. STARS

By The Canadian Press

Johnny Gagnon, Canadiens, got two goals and an assist as the Flying Frenchmen trounced Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1.

Gordon Drillon, Toronto, continued to pace National Hockey League marksmen by scoring Leafs' only goal against Canadiens to boost his point record to nine goals and five assists.

Bill Thoms, Chicago, tallied what proved to be the winning counter as the Black Hawks defeated New York Americans 2-1.

Memberships are rolling in this week at a pleasing rate. However, there is still a lot of ground to be covered before the end of the campaign and members are urged to contact all their assignments as soon as possible.

The executive is offering a prize to the value of $5.00 to the boy and girl turning in the most paid-up members by the end of the campaign. Here is a chance to win something really worth while in the line of ski equipment. Your help is needed at Bethany this week-end as there is lots of work to finish up out there. Work is progressing favorably on the surprise feature for the winter and is something you should come out and see.

We need hundreds of old newspapers out at Bethany for a temporary chinking job on the Chalet. Please bring all you can get your hands on to Duffus' Garage right away and the building committee will see that they get to Bethany. The chinking has to be done at once, so hurry.

Let's see you go out and win that five dollar prize for the most paid up members. Good luck.

Manager, Coach Of Western Champs

JOE RYAN REG THRELFALL

Voice and mastermind of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western Canada rugby champions for the third successive year, are this pair, Joe Ryan, manager of the club, and Reg Threlfall, coach. They confidentially expect to take the Grey Cup west for the second time when the Bombers meet the eastern champs on December 9.

Bar Champ Team Trading In The Circuit

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 8—(AP).—The baseball convention sped today toward what everyone concerned hoped would be a premature conclusion. Delegates expected to be on the way home by mid-afternoon, a full day ahead of their original schedule.

They went at it until late last night, seriously disrupting the regular banquet. Nobody knew what caused all this haste, unless the big leaguers were anxious to present their shining faces before commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis today and learn the worst.

Another theory was that they had become unanimously disgusted at their failure to make any player deals of importance.

The American leaguers felt somewhat more comfortable about seeing Landis than did their National league cousins.

After the National leaguers had voted their approval of three rule amendments calculated to curb the judge's power, the American leaguers as unanimously rejected the three measures. The junior loopers thus placed him in position to break the tie with his own vote today.

Meantime, the palm already had been presented to President Clark Griffith of Washington for having engineered the one really spicy piece of business.

Trading Curbed

From now on no championship team of the American League will be able to acquire a player from any other club in the circuit except by the waiver route. That means the Yankees now haven't a hope of obtaining an established star, like Buck Newsom of Detroit or George McQuinn of the Browns.

Yankee president Ed Barrows voted for the rule, himself, just to make it unanimous. As he pointed out, the stars of the present great team, with the exception of the veterans Red Ruffing and Monte Pearson, all came up from the minors.

In a midnight manoeuvre that topped the previously feeble trading efforts, Chicago White Sox sent outfielder Gee Walker to Washington for outfielder Taft Wright and pitcher Pete Appleton.

Wednesday

The Wednesday night league of the K. of C. Alleys pounded the maple five pins for the hardest session to date. Bill (Rosebud) Masters after taking it easy for a couple of weeks returned to top form when he crashed in a three-game string of 959 to take the city's high three from the old master, Tom Curvin, who was previously high with 952 bowled at Duffus' Alleys in the City League two weeks ago. Bill's three-game string was composed of a 389, 219, 351 set. Cheered by his C.G.E. teammates Bill had the pins practically eating out of his hands all night. Congratulations.

The next upset of the night came when the last place Coca Colas took an even split from the powerful Johnson Motors club. Freddie Scates has been signed on this Coca Cola team and along with Freddie Martin expect, with the help of Manager Jim Collins and Drivers Clint Williams and Joe Kearns plus the Ray Bennett's, father and son, to at least throw a scare into every team in this league.

Golab's Hurt Leg Worries Ottawa Squad

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 — (CP).— The nation's Capital tossed war and politics away down on the public interest list to-day as hysterical enthusiasm drummed up for the title tilt at Lansdowne Park to-morrow between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Ottawa Rough Riders for the Dominion football championship.

A sudden turn in the weather brought rain and snow belting down on the city last night and early this morning and it's almost a certainty that it will be heavy going as East meets West on the gridiron. Officials predict a crowd of 15,000 will see the game.

Word that Tony Golab, Riders' ace plunging halfback, might not play spread through the city with the speed of a flat pass over middle and put a damper on a lot of premature enthusiasm that Ottawa will grab off the Grey Cup for the first time in 13 years.

Tony lay on a rubbing table at the Stadium last night during a practice which he did not take part in, received treatment for an injured leg, and made this glum comment: "I don't see how I'll be able to dress for the game. This leg of mine is causing me trouble and it will have to be a lot better if I'm going to be any use out there against Bombers."

Sheley Ready for Game.

Meanwhile from the Bombers' training camp at Hamilton, Ont., came reports that Wayne Sheley, passing star, and Bud Marquardt, one of the best outsides on the Prairies, likely will be ready for the final game. Earlier in the week it was doubtful if these two players would line up with Winnipeg due to injuries.

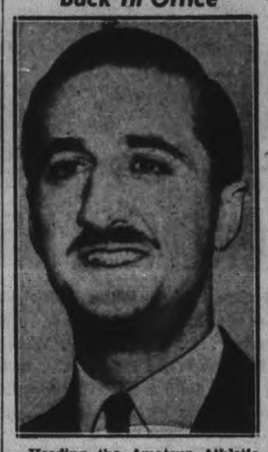
Bombers will arrive here late to-night and after a short workout this afternoon Riders will go to a Gatineau Hills hideout and not return to Ottawa until a few hours before game time.

Coach Ross Trimble is sending the best-equipped team into a final that has ever worn a Rough Rider uniform, but he declined any pre-game prognostications.

In Hamilton Coach Reg Threlfall said: "If the breaks are even, victory wouldn't be at all surprising."

Most of the confidence in the Ottawa team emanated from the mammoth front line players. Co-Captain Bunny Wadsworth believes that Bombers will wear themselves out by constant charging the Ottawa line, which averages 215 pounds.

Back In Office



Heading the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for the second year will be G. Sydney Halter, of Winnipeg, ABOVE, who along with the rest of the 1939 executive, was re-elected to office for next year. Halter came into office at last year's meeting at Winnipeg.

Longson Carved By Peeved Fans

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Wild Bill Longson, 225, Salt Lake City, suffered a four-stitch gash over an eye when attacked by enraged fans at a wrestling card here last night. Longson, disqualified in the main bout, crept under the ring and was held prisoner there for 10 minutes until police and attendants dispersed the crowd.

As he was escorted to the dressing room, bleeding from the nose, cheek and eye, he was beset by purse-swinging women and received several clouts on the head.

Ire of the fans was aroused by the rough way in which Longson treated his opponent Everett Marshall of La Junta, Col. Longson knocked Marshal from the ring five times and finally jumped on him from the edge of the ring as he lay on the floor. Marshall was awarded the bout after 22 minutes and the crowd surged forward.

Pump-Priming Is Branded Failure

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Government sums "poured out" in recent years for "pump-priming" projects have "proved no remedy for our economic ills," the government finance committee of the National Association of Manufacturers reported today.

"There is a limit to the portion of industrial production which can be taken through taxation for government purposes without causing a loss of jobs in private industry and a general lowering of living standards," the committee said.

"In the light of the cold facts, the only conclusion which can be reached is that the pump-priming activities of the government stand condemned by lack of success. The past decade is a story of retarded industrial expansion, discouraged enterprise and widespread unemployment.

"Never before in the history of the nation have depressed economic conditions prevailed for so long a span of years."

Jail Farm To Supply All Ontario Hospitals

TORONTO, Dec. 8—(CP).—Hon. Harold Kirby, Ontario Minister of Health, has visions of his department being in the farm business in an all-embracing fashion. He confided in the members of the North Toronto Lions' Club last night a few of his plans.

Even now the province is in the canning business, the plants being staffed by patients of mental institutions, this providing utilitarian occupational therapy.

Fruits and vegetables are planted, cultivated, picked, canned and eaten by the patients. It is hoped that 6,000 acres attached to the jail farm at Langstaff will soon produce all the grain and vegetables needed by all Ontario hospitals.

The number of head of livestock —already considerable, Mr. Kirby says—will be increased to provide the hospitals. Most of the bacon eaten by the patients comes from the pigs they reared.

New Casavant Organ Dedicated When Ashburnham Parish Celebrates Its Silver Jubilee

At the celebration of the silver jubilee of the parish of the Immaculate Conception this morning, featured by the blessing and dedication of the new Casavant organ, recently installed, Bishop O'Connor, in addressing the large congregation that assisted in the pontifical high Mass, called to mind those other members who "across the twenty-five years have passed through the portals of death into eternity.'

"Their number is no doubt in the hundreds," His Excellency said. "We pray on this gladsome occasion that God will give to their souls eternal rest. The purpose of the universal church is the salvation of souls. May that purpose have been achieved in the case of all those up to now who have come to the end of the journey, and have returned to the judgment seat of their master and creator. And to all of you here today may I add one exhortation so to think and speak, and act and live that, when your turn comes to follow those of this parish who have gone before you, you may be found worthy of God and His blessed mother you, too, may enter into eternity with the assurance that you will have the smile and blessing of God and His immaculate mother always."

First Great Feast

In the beginning of his address Bishop O'Connor spoke of the feast of the Immaculate Conception as first among all the glories of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

"When God in His mysterious design to save the world through redemption to be worked by one of the divine persons of the Blessed Trinity made man His first step in this process was the choice of a mother for His divine Son. From all eternity He had known her, and from the moment of man's fall He had prepared her. It was she who was to crush the serpent's head and to be another mother of the human race, who in her redemptive capacity would repair the tragedy brought about by our first mother in the long ago.

The Immaculate Conception was therefore the privilege bestowed on the Blessed Virgin in the miracle of her choice as being the mother of God. This divine maternity is her greatest prerogative, and all the jewels in her crown are hers because of the office of mother of the Redeemer."

From the very first moment of her existence the Blessed Virgin was free of the stain of original sin. The dogma of the Immaculate Conception was defined in 1854, but it had always been in the faith of the church from the beginning, Bishop O'Connor said. "The church had always professed that Mary was most pure and holy, but it was not until 1854 that Pope Pius IX declared to what extent that purity and holiness went, that from the first instant of her existence the soul of the Blessed Virgin was preserved from original sin."

Makes Church Complete

Passing on to another phase of the morning's solemnity, Bishop O'Connor said that in spite of all the beauty of the church in its building and in the detail of its appointments, "and is so admirable for the purpose for which it was constructed, to be a house of prayer to the living God and a focus of Catholic worship, yet something was missing, an organ whereby to accompany the chants of the liturgical service. And this occasion becomes noteworthy in making the completion of this church through the installation of a pipe organ. The organ is very old in the liturgy of God's worship. Again and again reference is made to it in the old testament, and through the new testament to this hour it is the only instrument regularly authorized to accompany the liturgical service of the church. It is the synthesis of all instruments dedicated to the glory of God. This organ will complement divine worship, and will laugh and weep and pray according to the moods of the church in celebrating divine mysteries or marking sad events in the story of her divine founder."

Dean O'Sullivan is the second pastor in charge of this parish. We are delighted to bring him our congratulations and express our kindliest feelings and good wishes on this day. We are also glad to note the fact that the first pastor is here to rejoice in your joy. I know it is a joy for you to have Monsignor McColl with you once again."

The celebration of the silver jubilee will be concluded this evening with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and a sermon by Rev. P. J. Butler of Kinmount, the first young man of the parish to be ordained to the priesthood.

Associated with Bishop OConnor this morning in the celebration of Mass were Very Rev. Dean F. J. O'Sullivan, as assistant priest; Rev. V. Corkery and Rev. Ed. Welsh as deacons of honor; Rev. Jos. Walsh and Father Fitzgerald were deacons; and the masters of ceremonies were Rev. J. V. Masterson and Rev. Chas. Begley.

Two Youths Hurt When Car Hits Tree On Highway

Two Peterborough young men are in hospital suffering from serious head injuries as the result of an unusual accident at Westwood early this morning.

They were driving toward Peterborough, along the Westwood Road, and their car crashed into a big spruce tree that had been uprooted by the half-gale that was blowing and had fallen squarely across the road. It was thought at first that the tree had dropped on the automobile, but Henry McColl, Otonabee road superintendent, believes that the spruce had gone down just before the arrival of the Seabrooks and their machine had collided with it.

At all events the car was badly damaged, the top being torn off and the steering gear wrecked.

Dr. J. A. MacDonald of Hastings was called to the scene of the accident, and the two injured persons were brought into St. Joseph's Hospital. At first Harvey Seabrook seemed to be the more seriously injured of the two but his brother collapsed on his way in to the hospital and it is feared that he sustained internal injuries.

The two victims were X-rayed in hospital today.

Lakefield Friends Honor Soldier

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 8—(ENS). — Kenneth D. Junkin, popular Lakefield boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Junkin, was honored at the home of his parents, when between thirty-five and forty friends gathered to bid him farewell prior to his departure with the Toronto Scottish Regiment for overseas service.

Rev. H. R. Howden read an address, part of which read as follows:

"We honor you Ken that you are one of the first to go from this district to go to the service of King and country. We want you to know you take the best wishes and esteem of your Lakefield friends and our prayers for a safe return."

A handsome Elgin wrist watch and several other gifts were then presented to Kenneth.

Although completely taken by surprise, he made a suitable reply, thanking his friends for the gift.

Following the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," Miss O'Dell Watson, who was responsible for the gathering, and several other friends served dainty refreshments.

Havelock Man Faces Charges Of Forgery

Arrested at his home near Havelock, Joseph Ellis faced two charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Thursday.

He was accused of having forged a cheque for $140, made out in favor of Lillico Motors, and with beating a bill at a Havelock hotel.

Ellis entered a plea of not guilty to each charge. He asked for a remand to give him a chance to consult a lawyer and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., added that the prosecution was not ready to proceed either.

Ellis was remanded until next week, and when he asked for bail was told that the amount would be $1,000.

DANGEROUS ROADS.

Despite the fact that roads and streets in this district were in a very dangerous condition on Thursday night owing to a sudden freezeup following a rain and sleet storm, there was only one serious accident reported to traffic officers.

Loss of the German market has almost completely paralyzed Cuba's leather exports.

Entire Staff At Fire Hall Is Working Overtime Repairing Toys For Needy

New encouragement found its way into the Fire Hall today as Peterborough citizens began to respond to an appeal for toys to be mended and distributed among unfortunate youngsters on Christmas.

"I don't want to appear too optimistic, but if the response keeps up for the remaining eight days until the December 15 deadline, we may not have so many unhappy children on Christmas as we had anticipated," said Fire Chief George Gimblett. "There are going to be some, though, even at the rate toys are coming in now, because the response at the beginning of the season was so poor. If they come in much more heavily during the next eight days, perhaps then every needy youngster in the city may be happy Christmas morning."

The entire staff of the Fire Department is working overtime from now until Christmas painting, repairing, wrapping and distributing these gifts.

They will be on hand to take telephone calls at 5712—not 5711—and at the door to take toys from those who hand them in. Inspection of the department's toyland is welcomed.

Love Note Sways Judge, Frees Juliet To Wed

NEW YORK Dec. 8.—(AP).—Eileen Herrick, whose love for George Lowther budded in a night club and bloomed in a courtroom, was free by judicial order to-day to wed the man of her own but not her parents' choice.

Eli Johnson, attorney for the young broker and man-about-Manhattan, said the couple would be married within a few days.

A journey to court ended in a lovers' meeting for the pair yesterday in the chambers of Judge L. Barron Hill at Riverhead, N.Y. The 20-year-old heiress and her parents appeared in answer to Lowther's writ of habeas corpus.

Court attaches said the lovers, parted for more than a month by the disapproval of Eileen's socially prominent father, Walter Herrick, lawyer and former park commissioner, greeted each other with a long kiss.

Judge Favors Lovers.

This evidence of their affection and a tender love letter, smuggled by the girl from the Long Island estate where Lowther said her parents had kept her a virtual prisoner, led Judge Hill to announce after a three-hour conference with the principals:

"Eileen Herrick is free to leave her parents' home, but as long as she lives with her parents and supported by them she is under their control.

"Good-bye, my sweet angel. I love you and always will, remember that. I'll go through hell for you and I have. They'll never keep us apart, unless they kill me. All my love, my darling angel."

City's Relief Committee Expects To Close Year Within Budget; 1,146 Received Aid In November

With a balance of $3,682.27 for December, the relief committee of the council last night saw a prospect of reaching the end of the year within its appropriation of $50,000.

This account has been vigilantly watched month ater month, especial when misgivings arose early about the sufficiency of the committee's estimated outlay.

Alderman Dutton, chairman, reported that the total cost of relief to the end of November was $134,817.77. Of that sum the approximate rebate from the government is $81,873.14 and from the Ontario Medical Association $6,636.90, totalling $88,500.04. The differenec of $46,317.73 is charged to the city, and this sum subtracted from the appropriation leaves $3,682.27 to come and go on this month.

Some of the items making up the total of $134,817.77 for eleven months' relief were: Provisions, $65,883.78; fuel, $12,433.36; rent, $22,552.05; milk, $9,038.53; clothing, $4,362.36; medicine, $213.89; doctors, $6,754.76; ambulance, $100; funerals, $328.50.

Relief List Declines

The relief bill for November was $7,732.37 as compared with $9,466.67 for the corresponding month last year. At the same time the number of persons on relief was 447 fewer than a year ago, but the per capita cost advanced from $5.94 to $6.74.

The number of heads of families from $1,130 to 805; single men from 38 to 37; and single women from 58 to 56.

Relief expenditure for the months of November in the last year were as follows: 1935, $14,236.51; 1936, $7,996; 1937, $6,772; 1938, $9,466; 1939, $7,732.

The total number of persons on relief in the same months were—1935, 2,134; 1936, 1,555; 1937, 1,048; 1938, 1,593; and 1939, 1,146.

And the per capita cost in those months was $6.67; $5.14; $6.46; $5.94; $6.74.

Alderman Dutton said—"If the Auburn mill had not closed down you could have taken 60 families off relief, and brought the total number of persons on relief below 600 at the present time."

Claim On an Estate

The committee discussed a relief claim of $755 against a local estate which W. P. Huycke, city solicitor, said the city had at least a 50-50 chance of collecting under a legislative amendment passed this year. A question at issue was whether the law as it now stands has retroactive effect. Mr. Huycke remarked that the government made the laws but the courts interpreted, and there was no precedent for this claim. Alderman Dutton suggested that as the provincial government contributed to the payment of relief costs it might be willing to become a party to a test case.

The committee left to Alderman Dutton and Mr. Huycke the deciding of the council's course as to pressing the claim in court or not.

South African cities may stagger business closing hours between 4 and 6 p.m.

Council Refuses To Pay Shot For Caviar Binge

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP).—That caviar, pressed duck and Burgundy dinner and peaceful sleep at the Waldorf which Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lewis, the noise-haters, had "on the town" recently at a magistrate's suggestion and at a cost of $65.32, had a depressing effect on the Board of Estimate.

Six of the eight members were cold to the cheerful suggestion of City Council President Newbold Morris: "Let's all chip in and pay the bill, and not be like Magistrate Curran, who had all the pleasure of being the host without paying the bill."

The bill, incidentally, was paid several days ago by Walte D. Binger, Commissioner of Public Works, after the Lewises reported on the night they got away from city construction noises outside their apartment. At that time the belief was that an "unknown benefactor" would provide the cash, but today it seemed maybe Binger was holding the bag.

The subject cropped up in connection with a resolution to disallow $21 for supper money for eight probation officers in Brooklyn.

"It's an outrage to deprive these poor probation officers of their supper money," shouted Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons. "I wish the Chancellor of Curran University (apparently a reference to Magistrate Curran, who has a fondness for the Odes of Horace) were sitting in this board today. He would see to it that these people received an allowance that included pressed duck and wine."

"In my opinion that whole thing was highly improper," remarked Manhattan Borough President Stanley M. Isaacs, referring to the pressed duck dinner episode.

The upshot was that the $21 supper money for the probation officers was lopped off, although the Queens Borough President said, "They eat only corned beef and cabbage."

Midland Probe

MIDLAND, Ont., Dec. 8 — (CP). —Mayor James Mackie told the Midland Town Council last night that Hon. Eric Cross had telegraphed him to say the Ontario Department of Public Welfare will investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of George Allen.

As a result of the Welfare Minister's telegram, the Council decided to call off the public investigation it had planned into the death of Allen, who hanged himself on December 1 in the basement of a Midland factory.

MILLBROOK.

Earle Newlyweds Honored At Social

MILLBROOK, Dec. 8—(ENS).—A pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Allen Earle, a bride and groom of recent date, on Tuesday evening, when over one hundred of their friends and neighbors gathered at their home, Fourth Line, Cavan, for a social time together, and to honor them in establishing a homestead in the community.

Midway in the evening Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., took the chair, and when the host and hostess had been centrally seated, Robert McDonald read an appreciative address, and on behalf of a wide circle of friends, Messrs. Edwin Hutchinson, Gordon Might and Johnston Rowland presented them with a handsomely-upholstered chesterfield, walnut end table, mirror-reflector and satin cushion. The groom replied suitably on the part of his bride and himself, and after the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," brief addresses were made by George Berry and Deputy-Reeve W. W. Brown.

The program included community singing, with Grace Johnson at the piano; a group of songs by the pupils of Miss Marian Earle's school; a reading, "The Twins," by Mary Larmer; a song, "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky," by Isabel Aiken, and a duet with violin and banjo by Maretta and Nettie Elgar.

The service of lunch, cards and dancing completed a most enjoyable occasion, music being supplied by Jack Patton and Keith Porter.

Cottesloe

Mrs. Harold Payne of Warsaw visited her sister, Mrs. John Gallagher.

On Tuesday evening twenty young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Kidd to reorganize. After the business was transacted, games were played and music by Ivan Hendren and Gordon Pond made a pleasant evening. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Forsyth.

Alberta Expects Election June Or July

EDMONTON, Dec. 8 — (CP). — Alberta will have a general election next year and it is generally believed it will be held soon after the winter session of the Legislature.

Premier Aberhart has not indicated when he will go to the country, but some of his Social Credit followers believe it will be some time in June or July.

The Social Credit government, elected Aug. 22, 1935, is serving its fifth year in office, so an appeal to electors must be made during 1940.

At least five factions hope to enter the fray, but battle lines have not been clearly drawn and the number may be reduced to four.

Approximately 70 candidates have been named by various groups in the 9 ridings. On nomination day between 150 and 200 candidates may be lined up, the number depending upon the degree of co-operation among parties opposing the Social Credit government.

There is much speculation as to whether the Liberals will join with the Unity Council of Alberta. Present relationship between the two organizations is involved and indefinite.

The Liberal party decided to allow its members in each constituency to decide on the question of joining forces with the Unity Council behind an "independent" candidate. Meanwhile, Liberal Leader E. L. Gray is conducting a vigorous organizing campaign throughout the province.

Merging Opposition

Unity officials claim that Mr. Gray is the leader of a small portion of the Liberal party wanting to nominate straight Liberal candidates in all constituencies and that the rank and file of the party favors joining with Unity council. The objective of the council is described as merging opposition in each riding against Social Credit.

The Conservative party has submerged its identity in the Unity movement and its leader, D. M. Duggan of Edmonton, will run in the capital city as candidate of the Citize S' Slate, which includes three Liberals and three persons nominated by the Unity Council.

Co-operative Commonwealth Federation speakers have addressed numerous meetings and plan to wage a vigorous campaign. They have named 23 candidates and expect to have 40 in the field.

The fifth organization now in the field is the Independent Progress Association, formed by dissident Social Creditors. The leaders, including Charles Cockroft, former provincial treasurer, W. N. Chant, former minister of agriculture, and S. A. G. Barnes, plan to support "good independents" in all ridings.

As in 135, Social Credit candidates will be chosen by a special advisory council and a constituency board from a slate of three to five names submitted by each constituency organization. Names of Social Credit nominees probably will not be announced until the election date is set.

Retiring from presidency of the Western Electric Company, Edgar S. Bloom, 65, will serve as director of purchases for the British purchasing commission. Director of a number of important companies, he has filled executive posts in many parts of the United States.

Women's Auxiliary Work Is Praised

Rev. T. H. Floyd spoke highly of the work accomplished during the year by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Zion, at the closing meeting, work which was given expression in the splendid miscellaneous bale for the needy in Western Canada, and in the voluntary offerings which enabled the pledge money to be sent forward.

He spoke of the coming Christmas season, giving several inspiring messages which would be helpful to the members in preparing their hearts for the holiday festival, and mentioning the many evacuated children in England who would be absent from their homes at Christmas for the first time. He also complimented the members on the helpful programs prepared each month.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. Dixon with a large attendance of members present. Mrs. G. W. Robinson, the president, was in the chair. The meeting opened with a Christmas hymn, and the Bible reading was given by Mrs. Park following prayer by the president. The treasurer, Mr. J. Collins reported that the balance of the pledge money and fees had been sent to the Diocesan treasurer at Toronto, and read a letter of acknowledgment. A letter from Miss Osborne of Toronto was read, thanking the members for the excellent quilting done for her.

Keep an old tea cosy handy in your kitchen drawer and then, when you are ironing and are called away by visitors or have to stop to attend to another job, turn off the current and put the cosy over the iron. This will keep it beautifully hot for another half hour or more.

Gifts From Clever Cooks Make Lovely Presents

(By MARY MOORE.)

On my top pantry shelf I have eight jelly jars filled with Pineapple Mint Conserve. This little conserve is grand to serve with lamb or chicken—for company only mind. The tops of the straight-sided Five Cent Jelly Jars are enamelled red or green.

Pineapple Mine Conserve.

One No. 2 can fancy quality crushed pineapple with juice, 3 cups granulated sugar, ½ cup commercial pectin, ½ to ¾; teaspoon mint flavoring, and enough green vegetable coloring to produce the desired tint. (Be very sparing with the coloring—it is easy to add more—but if you get it too green it is impossible to remedy it). Mix fruit and sugar and boil, stirring often, while it is coming to the boiling point, for one-half minute, then add the coloring, remove from heat and add pectin. Stir well, skim and let cool for five minutes. Add the flavoring, and pour into clear-glass jelly jars, cover with paraffin, adding a second coat when cool.

The unusual little number we have next to offer is Orange Bread baked in one pound making powder tins "labelled' 'with fancy Christmas wrapping paper.

Rind of 2 large or 3 small oranges put through food chopper, just enough cold water to cover rinds, 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 cups all-purpose flour. Let rinds stand in water to just cover for 1 hour, then cook until tender—about 20 minutes. Add the sugar and cook until syrup is quite thick, and add butter and let cool. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; beat egg and add milk to it. Add flour mixture alternately with milk mixture, and stir until all are well blended. Pour into well greased 1-lb. baking powder tins, filling cans only 2-3 full—(using 3 cans)—let stand 5 minutes, then bake about 40 to 45 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Let cool in cans—keep cool until ready to pack into Christmas baskets. Put on covers and label tins by wrapping in neat strip of fancy Christmas wrapping paper,—sticking out edges with paste neatly, just as a can is labelled. This bread should not be made any more than two days ahead of the time it is to be dispatched, because if it is kept closely covered for too long at room temperature it will begin to mould.

Dark Chocolate Fudge.

Mix together in a saucepan 2 cups brown sugar, ⅛ cup granulated sugar, 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, grated pinch of salt, 1 cup strong coffee and ½ cup ceram. Stir ingredients until well mixed. Cover until the mixture comes to a full rolling boil. Then continue cooking uncovered to 238 deg. Fahr.—to soft ball stage for those who rashly attempt this without a thermometer. Remove from heat, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 tablespoon butter. Set in pan of cold water and cool to lukewarm, then beat until the mixture becomes light in texture and creamy. Add ½ ½cup chopped nuts, walnuts, brazils or pecans— or 8 marshmallows cut into small pieces with buttered scissors. Pour into buttered pan, when the candy begins to stiffen, and decorate top with nuts nor pieces or marshmallow or chopped candied cherries. When firm cut into squares. Do not remove from pan until quite cold.

We would like to suggest making pound cake—grandmothers's Ginger Pound Cake— in a large round tube pan—or square pan if you prefer that shape—and if the family or friend you are considering sending a Christmas basket too—needs only a small portion—cut the cake in four pieces—so that there will be some for other baskets—wrap them each very well in colored cellophane after they are frosted and decorated with cherries and angelica.

Grandmother's Ginger Poundcake.

Cream 1 cup shortening with 1 cup sugar until very light and fluffy. Add 1 cup golden corn syrup and beat it in very thoroughly. Sift 3½ cups cake flour with ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, and 1 tablespoon fresh ginger. Add alternately to the creamed mixture with ½ cup cream. Beat until smooth. Separate 4 eggs and beat the yolks until they are thick and lemon colored. Fold them lightly into the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry.

(The success of a poundcake depends on the proper beating of the eggs for its lightness and fine, even texture). Fold the combined eggs into the beater as carefully as possible. Pour into greased and paper lined eight-inch tube pan or into square pan about 7 x 7 x 4.. Bake in slow oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for about 75 minutes. Cool and store in covered tin unfrosted until ready for use. However, if you wish to serve it immediately frost with very rich uncooked butter frosting—beaten until your arm aches—and decorate with little flowers—stems and leaves of angelica and flower petals of little sections cut from candied cherries. Poundcake should be sliced very thinly.

Another idea for wrapping jars attractively is to make a paper frill collar, with fringe hanging down, for around neck of jar just below cover —this can be made of tissue or crepe paper, slit to make fringe, stuck on, then tied on with fancy ribbon.

Any giftee will love this—if sent to a family tag each ingredient for a member—and designate the basket for Mother's darning.

I.O.D.E. Dance At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8—(ENS)—The dance staged under auspices of the Bemmerside Chapter I.O.D.E. in the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening was a gala event which marked the official opening of the winter season. Over two hundred attended the affair at which music was supplied by the Aces Orchestra in the main auditorium, while cards were played in the lounge.

The Union Jack, very cleverly arranged as a background for the orchestra and around the windows, was the principal decoration, while at the front of the stage were several small Christmas trees covered with lights.

At the request of the Regent, Mrs. G. A. Ironside, H. N. Carr, M.P.P., awarded the bridge prizes and spoke briefly welcoming the guests on behalf of the Chapter which he praised for the splendid work they are doing in their effort to assist the Empire. He pointed out that the work of the Chapter was not solely confined to the war, since during peacetime it contributed much in the way of welfare work to soldiers and sailors as well as to needy families. The cenotaph in Campbellford had been a gift of the I.O.D.E. At present the Chapter is making plans to provide a Christmas basket for every man who has enlisted from Campbellford and the surrounding district. This is being done in addition to its continuous work during the war of supplying socks, scarves, sweaters, pyjamas, quilts and many other items.

The bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. A. Allan and Mrs. W. S. Wiggins and Mrs. J. P. Archer who held the lucky tally.

During the midnight intermission a cafeteria lunch, prepared by the members and consisting of sandwiches, coffee and cake, was served in the club room downstairs.

All of the prizes given during the evening were donated, and the winners were Miss Jean Hendy, ladies' lucky spot dance; J. C. Birmingham, lucky number; Norman Brown, lucky spot; Mrs. Charles Collins, ladies' birthday dance; Jack Tinney, gentlemen's birthday.

Yule Tea Is Held by C.W.A.

Among the successful events of the week was the Christmas tea in All Saints' Church Ladies' Parlor Thursday afternoon, sponsored by the C.W.A. Receiving with the president, Mrs. L. Ackford, were Mrs. J. Edgar and Mrs. H. Collingwood.

Branches of cedar and pine were effective decorations, and the lace-covered tea table was delightfully arranged with a silver basket of fruit, red tapers in silver holders, and miniatures of St. Nicholas and his reindeer. Pouring tea were Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. Percy Hooper, Mrs. J. Black and Mrs. J. Johnston. Mrs. A. Milne was tea convener, guests were shown to the tea room by Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, and tea assistants were Mrs. F. Mowry, Mrs. A. Dryland, Mrs. Roy Dixon, Mrs. D. J. McLeod, Mrs. A. Tivey, Mrs. E. Glover, Mrs. F. Holmes, Miss M. Roddy, Mrs. E. Fisher, Mrs. W. Hughes, Mrs. G. Penhall, Mrs. J. Adams.

The grocery table was in charge of Mrs. J. Ball and Miss Muriel Wallace; Mrs. J. Kemp, Mrs. B. Burns and Mrs. M. Reid were conveners of fancy work; Mrs. D. L. Hay, Mrs. U. E. Waterman and Mrs. C. Cheverill convened the Touch and Take table; home cooking was in charge of Mrs. T. Sabin, Mrs. G. Worboy, Mrs. J. Price; candy was in charge of Mrs. C. G. Edwards, Mrs. F. D. Fitzgerald, Mrs. F. W. Burnham. Mrs. J. Detcher was treasurer for the afternoon.

A fine program of music was in charge of Mrs. W. Greenslade, and numbers included piano solos by Miss Eleanor Glover and Mr. Allan Paterson; vocal solos by Mrs. W. Hepburn, Mrs. B. Cutmore and Miss Joan Pitchford.

At the closing of the tea, Canon J. Douglas Paterson spoke appreciatively of the work accomplished by the association during the year, and commended highly the leadership of the president, Mrs. Ackford, who is retiring from office this year. A pleasant feature was the presentation of a picture to Mrs. Ackford on behalf of the organization by Mrs. J. Crowe, the oldest member of the Guild. Mrs. Ackford expressed her appreciation in brief, well-chosen words.

A business meeting of the C.W.A. for the nomination of 1940 officers will be held on Thuraday, December 14.

Banquet Speaker Says Church Is Rapidly Gaining Ground

Anyone who says the church is losing its influence is not speaking the truth, Rev. R. T. F. Brain told members of the Women's Friendly Bible Class at their annual banquet Thursday evening in St. John's Parish Hall, while proposing a toast to the church. "Never was there such life in the Christian church—we are not losing ground, we are gaining ground, and gaining rapidly." He referred to the tremendous interest in the Madras conference, and the very hopeful conference at Amsterdam, where delegates representing 71 different nations met to discuss their problems, remarking that working together on the problems of the church is the one sure way of achieving unity.

"Youth is a time of action — youth is a time if ideals," he said. We have to fight on both these fronts — ideals and action. Our Christian task at the moment is to preach and live Christian ideals, showing their truth and vitality before the ideals of the enemy. We have to support our country to the best of our ability. As Canon W. P. Robertson was unable to be present to respond to this toast, it was followed by a few moments of silent prayer.

Mrs. H. Bassett, vice-president, who is to succeed Mrs. H. Howell this year as president, proposed a toast to the class, wishing it increasing success, and urging the members never to lose sight of their motto "By love Serve one another." This was responded to by Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke, class teacher. Mrs. J. Bell, assistant teacher, also spoke briefly, and a toast to "Our Country" was proposed by Miss H. Ward, and followed by the singing of "O Canada," with Mrs. W. White at the piano.

The banquet tables were attractive with flowers. The delicious supper was served by members of the Afternoon Branch of the W.A., of which Mrs. D. Eldred was convener, and the appreciation of the members was expressed to the W.A. by Mrs. H. Howell.

A brief business meeting followed the banquet. New officers are Mrs. H. Bassett, president; Mrs. C. Willison, vice-president; Mrs. F. Chase, secretary; Mrs. P. Golds, assistant secretary; Mrs. W. C. Hake, treasurer.

In attendance were Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Pakenham, Mrs. E. Pruner Mrs. A. Simmons, Mrs. A. Price, Mrs. E. McNabb. Mrs. J. Jenkinson, Miss A. Jenkinson. Mrs. O. Babbs, Mrs. S. Allston, Mrs. J. F. Branch Notes

ST. JOHN'S LAKEFIELD

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the parish hall with a large attendance including members and visitors. It took the form of rally night.

In the earlier part of the evening there was a short business meeting which was followed by a program as follows: Readings by H. Baldwin, and Miss P. Earnshaw; a poem by the Rev. R. Howden; a song by Ralph John, Jr., and Gordon and John Hampton and Clifford Hurl.

A short skit by Messrs. Hamptan and Hurl, accompanied on the piano by Gordon Hampton. Several games were played and lunch was served by the committee.

All members are reminded of the anniversary dinner to be held on Tuesday, December 12.

We Noticed

. . . There is no denying the big flash which bright red is having in fashion, particularly in evening fashions, the first season in many years when bright red had been taken up by smart women so early in the season.

. . . At the opening of the "Nine O'Clock Club," smart new spot for New York debutantes, there seemed to be more red dresses than black in the room.

. . . Even fabric firms comment that the demand for reds is spreading to all types of materials, stiff and soft, plain and fancy. Bright red is a significant fabric in afternoon-evening jackets, dinner jackets or formal separate jackets, types often embroidered brilliantly.

Smythe To Fight Franchise To Buffalo Men

MONTREAL, Dec. 7—(CP)—Manager Conny Smythe of Toronto's National Hockey League Maple Leafs said last night that he would "most definitely" protest the granting of a franchise in the International-American Hockey League to a group of Buffalo men.

"I most definitely will bring it up," the Toronto leader said when asked if he would lay the affair before the N.H.L. Board of Governors at a meeting in New York next week. Smythe contends the N.H.L. gave him the right to a Buffalo franchise two years ago.

"That's all there is to say," Smythe declared. "The International-American League may think they can grant the franchise but we certainly will fight it."

Aces Beat Debs By 14 To 8 In Girls' Game

Quaker Aces took their second straight victory last night, trouncing Quaker Debs 14-8 in a lone Ladies' City League cage game at the Y.W.C.A. The win gives them sole possession of second place, a half game behind the league-leading Orfuns.

The winners gained their winning margin in the second half, after battling to a 6-all tie in the first period. Aces had a small edge in shooting and were stronger defensively, whereas the losers spoiled many good plays with poor shooting when in close. Aces were guilty of six fouls and the Debs two, neither team registering from the free throw line.

Minus their star, high-scoring Helen Rutter, the Aces were hard-pressed most of the way, but had a slight edge after the midway mark to earn the win. S. Alexander led the Aces with 6 points and D. Weese had 4. R. Farr scored 6 of the Debs' 8 points in a good showing for the losers. The teams:

Quaker Aces — D. Weese, S. Alexander, M. Duncan, J. Fowler, M. Sullivan, A. Grady, P. Lawless, N. Wood, M. Hooten.

Quaker Debs— H. White, R. Farr, B. Fenner, B. Frizelle, J. Metcalfe, G. Allen, D. Gibbs, A. Laing, D. Smith.

For Saturday, December 9.

Most propitious auguries for progress, fulfilled ambitions and rich rewards are predicted for this day. It is a time for reaching for high goals in almost any direction of accomplishment and aspiration, with all forces contributing to the desired ends. There may be drastic action involved, with group support or the co-operation of political, diplomatic, financial or fraternal bodies. In all such contacts be wary with writings and papers, which are under adverse vibrations. Exercise finesse in doubtful situations.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of signal achievement and outstanding good fortune. It is a time for putting over ambitious programs or reaching for exalted aspirations, since many factors of power and prestige are ready to support generously and graciously. Much progress and pleasure are in sight, but be cautious in handling all papers and writings.

A child born on this day may be richly endowed with the forces and graces for splendid success in life, with high ideals, progressive ideas, and worthy ambitious reaching full fruition and gratification.

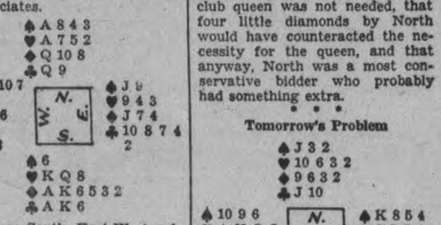
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAMILIARITY with the bidding practices favored by your partner can in critical spots be a most important factor in your wringing every possible point out of the cards vouchsafed you. If you know him as a player who bids on bare minimums, that is one thing. But it is another if he makes a habit of having somewhat more than the standard amount of strength for each call he enunciates.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Edward Lasker, head of the radio department of the great advertising agency of Lord & Thomas, is a bridge player of keen perception. He was criticized adversely for one very daring bid he made on this deal. He had called 1-Diamond in the South, West 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, Mr. Lasker 3-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, Mr. Lasker, the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, North 5-Hearts to show two aces, and then he 7-Diamonds, which East doubled.

Although the contract was made right on the head, Mr. Lasker was censured for going to 7-Diamonds as soon as he had the information about North's two aces, on the ground that he could not know about the two queens. He countered trebly, pointing out that the club queen was not needed, that four little diamonds by North would have counteracted the necessity for the queen, and that anyway, North was a most conservative bidder who probably had something extra.

FINNS GET 30 BRITISH BOMBERS TO MEET REDS

Swedish Mine Fields Are Widened

Stockholm Taking No Chances On Fleet Raid

STOCKHOLM Dec. 9.—(AP).—Sweden extended her mine fields today to waters off Oregrun, 80 miles north of Stockholm, making it necessary for vessels plying the channel opposite the Aaland Islands into the Gulf of Bothnia to use Swedish pilots.

The mines, extending those laid earlier opposite the Aalands are "to facilitate active Swedish neutrality," a government communique said.

The Finns previously had mined the channel on the Finnish side of the Aalands.

Watching the Finnish-Russian war with grave concern, Sweden looked with more optimism to the re-opening of trade negotiations with Germany at Berlin Monday. These were interrupted as a result of German mine-laying activities near Swedish waters.

Last Minute News Flashes

BERLIN—(AP). — The government gazette announced to-day a decree extending the death penalty to all crimes involving the use of pistols or other weapons.

WASHINGTON.— (AP)— Boulder Dam and its power plant have been barred to close inspection by visitors as a precaution against foreign sabotage and possible danger to sightseers.

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 9 (CP)— William Pursey, 60, local mail carrier, was in hospital today suffering from a gash on the back of the head and slight concussion after his horse and wagon had been hit by a driver who allegedly failed to report to police.

Seldom Meet

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 9 (AP)

MRS. BERTHA ROSS, 58, testified in divorce court she had reached a satisfactory agreement with her husband about alimony. She said: "He told me if I tried to force him to pay alimony he would pay a cent. But if I happened to meet him downtown he would pay me whatever he had in his pockets—25 cents, $1 or it might be $25."

French Dugouts Smashed Berlin Boasts

BERLIN, Dec. 9—(AP).—A German army communique today claimed that German shock troops destroyed a number of French dugouts on the Western front.

The German communique said:

"At some points in the west, somewhat more lively artillery activity. Between the Moselle and the Rhine Rivers, shock troops blew up two French dugouts and incapacitated three others on French soil southwest of Merzig.

"The air force continued larger scale reconnaissance activity, chiefly over West Central France. German planes were unsuccessfully attacked by pursuers and shot at by anti-aircraft at various places. There were no losses.

"The British Admiralty acknowledged the torpedoing of the destroyer Jersey December 7 by a German U-boat.'

("The destroyer Jersey was damaged by a torpedo last Thursday, the British Admiralty announced, but reached port. The attacking U-boat was destroyed).

Military authorities revealed German reconnaissance planes, protected by pursuit craft, yesterday again made reconnaissance flights deep into eastern France.

The flights had no "psychological" objective, since the planes aimed less at flying over cities than at carefully following highways and railways lines. The planes flew at a high altitude.

Scandinavia Feeling Sea Blockade

Military Equipment From Abroad Heartens Finland

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 9 — (AP). —Thirty British Blenheim bombing planes were reported to-day to have reached Finland to strengthen the Finnish air force resisting the Russian invasion.

Previously it had been reported 50 Italian planes had been received by the Finnish forces.

Other military equipment was said to be arriving from other countries Finnish authorities were silent concerning such reports on the grounds they concerned military secrets but the civilian population drew great comfort from them.

Meanwhile the army braced itself to meet a renewed offensive on Finland's eastern frontiers and civilians steeled themselves against the prospect of new air raids on the cities.

(A Havas news agency dispatch from Helsingfors said Hangoe, the Finnish port guarding the northern approach to the Gulf of Finland, was bombed today by Soviet planes. There were no details).

Feeling The Pinch

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 9 (AP) — With naval hostilities and blockades on all sides, the Scandinavian countries felt the pinch of war today as Finland defied Russia's blockade of her coasts.

The Russian blockade "lacks both legal and practical significance," Finland declared. Finnish circles pointed out the Gulf of Bothnia between Finland and Sweden had already been closed to the Soviet fleet by mines and fortifications on the Aaland Islands.

Trouble in Poland

CERNAUTI, Rumania, Dec. 9 (CP-Havas) — Armed insurrection against Soviet authority has broken out in the Dobogrytch region of Russian occupied Poland, according to reports received here from across the border.

The area is part of what is now known in Moscow as the western Ukraine. It is rich in oil deposits.

According to the reports, insurgents attacked several Red army stations and wounded a number of officers and men, most of whom are now under treatment in a hospital at Lwow.

Conquest Of Finland Will Be No Parade Say Defenders As Powerful Guns Smash 100 Tanks And Halt Reds In East

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 9—(AP).—Finnish soldiers, supporting their Prime Minister's declaration that a conquest of Finland "will not be a parade," were said today to have stopped a Soviet Russian army of 200,000 on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Finnish commanders, reporting last night they had halted the Russians and disabled 100 Russian tanks in an artillery battle, acknowledged the loss of Hogland Island in the Gulf of Finland and a withdrawal on the central front at a spot 15 miles from the frontier.

On the Karelian Isthmus, between Lake Ladoga and the Gulf of Finland, an army communique said, the Russians were thrown back with especially bitter fighting along the Tapale River, in the eastern sector.

While big guns boomed on both sides of the line near Summa, a village 40 miles within Finland, Colonel Alexander Mellbloom, Viipuri sector commandant, said he believed fresh Russian troops were being brought up for a new assault.

He said the Finns were unusually successful against tanks because the Russians were using old-style, lightly-armored machines, and the Finns had powerful Swedish anti-tank guns.

In a broadcast to the nation last night, Prime Minister Risto Ryti declared Russia had supposed "that the defensive capacity and the spirit of the Finnish army and nation could be broken by savage destruction which the whole civilized world abhors.

"The result will be a disappointment to Soviet Russia," he said. "If compelled to do so, we shall fight to the end —even after the end. A conquest of Finland will not be a parade, but will demand at every side heavy sacrifices from the attacker."

Poilus Fling Off German Patrol Attacks

PARIS, Dec. 9—(AP). — The French high command announced today that renewed attacks by German patrol units along the northern flank of the Western front had been repulsed.

Fighting was particularly heavy yesterday east of the Moselle River, northeastern limit of the front.

The French reported a German plane flew along the French side of the Rhine River twice and machine-gunned French defence posts without inflicting any losses.

There has been a revival of activity lately along the Rhine, or southern section of the front, which was quiet throughout most of the first weeks of the war.

The command's formal communique indicated the intensification of hostilities with its brief announcement: "Infantry and artillery activity at various points of the front."

Premier Daladier yesterday placed France's official sympathy on the side of Finland and bitterly criticized Russia.

In his first public pronouncement on the conflict, Daladier, echoing British leaders, termed the Russian invasion of Finland "an abominable outrage" which had created "universal disgust."

He told a cheering Chamber of Deputies that "France salutes Finland with its assurance of profound and strong sympathy."

Late today Daladier appeared before the Council of Ministers, presided over by President Lebrun, and gave a detailed review of the diplomatic and military situation.

Chinese Riches Are Needed Japanese Claim

TIENTSIN, Dec. 9 — (CP). — Lieut.-General Masaharu Homma, commander of the Japanese army at Tientsin, said to-day that Japan must have North China's natural resources "for our preparations aaginst a certain Power."

While Homma did not identify the Power, his statement came shortly after Lieut.-General Hayao Tada, commanding Japanese troops in North China, said in an interview at Peiping that there is "a future necessity to deal with Soviet Russia."

Tada said Japan's immediate concern, however, is in terminating the campaign in China.

Homma referred to the "certain Power" in discussing United States trade in Tientsin, North China, where the British and French Settlements have been blockaded by Japanese troops.

He said in an interview that Japanese relations with the United States would reach the "most precarious point January 26" with the expiration of the trade treaty which the American Government has denounced.

Taking the attitude he has gone out of his way to favor Americans, but that they have failed to appreciate this, General Homma said that if the treaty expiration were followed by poorer relations. "then I see no reason why I should discriminate in favor of Americans."

19th German Steamer Is Captured

Two More Sinkings Send Ship Toll Over 12 For Week

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(CP) —A warship brought the 3,468-ton German merchantman Henning Oldendorff to a British port today as war at sea again intensified.

The captive was the 19th British naval prize since the war began, in addition to 17 Nazi merchantmen totalling 86,670 tons sunk, most of them by their own crews to avoid capture.

Eight persons, including Captain Harry Needham, were missing today after an explosion destroyed the 751-ton British steamship Corea off the east coast of England last night. Seven of the crew were saved.

The Japanese freighter Azuma Maru, 6,646-tons, sent out an S.O.S. from Scottish waters yesterday and nothing further has been heard from her, the London office of her owners announced today.

3 Subs Sent Down.

British officials also reported the sinking of at least three German submarines.

Authorities disclosed also that they were investigationg what may have been an attempt to bomb the Firth of Forth bridge near the big Rosyth naval base. A train from Dundee to Glasgow was slowly crossing the high bridge when an object was thrown from one of the cars on the structure and caught fire. The remains of the object are being examined to determine whether it was an incendiary bomb.

The Daily Sketch said today that at least three other submarines, "deprived of their supply ships by British warships, have been forced through lack of food, water and fuel to come ashore on the British coast and surrender."

Informed sources saw the sharpening sea warfare partly as a consequence of the Allies' blockade of Germany's exports, which began last Monday.

The sinking of five merchantment by mine, torpedo or collision, with a possible loss of 80 lives, was reported yesterday.

Loss Over 12 in Week.

The new sinkings raised the total of merchant shipping losses to over a dozen within a week after enforcement of the two-way Allied blockade.

German warplanes have been unusually active along the East Coast in the past few days, and naval authorities said they probably were helping submarines sow new mines. The British yesterday repulsed German planes, believed to have been mine sowers, from the East Coast and the Thames Estuary.

A high naval source said the Royal Navy is equipping ships with a secret anti-magnetic mine weapon expected to clear shipping lines of German mines.

The Air Ministry told how one British pilot bombed a German submarine, blowing first one end and then the other out of the water. It said another bomber joined the attack on the submarine and then summoned a destroyer which dropped depth bombs.

The third victim was indicated by an Air Ministry report that, after sinking one Nazi submarine, a Royal Air Force plane attacked another and saw "patches of oil" appear on the surface.

Back To The Sock

Smiths Falls, Ont., Dec. 9 (CP)

MAYOR Jamieson Bone of Belleville told members of a service club here last night that machinery for collecting Ontario Government succession duties was comparable to the "Gestapo" in "nosing into private affairs as to what a man does with his money."

He charged that this "Gestapo" has been so active in tying up safety deposit boxes, people are returning to the old stocking banks.

Pursued Gang Escapes; One Wounded

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 9.—(CP). — The fugitive robber gang wanted for five raids in this district Thursday night may be the one which threw off pursuers again at Kingsville early to-day, provincial police said today. The Kingsville police chief is reported to have wounded one of the men.

Early Friday morning, the gang evaded a police trap on No. 7 highway between Ilderton and Ailsa Craig, amid gunfire from Police Chief Roy Fraser of Ilderton.

Interrupted at their work at the lumber company's office the burglars fled and a shot fired by officials knocked off one of the fleeing men's hats. When the hat was recovered, police said, there was blood on it and on the ground near it.

Police said the group numbered about three or four but could not be seen clearly in the dark. They fled when interrupted by the night watchman. The burglars failed to gain entrance to the building and left a pile of tools behind.

Chief Constable Babcock arrived on the scene by himself when the nightwatchman sounded the alarm. He said it was dark and he could not distinguish the burglars clearly.

A running-fight started, he said, and the burglars fired—apparently from a revolver. The chief, guided only by the flash of the fleeing men's fire, said he fired about 25 times from his shotgun.

Blood found on the hat and on the ground near it indicated that the chief constable's aim was good and he said possibly he had hit more than one of the fleeing burglars.

Soviet Russia On Trial By The League

Nations Considering Finn Appeal Behind Closed Door

GENEVA, Dec. 9—(AP) — The "trial" of Soviet Russia before the League of Nations on Finland's charges of aggression opened today when the league council met in private session with Russia's delegate absent.

The meeting, behind closed doors, was to receive the Finns' appeal and decide on procedure.

Finland's delegate, Rudolf Holsti, was called before the body to present his country's formal demand for "moral condemnation" of the Soviet Union.

After a seven-minute meeting, the council adjourned until 4 p.m. (10 a.m. e.s.t.).

Holsti asked for the delay to complete his case with a cable he said he was expecting from Helsingfors.

Although Jakob Surits, the Russian delegate, was not present at the council meeting, he stayed in his Geneva hotel where he received Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate.

Dr. Koo had the delicate job of deciding China's vote on Russia, which has been a source of arms for China in her fight against Japan. Earlier, he had called on R. A. Butler and Joseph Paul-Boncour, British and French delegates.

Great Britain and France were said to have agreed to back the Finns' appeal as far as Helsingfors desires to press it, including support of a move to expel Russia from the league.

Conviction Assured

League sources indicated that Russia—cast in the role of a defendant, with Finland as the complainant and the Latin American states, proponents of the expulsion movement, as prosecutors—was almost certain to be convicted.

The council was expected to hear

Escaped Heinies Thought Lost In Calgary Bush

CALGARY, Dec. 9—(CP).—Patrols of Royal Canadian Mounted Police secured the foothills country west of Calgary to-day for two enemy aliens, Germans, who escaped from the internment camp at Kananaskis, 65 miles west of Calgary, Thursday night and are now believed lost in dense bushland.

Police believe it is practically impossible for the men to get out of the area without being caught. They are believed to be daring starvation and exposure possibly in an attempt to reach the Canada-United States boundary, 200 miles south.

The R.C.M.P. dog "Tuff" picked up the trail of the men near the camp and its twisting course led police to believe the men were lost in the dense brush and mountainous terrain.

The men are considered dangerous and may resist arrest, and officials said they are known as trouble-makers.

Descriptions of the men have been supplied to all mounted policemen, and the town and city police forces of all Alberta centres.

Jury Dismissed After 5 Hours; Failed To Agree

Unable to reach a decision after five hours' deliberation, a jury hearing the case of Hilliard Bristow of Peterborough, charged with theft of $598.19 from the Purity Bakeries, was dismissed at 10.35 o'clock on Friday night by Judge Sheldon Smoke. An hour earlier Judge Smoke had sent them out to deliberate once more after they reported that time that they were unable to come to a decision.

Because the jury disagreed, Bristow will be tried again at the next General Sessions of the Peace, slated for the first Tuesday in June of 1940. He was released on bail.

When the jury filed in first at 9.30 after deliberating from 5.30 in the afternoon, Foreman Gordon Nicholls of Smith Township told Judge Smoke the jury was unable to decide upon a verdict.

"This seems to me to be a fairly simple case," said Judge Smoke, and asked if there was any point of law about which they were in doubt.

"No, there was no question we cared to have you answer at all," was the reply, and Judge Smoke asked him if he thought that by taking more time they would be able to reach a decision.

"I think it's going to take some time," said Nicholls.

"You must realize that this case cannot be concluded unless you reach a verdict," Judge Smoke cautioned.

Russia Finding Finn Invasion Hard Going; Nazis Get Setback As Italy Shuns Reds

By DON. GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

The 14th week of the war was not a successful one for the forces of aggression. The Red army found the going hard against Finland's determined defenders. British and Italian firms shipped planes to help, and Finnish fliers were reported to have carried the initiative in the air across the Soviet frontier. Germany, Russia's partner in aggression, was confronted with the complications in its diplomatic campaign, and the fight against Britan's supremacy at sea made little headway.

In the Finnish war there appeared to be no basis for Russian claims that the Red forces had penetrated the Mannerheim line, Finland's barrier of fortifications facing the Soviet border. Deep snow aided the Finns in the Arctic Northland where the Canadian-owned nickel mines are located. Soviet bombers found weather conditions unfavorable for raids on Finland's cities.

Germany's difficulties were mainly diplomatic. Italy reiterated her determination to have nothing to do with the partnership between Communism and Nazism and, while reaffirming the Rome-Berlin alliance, hinted the Fascist Government would act should the Red army march into the Balkans.

In Turkey, the German ambassador, Franz Von Papen, was in hot water for allowing a German official organization to reprint and distribute anti-Turkish editorials from the Soviet press. It seemed Von Papen's intrigues to draw Turkey away from the Allies were making no more impression on the Turks now than did his efforts to torpedo the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact in the early weeks of the war.

As if to divert attention from the none-too-brilliant efforts of the Red Army against the Finns, the Soviet press opened up against Rumania and demanded a pact similar to those exacted from the Baltic countries following the Soviet invasion of Poland. It said such a pact was necessary to save Rumania from "British and French Imperialism."

Finland's appeal to the League of Nations for invocation of the League covenant against Russia was followed by demands from South American nations that the Soviet Union be expelled from membership. The Kremlin declined an invitation to attend meetings called to examine Finland's appeal and it was widely reported Russia would resign.

At sea the Germans continued to sink a ship or two a day, including two British merchantmen

Dewan Pleased At 9-Cent Bacon

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—(CP).—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said to-day that the province "is pleased with the definite agreement with Great Britain regarding hog market."

He was commenting on the scheme through which Canada is to supply the United Kingdom with 4,480,000 pounds of bacon and ham weekly until Oct. 31, 1940, with Britain paying a fixed price of $20.18 an English hundredweight of 112 pounds. This would amount to about nine cents a pound live weight for hogs.

"Nine dollars a hundredweight is a satisfactory price to-day, taking grain prices at the moment into consideration," said Mr. Dewan.

Mother Spirits 'Juliet' Off; Nips Elopement

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The case of the vanishing heiress, a Manhattan thriller of forlorn lovers and parental pique, seemed headed today for a third courtroom scene —with "Romeo" vowing vengeance.

Only a few hours before a court-approved rendezvous yesterday with the suitor on whom her parents frown—George Lowther, 30, a broker—Eileen was driven in a closed car from the family estate on Long Island. Her mother and a body guard who chased Lowther away from Eileen's balcony last week.

When Lowther arrived with his lawyer, Eli Johnson, the House was shuttered.

Angry at this shattering of his plan to elope with the brunette heiress, the young broker said he would ask County Judge Barron Hill to hold the parents, former Park Commissioner Walter Herrick and his wife, in contempt of court.

Attorney-Johnson said that Nellie O'Connor, Eileen's 70-year-old nurse, had told them the girl left in tears with her mother after an all-night quarrel.

Went Unwillingly

"I know that Eileen did not want to go and that she went quite unwillingly," Johnson quoted the nurse

Gales Slash U.S. With South In Heat Wave

NEW YORK Dec. 9.— (AP). — "Chameleon" weather streaked the United States to-day.

High winds blew automobiles off New England roads; gales shifted houses off their bases in Oregon; the south basked in shirt-sleeve temperatures, and cherry trees bloomed at Alma, Mo.

A heavy fog shrouded parts of Florida during the night, hindering airline operations, and light rains broke a long drought in Northern California.

It was unseasonably warm throughout the mid-west, southwest and most of the far west.

The warmest reading—83—was recorded at Shreveport, La., a marked unprecedented there in December.

At Seattle, two were reported drowned in record tides, and toppled lines cut off power at Warrenton, Ore.

A mother fighting a grass fire in Vineland, N.J., died in sight of her three children when she brushed against a storm-broken power line carrying 2,000 volts.

2-Year Term Undemocratic Ontario Women Protest

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Alleging "increasing use of undemocratic forms of legislation," a large delegation from the Provincial Council of Women conferred with Ontario government officials yesterday. Mrs. Fred Millar, president and spokesman, contended the undemocratic forms are government by commission made up of men who are not elected or responsible to the people, and the suggestion of forcing a two-year term or longer for municipal office during wartime.

The delegation also submitted a series of resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the organization. Among them were recommendations to the federal and provincial governments urging "increased effort and care in enforcement of the liquor control," and suggesting they "seriously consider the desirability of further restrictions and regulation of hours and conditions."

"We are now at war and we are told from every quarter that it is a war to keep the democratic form of government," Mrs. Millar said. "And yet we go from year to year increasing the powers of men who are commissioners. That doesn't seem to be very democratic."

Peril On The Lakes

Toronto, Dec. 9 (CP)

DECKS awash from mountainous Lake Ontario seas, the steamship Norman P. Clement, docked yesterday from Fort William after its stormiest trip of the year.

"We battled ice and water all the way," said H. L. Murphy, captain of the freighter. "It took two days to cut the ice from the doors on the starboard side to get them open.

"It took us six hours to make the trip from the Welland Canal to Toronto, a usual three-hour run. After we left Port Weller waves went right over the pilot house and halfway up the stack. We had our lifeline out and the crew were only able to get back to their quarters between waves.

Robber Slays 5, Fires Home Burns 4 Victims, Suicides

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Dec. 9. —(AP).—Apparently murdered, two women, a man and a two-year-old boy died in the flames of a Lake Wissota cottage, near here, to-day.

A second man was found shot to death in an Eau Claire cemetery. The police expressed the opinion his death was linked with those in the cottage.

A third man, Donald Cameron about 30 or 35, who lived near here, was found shot to death in a garage near the Lake Wissota cottage. Chief of Police Holtz said he had committed suicide.

Holtz said that Cameron had robbed a filling station in Chippewa Falls and wounded three men a few minutes before the cottage fire was discovered and Cameron's body was found.

The bodies of the four persons in the cottage were charred but were believed to be those of Cameron's wife and son, and A. W. Wilk and Mrs. Dale McPete of Minneapolis.

The body found in the Eau Claire cemetery was that of Marshal Brenden of Eau Claire. He had been wounded twice in the head. The wounds were inflicted by bullets from a German type pistol. Such a weapon was found beside Cameron's body, Holtz reported.

People's Regime May Get Rap For Blockade

MOSCOW, Dec. 9—(AP).—Well-informed foreign sources predicted today Soviet Russia might resign from the League of Nations, rather than face possible expulsion on Finland's charges of aggression.

These sources said Russia had abandoned her policy of collective security and thus had retained little or no interest in the League.

Further spread of the war and complications with neutrals were viewed by foreign observers as possible results, should Russian enforce the naval blockade she has proclaimed again Finland.

They said that since Russia holds she is not at war with Finland, she has no right to seize neutral ships. It was believed possible Russia might call the blockade the work of the new Russian-sponsored "people's" government for Finland and "lend' 'this group warships for the purpose.

Meanwhile, it was learned the Soviet Government had established a new military district in the vicinity of Odessa, near the Rumanian frontier and across the Black Sea from Turkey.

The Moscow radio, however, quoted the Foreign Office as denying that a published demand against Rumania was representative of Soviet policy, or of "the present state of SovietRumanian relations."

"Misunderstood"

The broadcast said the foreign press had misinterpreted the attack in the organ "Communist International," which demanded that Rumania sign immediate a mutual assistance pact with Russia.

(In Bucharest, the Russian charge d'affaires told the Rumanian foreign minister the article expressed only the author's private view).

"In the eastern section of the Karelian Isthmus," a communique said, "Soviet troops, which on Dec. 7 broke through the main Finnish defences along the Taipaleenioki (Taipale) river and the Vuoski water system, developed success in a northern direction and on the flanks."

Unfavorable weather continued to prevent aviation activity except for reconnaissance flights, the Red army reported.

Tass, Soviet news agency, described as "false and sheer fabrication" a Finnish report that maps of captured Red army fliers indicated Russia had designated bombing targets in Sweden and the Aaland Islands.

From a distant front, the official radio announced a Japanese-Russian commission had begun the work of fixing a boundary for outer Mongolia and Manchoukuo, where an armistice was declared in mid-September after sporadic warfare.

of between 8,000 and 10,000 tons. The British destroyer Jarsey was damaged by an enemy torpedo. But, reviewing the naval war in Parliament, Winston Churchill assured the nation that although "we are buffeted by the waves, the ancient tides flow steady and strong in our favor." He said the Royal Navy was destroying enemy submarines fasted than the Germans could build them.

There was more activity on the Western front, where King George arrived for an inspection tour of the British sector. The French anounced important new additions to the Maginot Line system of fortifications. The Germans, finding the Allies taking a heavy toll of German planes sent out on reconnaissance work, turned to infantry patrols for scouting operations. The French found little difficulty in dealing with the increased intensity of these forays.

Glancing back 25 years: British naavl units under Vice-Admiral Sir Doveton Sturdee surprised Admiral Graf von Spee off the Falkland Islands on December 8, 1914, and destroyed five of the six warships under his command. In France and Belgium the Allied armies held the Germans at bay, while on the Eastern front the Germans halted Russia's drive through Poland.

Analysts Baffled By Girl's Death

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 9—(CP).—The death of Mary Myrtle Lenhardt, attractive 18-year-old blonde, on November 17, still mystifies provincial analysts, Crown Attorney Norman Newton informed County Police court today as three accused persons were freed on $500 personal bonds each until December 22.

Charged with conspiring to commit an indictable offence, "that of administering substances to procure an abortion" are the girl's mother, Mrs. Lenhardt, 42; the victim's brother, Lawrence, 24; and her fiance, Harvey Abel, 18.

"The autopsy reports indicated," said Mr. Newton, "that some foreign substance was swallowed, causing injuries which brought about her death. A wide range of substances could have had similar effects, and up to the present time the nature of the substance has not been learned by the provincial analysts."

The Crown asserted the girl died "under very suspicious circumstances" and explanations given by the accused were "ver yextraordinary."

However, he said, "it is the duty of the Crown not to keep in confinement against whom there is no definite evidence. That is why I suggest they be allowed their freedom on their own recognizance of $500 each."

Mary Lenhardt died a few hours after drinking a light beverage, and her mother, brother and her fiance were arrested within 48 hours. The family lives just outside the city limits, placing the case within Provincial Police jurisdiction.

Holtz said that Cameron held up the filling station about 12.45 a.m., slugged the attendant, Earl Redard, and took $20 from the cash drawer.

Redard staggered from the station and flagged down two motorists, Frank Babbitt and Sam Holeem of Bloomer. As the trio conversed, Redard told the police, Cameron leaped into his automobile, drew alongside the other car and fired two charges from a shotgun.

The pellets struck Redard in the abdomen, inflicting a serious wound. Holeen was wounded in one eye, and Babbitt in the shoulder. Cameron then fled.

The cottage fire was reported a half hour later. Police found the charred bodies of the four victims and Cameron.

Reckless Driver Is Fined $10

LINDSAY, Dec. 9—(ENS).—At a session of the Police Court Friday a young resident of Kinmount was fined $10.00 and costs by Magistrate Gee on the charge of reckless driving. The charge was laid following an accident some weeks ago a few miles west of Minden. The accused was driving a three-ton truck on the road, accompanied by William Guthrie. He said in the court he was blinded by the sun, and as a result crashed into the rear of a parked truck driven by A. Limerick of Coboconk. Both the accused and Guthrie were injured. Limerick had stopped his truck to adjust the load and had pulled well over on the side. County Crown Attorney Anderson informed the court that the road was straight and the vision good.

George Tully of Nogie's Creek was charged in court with dangerous driving, his car having collided with one driven by Earl White of Bobcaygeon. He was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $32.50. Tully asked for an adjournment for a week in order that he might secure legal advice. "This summons was laid on November 24, and I am not going to be in dancing attendance on some jackass who cannot make up his mind until the last minute," remarked County Crown Attorney Anderson.

Drunken Driver Is Sentenced To 7 Days

Seven days imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Daniel Yeoman, pump man with the Consolidated Smelters at Cordova Mines, after the latter had pleaded guilty to having been drunk in charge of a car at Havelock Friday.

Yeoman's car was ordered to be impounded for three months.

Crown Attorney McElderry and Provincial Constable J. A. Rogers said that the minimum would be sufficient.

"You are lucky to have the crown take that attitude," said Magistrate Langley. However,I do not want it to be thought that the minimum will always be handed out in these cases."

"This will be a lesson to me," said Yeoman. "It will never happen to me again."

Balkan's Guard Rome Press Says Of Italy

ROME, Dec. 9 — (CP-Havas). — The Italian press, echoing reaffirmation of this country's neutrality by the Fascist Grand Council on Friday, said that "Italy is in a state of potential intervention."

The authoritative Fascist newspaper Tribuna, in making this statement, pointed out that "Italy's position must not be confused with neutrality as generally understood, because it is a question of watchful waiting."

It was explained that the Grand Council's warning that Italy is vitally interested in anything affecting the Danubian Basin and the Balkans was indicative of Italy's "vigilant neutrality" as some observers here term it.

Asserting that the Rome-Berlin axis is as solid as ever, Tribuna suggested that present Italian neutrality conforms to axis interests.

"There is no incompatibility," it said, "between our relations with Germany and the neutrality position Italy has adopted.

"On the contrary, while serving our own interests, this position equally serves the interests of the belligerents, who also have important interest sto safeguard in that part of Europe which, thanks to Italy, is still not at war."

Red Cross Fund Hits $4,290,775

TORONTO, Dec. 9—(CP). — The wartime campaign fund of the Canadian Red Cross Society today reached $4,290,775, with receipt of latest figures from Alberta.

The Y.M.C.A. will operate the hostel in co-operation with the Red Cross, which recently voted $25,000 to be used to provide accommodation for sailors in Halifax.

The Salvation Army will conduct a hostel and the Knights of Columbus a hut, the latter for use of men during the day. The Red Cross is co-operating in both these moves.

Mr. Sommerville also announced that $1,000 had been sent by the Canadian Red Cross to Finland, through F. W. Routley, Canadian commissioner for the society now in England. A shipment of goods for Finland now is being prepared here.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

THE BOOK OF GOD

Thy word is a lantern unto my feet.—Ps. 119: 105.

You would feel deeply offended if anyone spoke lightly of the Bible. It is the written Word of God, you would answer with considerable heat. But do you read it regularly as you do your newspaper? There is no greater joy to the Devil to hear your defence of the Book if you never read it; if it is a closed Book to you. He knows you are deceiving yourself. You are not being saved because you believe the Bible is the Word of God.

In these days of war it is inspiring to read the testimony of a great soldier, philosopher and statesman, General Smuts: "The Bible is the greatest contribution to human culture, human thought and human religion. Let us not forget that this book is the contribution of the Jews to mankind. Let us remember that this extraordinary little people, so highly gifted, made this supreme contribution to the welfare of the world."

The Authorized Version of the Bible is the greatest Book in the English language. It is the greatest of literary miracles. The committee consisted of forty-seven scholars, none of them of marked reputation as writers or poets. Here is the testimony of a great master of literature, Sir Arthur Q. Couch: "That a committee of forty-seven should and year, did not know they were the rhythm so personal, so constant, that our Bible has the voice of one author speaking through its many mouths. It is a wonder before which I stand humble and aghast."

But the Bible is more than great literature. It is the Word of God. God speaking to us through His written Word. Every experience and emotion of mankind has its record in these Scriptures. It is good to remember that the law givers, chroniclers, poets, prophets, teachers, evangelists, apostles and seers, laboring through more than a thousand year, did not know they were writing the Word of God. They were not conscious, as we are, of their inspiration. Even Isaiah and other prophets, who felt the burden of the Lord upon them that they could not forbear to speak, did not know they were speaking for all time. As you read with sympathy these burning words which inspired their hearts your hearts burn likewise in this twentieth century. "Did not our hearts burn within us" is your own experience. You discover for yourself the inspiration of this Book, that it is written for our learning, that we, through comfort of the Scriptures might have hope even in this terrible day.

Above all, in the Gospels we have the story of Jesus Christ, "the greatest and best believer that ever lived." He lived in unbroken communion with the Father; He went about doing good; His meat was to do the will of Him that sent Him. He staked his whole life on God and when it came to the final test He laid down His life for His idea of God.

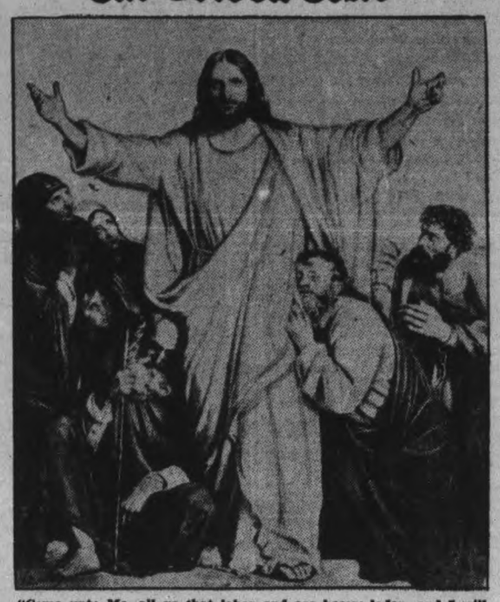
How are you to read the Book? With the pen eye of faith? Mere reading will not make you a Christian The New Testament Scriptures were written by believers in Jesus Christ. They were not written for the conversion of unbelievers. This may shock you. They were written for the strengthening of the faithful in their belief. "That thou mightest know the certainty of those things wherein thou hast been instructed." St. Luke 1:4.

To those who believe that Jesus Christ is God "made manifest in the flesh" this Book stands alone and unique. It is not by merely reading the Bible that we shall understand what Christianity is. That Jesus Christ is the unique Son of God is the secret of the Book.

This Book is a lantern to your feet to lead you to live the life of God in Christ Jesus Our Lord, Bishop Lightfoot sums up the message of the Book in the words: "To me to live is Christ." Do men see Him in you?

"THAT CHRIST MAY DWELL IN YOUR HEARTS BY FAITH."

The Golden Text



"Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you, and learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For My yoke is easy, and My burden is light."—Matthew 11:28-30.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

REACTIONS TO THE GOOD NEWS

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 10 is Matthew 11 and 12, the Golden Text being Matthew 11:28-30, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you, and learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and My burden is light.")

IN OUR previous lesson we have seen how Jesus went about doing good, healing the sick, raising the dead, and preaching the Good Tidings. In last week's lesson He sent His disciples out to spread the Good News. But soon He perceived that although the people were filled with wonder at His miracles, they refused to believe that He was the Christ, and to turn from their evil ways and lead good lives.

Especially was this true of the richer people. Jesus likened those who heard His word and heeded it not to a lot of children playing in the market place and calling to the others to play wedding, but they refused to dance and play; or to play funeral, where, in those days, hired mourners walked behind the coffin, weeping and beating their breasts. But the children refused to play that either. Of those who hated and maligned Him, said Jesus, when John the Baptist came, "neither eating nor drinking, and they say, he hath a devil.

Called Him Gluttonous

"The Son of Man came eating and drinking and they say, Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners." But, said Christ, "Wisdom is justified of her children," meaning, doubtless, that the teachings and lives of John and Himself were justified, no matter what evil speaking people thought. They were bound to find fault anyway.

Even in the city of Capernaum, in which He preached and worked miracles, people would not leave off their evil ways, and He was discouraged with them and with the cities of Chorazin and Bethsaida, where He also worked. It were far better for the heathen cities that never heard Him than for those who heard and heeded not, He said.

Then Jesus thanked His Heavenly Father that although the wise and prudent had heard Him and would not attend, the simple people, even those He likened unto babes, believed. And He called upon these who needed consolation, to come to Him and be comforted.

"Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden," He said, "and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of Me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest to your souls. For My yoke is easy and My burden is light." How many sorrowing and care-laden souls have heard that invitation and have "put their burdens on the Lord" and been comforted.

Following Jesus

Repentance and the leading of good, Christian lives taking as pattern Jesus' own life, is what is required of us. "As I live, saith the Lord, God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye, from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?" Ezekiel 33:11.

In Isaiah 55 we find: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money: come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." This wine and milk were not mortal foods, but those that feed the soul of man.

"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found," warns Isaiah. "Call ye upon Him while He is near.

"Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon."

men's Institutes have achieved," she said.

Miss Mary Clarke, superintendent of the Ontario Institutes said, Miss Frankish reported, that the Institute members could pat themselves on the back, because while women all over the province were scurrying to study nutrition, because it was a vital necessity in war time, the Institutes had already completed their studies along this line and were well prepared for any emergency.

W. I. Convention Is Reviewed

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 9—(ENS). — Miss Marjorie Frankish, who was delegate from the Lakefield Institutes to the Toronto convention held in November, gave a most interesting report of the meetings, at the regular monthly session of the local branch held in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, on Wednesday afternoon. She brought home the facts that now as never before the Institute women are needed for home and country. She said: "We must carry on in a normal way in so far as it is possible. Our program should be so elastic that we can step into any emergency." The founder of the Women's Institutes, Mrs. Hoodless, had often remarked, that "before women could grow up they must learn to sort out the essential things of life from the unessential, and this is what the Wo-

Reactions to the Good News — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 11 and 12.

Jesus likens the generation to whom He preaches to children sitting in the market place and trying to get their playmates to join in the games and they will not.

He upbraids the cities in which He has preached and performed miracles that they have not repented of their evil ways, and tells them they will suffer even worse than heathen cities.

"As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked shall turn from his way and live, turn ye, from your evil ways."

"Take my yoke upon you, and learn of Me for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest for your souls."

Launching An Appeal

His Honor Judge Smoke, when dismissing the petit jury of the County Court, took occasion to remark that jurors in a case of reckless driving did not pay sufficient attention to the oath they took before the trial commenced. That particular case was heard before Judge J. A. McGibbon, and he made it plain enough that he was not satisfied that a verdict of not guilty was correct or warranted by the evidence.

That verdict was so at variance with the evidence that it had—and has—all the markings of miscarriage of justice. It makes it plain that the driver of a car could go at excessive speed right through the stop signs in the city, smash into a car and then be found not guilty of anything at all.

The first thing one thinks of is that there should be an appeal taken by the Crown Attorney on the ground that a wrong result came from the holding of the trial. If there were prospects of such an appeal being entertained then it ought to be launched.

But the history of such cases is that an appeal launched because of an apparent or alleged miscarriage of justice has to be based on something more tangible than the feeling or assertion that the jury did the wrong thing.

It is necessary if success is to be attained to be able to demonstrate in appeal that the Judge for instance in his address or summing up of the case for the jury had missed or misinterpreted some of the points of law, and in that way had sent the jury away with a wrong impression regarding what they should or should not do. In this case there is nothing of that nature, so the only reason for appeal would be that the jury had come to a wrong conclusion, and one which was not warranted by the facts. We consider it unfortunate that such conditions restrict the chance for successful appeal because on the face of the thing it looks like a wide-open case where an appeal should be entered.

Can't Win By Denouncing

The denouncing business has been running strong recently. Papers in Canada have been doing their share, and papers in United States have been doing more of it. Particularly Stalin and Hitler have become the targets and if denouncing were the path to their undoing they would have by now exhibited signs of weakening.

Looking over a number of clippings from United States newspapers we take this from that very excellent paper, the New York Herald Tribune:

"However remote this country may hope to remain from actual hostilities, it owes an instant duty to the decent people of the world to express its horror and detestation of this latest totalitarian crime against an unoffending and helpless people."

That was written regarding the Russian invasion of Finland, and Finland being the one country which has met all its debt payment to United States, has always been highly regarded across the border. The invasion of Finland did more to place the present issue squarely before the people of the world than any other event which had preceded it. It made it unnecessary for the Allies to make any more statements which sought to explain just why they were at war.

Of course United States hopes to remain out of the war. That hope is reflected once more in the quotation from the Herald Tribune. If the country is not going to war, then its duty is to do as much denouncing as possible; it must express many times what is referred to as its detestation of the Russian invasion.

That of course is pleasant to read, and it may be of some assistance in creating national feeling. But war is not only a hell of a thing; it is also tremendously granite-faced and practical.

We doubt very much whether either Stalin or Hitler read the newspapers printed in United States or in this country either. We are quite certain neither name is on the circulation list of the Examiner. For all we know the Herald Tribune of New York may be in a similar position.

United States has a practical interest in what is going on in the world today. With Russia looming as one of the most dangerous agencies, the republic to the south will realize that Russia is a neighbor. Possibly a good many people to the South have taken their maps and tried to figure how far it is across Bering Strait, which separates Russia from Alaska—and Alaska is United States property. There may be a popular belief that Washington is far removed from Moscow, but actually the distance is the mileage across that strip of water, Bering Strait—and that is 36 miles.

No one is urging or suggesting that United States shall enter the war with the democracies, but it is ruggedly plain that it is going to take more than a full measure of the denouncing business to put the totalitarian states in their place, and until that is done United States is going to keep on sitting on the anxious seat.

Wanted—A Piano Player

The Chatham News records there was a banquet in town. The Rod and Gun Club was having an annual affair. Good meal and the Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries for a speaker. But there came a pause or a soft spot in the program when it was felt there ought to be some music. The hunters and fishermen felt as though they would gladly lift the voice in happy song. There were 160 of them in attendance, and there was a piano in the room. The gentlemen present would know a deal about casting and gunning, but not one of them knew anything about a piano. They all with one accord pleaded guilty to the mild impeachment that they could not play the thing.

And that caused the Chatham News to come to the conclusion that something was amiss in this day of much learning, accomplishment and education. We dare say if a census had been taken there would have been a good many of that 160 who would have admitted he had taken music lessons when a lad but had never followed it up to the point where he could actually read music and then proceed to the business of reproducing it by hitting the right keys at the right time.

If all the little boys and girls in the land who started one time or another taking piano lessons had emerged as the finished article then the Chatham gathering would have measured up to those lines which say "And the night shall be filled with music." We believe the explanation is that many start, but many also fall by the wayside. The juvenile cannot see far enough ahead, and the parents do not care to keep applying the pressure which "would drive them to it." So they quit. That is why Chatham could not locate one piano player in a gathering of 160 able-bodied men.

Not The Right Word

Lieut.-Col. George Drew delivered an address in Edmonton. Naturally he had something to say about the war, and his advice is that "Canada should do away with her present tin-pot navy" and go in for air force.

Our navy is not large, but at the moment we derive a degree of satisfaction from knowing it is in existence and on the job. It may not be powerful, but it is difficult to see why it should be referred to as "tin-pot." If the necessity arose the vessels would go into action, and they would remain in action until there was success or the last ship went down fighting. Of that we feel certain.

Many of our young men have trained in this service and are on duty today. In times like the present we believe every fighting vessel in the British Empire is of importance.

If Mr. Drew had cared to argue that we would be better off by paying more attention to aircraft that was his privilege, but using "tin-pot" as the expletive to designate our efforts at sea does not fit in with the situation. Naval power is not a thing of the past. As we understand the situation today the British navy is the prime agency which is causing Germany the greatest amount of concern.

Afraid Of Cows!

A little girl writing a school composition about where she had been during summer vacation, included these remarks: "I was in the country but I was afraid. The cows had horns that would hook, and cows kick and bite people."

Of course that little girl lives in a city, and was possibly on a farm where Ayrshires were kept, which for some reason or other are seldom dehorned. But we do not believe she actually noticed any person getting "hooked" by a cow. It is possible if she was doing her visiting during the fly season she may have seen a cow let fly with a hind leg, and this might well have happened even during the milking time.

But her visit to the farm did not teach her that cows do not bite people. Perhaps if she had gone around and done a little examining and found that the cows had no teeth in the upper jaw she might have felt safer and entirely better.

If she had watched a cow grazing in the field she would have noticed there would be a slight upward movement of the head as though the cow were actually pulling grass. If this little girl from the city had some one explain or show to her a cow's mouth she would have found that instead of teeth in the top jaw there is something like a pad located there. She could have learned a good deal about cows instead of coming away with the feeling of fear.

Berlin Knows It

Alvin J. Steinkopf, staff writer for the Associated Press at Berlin, tells of the movement of 600,000 persons who had been living in Poland. About 100,000 Germans will be brought westward to take them out of the section of Poland annexed by Russia. There will be about 500,000 Ukrainians who will move eastward rather than remain in territory where Germany will rule.

Referring to this movement, which is admittedly difficult, the Associated Press man uses this explanatory note:

"The movement started after the partition of Poland when Russia began its move to dominate the Baltic."

It has been recognized for centuries that the power which dominates the Baltic also dominates all of what was formerly Poland, regardless of how much of it Germany may hold.

What was the Free City of Danzig was regarded as the key to the water-carried trade of Poland, and that was the city which Hitler craved—and secured.

But Danzig is a Baltic port, and that is what gives added significance to those words from Berlin, "... when Russia began its move to dominate the Baltic."

If that fact is known, admitted, recognized and spoken of in Berlin we cannot but wonder what the national board of strategy thinks of the situation.

NOTE AND COMMENT

By the way—has any person heard recently of or from one known as Adolf Hitler?

In some parts of Kansas the weather has been as high as 83. In the moving picture business they would call it a preview of Spring.

"The German people must learn not to put their faith in governments which are consecrated to force."—Alfred Duff Cooper.

When a man arrives at the point where his name appears in that list "among those present were..." one of his early dreams of greatness has been realized.

The man who is responsible for keeping the cash moving toward his company must have a profound regard for the Red Cross, which asked for three million dollars and then got four.

A man in Camden, N.J. weighing 200 pounds appealed to court for protection against the cruelty of his wife of 114 pounds, but he didn't get it. Court apparently considered it was too much like Russia complaining it was being attacked by Finland.

The animal which goes to the fair and makes a good showing is headed in a dangerous direction. The prize steer at the Chicago show wound up his career by having it printed that he was sold for $1.35 per pound. And there were 1,220 pounds of him.

Allen Walsh, M.P., speaking at Montreal, said this country needs strong leadership during and after the war. And probably if the leaders had opportunity they would like to add they longed for a large body of people who would turn into loyal and obedient followers.

In the first three months of war there were about as many people killed in accidents during blackouts in Britain as among those on active service. Wonder how people ever managed in the days—and nights—when there was no artificial illumination.

Henry Courvoisier applied for naturalization papers at Goderich, and stated he had been voting in this country for 40 years. The politicians would like to know how he had been voting before passing judgment on whether or not he would make a good citizen.

INTERRUPTION

(By A.M.R.)

¶ I found a story that was great, 'twas built on love and plots and hate, the end I could not guess; there was a villain in the piece, the victim who had bade him cease, a maiden in distress.

¶ There was a castle old and gray, the night had superseded day, the mystic hour had come; I got excited as I read, and shivered when the next line said, the villain had a gun.

¶ Just then I heard Wee Angus say, "A farmer sold a load of hay, also a cord of wood; and if he bought this list of stuff, and if he got back change enough, would he be doing real good?"

¶ The villain scaled the castle wall, a powerful man well-knit and tall, the maiden was alone; he crept with stealthy step around, until the secret door he'd found, it chilled me to the bone.

¶ "The farmer bought a pound of tea, of pairs of boots he purchased three, that seems like quite a lot"; Wee Angus exercised his brain, he wanted me to do the same, if villains walked or not.

¶ And so I shifted out my chair, and had to leave the maiden there, see what the farmer bought; I don't know how the villain fared, or if the maiden there was scared—if she got shot or not.

• Italy Gives Stalin A Warning

BY a remarkable coincidence, on the very day when the official Russian Communist organ, "The Communist Internationale," prints attacks on Roumania that bear a striking resemblance to those which preceded the German and Russian invasion of Poland and the Soviet attack on Finland, there appears for the first time in an Italian Fascist newspaper a definite warning that Italy will fight should Russia attack Roumania.

This warning, notes the Montreal Star, which was printed in the Avvenire of Tripoli, is specific enough to leave no doubt as to its intent, and as it must have been printed with the knowledge and approval of the Government, it may be taken as an indication of Il Duce's sentiments in the matter. It says:

"If Stalin, after closing the northern sector, is planning to open one in the Balkans, and if dreams in the Kremlin already pursue the phantom hallucination of the Golden Horn, a crusade of Mediterranean civilization will be ready to thrust the starving hordes of his slaves back to the snows and desolate steppes of the North."

There have been previous to this a number of warnings, more or less veiled, uttered by Fascist leaders, but this may be the beginning of a press campaign to offset that of Moscow. Should Russia attack Roumania, it is difficult to see how the war could be localized. The probability is that all the Balkans would be drawn in as well as the Allies, for it must not be forgotten that in April last both Britain and France gave Roumania guarantees of military support, should her independence be threatened by an aggressor. This may well make Stalin pause,—particularly after the exceedingly poor showing the Red war machine has made against the little Finnish Republic up to date.

• This Man Seeks Information

A SEEKER after information writes to an American publication. He wonders who owns his country and proceeds to put the question in his own way:

Here's a question. And I need an answer very badly. I'm speaking in the name of 130,000,000 neighbors. They want an answer, too.

The question is: Is it going to be possible for we little people to remain free and independent in our America?

I live in Oskaloosa, Iowa, a nice little city in a prosperous farming community. I work for the Minneapolis and St. Louis R. R. along with 200 neighbors. I have a steady job and get $1,800 a year, which is a plenty to live on. As a matter of fact, it puts me among the upper fourth of the town. Three of my children have gone to Penn College here. My family has about the same things to eat as the leading preacher, wears about the same kind of Sunday clothes as a bank cashier's family and and rushes around in the same type of car that everyone else uses.

I am a Methodist and Republican, though don't go in much for politics. Sometimes I vote for Democrats or Independents if they're the best candidates, but I remain Republican. Partly because my father was, but chiefly because Abraham Lincoln was. It wasn't so awfully far from here that he lived. I still believe in him.

Personally I have nothing to complain of. But I have a lot of questions. Most of my neighbors have, too. For instance, one family out of every eight here in Osakloosa is on direct relief. Now, our Iowa is a very rich state. I heard a professor say it was the most favored corn producing area on the globe. Yet one in eight of us here is a kind of beggar. Has something happened to our America, so that from now on one eighth of us will have to live on direct charity?

I remember, also, that all five of the banks in Oskaloosa folded up during the crisis. I recall, too, that a great many farmers went broke. They couldn't pay their mortgages, and they almost started a revolution, when the sheriffs put their property on the block.

My railroad's broke, too. It went into receivership in 1923 and by 1936 had an accumulated deficit of $38,360,000. But it still keeps on running—I'm awfully glad to say.

Naturally a lot of us Oskaloosans keep wondering what we're coming to. That's what I'm asking you about. I guess our money has gotten into the hands of people who don't know how to handle it. Or am I wrong about that?

I've read that of America's working capital, four fifths is in the hands of corporations and that 200 corporations in 1933 managed 55 per cent of it. They say that of the 48,000,000 Americans who work or seek work not more than 5 per cent are engaged in independent non-agrarian enterprises of their own, while in all America there are only 3,210,000 independent, full farm owners. That's even fewer, than at the time of Abraham Lincoln, isn't it?

It looks as though those 200 corporations had gained control of the jobs of 48,000,000 workers and don't know how to manage them.

I have read that ten companies control 72 per cent of all the electricity produced, and that 166 men, serving as directors in many companies, are legally responsible for $46,000,000,000, or about a fourth of America's working capital.

One steel company owns property worth $2,000,000,000; one automobile manufacturing company is worth $1,500,000,000, and in 1936 a single grocery concern sold nearly a billion dollars worth of goods. That was a tenth of all that was spent for groceries by the whole American nation. What I want to find out is whether I am right in feeling that America is slipping out of the hands of us, the American nation.

• But One Chance For Small Nations

PERHAPS it was because of Finland that one noticed the angels in the shop windows this morning. The mind's eye was on other windows—the clean, bright glass of Helsinki, with its glazed-brick and steel office buildings, its new factories, its up-to-date housing, its famous railway station, The Finns were proud as Punch of their capital, which by stubborn industry they had transformed into a strikingly modern city in twenty years. The took delight in telling of the visit, a few ears ago, of a workers' delegation from Leningrad who refused to believe that what they saw was real. The contrast between the Finnish capital—once part of Russia and now threatened with Soviet rule—and the mildewed and run-down capital of Peter the Great, the industrial center of the Soviet Union, was too much for the credulity of the Russians. They left convinced that the Finns had staged a show for their benefit.

The Finns would not have built so many glass walls if they had dreamed that their powerful neighbor would visit them with bombs. They would not have started out to work and school and market Thursday morning if they had imagined they were at war. The Red planes swooped down on them in the wide streets without warning and blasted them without mercy. At the end of two days' bombardment a good part of the city was in flames. Many of the new buildings were shattered. Hundreds of the citizens were dead, for it seems that the army of the proletariat struck first at the people. Favorite targets, according to the reports, were the buses on the county roads. In fact, the first victory scored by the People's air force was over a bus load of men, women and children caught unaware in the main street of Helsinki.

It has been a thin year for the side of the angels. It has been a black year for the weak. The invasion of Finland puts an end to whatever illusions remained that in a predatory world, governed by no law but force, smal lnations can survive by their own power or by the moral support of powerful friends.

The fate prepared for Finland, in other words, is worse than that of the other Baltic States. The bases Russia acquired from Estonia were used to bomb the Finns, an ironic reminder that every inch surrendered by any small country weakens the position of all.

This is the terrible lesson repeated now for the eighth time on the Continent of Europe in less than two years. Beginning with Austria, eight small nations have lost their independence, and every other small nation, without exception, lives in terror of the same fate. The only question is whether they do better to submit under protest or to resist aggression. Finland, like Poland, answered in the affirmative, arguing that the fight for life strengthens the moral claim of the nation to restoration. The argument for avoiding useless bloodshed is that if Germany wins the war the cause is lost, anyway; and if the Allies win, the conquered nations are sure to rise again.—Anne O'Hare McCormick, in the New York Times.

HAS HIS DOUBTS

PREMIER HEPBURN sets his mind against paying attention to plebiscites and expressions of public opinion on his election ban policy, but in the rural districts they are apt to look on him as a dictator, pure and simple. The Wheatley Journal has this to say:

Quote a number of the editors of daily and weekly newspapers in Ontario have not taken too kindly to Premier Hepburn's edict regarding the cessation of municipal elections for the duration of the war. There is much that could be said in favor of such an arrangement, providing a good council has been selected to carry on for this period, but if the people are disappointed in their choice of councilmen it seems too bad to think they will be obliged to put up with it indefinitely. On the other hand if a good choice has been made, according to the old regulations, the council can always be returned by acclamation and accomplishes the purpose for which Mr. Hepburn is striving. It has also been proven in the past that when too much authority is given any governing body for too long a time there is always a chance for graft and dictatorship to creep in.

To The Editor

A COUSIN PERHAPS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I was very much amused to see my family nickname on your editorial page in last night's issue of your paper. Under the heading 'Note and Comment' a daring and bright lad (to use your phrasing) used a 'pitchfork' to rescue his chum from the water. This was a very commendable action to take and I sincerely hope it was with the moral assistance of the 'pitchfork' he successfully accomplished what he set out to do.

Granted, Mr. Editor the 'pitchforks' will feel better for knowing that one of their number was used for such a worthy purpose.

I personally take great delight in reading your comments and that certainly tops the works as far as your very keen sense of humor allows you to print.

Thank you, Mr. Editor.

THE BLOOD TYRANT

EUROPE'S WARLORDS as "criminals" is one view of The Leamington Post-News, which assesses some of the more obvious crimes of which these "will-to-power" megalomaniacs have been guilty. They are criminals, certainly, but that doesn't lighten the burden of the Allies appreciately. The job remains the same—victory.

Condition in Europe indicate what comes to appeasing criminals. One after another, the small nations, which were a bulwark for peace, are wiped off the map. And soon, all to remain will be the big vultures, which will devour each other like monsters of the deep. The Nazis and Bolsheviks are on the march to terrorize and massacre all in their path. Their crimes disclose their mentality, and how much reliance can be placed in their covenants and promises. The destruction of unfortified Warsaw — inexcusable from the standpoint of military necessity—was staged as an act of self-glorification by a blood-tyrant.

GOVERNMENT TO CONTINUE LOANS ON ALL HOUSES UP TO $4,000

Ottawa Limiting Home Loans To $4,000 Jan. 1

Ottawa, Dec. 9—(CP).—In a move to tighten the strings on the public treasury and conserve resouces for war purposes, Finance Minister Ralston announced Wednesday that beginning next Jan. 1 loans under the Dominion Housing Act would be limited to a maximum of $4,000, and that no loans would be made after that date on apartment and duplex houses.

Restriction of this form of assistance to home builders, after four years of operation, is necessary as one of the steps essential to further Canada's war effort, it was stated.

As a further restriction, part three of the Act, which authorizes the government to assist builders under the Act to meet their municipal taxes in the first three years of ownership, will become non-operative on construction started after May 31, 1940, for which applications were made prior to Jan. 1, 1940.

An earlier move to lighten the burden on the Dominion Treasury was the suspension of the Central Mortgage Bank operations before they even got started. In both cases the Finance Minister emphasized the need of diverting expenditures from peacetime to wartime projects. The Government is going to need all available capital for more urgent work.

There has been a steady increase in loans under the Housing Act, which now total $46,700,000. Of this one-quarter has gone to apartment houses and duplexes. Colonel Ralston feels sure that more expensive family homes and apartment houses will be financed by private lending institutions.

In the meantime, at least, no restrictions have been placed on home improvement loans under another legislative measure made effective two years ago to help relieve the serious unemployment in the building trades. It was disclosed today that the total amount loaned since the beginning of this plan exceeded $38,000,000, of which nearly half was in Ontario. Every month this year loans for home improvements have increased and this has been particularly noticeable since the war started.

Colonel Ralston is confident that building activities will not be affected seriously by the new Government restrictions for the next few months, at any rate, and by that time he believes opportunities will have developed for employment on wartime construction projects.

When wartime industry is in full swing, it is considered likely here ment of Government assistance projects. Ottawa has been following that there will be further curtailthe policy of avoiding dislocation of employment while the transfer to a war economy was taking place.

Sailors Sing "For Dear Old Blighty" Adrift As 9 Die In Fog Collision

HALIFAX, Dec. 9.—(CP)—Something of the heroism of Britain's sailors, that enables the Empire's merchant ships to sail the seas in time of war, was revealed Friday in survivors' accounts of a collision between two freighters off the coast of Nova Scotia Monday.

Seamen from the British freighter Manchester Regiment told how their ship was rammed in a pea-soup fog by the 14,188-ton liner Oropesa. They told of loss of life that might have been greater but for the courage of crew members who sang "For Dear Old Blighty" until picked up from a drifting lifeboat.

(Naval headquarters at Ottawa disclosed yesterday that nine men died in the sinking after a collision off Nova Scotia of a British ship. They did not announce the name of the ship nor of the victims, but said there were no Canadians among the number).

The Manchester Regiment was so badly damaged she had to be abandoned but the Oropesa, carrying 42 crew members of the freighter Chancellor which went down Saturday after colliding with the tanker Atchelchief, escaped serious damage.

Boat Dumps Men In Sea

Rescued seamen said the Manchester Regiment victims died when a lifeboat capsized, apparently from exposure for their bodies, supported by lifebelts, were seen floating in the icy water. Eighteen men were in the lifeboat when it overturned and only nine were rescued.

Because lifeboat space was limited seven other sailors remained aboard the sinking ship until picked up by members of the Oropesa's crew who came to their rescue with three survivors from the Chancellor.

Some of the lifeboats drifted for four hours.

"We kept singing For Dear Old Blighty; we shouted and whistled till our throats were sore," a sailor recounted.

Captain W. B. Wilford of the Chancellor, telling how his ship went down, said "The Atchelchief just loomed out of the fog and struck us amidships. There was no loss of life and the tanker proceeded under her own power.

Millbrook Forms Young People's Group

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9—(ENS).—The young people of Grace Presbyterian church gathered in goodly numbers in the Sunday School hall on Monday at 8 p.m. for the purpose of forming a Young People's Society.

Rev. A. Raeburn-Gibson, D.D., read the lesson and led in prayer, after which he outlined the rules governing a Y.P.S., and the following officers were elected: Honorary president, Rev. A. Raeburn-Gibson, pastor of the church; president, Margaret Armstrong; vice-president, Gladys Coyte and Clifford Larmer; secretary, Dorothy Armstrong; treasurer, G. Coyte. Conveners or four departments: Worship, Norman Hubbeard; fellowship, Gordon Larmer; service, Allen Blair; social, Mary Armstrong and Rhoda Gibson.

After discussion it was decided to hold the regular meetings every two weeks. Mr. Gibson then turned the meeting over to the newly-elected president, and under her supervision games and a social time were much enjoyed. A cordial invitation will be extended to all the young people of the congregation to attend the Y.P.S. meetings.

German Goods Passed Up For Yule Pack

In the old days, if you wanted your Christmas tree to turn around and around on a music box which played "Silent Night" you had to import it from Germany.

Not any more. The war has put Canadian-made music box tree-holders on the market. The Canadian boxes, made of metal, do a nice job of tinkling out the old tunes, too. They've even rigged up a lighting arrangement which allows the tree to turn, the music box to play and the lights on your tree to keep on burning.

You may buy a nice battleship also as a war effect with cannon that shoot tiny wooden shells which neatly wreck a little block fort.

There are map games, and maps you can stick pins into to mark the day to day change of national boundaries.

$10 a Division.

Of course, there are soldiers and sailors and cavalry and tanks and Red Cross nurses. You can get a general and field equipment tents, for as little as $10.

There is hardly a "Made in Germany" to be seen in the stores. The Canadian dolls are the last word. They come with wardrobes which would make a debutante envious, all neatly packed in a trunk, hat box and shoe bag. Some of them even include riding boots, and skates of course.

Toy Department Amazing.

The toy departments are amazing. There's a shooting gallery with moving targets this year, very cheap. Just plug it in to an electric socket and the ducks move. You shoot with corks. Should be a big number with the boys of 30 and over.

One of the nicest gadgets for a man is a compact traveling bag of fabric which packs into a neat case. Ideal for the chap who does a lot of yachting or for the owner of a trailer.

Luggage is always a major problem in a cabin cruiser or a trailer. There is never any plac eto put it. This traveling bag is the answer. It folds away neatly into a drawer until you want to go home.

Raiding the Attic.

If your grandfather was an apothecary, go digging in the attic. Smartest thing in table decorations is the old balance scales used in drug scales before the soda fountain era. Put a huge, fat candle on each tray ,or fruit and flowers. It makes the perfect centre piece, and will cost some $80 if you buy it today.

The big jars used in the windows of the old shops are in style. Great for decoration.

For the wife of the hunter who got his deer, somebody has devised a way of using antlers. They slice them diagonally at the largest point, cut them off and use them for ash trays or pipe holders.

Toy animals are marvelous this year. There are speaking pigs, teddy bears 4 feet tall, the three bears in assorted sizes. To give you an idea, I came away with a woolly lamb. They simply can't be resisted.

Trains and Planes.

There are airplanes with a 3-foot wing spread, and trains from $1 to $300. So complete is the railroad system that there are even cattle and sheep for the stockyards along the tracks.

Your child may build his own model village this year if he wishes. The houses, about 10 inches tall, are cut-outs, perfect in every detail. There are fire houses, churches, apartments, railroad stations and bungalows.

Recognition Of God Lacking In Many Minister Says

At the service of intercession at Knox Church last night, one of a weekly series sponsored by the Ministerial Association of the city, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr expressed the opinion and a fear that out of the lives of a great many people seems to have gone any recognition of God. And quoting William James, he said as soon as people cease to pray it signifies a lack of recognition of the place of God in human experience.

Assisting in last night's service were Rev. Fred Craik, president of the Ministerial Association, Rev. V. R. Zufelt, Rev. C. C. Boyter, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, and Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson The members of the city council were in attendance by invitation extended at last Monday night's meeting by Mr. Craik.

The rather short but arresting address by Rev. Dr. Barr was merely incidental to the purpose and spirit of last night's meeting in prayer appealing for the interposition of God's help in what Dr. Barr referred to as one of the major crises in the history of the world. Recalling Geneva in the days of Calvin as a great community that recognized the sovereignty of God and His presiding over the destiny of the city, Dr. Barr said that changed conditions were found today in the fact that Christianity was in the minority in the world.

"I do not wish to be an alarmist, but during the last twenty-five years Christianity as a force, represented at least by numbers, has waned. There are fewer Christians in comparison with those who follow other beliefs. It might seem that we are fighting a losing battle, but on the other hand the conditions of today are a challenge to all those who believe in God and pray to Him. Possibly it is because of the failure to recognize God that the world is in the terrible condition it is in today."

Dr. Barr cited as proof that prayer is answered by the great religious revival that swept over England, directed at the shame of slavery, and resulting in its abolition. Prayer, he said, was an intimate relation with God. It was a channel providing contact with a God who does not change things. Prayer was worthy and answered if it was in harmony with divine will.

"We need to pray sincerely and worthily because our world needs to hear the cry of Christians that right once more shall prevail as it will to the end. We are living in days when we need to pray and recognize God as our Divine Creator and Father. The personal relationship in prayer with Almighty God is a power that will transform things for us. We pray for the peace of the world, for our Empire and for a new day for our Christian civilization."

Hastings W.A. Lays Christmas Plans

HASTINGS, Dec. 9—(ENS) — The newly-decorated Hastings' council chambers proved a delightful room for the Women's Institute to hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, when a special program with "Christmas" as the theme was featured. Mrs. Charles Dodd was responsible for the program which proved most entertaining. Mrs. T. A. Walsh, in the absence of the president, presided over the business.

The roll-call was responded to by the members contributing towards the Christmas Cheer fund. Mrs. W. S. Fife of the Presbyterian church, Mrs. A. V. German of the United church, Mrs. R. King of the Anglican church and Mrs. T. A. Walsh of the Roman Catholic church were appointed as a committee to find out definitely, the needy of each congregation. Christmas cheer boxes will then be packed on the afternoon of Friday, December 22, and distributed to those in need. In order to receive funds for the worthy cause, Mrs. C. Baker was requested to interview the council and other local societies, who in the past have so generously contributed towards Christmas cheer. Contributions from anyone who is interested will be gratefully received by the branch.

A letter was received from the superintendent of Institutes, Miss Mary A. Clark, in regards to war work and with instruction for registering under the War Charity Fund or distribution through the Red Cross Society. After discussion this was left over for another meeting.

In regards to the community school concert to be held after New Years, Mrs. W. S. Fife, Mrs. R. King, Mrs. G. Faux, Miss Rhea Preston, Mrs. Wallace Orr, Mrs. C. Baker, Mrs. T. A. Walsh and Mrs. J. A. McDonald were requested to interview the teachers of the district schools.

Flower will be sent to Pilot Gordon Fairman, a local boy, who is now in the Christie St. Hospital as a result of injuries received while in training at Camp Borden.

Following the business Mrs. C. Dodd took the chair for the program which opened with the singing of the Christmas Carols, "The First Noel," "Away In A Manger" and "All Through the Night" led by Mrs. G. Sine and the reading of the motto, "Faith can place a candle in the darkest night."

Mrs. G. Sine displayed an assortment of beautiful wrappings for Christmas gifts. Mrs. Dodd conducted a tree contest and read two poems, "A Christmas Wish" and "This and That."

The guest speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. J. E. Glover who gave an inspiring Christmas message.

Mrs. C. Dodd acted as hostess and served dainty refreshments and a cup of tea.

Plans Of Nazis' Secret Mines

Charles Courtney, noted American locksmith, told G-men that two men, one of them a former fellow-student in Germany, brought a strongbox into his New York city shop for opening. Later, Courtney says, he found on the floor an envelope containing plans for Germany's mysterious magnetic mine. The men returned several times to demand the plans the locksmith asserts. Finally they beat him with blackjacks and fled with the plans. This sketch, drawn from Courtney's notes, shows how the mine works.

School Mentors Among Grid's Unsung Heroes

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. —(CP)— Far behind the scenes of today's Dominion senior football final stand some of the real, unsung heroes who will keep doing their parts with little acclaim so long as the game survives.

One of them is in the limelight as referee for the National title battle between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Ottawa Rough Riders, but Hec Creighton is the only representative of the Canadian high school coaches to the forefront this day. The rest, as ever, are just hoping they'll have enough big, plucky kids around next year to develop good teams for the interscholastic leagues.

And when their work is done next fall, they will have turned out another crop of youngsters who hope that some day they'll be among the 40 men who battle for the Canadian Rugby Union championship. The high school graduates will step up to win glory in the big league while their teachers stick around school, turning out stars for the senior union coaches.

Two Comers On the Way

Creighton, as coach at Toronto Danforth Technical School, has turned out his share of senior timber. None of his products is in the lineups today, but he has a couple of boys named Martin and Murray you'll hear about soon.

Associated with the school mentors in this contribution to the game are the coaches of junior teams, of whom the greatest is Claude Harris at Sarnia. As coach of Sarnia Imperial juniors after a great playing career, Harris has handed up Hank Galloway and other key men for this year's Sarnia Imperial senior club.

Another is Earl Paget, of the Ottawa New Edinburgh Club who developed Wilf Tremblay, the sensational running mite of the Rough Riders.

But to the school teachers, who get the timber in its first, green stages and make it or break it, belongs the main stage of development.

How good would Orville Burke, the Rough Rider quarterback, have been but for the coaching of Rev. L. J. Sweeney at St. Patrick's College? Wally Masters, who helped Father Sweeney bring Burke along, once said Burke would have made All-American teams in the tough brand of United States football masters played.

To George Chapman and Ken Wills of Windsor Kennedy Collegiate, perhaps the greatest combination of junior and senior high school coaching in the country, belongs considerable credit for the success of Ottawa's Tony Golab, Bob Campbell and Gar Keill of Ottawa Glebe Collegiate developed Colin Ross and Tommy Daley for the Rough Riders and Ted Reeve, while coach at Toronto Malvern, set Sammy Sward on the way to today's classic.

Two years from now, when the Winnipeg system of developing talent at home takes proper effect, the high school coaches of that city will be playing their great, silent parts. In the Western Interprovincial Union, just as the Creightons, the Chapmans and the Father Sweeneys are playing theirs in the east.

City Carpetball

Only three double-headers responded so far this week when in a local sorty the Orphans lost out to the Captains, making it a close call in the second encounter.

The Fighting Macs met the league babies who tried to be a little naughty and received a spanking for their trouble.

The Quaker Oats squad have been adding protein to the porridge of late and was more than the Fire Hall Orphans could swallow even with sugar and cream.

One drawn game was sent in between East City Decorators and the captain's gang from the Fire Hall. According to rumor the Fire Hall team are going to buy a pair of glasses for their vice-skip who only counted seven balls in the tenth frame and overlooked a ball hiding behind the kitty that would have made it a grand slam and fame for the Orphans. Oh well sevens a good count says that open-hearted chap.

Glad to report that funds are coming in very well but there are still several teams who haven't broken the ice yet. Numbers 1, 3, 4, 8, 11, 12 have completed theirs. Who's going to be the next?

The only game not reported from last week was 5 vs 16. What about it? Why not arrange it for this week?

If that game is played and all games played as per schedule this week we can run along according to the books, subject to a change of days to suit the team's home night.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

CULLY DAHLSTROM
Chicago Black Hawks.

A young fellow with no historical major league story to recount is Cully Dahlstrom, centre with Chicago Black Hawks, playing only his third major league season. Cully broke in with a bang in the 1937 - 38 season when he was awarded the Calder Trophy as the season's outstanding rookie, beating out Murph Chamberlain of Toronto Maple Leafs for the honor. He is one of four centre players and four Americans to take the rookie award in the seven years it has been made (Calder Trophy past three years). Of Swedish descent he was born in Minneapolis, played junior in his home town and turned pro with the Minneapolis American Association team. That was eight years ago, and after playing a few years with Minneapolis and a few with St. Paul, he was secured by the Hawks. While not an outstanding individualist he is a good, steady player, the kind that improves each season. Strong backchecker and a "game guy." In his first season he played three games with a fractured jaw that no one knew about; later he played with in encased in a special protector. He's 26 years old, tips the scales around the 180 mark, and works as a clerk in the off-season. Shots left. First year he scored 10 goals, nine assists; last year, six goals, 14 assists, with a two-year total of 13 minutes spent in the penalty box.

Ambers Nursing His Crown Till March, April

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(CP)— No matter what course the current lightweight muddle takes, Lou Ambers isn't interested. The latest mixup happened Wednesday when the New York State Athletic Commission ruled that the scheduled eight-round bout between Billy Marquart of Winnipeg and Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., at Madison Square Garden December 15, could not be labelled an "elimination" because eliminations must be 15 rounds.

Al Weill, manager of the lightweight titleholder, said Lou didn't care if Marquart or Jenkins fought eight or 15 rounds.

"Ambers won't think of laying his title on the line until March or even later," Weill added. "After all, Lou just got the title last August and it wasn't his fault that he wasted two months waiting to box Henry Armstrong again."

The Armstrong - Ambers battle fell through after Henry was taken ill with a cold and their managers, Eddie Mead and Weill, couldn't get together on a postponed date.

Locals Lead 3-2 In Third But Fade Out

Fading in the third period in the Motor City arena last night, the Petes dropped a 6-3 decision to Oshawa Generals — Junior Dominion champions—in a lively exhibition tilt before over a thousand fans. The better-conditioned Generals, trailing 3-2 to open the third, staged a torrid onslaught on the tiring visitors and pumped in four markers to cop the nod.

The score was 2-all in the first period, and the Buckland bunch notched the lone counter of the middle chukker. But Oshawa tallied four without a comeback in a ragged third frame. The game was surprisingly good for so early in the season with the Petes stepping right along with the speedy hand-picked Memorial Cup champions for two periods, but fading finally.

Fresh from their S. P. A. series and several weeks of nightly workouts, the Generals looked smart. They had plenty of foot, fancy passing and A-1 condition. The Petes showed class, too, and made it a first-class fixture for the good-sized crowd of fans, the customers making lots of noise throughout. The locals missed a number of passes and were rusty at times in various spots — having only half a dozen practices to date— but the Petes gave promise of speed, punch on the attack and a stiff defence.

Goalie Good.

Ray Harding played a swell game between the pipes, having little or no chance on the close-in passing plays which beat him. He kicked out a dozen labelled thrusts. Jim Ellis appeared the pick of the defence in their first game, turning in a smart performance for so early in the season, but Gardner, Crowe and Drake Jopling all worked hard and did their share, too. The Kingdon-Tompkins-Blewett front line possibly edged the other forwards a bit, though there wasn't much difference. Tompkins showed some fine playmaking and stickhandling, with Kingdon working his head off—and suffering a bruised knee—and Blewett flashing a lot of speed in spots. Coughlin was in on two goals, while Starr scored a neat one and Heal, Burton and Brady all worked hard when on the ice.

A Soft Goal.

Early in the first, the Petes presented Oshawa with a goal when W. Wilson's shot from the corner glanced in off Crowe, who was covering out in front of the net. When Daniels went off for tripping the Petes pressed hard but N. McAtee broke away to tally or a 2-0 edge. All even again, Starr slapped home a rebound after Drake Jopling and Coughlin had tried close in. Burton was chased for tripping and with the Generals all on the attack, Coughlin broke away and fooled the goalie nicely to tie it up.

It was fast and furious most of the second canto, with both goalies quite busy and play fairly even. Knott drew a penalty for boarding and the Petes ganged up but to no avail. All were back when Blewett backhanded a dandy into the twine on assists from Tompkins and Kingdon at close range. With the score 3-2 for the locals, the Oshawa huskies raged in and peppered Harding but failed to sew it up and play was slower and getting ragged at the finish.

Even It Up.

R. Wilson counted the equalizer to open the third on a pass from Daniels, Harding coming out but failing to get the disc in time. Tompkins scored but it was called back for an offside and the Generals pressed in on the tiring Petes, sending four and five up in waves. J. McAtee blasted a fast one in on Hellyer's pass, many thinking it hit the post. Ellis went off for tripping, followed by Smith and Crowe for tangling briefly. With the sides even once more, R. Wilson made it 5-3 on Knott's close-in pass and Hellyer scored from N. McAtee just before the bell.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, F. Jopling and Crowe; centre, Starr; wings, J. Jopling and Coughlin; alternates, Gardner, Ellis, Kingdon, Tompkins, Blewett, Heal, Burton and Brady.

Generals: Goal, McManus; defence Ritchie and Eddolls; centre, N. McAtee; wings, Hellyer and J. McAtee; alternates, W. Wilson, Peters, Sawyer, Knott, Huson, Smith, R. Wilson and Daniels.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

A chap with a definitely Dufferin St. wind tan—gained by so many years bucking the wind whilst crossing the dam to London St.—held us up half an hour on the corner the other day. Talking about sports in general and Ashburnham athletics in particular. Especially in days gone by. Of course, the technical term for this good-sized hunk of Peterborough is East City—but 'twas Ashburnham before adding Peterborough proper to it, and Ashburnham 'twill remain to most inhabitants. The guy with the Dufferin St. wind tan couldn't tell us much about Ashburnham sports—except that added years gave him a longer memory—as the writer first woke up to the sullen roar of the old dame in a house on Stanley Ave. The writer and not the dam in the house. And lived in that neighborhood quite a few years after.

Yessir, oldtimers will recall the athletic centre around what is now known as Driscoll Terrace and Cricket Place. It was the old cricket field, used regularly for ball, lacrosse and rugby games. Later Riverside Park was the ball centre, with lacrosse and rugby switching to Nicholls Oval. Cricket and soccer, with some tennis, followed at the Oval. We can recall the rink on Mark St. was a popular spot of a winter's night. That was before Concession St. became known as Armour Road and when Park Hill Road was just plain Smith St. With Armour Hill still often called Cox's Hill. Shinny was played on the canal or the big open rink in Armour Field. And later on Poverty Pond—now the Ashburnham Bowl.

Corner Lot Baseball

The gang of us used to play scrub ball at the foot of Cox's Hill, at the Oval, in a vacant lot up on Hazlitt St. and various other lots over east of the river. And it looked for a time like we might have an artificial ice rink over there at the end of the bridge — but that fell through. Right now that's a good athletic setting around the east end of the bridge what with the ball park, the Bowl, city rink, Quaker rink, tennis courts and Quaker softball diamond. With a bathing beach possible in a few years. There is no dearth of sports around Ashburnham any season of the year, and it's no wonder so many good athletes come from that district.

* * * * * *

Oldest one we suppose is Dan McCabe, noted one-armed pitcher of bygone days who thrilled the crowds many years ere hotel bars went out of the picture. But there have been plenty of players and teams of Ashburnham origin—from Little Lake to and including Auburn, and from the canal to the river—all down the years making sports history in Peterborough and district, And still doing it. Take any of the Petes' teams—hockey, ball, lacrosse, rugby, etc.—and, without stopping to think, we'll lay ya five to two there'll be a few of the stars aboard who first saw the light of day in what civic officials (and some of the younger generation) term East City. So this Dufferin St. dude tells us about Ashburnham—us! Why, we know every empty lot (there aren't so many now), pond, alley, and apple orchard over there. We've been chased out of many of the latter. Yes, indeed!

* * * * * *

Won't Be Long Now

Having shifted their ice rink—minus ice yet—some 300 yards south from its old site on Monaghan Road, the A.S.A.A. (All Saints) boys have cashed in on mild weather to practically finish their work. The ice surface will be the same as last year but a larger clubhouse and dressing rooms will greet Church League hockeyists this winter. The loop meeting is Monday eve at seven in the "Y" and all churches should be represented. Retiring officers are President Joe Dunkerley, Vice-Prexy Gord Clegg, Sect.-Treas. Don Charlton, with George Beauclerc assistant secretary. Lloyd Parnall—an active officer as past president—may or may not again be an executive member, also. Entry forms, rule lists and any changes made at the meeting will go to the 13 churches next week—and there'll be two more weeks for entries.

* * * * * *

Beaten 6-3 by Oshawa Generals in the Motor City last eve, the Petes nevertheless surprised local followers as well as nearly 1,200 fans there with their speed and class. Against the team that trimmed Trenton Fliers 10-4—and won the Memorial Cup last year—the Buckland buckaroos did right well for so early in the season. Led 'em 3-2 going into the third—after scoring one goal on themselves—but superior condish gave the speedy and husky Generals the nod in the third. The smart young Generals have class in gobs, but it's to be expected; after all, they're hand-picked from all over Eastern Canada, and 90 per cent imports. The Petes showed plenty of class and promise, too. (Belleville paper please copy!)

* * * * * *

A Sizzling Struggle

Setting a torrid pace from the start—their strategy being to cash in on weeks of nightly drilling and an S.P.A. series for better conditioning to wear the locals down—the Generals opened it up. The Petes kept right with 'em for over two periods and fans saw a swell exhibition fray. Harding shone in goal, with Ellis the pick of the Petes at the blue line, and Tompkins and Kingdon probably best of the forwards. Real speed was shown in spots by Starr, Blewett, Coughlin and Jack Jopling. With Heal working as hard as ever and Burton and Brady going good at times. Our passing plays and our defence needs more work to rub off the rough edges, but the gang looked okay against a polished machine like the Generals so early this season. In three weeks, the Petes can trim the Oshawa squad.

* * * * * *

After their fine workout and good showing, the club received rather bad news when it was announced that the General Motors Club would not operate an intermediate "A" team this winter. Definitely no. The rink management still has some hopes of putting a club into the group with Fliers, Redmen and Petes, but it is far from being a bright prospect. This is a tough slap right on the eve of the schedule meeting for the prospective four-team league, and we don't know if anything can be done about it. Probably not. So we're likely to have the same three-team setup as last season, which is better than nothing but certainly nothing to brag about. We hope Skipper Thomas and his Bellevillains are satisfied now, having kicked about an Oshawa entry. It's tough on the big gang of players in Oshawa—unlucky enough to be over 20 years of age—who will be kept out of hockey this winter, too.

Dese, dem and dose: "Y" Gym gal capers pulled an upset with a grand showing last p.m. in the Y.W. as they beat Orfuns, 19 to 18....And Westclox lasses nudged out an 11-10 nod o'er St. John's in another neat fixture....R. M. Glover tells us the Sports Service League donations here came in fine, but final returns have not yet been made....Tracy Shaw has over 35 junior "B" puck prospects working out now in Oshawa; the Colts will have stiff opposition again....Mickey Murray has quit his job as coach of the winless Galt senior "A" squad, having differences with the executive....Southend Puck Loop re-organizes at eight p.m. next Wednesday in the clubhouse when entries will be taken and officers elected....Oshawa Generals have a beautiful passing attack—delayed forwards, criss-cross, and wing cut-ins—when inside the blue line....Lot of local fans trekked to the Motor City and saw a swell scrap (and not too much shinny for so early), and came away remarking the Petes would be okay this winter....Owen Sound Trappers, with Red Creighton aboard, and in on two, trimmed Toronto Red Indians 7-3 last eve....As Goodyears dropped their first of the season, down in St. Kitts....Petes' defence bounced a few rivals last night hard enough to rattle their molars ....And that seems to clean out the dish, with the spoon licked and all!

Landis Supports American League On Farm System

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9 — (AP). — Refusing to relinquish any of his views concerning baseball's farm system, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis cast the votes Friday that overruled all the legislation on inter-club relations adopted earlier in the week by the minor leagues.

Presiding at a joint meeting of the two major leagues which had taken opposite stands on the proposed amendments yesterday, Judge Landis entered the deciding ballot and in every case aligned himself with the American League against the National.

This action had been expected. The minors proposed amendments that would permit chain systems greater freedom in the transfer of players, allow scouts of one club to sign players for an affiliated club, end prohibit interpretation of certain rules governing the transfer of players.

The National League voted in favor of these measures to override the commissioner, but the junior circuit took Landis' side and yesterday rejected every proposal sent up by the smaller leagues.

Besides turning down the minor league offerings, today's joint meeting voted to prevent a club in one big league from moving into a city in the other league without the unanimous consent of both leagues.

Today's session concluded the winter baseball convention a day earlier than scheduled and most of the visiting baseball men prepared to leave immediately.

L. Bradley Wins Woods Cup

The Y. W. C. A. pool was a centre of interest Friday afternoon at four-thirty when a number of graceful young mermaids in colorful swim suits competed skilfully in the Y. W. C. A. Junior Swimming Exhibition and Trophy Competitions. Judges were Gordon Minty of the Y. M. C. A., Miss C. Littlefield, Mrs. J. Forbes and Miss Shirley Zacks.

The highest aggregate points throughout the 1939 Sports Hours were piled up by Miss Lorraine Bradley, who was awarded the junior sports cup, which is the Woods trophy. Miss Shirley Milburn was runner-up. Harvey spoons, sterling silver spoons topped by the Y. W. C. A. crest, which have been donated for the past twelve years by Mrs. E. Harvey, were competed for, and other prizes donated by the 'Y' included cups and saucers, vanity cases, necklaces, etc. Cups and prizes were presented by Mrs. E. G. Porter.

The Silver Minnows, who are understudying for the Silver Pinnettes, and Junior Stunt Girls, gave a brief, interesting demonstration of trick swimming. There were few entries in the baby beginners' 20 and 25 feet free style swimming, owing to a prevalence of colds, so this event will be held at the next sports hour, the time to be announced later.

The Junior Weekly Sports' Hour Miss Littlefield announced, will be held the first Friday afternoon of each month during the remainder of the season—afternoon swimming will continue throughout the winter.

Results of competitions are as follows: Junior Diving Championship, Jean Millard and Ann Boyle weer tied at 161 points, Jean Millard winning 163 points over Ann's 162 in two extra dives to break the tie; Helen Currie had 137 points; Jane Abbott 124 and Patricia Pitt-Smith, 119. In the Junior Life Saving Championships, Helen Currie came first with 64 points, Jean Millard second with 61.

On The Griddle

Subject of considerable criticism in the National league this season has been Bill Stewart, ABOVE, back on the refereeing staff, after being deposed as Chicago manager last January. Bad Bill's officiating has been under fire in various quarters, most vehement outburst coming from James Norris, Sr., owner of Detroit Red Wings and N.H.L. governor.

'Y' Gym Cagers Trim Orfuns As Westclox Win

"Y" Gym's 19-18 upset victory over the league-leading Orfuns and Westclox uphill win 11-10 over St. John's highlighted last night ladies' city league doubleheader at the Y.W.C.A.

Lead by Ruth Dalliday's fine offensive play that netted them 17 points, "Y" Gym piled up a 14-8 lead in the first half and then fought off Orfuns' closing rally to pull a surprise victory over the league leaders. The winners caught Orfuns off balance from the start and jumped into a commanding lead that was too much for the losers to overcome despite a gallant uphill battle.

"Y" Gym played their best game of the year especially on the defense while Orfuns were slightly off form, missing numerous good scoring chances. "Y" Gym scored 7 out of 17 free throws while Orfuns missed all four of their chances. R. Dalliday lead the winners with 17 points in an outstanding performance while R. Thompson lead the Orfuns with six points.

Orfuns—A. Livingstone, M. Ferguson, M. Hawthorne, G. Mortimer, D. Ackford, B. Blade, M. Clark, M. Wood, R. Thompson, A. Craig.

'Y' Gym—B. DeMaio, R. Sullivan, S. Florence, T. Wesley, I. Young, B. Flynn, R. Dalliday, S. Zakos.

St. John's piled up a 10 to 3 lead in the opening half but Westclox put on a thrilling rally to score eight points in the last half while holding St. John's scoreless to win 11-10. A. Flynn's basket with half a minute to go was the winning effort.

In the last half, St. John's attack fell apart and Westclox kept pressing until the million dollar field goal in the dying seconds put them in front. The winners scored three free throws on seven attempts and St. John's had none for three tries. A. Flynn lead the winners with four points and A. Bowler and E. Clark shone for St. John's in a losing effort. The teams:

St. John's.—A. Bowler, E. Clarke, V. Douglas, E. Foster, T. Laws, J. Castle, E. Harte-Maxwell, D. Groombridge, F. Gynane, I. Gynane.

Westclox—J. Hair, M. McFadden, V. Britnell, M. Goldie, M. Pammett, B. Saunders, C. Metcalfe, A. Flynn, P. Wolstenholme, I. Crowe, I. Vivash, D. Dawson.

Scalpers Active At Ottawa's Game Of Year

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 — (CP). — On frozen Lansdowne Park gridiron the football Titans of East and West clash in the national final to-day and in the lengthening shadows of the late afternoon Winnipeg Blue Bombers or Ottawa Rough Riders will carry the Grey Cup out of the park.

Both teams reach the end of the 1939 football trail at top form with Tony Golab the only question mark on the Riders' roster. The big blond halfback will be on the lineup, but whether he will start or how long he will last on his injured leg against the savage Bomber line will be a big act in this pigskin drama.

Quarterback Wayne Sheley and Outside Bud Marquardt, dubious starters for Winnipeg for several days, are slated to get into the game.

Coach Reg Threfall of Bombers and Coach Ross Trimble of Ottawa, the big men on the bench for the greatest sport spectacle the Capital ever witnessed, reduced their squads to the regulation 20 men this morning, but the definite lineups will not be known until shortly before game time.

400 Gallons of Gas Used.

The cold weather of the last two days has left the field rock hard and 400 gallons of gasoline were burned over it and sawdust spread yesterday to provide a reasonably sure footing. "Fair and moderately cold" is the weather forecast, but come sunshine or blizzard, close to 15,000 spectators will witness the game.

The frenzied scramble for tickets continues this morning as several hundred out-of-town fans — some from the West—tried to locate the pasteboards. Scalpers started operations and tickets were sold at two or three times their original price.

Some money was being wagered at 7 to 6 for Ottawa, but as game time neared the odds remained firm at even money.

Bombers and a couple of hundred supporters from Winnipeg rolled into town last night and just about bowled over the Capital. The welcoming crowd at the station has not been so large since the King and Queen left Ottawa one bright Sunday last May.

GOODYEARS DEFEATED 4-3 BY SAINT CATHARINES IN OVERTIME

Toronto Outfit Is Beaten For First Time

(By the Canadian Press.)

The boys around the senior "A" circuit of the Ontario Hockey Association who raised a fuss about Toronto Goodyears being too strong for the rest of the field are avenged. It's what they wanted yet didn't expect.

St. Catharines Saints defeated Goodyears 4-3 in overtime last night on the home ice of the league champions of last season. It was the first league game the Goodies have lost since the 1937-38 season and raised the stalwart Saints into a first place tie with Toronto, each with 14 points.

The Saints fought like Demons, checked fiercely and had their reward when Bill Mocha, speedy winger and toast of St. Kitt's today, potted the winning goal after 5.27 of the extra session. It was the first time the teams met this season and the Toronto club will be seeking revenge in the return match at St. Catharines Monday.

Just before the season started—and since—a bunch of the boys have whopped it up with such claims that Goodyears are a star-packed organization and a "money team" that was using the other league teams merely as a financial and exercising setup into the Canadian playdowns. They said that Goodyears, farm team of the National League Toronto Maple Leafs, were much too strong in comparison with the other five clubs.

The Saints made the answer and have high hopes of knocking the league crown from the collective heads of the Toronto kingpins.

Sailors Win by 3-2.

In the other games played last night Port Colborne sailors scored two quick goals in the middle period for a 3-2 victory over the hard-hitting Hamilton Dominions in the canal city, and Niagara Falls Cataracts, bolstered by two Toronto players walloped the luckless Galt Moose 7-2 at the Falls.

Much credit for the St. Catharines win mus tgo to coach Ivan Corrigan who coached the club during the past week in a method he thought best to cope with the Toronto attack. No one expected the Saints to trade a wide-open brand of game with the Toronto aces, but they did—and beat them at their own game.

Results of the games left Port Colborne in second place with 12 points and Hamilton away back with six. Niagara Falls have four points for fourth place while Galt has failed to gain a point in nine games played.

Mocha scored two goals to lead St. Kitts to victory. Bobby Pinder and Pete Backor were the other scorers. The winning goal glanced off the glove of Goodyear's Eddie King into the Toronto net.

Mundrick Nets Two.

Winnipeg's Paul Mundrick, the silent lad who came to Toronto this season, scored the first two Toronto goals. King snared the other late in the third period to tie the game.

A main stumbling block to Goodyears' progress was fair-haired Ran Forder in the opposition nets, who played in England the past couple of seasons.

Bolstered by Teddy Olliver on defence and Cy Allen at centre—both veteran Toronto stars—the Falls ran over Galt who were under the tutelage of a new cotch, George Himes, former professional. He replaced Mickey Murray. Allen scored a goal and an assist. High scorer for the winners was Morrie Morrison with three goals and an assist, while Ken Begin, a former Chatham player, counted a goal and three assists.

Featured by the comeback of Gonie McGowan, the oldest player in senior ranks, Port Colborne managed to edge Hamilton. It was McGowan, a former Hamilton player, who scored the winning goal late in the second period on a pass from Earl Laroche. He previously gave Laroche a pass for the tieing goal.

Remember When—

Winnipeg Blue Bombers' stock rose one year ago to-night when they announced Martin Gainor would play in the contest with Toronto Argonauts for the Dominion football title the following day. Gainor's residential qualifications had been questioned by the Canadian Rugby Union, but finally endorsed. Bombers lost the game, however, despite the big middle's help.

Landis Shelves Amendments And War Is On

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The battle line has been more tightly drawn now between Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis and the group of men who dislike the obstinate manner in which the Judge is running the game.

"It's a war to the finish now," seethed one magnate last night. "It's only a question of whether we can beat him before he wreck the game."

The one who said this, incidentally, was not Larry MacPhail, business manager of Brooklyn, who slammed out of yesterday's joint league meeting when Landis began peremptorily rejecting the rules amendments that would have curbed his authority and have "given the farm system a chance for its life."

Those who suffered most by the Commissioner's rejection of the measures were the big chain systems—the Yankees of the American League and Cincinnati, Brooklyn and St. Louis of the National. From now on they will have to watch themselves closer than ever. The Yankees got no support from the other American League teams.

Some Rumors

In the consternation that followed the Judge's abrupt action, the hotel lobby was flooded with reports that the Yankees probably would sell their Kansas City franchise and withdraw support from a hat-full of smaller clubs.

Landis, of course, has the strongest sort of support in his aversion to the super-farm systems and unpoliced working agreements. In him the "havenots" of baseball see their one chance of salvation, their only hope of competing with the rich clubs and such highpressure geniuses as Larry MacPhail.

It was learned positively, in that connection, that the Yankees would have obtained George McQuinn, crack young St. Louis Browns' first baseman, if the American League had not passed its rule forbidding a champion club to acquire players from its own circuit except by waiver. Washington was trying to compete with the Yanks, but didn't have a chance.

GLASGOW—(CP). — Plateglass windows of 41 shops in Glasgow's Sauchiehall street have been ruined by having swastikas carved on them. Police suspect "persons with anti-Jewish tendencies."

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.— (AP) — The baseball barons may not be unanimous for Judge Landis, but a few million gus phans are mighty, mighty glad to see the old gentleman back in the saddle....Lee Savold, the heavyweight who is making the middle west forget Johnny Paychek, only went into the ring because he became bored with tending bar....They say that just before the baseball pow wow, Ford C. Frick wrote letters to all National League magnates urging them to make all trades possible for the good will and publicity value to the league.

How do they do it?....For two years' work, Burleigh Grimes collects four years' pay....He signed to be manager for Brooklyn for two years; was fired in mid-term, but paid up in full. . Then he went to the Dodger farm at Montreal under a two-yea ragreement. . . Here he is at half time, out in the cold again, but with next year's salary cheque in his pocket....and is he laughing!

Now here's a guy who's overjoyed. That he's among the unemployed.
He doesn't have to join the mob
And pound the pavements for a job—
He takes his ease and lives in state
While good old Brooklyn pays the freight.
Three rousin gcheers for Burleigh Grimes,
Who's found a way to lick hard times.

Ghosts at Cincy:

Rosey Ryan, one-time Giant pitcher, was helping hold up a section of the cigar counter when old Grover Cleveland Alexander walked by.

"I wish that guy'd quit haunting me," shuddered Ryan...."He beat me 1-0 five times in one season."

Boston Red Sox must have forked over plenty for young Dom Dimaggio. An offer of $60,000 cash and two players by the White Sox was turned down quicker than you can say Jack Robinson.

This may not be the iron man to end all iron men, but it will do until a better one comes along....Leo Ragan, Iowa State Teachers College football centre, has not been relieved in 650 minutes of football .... He started and finished 10 straight games and played the last 50 minutes of the 11th.

Bruins Stride On, Hit Wings 4-0 In 4th Straight

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

With a minimum of fuss but a maximum of power, the Bruins from Boston have slipped back easily into their winning habits of last season after a shaky start in this 1939-40 National Hockey League schedule. It's time now for Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens to pay more attention to the Boston menace.

In the hullabaloo which has surrounded the great showing of Leafs and Canadiens, the deeds of the Bruins have almost gone unnoticed. It is difficult to skip them now, however, for the Bruins have landed finally into a tie for first place with the two Canadian clubs.

They gained a share of the top bracket last night by defeating Detroit Red Wings 3-0 at the Motor City, for their fourth straight victory and their fifth straight undefeated game. The Bruins have toppled the Wings, New York Americans twice and the Leafs once, besides playing to a draw with New York Rangers, in their last five games.

The shutout was Goalie Frank Brimsek's second of the season, putting him in a tie in this respect with Claude Bourque of Canadiens. Both Bourque and Brimsek, however, still have one to go to catch up with the leader—Walter (Turk) Broda of the Leafs.

Third Period Drive.

The Bruins, last beaten by Canadiens 2-1 on Nov. 21, gained their win over the Wings with a third period smash that brought all their goals. A little more than 50 minutes of the game had elapsed when Woody Dumart fired the first goal on a pass from Bobby Bauer. Less than a minute later Mel Hill converted on relays from Roy Conacher and Dit Clapper. Herbie Cain finished the scoring on a solo rush with less than two minutes to go.

Dumart's goal came while both teams were shorthanded through major penalties to Conacher and Eddie Wares for fighting. The Conacher-Wares flare-up brought players from both sides into the fray and at one time Referee Mickey Ion was flat on his back at the bottom of a pile-up of players.

To-night sees the renewal at Toronto of Canadiens-Leafs rivalry, with the Leafs seeking to stone for a 4-1 trouncing handed them by the Flying Frenchmen Thursday night at Montreal. In Sunday games, Canadiens take on the Black Hawks at Chicago; Bruins meet the Rangers at New York; and New York Americans play the Wings at Detroit.

Switzerland has built up a reserve of cereals sufficient for a little more than a year.

Daladier Scores Red Invasion As An Outrage

PARIS, Dec. 9—(AP).—Premier Daladier, in his first public utterance on Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland, told a cheering Chamber of Deputies today it was "an abominable outrage" evoking "universal disgust."

"Finland has France's salute and assurance of profound and strong sympathy," the Premier said.

It was understood that Auguste De Champetier De Ribes, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and former Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour would represent France at the meeting of the League of Nations on the Finnish-Russian issue which Jean Mistler, predict- of the Chamber of Deputies, predicted would "condemn this odious aggression."

Mistler, with Daladier nodding approval, said he hoped that events in Finland and "that which is being prepared for tomorrow perhaps in the Balkans" finally would convince neutral nations that the Allies are "fighting also for them."

He demanded that the League pronounce Russia an aggressor.

French sources interpreted wide-scale resumption of German land patrol activity on the Western front as an attempt to gain information by less costly means than the recent Nazi reconnaissance flights.

The French cited German aerial losses to support the contention that scouting by air was too expensive even for the admittedly superior numbers of the enemy air force.

Nazis Use Experienced Troops

The French high command, in a communique today, said: "Nothing to report."

Military sources, however, said the Germans used more experienced troops in patrol skirmishes yesterday, and that new attack formations —a series of columns aimed at the French advance posts from three sides—were fought off by heavy French fire.

They said that instead of gleaning information, the German raids actually divulged it through the dead and wounded they left behind in comparatively large numbers.

Confidence of the French land forces as they settled down into winter quarters was reflected in the demobilization of 3,000 of the 27,000 civilian doctors who were called in September.

Confidence at sea was indicated by Naval Minister Cesar Campinchi, who told the Chamber of Deputies naval committee that despite loss of seven British and neutral ships in 48 hours "German attacks by means of mines may already be considered broken."

The newspaper Le Matin reported that the Maginot line was now backed up by a second system of fortifications containing all the features of the original, including large and small forts, dugouts, and traps for tanks and armored cars.

"The Maginot line has been doubled and the work is completed," it said.

Canadian Military Headquarters Sets Up In London

Canadian, Australian and New Zealand troops will soon be in England, Anthony Eden informed the House of Commons in referring to the Dominions' war efforts. The Canadian military headquarters have already been set up in London, and men competent to deal with the initial work in its administration are already in England. Col. P. J. Montague, assistant adjutant quarter-master general, is shown, LEFT, while Wing Commander F. V. Heakes and Air Commodore L. S. Breadner, of the R. C. A. 72nd Seaforth Highlanders Rounding Into Form

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

VANCOUVER, Dec. 9 — (CP). — Rounding into peak form after weeks of intensive drill and training, the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders of Canada are awaiting the call that will send them into action with the First Canadian Division in a theatre of war.

When the time comes they will be ready to leave the village of huts which has grown up here to house them during their first months as men of the Canadian army.

"Their training is aimed at making them into soldiers," said Colonel J. B. Stevenson, officer commanding. No one watching them snap through their paces can doubt the success of their early instruction.

Considerable emphasis is laid on drill, for as one officer said, "that's the root of discipline in the army." Although they are a familiar sight swinging through the streets of Vancouver, citizens still turn out to cheer their passing.

60 Men To a Hut

Their quarters around the parade-ground went up like mushrooms after Canada entered the war. Sixty men sleep in two-tiered beds in each of the snug, well-heated huts. Each dining-room seats 150 and there are extensive washrooms equiped with showers and warm water.

Off duty in their bunk-houses or the canteen the Seaforths prove a cheery lot with a steadfast pride in the traditions of their regiment, which was founded in Vancouver in 1910 and is affiliated with the famous Seaforth Highlanders of the British Army.

Nearly all the regiment is now outfitted in the new battle dress instead of the kilt, but it will take more than that to make the Seaforths lose their identity.

In the last war a detachment of 25 officers and 514 men joined the 16th Battalion Canadian Scottish shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. Later the 72nd Overseas Battalion C.E.F. Seaforth Highlanders of Canada was raised here.

Black Eagle Drops Settlement Offer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP).—The open-handed offer by Colonel Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, the "black eagle of Harlem," to settle a $6,500 suit brought against Father Divine by an ex-"angel" was withdrawn yesterday because, said the Colonel, too many "ex'es" wanted a piece of his financial pie.

Disclosing more than a score of persons who claimed they had contributed to Divine's peace heaven and wanted their money back had called on him following his settlement offer, the aviator declared.

"My conscience would not allow me to pay one claim unless I paid them all. Sadly, that is an impossibility."

The result was that the case of Mrs. Verdinda Brown vs. the cult leader, recognized as God by thousands in Harlem, was ordered to continue in Supreme Court Monday. Mrs. Brown, known as Rebecca Grace in her days as an angel in Divine's heaven, said she contributed $6,800 to the "heavenly treasury" in 1934.

Engleberg Spy? Hunt · Two Killers

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP).—Two suspects were hunted by New York police today in the fatal bludgeoning of Dr. Walter Engleberg, 42, while Federal agents pursued a separate inquiry into reports the slain German consular attache was a Nazi spy.

Principal clues in the strange crime which police attributed to vengeance but which was also being explored for possible international political angles were 10 large bloody fingerprints, a pair of size 11 slippers and a large dressing gown.

Police disclosed they were searching for a man of huge bulk, about six feet, four inches tall, who they believed had slept in an adjoining room the night of the slaying.

They also sought a second man described only as a "23-year-old Swede."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, personally took command of the federal inquiry after deputy medical examiner H. E. Marten said he had learned Engleberg was a German intelligence officer engaged in espionage.

Police appeared skeptical that any espionage activity was directly responsible for the attache's death and hinted the probable answer lay in the personal life of the man, in whose rooms they found 50 or more photographs of nude men.

Neighbors said a series of men had lived with Engleberg, presumably as servants.

HOW and WHY of that NEW FORD RIDE

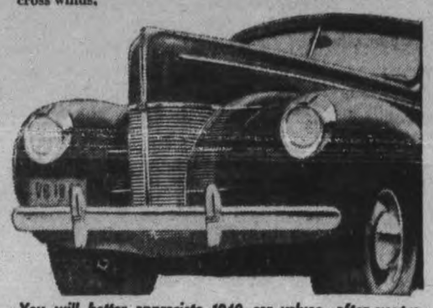
The new restfully smooth, quiet ride of the 1940 Ford cars is the sum total of many important improvements — among them improvements in springs and spring suspension that seem to take the bumps right out of the road. Springs are softer, more flexible both front and rear. New improved engineering of spring suspension and longer front springs also contribute to the new Ford ride.

You'll realize the new Ford is a big roomy car the moment you step inside! There's four inches more usable inside length in Sedans. The new Ford "Finger-Tip" gearshift is a revelation of compact neatness. Its position on the steering post also makes more leg room. Just sit back and relax on those deep, soft "Floating-Edge" seat cushions, while that economical V-8 engine whisks you along in supreme comfort!

Ford engineers used the latest vibration-detecting devices and sound-deadening materials in achieving the remarkable quiet that's a feature of the new Ford ride. Improvements in design (such as new curved disc wheels that reduce road noises) also contribute to Ford quiet. You'll like the new Controlled Ventilation, too—a real improvement in all-weather comfort!

Four improved shock absorbers help iron out bumpy stretches. They are adjustable, double-acting lever arm type, recognized as the finest type shock absorber made. A recent new addition to De Luxe car equipment is special heavy-duty shock absorbers. Entirely new is the direct coupled torsion bar ride-stabilizer which keeps body level on curves and makes steering almost effortless even in high cross winds.



You will better appreciate 1940 car values, after you've driven the 1940 Ford V-8. Arrange to drive it today. No obligation or inconvenience. Phone the Ford Dealer.

Lakefield's Oldest Couple Mark 65th Anniversary Of Wedding; Combined Ages Total 181 Years

A Lakefield couple whose combinedgest total 181 years today climbed near the top of the ladder in the number of years they have been married. They are Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Preston, and they are celebrating their 65th wedding anniversary.

Lakefield's oldest couple, Mr. Preston is 91 years old and his wife is 90. They have lived within a few miles of Lakefield all their long lives and are known to nearly every resident in the entire district.

Extreme old age has brougt a good many infirmities to the couple, but they are still able to find pleasure in the quiet twilight of their lives.

Born In Smith.

Both were born within a few miles of Lakefield in Smith and both were named Preston—their fathers were half-brothers. Mr. Preston's family came to this country more than a century ago from Scotland and settled on a farm on the Lakefield-Buckhorn road, six miles north of Lakefield. His father was the late William Preston. Mrs. Preston is a daughter of the late George Preston, who came of Scottish-Irish stock and his farm was on the land where now stands the House of Refuge.

The elderly couple lived on a farm in Smith until 1914 when they retired to Lakefield. They have two children living, Mrs. Ernest Turk of Lakefield and Walter Preston of Smith. One son, Alexander, served overseas with a Vancouver resigment and died in 1924, partly as a result of war service.

They were married on December 9, 1874, by Rev. Mr. Clark, then minister of the Presbyterian church that was situated on the ninth line of Smith. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents. Their wedding trip consisted of a drive around a block behind a spirited team of blacks hitched to a sleigh. Then they returned to their new home on the farm now occupied by Wilbert Sage in Smith township.

Sole Survivors.

One of a family of eight children, Mrs. Preston is the only surviving member. She attended Ray's school, located near the present Lakefield cemetery at that time, but now disappeared to be replaced by the brick school on the 8th line of Smith.

Mr. Preston is the only surviving member of his family, in which there were ten children. He was a farmer all his life until retirement, except for two years when he was a carpenter's helper in Cleveland before his marriage. At one time he worked two farms and was noted for the quality of his horses, which captured many prizes at fall fairs in Lakefield in past years.

He recalled today many of the parties he had attended as a young man, for he was an accomplished step dancer. (On his 63rd wedding anniversary he gave a demonstration of his skill that had not left him). The late Mordicia Blewett was the fiddler in those earlier days and played free of charge.

Mrs. Preston recalled that along the years they have worked together. She told of binding grain after her husband as he did the cradling, and was able to demonstrate the method by which a sheaf should be bound so that it would not fall apart when it dropped to the ground. She also told of taking cattle to water at the time there was a shortage of water until her husband struck on the idea of drawing a week's supply from a creek and putting it in the well.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Preston fell down the back stairs, but escaped without breaking any bones.

Hunt Up Toys Over Week-End

When Monday rolls around firemen men will have only five more days in which to receive toys for repair and distribution among children Santa Claus seems to forget each year.

That's why they ask that you remember them this week-end and take a little time off from your pleasure to hunt up those old toys that have been stored in the attic or cellar for years past. They ask that you telephone them at 5712, and they will come for the toys or that you bring them to the Fire Hall, where they will show you through Toyland.

Firemen are beginning to have a little faith in humanity once again. For a time, that faith was pretty low, because despite repeated appeals, no toys were forthcoming and it looked like a forgotten Christmas morning for many Peterborough youngsters. Today, however, Fire Chief George Gimblett said that if the returns are as good every day until December 15 as they were Friday, firemen are going to be able to supply every needy child in the city with a preesnt. He's counting on that continued support, and every man in his department has volunteered to work overtime to finish the job.

Picture Trip Is Made To Alaska

Dr. H. H. Bingham of Walmer Road Baptist church, Toronto, with the use of colored slides, took the audience at Murray St. Baptist church on Friday evening on a picture trip to Alaska. The route covered in this way was from Vancouver to Prince Rupert, to Catchachan, Alaska, then to Juneau. From there 17 miles through Alaska to Summit in the Yukon. It came as a revelation to most of the audience to see the extent to which vegetation and flowers developed in Alaska, the explanation being that it was due to six weeks of continuous sunshine. Dr. Bingham explained that in four weeks potatoes came from seed to the point where they were out in flower. Views also gave an adequate idea of the occupations followed by the people in trapping, fishing, etc. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe presided at the meeting, and Donald Kennedy gave two acceptable solos.

One member of the audience who found particular interest in the pictures was Provincial Officer Silvester, who as a member of the Mounted Police spent five years in the Yukon.

The relief committee decided Thursday to buy 800 cords of hardwood at $6.45 a cord. The first amount considered was 500 cords and at the present prices Alderman McIntyre suggested 1,000 remarking that hardwood was unlikely to be cheaper. Bids were received from Earl Lloyd and Herb Doig at $6.50 a cord and from H. Tedford at $6.45. With a difference of only five cents it was proposed that the order be divided among the three men providing the first two are willing to knock off five cents from their price.

ALPARKAS PICK OTTAWA

The Alparka lads this morning came up with the East to take the West this afternoon at Ottawa. It may be too great a handicap for the Rough Riders to carry, this favoritism at the coffee bar, because they haven't been right all year, and they have tried to pick winners away back to the Kentucky Derby. They even sneaked away on the bos sto see the P.C.I. rubbed out. But, according to the law of averages they can't be wrong all the time. So they expect to reverse things to-day.

Eighteen-Cent Cheque For Two Weeks Requires Explaining By Relief Officer

A cheque for eighteen cents drawn on the city treasury as a relief voucher for two weeks was placed on the table before Alderman Dutton at the relief committee meeting Thursday night with a slow flourish by the man who received it, as if he were saying "now what do you think of that?"

Eighteen cents for two weeks seemed hardly worth the trouble of running the cheque through the city's accounting of relief vouchers. And this man called on the committee for an increase in his voucher, and Alderman Dutton requested Relief Officer A. G. Metheral to explain how he arrived at the 18-cent amount.

Then it came out that the family had received in the last month $71.65 earned by one son, together with rent and there is a fuel allowance during winter. Another boy had only recently begun work, and Mr. Metheral said he had not counted the boy's pay. The father objected that his elder son should not be required to contribute all his earnings to the upkeep of the family and that the relief officials should not reckon the full amount of his earnings granting the relief allowance.

Members of the committee took the other view that it should be "one for all" in families, that many receiving no more than $70 or $72 a month were not asking for relief, although in this case it was realized that there are seven children. No increase was allowed.

Samuel Hunter Cartoonist Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Samuel Hunter whose fine pen and ink cartoons were for years familiar features in Toronto daily papers and a native of Millbrook passed away suddenly at his home on Friday.

Well known in this district Mr. Hunter spent his summers for 50 years at his cottage on Stoney Lake near McCracken's Landing.

Mr. Hunter was at the table when he complained of feeling a pain near his heart. He retired to his room and died in 15 minutes.

Mr. Hunter, in his prime, was considered an outstanding cartoonist of the Dominion. In the earlier days of his craftsmanship, newspaper illustration was in a primitive stage. Line cuts, which generally made portraits look as wooden as a tailor's dummy, were sparingly introduced into the news columns in place of the profusion of halftones which today illustrate the news.

Under such circumstances the popular cartoonist had unusual opportunities to mould public impressions of the appearance of public men. Generations of Toronto people saw the statesmen of the day, if not through Mr. Hunter's eyes at least, through his whimsical presentation of them. His work had punch and point.

Versatile Cartoonist

Mr. Hunter was not only a link with earlier phases of newspaper production, but also with past as well as present generations. The activities of Macdonald, Cartwright, Tupper, Foster, Tarte, Ross and Whitney and Laurier were mat for Mr. Hunter's pen, and then came King, Bennett, Ferguson and Henry to afford opportunities for his versatility.

From childhood he wanted to draw things, and while he early established himself as a cartoonist, his art work was also admirable. At the time of his retirement, a couple of years ago, he was paid this tribute in an editorial:

Mr. Hunter's art work has been admirable. He has not depended for his results, upon the drawing of repulsive faces, or upon gross physical distortion. There has been no venom in his work. His cartoons hav been good naured, but none the less effective on that account. They have had point and timeliness. Such drawings, continued over more than half a century, must necessarily have helped to direct public opinion to an extent which is not easily estimated. They have reflected the shrewd but kindly personality of their creator.

Fond Of Nature

"His attachment to the out-of-doors is well known to all who watched his career. He made it his practice to spend long summer vacations in communication with nature. Plants, birds, dogs, the little creatures of the wild— these have been his delight. His love of created things has lent a certain 'sweetness and light' to his character and to his work."

Mr. Hunter was a son of the late Capt. John Hunter, clerk for some years of the division court of Millbrook, Ont., and of Jane (O'Brian) Hunter. On his father's side he was of United Empire Loyalist descent. He was born at Millbrook on March 3, 1858, and was educated there. In July, 1888, he married Miss Jeanette Brayley, Toronto.

He had resided in his present home for many years and in addition had a summer residence at Stoney Lake. "A great and gentle caricaturist" and "Has the happy faculty of making his drawings most keenly penetrating without being offensive" were two of the opinions among many that lauded his ability.

The funeral was held today from his late residence 3 p.m. to St. James' cemetery, Rev. William Cattell officiating.

Lansfield Buys Parker Building

T. J. Lansfield has bought the Parker property at 177 Charlotte street, and will begin on Monday reconstruction of a plant for his own dyeing and dry cleaning business.

The Parker building was extensively damaged by fire during the summer, and the management decided to discontinue operations in Peterborough. Since then the federal Government has been acquiring properties along the south side of Charlotte street for a combined postal and customs building. Mr. Lansfield was one of those who have been caught up in the transaction and forced to find a new location. It is understood he has five or six months to vacate the plant which he built for his expanding business, and he expects to move to the new premises some time before Easter.

Toronto Party Delayed On Way To Game

Forgetting his hat proved an expensive piece of absent-mindedness for George Laird of Toronto this morning.

Laird with a party of five other Queen City rugby fans was passing through Peterborough early to-day en route for Ottawa to see the Winnipeg Blue Bombers-Ottawa Rough Riders Dominion final. They had stopped here for a meal at a local restaurant and were several miles out of town when Laird discovered that he had left his hat behind and turned around and drove back to the restaurant.

Just about that time police spotted a case of beer in the car and as a result the Toronto football fans were arrested on a L. C. A. charge.

In police court this morning Laird pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession and was fined $100 and 75 cents costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C.

"The minimum in this charge is $100" Magistrate Langley said. "A charge could have been laid under the other section in regard to beer and wine, where the fine is from $10 to $100."

"However," he added, speaking to Acting Chief Constable, "that is your business."

The fine was paid and the Toronto party took off for Ottawa at 10.30 o'clock, hoping that the bets they had made on Winnipeg would make good their Peterborough loss.

Illustrated Talk Tells Of The Modern Palestine

The Palestine of Today, which he feels has been "almost spiritualized out of existence," was the subject of an illustrated lecture by Dr. H. H. Bingham of Toronto, Friday afternoon, at a meeting of the Lyceum Club, Women's Art Association, in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room.

Attaining even greater significance as the Christmas season approaches because of its spiritual associations, this small country is constantly before the world. It is 140 miles long and from 30 to 45 miles wide. Despite its smallness, however, it has a greater variety of climate and altitude than any other land. The Dead Sea is 1,300 feet below sea level; Mount Hermon is 10,000 feet aboev sea level, and Jerusalem has an altitude of 2,500 feet.

Dr. Bingham described his rather disappointed surprise upon arriving in the capital of Palestine, to find himself getting off at a modern station surrounded by taxicabs, and gazing upon an up-to-date sign labelled "Jerusalem." However, he found nothing modern about the narrow streets or the easy-going way in which the million inhabitants of the city live.

"We have spiritualized Christ to such an extent that it is hard to think of Him as living in the very hills of Palestine and speaking with its people," Dr. Bingham said as he showed his audience handsome colored slides of this historic country. He mentioned the thrilling touch of realism that actually seeting this land of Bible fame brought to his religious conceptions when he visited it nine years ago. His slides depicted life in the Palestine of today, and showed what intensive farming was carried on by its inhabitants—a contrast to the waste land in Canada that, if put to as good use, would feed millions in Europe.

Dr. Bingham, who spoke to the club last year on "Alaska, the Land of Adventure," gave the same thrilling travelogue of the North country Friday evening, in Murray Street Baptist Church.

Mrs. Fred E. Hooper, president of the association, introduced the speaker. The meeting was the last before Christmas, and as is the custom of the club, the members brought their friends, who were warmly welcomed by the president.

Two groups of songs by Miss Geraldine Collins delighted the audience, and between these groups the Christmas carol, "O Come, Let Us Adore Him" was sung.

An exhibition of flower paintings by Mrs. Beatrice Robertson will be presented at the January meeting.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH.

With the singing of the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," Thursday night's meeting was opened. Prayers were offered and Mrs. Forbes read the lesson. Miss Jessie Bell's group was in charge of the evening. No business was conducted in the absence of the president. A program of hilarious games and relay races was led by Bo Pammett, and a sing-song ended a very delightful evening.

ST. GEORGE'S BRANCH.

On Thursday evening the regular business meeting was held. The president, Miss Beatrice Curtis, presided. The treasurer gave a short financial report. The representative to the District Council executive, Miss M. Lorne, gave a report on the meeting held last Tuesday.

The rector's warden, A. Knott, spoke to the members and explained to them what the organization as a whole means to the church. Wilf Davies was elected as convener to look after the decorating of the church for Christmas. Mr. Davies, delegate to the Provincial Conference from the branch, gave an interesting report.

ALL SAINTS BRANCH.

The regular weekly meeting of All Saints' branch was featured by a very interesting and educational talk on "India" by Dr. C. M. Scott who was a resident there for some years. Supplementing his description of the country by a display of photographs, the speaker gave a new and graphic portrayal of the people and customs of that little known land.

Introduced by eLs. Cavalier, Dr. Scott drew upon his wealth of experience to unfold a picture of India that will long remain in the minds of his audience. The appreciation of the members was voiced by Miss W. Lord and heartily seconded by all those present.

Under the leadership of Miss S. Bucks committee. the members recently enjoyed a roller-skating party. Some twenty-members spent an enjoyable hour in endeavoring to outdo each other on wheels. A box social closed the evenings fun, the boys bidding zealously to take over dainty lunches which the girls had packed for the occasion.

Miss Buck and her committee were congratulated by those present for a unique and pleasant evening's entertainment.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

The first part of the evening was taken up with a short business meeting. After that Miss Grace Marshall and Nels Hewitt led the group in a quiz contest under the heading, "A Broader View of the A.Y.P.A." In it, questions were asked concerning the history of the A.Y.P.A. and its development—facts which every member should know.

Miss Grace Marshall then introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. J. A. McKone, who gave an excellent address on "This Business of Living." In her talk, the speaker stated that the demand for personality was increasing more and more each day. In applying for a position it was considered as one of the essential things to have. Mrs. McKone also mentioned that too many people were content to take the road of least resistance. Going through life with an attitude like that, the result achieved, if any, would be of comparatively little value. The president, Fred Hooper, thanked the speaker for coming up to the meeting and giving such a worth-while talk.

The latter part of the evening was taken up with games and dancing. Then, a number of the members got together and told stories and jokes, after which light refreshments were served, which brought the evening to a close.

FOR THE SOPHISTICATE

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S often more difficult to find the right suit hat than it is to pick up a couple of roses with velvet ribbons for the cocktail hour. The usual classic felt is apt to look too much like the campus, and it's an utter loss once your fur coat is removed. That's why you'll see hats like the one shown today wherever business women gather. It's young and it's interesting: old-fashioned hairy beaver in warm brown. Oddly enough, this type of millinery is more effective on the sophisticate than on the baby face, as its American designer proved during a recent Manhattan revue. The suit is a new longer-jacket style in brown stripes.

Nagging Is The Chief Reason Why Husbands Run Away While, Strangely Enough, Jealousy Ranks At The Bottom Of The List—No Wife Need Lose Her Mate

WHEN a married man fades out of the picture of his not-so-happy home, his wife always professes to be unable to even guess why he did it, but Mr. Daniel Eisenberg, who is the founder and chief sleuth of a private Missing Persons Bureau, knows the answer.

He says that there are eight good reasons, all traceable directly to the wife, for any single one of which a man will up and vanish without trace, and that the thousands of unwilling husbands whom he has restored to their wives' arms in the last fifteen years left home because of their wives' nagging, extravagance, poor cooking, bad personal habits, mother-in-law trouble, husband neglect, jealousy or unruly children.

He further says that jealousy accounted for the least number of disappearing husbands; nagging for the most, and in between were a few cases of husbands who hopped a train and headed for the wide-open spaces rather than be dragged out to places of amusement every night. And there was one man, married to a bridge fiend, who ran away and was found working in a distant city for a fanatical anti-card movement. Strangely enough, Mr. Eisenberg has been asked to find only twelve wives. His explanation is that most wives have no money of their own with which to start a new life and, moreover, they have no desire to leave a secure meal ticket. The twelve he was asked to find were career women who had been supporting their husbands. There is a sort of cynical humor as well as tragedy in Mr. Eisenberg's findings, because while we all look upon the wife-deserter with scorn and contempt, we are bound to concede that he has his points, and wonder that there are not more of him.

Think of the men who rise up and sit down to their wives' never-ending nagging; who never know what it is to have one moment's peace when they are at home, or to be permitted to do the simplest thing the way they want to do it! Think of the men who live in fear of the bill-collector and who see all of the hard labor of their lives being thrown away in senseless extravagance by their wives! Think of the men who have their wives' families hung like the old woman of the sea, about their necks!

Think of the men whose lazy wives never give them a decent meal, or a clean place to sit in of an evening! Think of the men who see their children being ruined by silly mothers who never correct their faults and bring them up without manners or morals! Think of all the men with complaining wives, with whining wives, with weeping wives, with wives who belittle them! And the marvel of it is that so many of them have the courage to stand the gaff instead of fleeing from the torment in which they live. But Mr. Eisenberg's conclusions that there ae only eight basic faults of wives that cause their husbands to throw up their hands and quit without notice should not only warn but cheer wives. For it shows that holding a husband is not the occult and mysterious matter women profess to believe that it is.

It doesn't depend on a wife's looks, nor her keeping slim and being a glamor girl when she is 40. It just depends on the wife making heself and the home so pleasant that the husband wants to come back to them at night instead of taking the 9.45 to parts unknown. And any woman can do that if she will.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What do you think of a man who delights in knitting and crocheting and doing all kinds of fancy work that a woman does? This man boards at my home and in many ways seems to be a very nice man, but when I see him get out his knitting I feel a disgust for him. When I start my fancy work he gets out his and I just can't stand it. How can I make him see how sissy it makes him look?—MRS. S. S. R.

ANSWER:

The Duke of Windsor and all of his brothers knit and do embroidery at which they are said to be very skillful. Most of the finest embroidery in the world is done by men. The most famous Parisian dressmakers are men. So you see you will have to revise your opinion about there being something sissified in a man handling a needle or a crochet hook.

Personally, I have always thought it would be a fine thing for men to take to knitting. It would give them something useful to do in the hours when they are sitting around the drug store or the poolroom. It would be a grand thing for Papa to be turning out sweaters and socks for the children while he was discussing politics and telling how the country should be run.

QUESTION: My request this time is for mincemeat. I am too free in lending my recipes to people and loaned someone the recipe for mincemeat which called for Pippins from Nova Scotia. Is that enough to let you know what recipe I want? The diet for the skinny member of our family is working like magic—the ripe bananas after every meal were very popular. Thanks for everything.—M.Mc.G.

ANSWER: So glad the diet is working.

It was easy to identify the mincemeat recipe you want.

APPLE MINCEMEAT

(Contributed by Mrs. R.G.H.)

Four to 5 lbs., apple (Nova Scotia Bishop Pippins), 1 to 2 lbs. suet. Put the above through the food chopper and add: 4 pounds brown sugar, 1 pound raisins (any preferred kind, cinnamon, nutmeg, ground cloves to taste.

METHOD: Cook all together on back of stove (or over very low heat using asbestos mat) until the mixture turns dark. Store in a crock. This is enough for 7 to 9 pies and keeps well. This mixture burns easily so use all the precautions suggested. If stored in crock, the fat rising to the top forms a seal.

QUESTION: During the summer you printed an article on frozen desserts and said at the end if any of us wanted more of them you would send them to us—you mentioned orange sherbet—I have a recipe for this but do not like it—but my family is so fond of this type of frozen dessert I will persevere with it until I satisfy myself. Would you send me one you can recommend? I have a nice file of your clippings and hope to have many more. —Sarah H.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

ORANGE SHERBET

One and one-half cups orange juice from California oranges, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ; cup granulated sugar (do not increase this amount), ½ cup water, rind of 1 orange, ½ cup single cream, 2 egg whites. Cook sugar and water 10 minutes. Grate rind. Add rind to syrup and cook for about 15 minutes. Remove from heat and strain. Cool. Then add lemon juice to orange juice, then pour the syrup over the fruit juices.

Pour into tray of electric refrigerator and freeze firm. Remove mixture to cold bowl, which has been kept in ice box, then beat with rotary egg beater until light, then add the egg whites which have been beaten until stiff just before needed. Cream does not need whipping in this sherbet. Add cream, stir well and return to ice box to finish freezing. If mixture separates a little when partially frozen, it can be removed to an ice cold bowl and beat again. Six to eight servings.

For Sunday, December 10.

Sunday's horoscope holds promise for furthering the interests and attaining worthy ambitions by placating or attracting superiors, elders or those in influential positions. But in all such aims shun impetuous, contentious or angry approach. Cultivate harmony and good will rather than aggressiveness.

Those whose birthday it is may have an opportunity for gaining the preferment and good will of those in high places by means of tact, conciliation and amiability rather than strife and impetuosity. Shun pitfalls and malice by being gracious, generou sand understanding.

A child born on this day may be energetic, self-willed, impulsive and over-aggressive in putting over its ends when finesse and courtesy would better serve. Inherently it has such social graces which should enhance its success.

For Monday, December 11.

Monday's astrological forecast is for stability, security and sound growth, to be obtained by means of hard work, industrious application and sound judgment. These may be required to escape pitfalls, schemes or undercurrents, possibly sinister and unsuspected. But the mentality is equal to this and the impulses worthy. Accordingly, there should be enduring good wrested from treachery and wile.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year crowned by success and just reward for merit, probity and diligence, probably in the face of duplicity, schemes, plots and malice. Be alert to these and exercise your own fine mentality and sterling qualities should quicksands threaten.

A child born on this day may be industrious, persevering, willing and reliable, yet it may be disposed to use strategy or easy methods if forced to the wall.

A Help To Those Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time when those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

They brace up and invigorate the system, and help stall off the decrepitude of advancing years.

Canada Playing Major Role In Air Warfare

Just as Roman civilization contributed lawmakers to the world that was to follow, just as France contributed military geniuses, just as Britain contributed men of the sea, so will Canada contribute men whose natural habitat is the air. This imagination-stirring statement was made last night to members of the Friday Night Club by Donald F. Philp, publicity manager for De-Havilland Aircraft Company of Canada.

He painted a picture in which the Canada that will emerge from World War II will be a country with thousands of trained airmen, keen-eyed, clear-thinking young men in whose hands this country will develop to a place of world leadership. "We will have the pilots, mechanics, aircraft designers and plants and resources to develop a marvellous world trade," he visualized. "But we will need foresight and a true Christian attitude in planning the changeover from the huge war machine that we will have developed, into peacetime use, with a minimum of wasted time and effort."

On Top of the World.

"When we look at the globe we realize that Canada literally sits on top of the world, midway between the industrial cities of Europe and the teeming millions of the Orient," he pointed out. "We are actually much nearer Europe and Asia than most of us realize. Every air route between the Americas and Europe and Asia that is likely to be feasible must pas sover Canadian territory. For instance, the shortest route from Chicago to London, England, is by way of Cochrane, Hudson Strait, Baffin Land, Greenland and Iceland. Similarly, future air routes to the Orient are by way of the Mackenzie River, Yukon Territory the Aleutian Islands and the Kurile Islands. Both routes involve very little ocean flying.

"Britain became great through her command of the seven seas, and Canada will become great through her geographical position as the place where East and West can meet by way of the air. Our domination of the great trunk air routes of the future may well place us in the forefront of world trade in the next decade."

Must Be On Air Map.

Just as municipalities eighty years ago vied with one another to attract railways to their district, so to-day the same municipalies are jockeying to bring air travel their way. "I understand that Peterborough intends to vote on a by-law before the end of the year, seeking authorization to invest in a modern airport. The municipality that does not get on the air map of Canada, with adequate airport facilities, will find itself passed over by new manufacturers, who will come to this country after the war. It will place its present business and industries at a disadvantage with those having airmail and airtravel connections. This does not mean that every city will be on the main line of the T.C.A. There will develop many feeder lines in Ontario, similar to the belt lines and smaller networks in the United States and the domestic services of the British Isles."

Furthermore, he claimed, private flying will leap forward when there are many more airports. "Privately owned planes cost little more to operate than a motor car and they cost very little more to buy than a good car. Air tourists have been coming into Canada more and more in the last two seasons and will do so again after the war. The good roads of this province made possible a big tourist business and good airports will continue the development of the tourist trade by way of air.

Business of Flying.

He described the beginnings of the flying business and followed its development down to the present time. "The first commercial flight into the North was made in 1921 and for the next number of years it was to the North that Canada looked for her start in aviation. Today air transport may be obtained to any point in Northern Canada, either on a regular line or by charter. Mail routes are established, business executives, prospectors, trappers, fur traders, mining men use the aeroplane to cover the distance that used to take month, in a few hours." The North has shrunk.

Similarly, aviation began to bloom in the more populous areas of Canada. Its history, he showed, has been one of straight progression from small beginnings, and he pointed to a Canada whose future is decidedly in the air.

Mr. Philp was introduced to the club by President H. A. Garner. Members also saw three moving pictures on aviation topics, shown through the courtesy of Mr. Kay of the Shell Oil Company. One was "Wings over the Atlantic," a review of the work that led up to the inauguration of the trans-ocean air routes of Great Britain and the United States; another was "Prelude to Flight" a study of glider flying; and the third showed the manufacture of the famed P36 planes that are causing Germans much worry at the present time The picture followed the manufacture of the plane from drafting board stage to its test flight.

Tommies Help To Harvest French Crop

Lacking work in their assigned positions on the Western front, these British Tommies lay to and bring in the harvest on a French farm. The French high command has released thousands of Poilus from the army so that they may return home and help with the necessary work there. They are subject, of course, to instant recall.

War Comes First Conant Claims

WHITBY, Dec. 8.—In an address to the United Church Men's Association here, Hon. G. D. Conant declared "There's only one problem confronting this country at present —the prosecution of the war. What do our domestic affairs matters until we've settled the question of whether we're going to have a free country in which to run them.

"Even in wartime, governments and governing bodies must be subject to criticism. That's part of democracy. But I ask you to realize that every man in public office labors under a great burden in these days," he asserted.

Mr. Conant predicted that "within a year or two Winston Churchill may well be Prime Minister of England."

"The British Empire at the present time needs the driving force, the imagination — the belligerent attitude, if you like—of Winston Churchill," he continued. "I'm casting no reflection on Chamberlain, who did a wonderful job for the Empire in keeping us out of war as long as he did."

Mr. Conant quoted from several poems of Rupert Brooke and a speech by Lord Baldwin, passages illustrating in verse and prose "The love of the cultured Englishman for the simple things that mean so much to England."

"Churchill once referred to Brooke as 'All England could want her sons to be'." Mr. Conant explained in pointing out that the life and death of the English poet had shown that the greatest sacrifices are those most freely proffered. "The poetry of Brooke attained a new significance in times when a new generation was called to similar heights of sacrifice," Mr. Conant stated.

Junior Institute To Visit Aged

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 9 (ENS).—The eleven members attending the regular meeting of the Lakefield Institute on Wednesday afternoon, answered the roll call with a Christmas poem. Muriel Bullock, president, presided.

Plans were made for the annual visit to the House of Refuge between Christmas and New Years. Each member is to bring either cookies or candies and the Institute to buy the fruit for the boxes, which are to be taken to the home.

Mrs. Gilbert Bullock gave a paper containing much information on "The responsibilities of Institute members during the war." More important than practical benefits is the spirit of co-operation."

Before joining the senior branch for Miss Marjoie Frankish's report, the members had their exchange of Christmas gifts.

Trent Aid Holds Election, Quilting

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 9—(ENS).—Mrs. W. C. Inkster opened her home Wednesday afternoon and evening for the Ladies' Aid meeting, quilting and tea. Mrs. Thomas Brown had charge.

Rev. A. McLauchlin took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Thomas Brown, returned; Vice-President, Mrs. William Preston; Mrs. K. Thompson resigned as treasurer, which office she has held for over four years; Mrs. Gordon Shearer was elected in her place; Mrs. H. B. Wood, secretary, resigned and the office was given to Mrs. John Scott; Mrs. W. C. Inkster continues as deaconess, with an executive consisting of Mrs. George Longmuir, Mrs. Sam Adams and Mrs. K. Thompson. Parsonage committee: Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Gordon Shearer and Mrs. J. Scott; Pianist, Mrs. Walter Lewis.

Mrs. Brown resumed the chair and conducted the general business of the meeting. The members decided to distribute the "holiday donation cards again.

The money raised by the four groups throughout the year is not complete. The members decided to hold a crokinole party Wednesday night between Christmas and the New Year, in the church dining hall.

A new book was ordered for the secretary. Mrs. James Longmuir offered her home for the January meeting, when two quilts will be quilted and pot luck dinner served. At the closing of the meeting, lunch was served after which the ladies worked at the quilt put up for Mrs. Inkster in the evening. A number who were unable to attend at the afternoon session came to help with the quilt and lunch was again served in the evening.

Active Mother

STANHOPE, N.J., Dec. 9 — (AP). — Mrs. Helen K. Shaw, New Jersey's only woman coroner, also acts as the first-aid crew on her husband's ambulance. When the call comes she drops her housework, calls hasty instructions to her two children, and clambers into the ambulance with George Shaw, a funeral director.

Boom To Wheat Cheers Dry Belt

CHICAGO, Dec. 9—(AP). — The prospect that this season's winter wheat harvest would command the highest prices in three years is taking some of the sting from the ravages of drought in the United States grain belt.

World grain trading centres churned with excitement today as traders sensed the market possibilities of war coupled with the poorest crop prospect in years in the Western hemisphere.

From Argentina and southwestern United States came news of the serious condition of new wheat—the result partly of too much moisture south of the equator and too little north of it. Crops which had been counted upon to swell wartime surpluses are deteriorating and grain experts forecast stocks of old wheat would have to be drawn upon heavily in 1940. Fortunately, they said, these reserves appear to be ample.

Large buying orders have been pouring into the grain markets in Chicago, Winnipeg and Buenos Aires for the past fortnight.

In two weeks Chicago prices have risen 11 cents a bushel, with actual grain selling at more than $1 a bushel in some cases for the first time in almost two years. July wheat, which represents the 1940 crop, is priced around 93 cents, 26 higher than a year ago and the highest at this time of year for a decade with two exceptions, 1936 when the price reached $1.21 and 1934 when it touched 98 cents.

Private crop experts said the United States crop to be harvested early next summer may fall below 400,000,000 bushels because of the driest fall weather on record.

This would be the smallest harvest in 40 years, with the possible exception of the 376,000,000 bushel crop in 1933.

Much On Labor

QUEBEC, Dec. 9.—(CP)— The Quebec Government will "handle a good deal of labor legislation," at the Legislature session expected to open February 20, an official of the Liberal administration said last night.

One move planned now, it was learned, is repeal of the two-year-old measure requiring sole incorporation in Quebec of Corporations acquiring rights in the Province's natural resources.

Hunter Barred Off Trail 5 Years

LITTLE CURRENT, Dec. 9. — Found guilty of criminal negligence in a hunting accident that cost Alex Michie, Sault Ste. Marie guide, his life Nov. 15, Guy Simpson of Sarnia, was given a year's suspended sentence yesterday by Magistrate Golden. His deer license was cancelled for five years and he was ordered to pay the costs of court.

Witnesses at the closing session of the hearing, which had been adjourned on Nov. 20, were Walter Kemsley, Simpson's hunting companion, and Provincial Constable Carmichael. Kemsley told of harrying to the scene of the accident, which took place 400 yards from where he was stalking, and of finding Simpson holding a tourniquet on Michael's riddled arm.

Carmichael related that on the day after the fatality, when he visited the scene with the two huntsmen, Simpson said "Here comes a deer now," just before Kemsley walked out of the bush.

Simpson contended that Kemsley had told him a deer was coming a few minutes before and he was only passing the word along.

Prosecuting Attorney McRae submitted that at 200 yards on a mid-November day at 5 p.m. the accused should have been more careful to identify his target before pressing the trigger. In Simpson's favor it was established that he deliberated three minutes before taking second aim and firing.

Plenty Of Gold

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(CP). — The Federal Reserve Board estimated last night that the Allies have $8,440,000,000 of readily marketable gold, cash and security assets with which to buy supplies in the United States, while Germany has $160,000,000. The assets of the Allies — United Kingdom, France, Canada, and other British and French territories — do not quite equal the $8,800,000,000 assets of all neutrals.

Ready With Both Barrels

Among the world's finest anti-aircraft weapons is this double-barreled A-A gun of the Swedish navy, shown during recent manoeuvres. Today the war-machine of Sweden is oiled and ready for action to defend Swedish independence, believed seriously threatened. The German (government-controlled) press has opened a pressure campaign by demanding ousting of Swedish Foreign Minister R. J. Sandler.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

French authorities have let it be known the French army has more than the present defensive operations in mind. An authorized statement at Paris says fortification work under way since the start of the war is now completed.

The location of this work is not stated but it may be assumed it is designed to guard against an enemy flanking movement through either Belgium or Switzerland. The work places the French high command in a position to manoeuvre more effectively in order to keep the enemy off French soil.

Thus, on the Belgian side, by creating effective defences along the frontier the French army will now have a sound base from which to jump off and assist the Belgian army to hold the Germans along the line of the Meuse should they invade Belgian soil.

Similarly by securing the Belgian frontier the French become able to mass troops in the south to meet any German attempt to outflank the Maginot line by a march through Switzerland. With the French frontier fortified from the Swiss border to the sea the forts on the north, facing Belgium, might well serve as an axis on which the armies could pivot, either to the north, in case of an attack through Holland or to the south and east in case of a German offensive on the Maginot line or through Switzerland.

The suggestion of manoeuvring operations going beyond the defensive phase is also contained in the Paris commentary but is hardly an indication of an early offensive. The Allies are likely to give Nazi Germany a good taste of economic warfare before launching their forces at the Siegfried line.

Selling Price $17,531.30

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 9—(ENS) —In the report of the annual meeting of the Trent Bridge Cheese Company (appearing in Dec. 7 edition) the figure $17,531.30 quoted as being the net selling price of cheese including the bonus of $1,491.91 was misleading and we have been asked by the president, Mr. H. B. Wood, to make this correction. "The net selling price of cheese was $17,531.30 plus the bonus of $1,491.91," was the way the sentence should have read.

Food, Fuel Boost Advance Living Costs

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(CP). — The Canadian cost of living index mounted to 85.0 in November, from 84.7 in October, due to moderate advances in food and fuel prices, together with increases in gasoline in several cities, the Dominion Bureau of Statstics reported Friday. The index was 83.8 in November, 1938.

The retail food price index rose to 80.5 from 79.8, influenced by gains in fish, eggs, butter, cheese, lard, milk, canned vegetables, dry beans, prunes, raisins, sugar, tea and coffee. The sharp increases which occurred in meat prices in October were partially cancelled by declines in November. Other foods to record decreases were potatoes, onions, currants, canned fruits, cocoa and pepper.

Sharper than usual seasonal advances in coal prices, coke and wood resulted in a rise in the fuel index from 85.1 in Otcober to 86.1 in November.

The index for miscellaneous items moved up from 94.1 to 94.2 due to the gasoline price increases.

Pulp Mills Close

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 — (CP). — Practically all Finnish pulp mills, which ship about 250,000 tons of wood pulp to the United States annually, have been closed as a result of the invasion of Finland by Russia, it was reported yesterday at the annual meeting of the Association of American Wood Pulp importers.

The importers passed a resolution expressing sympathy for the Finnish cause.

Mother, Be Careful About Giving Your Child Unknown Remedies

Take no chances with your child's health to save a few pennies.

Before you give your child a doubtful "bargain" remedy ...any medicine you are not absolutely sure about—Ask Your Doctor.

Always call up your own good doctor before you give your child a single dose of "something just as good" sold on the old hawker's argument that it's a few pennies cheaper. Such a "bargain" could be the dearest purchase ever a woman made, mother.

For your own peace of mind alone, give no home remedy you don't know all about without your physician's approval first.

Ask your doctor about even the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia. And when he says "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia", see that you get real Phillips' when you buy. Use the full name, never ask for just "milk of magnesia".

Get either the original liquid Phillips' or the newer Phillips' Tablets, peppermint flavored, that children chew like candy.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA MADE IN CANADA

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed —a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

LONG SUITS INDICATED

PLAYERS who fail to make overcalls at their first opportunity and then back into the bidding later, are pretty likely to have long suits in their hands without much honor strength. In other words, their holdings are probably close to worthless defensively, but of good power for play at their own declarations. The partner who fits such a suit, with shortage in his hand somewhere, can therefore well consider a sacrifice, which may prove to be no sacrifice at all, but a successful contract.

With East and West using the artificial Vanderbilt club convention, West bid 1-Club here to show a generally strong hand.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

East denied a couple of quick tricks with 1-Diamond and South passed, to hear what was really West's suit. It came out at 1-Heart, which East raised to 2-Hearts, whereupon South called 3-Diamonds and West 3-Hearts.

North now went to 4-Diamonds, which West doubled. North's bid proved very profitable as, although East and West could have been set a trick at 3-Hearts, the doubled 4-Diamond contract was made, with the loss of just one heart and two trumps the Finnish complaint charging Russian aggression and then yield the judge's seat to the league assembly, called for Monday.

Assemblymen, representing all league members, will elect a new council, probably excluding the Baltic states and China as possible friends of Russia. They are expected then to appoint a small committee to decide whether the Russians are aggressors.

The British delegates were believed to have decided to go as far as the Finns' appeal might carry them against Russia and even further, if necessary. These sources said that Britain and France had agreed in the course they should follow.

The "trial," with promise of becoming Geneva's most important meeting since punitive measures were voted against Italy four years ago for her invasion of Ethiopia, brought new life to the league.

Even the most ardent anti-Russian sources expressed sympathy for Jakob Surits, Moscow's delegate, who apparently had orders to remain for the budget committee sessions, but not for the council meeting.

The budget committee was organized at last year's assembly, so Russia still is represented, despite her statement she will not participate in the council or assembly meetings called to judge her.

Surits sat with the committee last night when it erased back dues owed by the defeated Spanish republic, Czecho-Slovakia and Ethiopia and slashed Lithuania's assessment 75 per cent because of her loss of the 1,099-square mile territory of Memel to Germany.

"We tried every possible means, but we can't seem to agree. I don't know whethe rto take any longer would do any good. We just failed to agree and the only thing we could do was to bring in 'no verdict.'"

Asking the jury to retire for a moment, Judge Smoke told Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, and W. J. A. Fair, defence attorney, "This jury has taken over four hours now. I don't know whether sending them back again will do any good."

Mr. Fair gave his opinion that in view of the criticism that has been levelled at juries in Peterborough recently he thought "they are so conscience-stricken some of them won't be convinced against their will."

Verdict Is Necessary.

Recalling the jury, Judge Smoke said, "I still feel you ought to reach a verdict and feel you will if given sufifcient time. This case is not one that can be disposed of without a verdict. There will have to be another trial that will involve the county in more expense and the accused in mental stress." He asked them to retire for another hour.

Promptly an hour later the jury once again filed back into the court room and Foreman Nicholls reported, "Your Honor, we are still of the same opinion, no verdict." Asked if he thought more time for deliberation woul dresult in a verdict, he replied, "I really, honestly, think we can't come to a decision."

Judge Smoke said he hoped he "didn't frighten you or intimidate you in any way," in his remarks on the seriousness of their duty and their oath, and was assured by the foreman that he had not.

"I have no doubt that in your failure to agree you have taken into consideration the oath you took at the commencement of the proceedings," said Judge Smoke. "I am sorry, particularly for the accused's sake, that you have been unable to agree, and there remains only one thing for me to do, and that is to discharge you. Before I do so, I feel I should say that I think you have given this case full consideration, and have endeavored to do your duty as you saw it. I thank you for your attendance here and the effort you have made to reach a decision."

Turning to the accused, he expressed regret that the case would have to lie over until next June.

Importance of Their Task.

Jurors were impressed several times during the hearing with the importance of their task and the seriousness of the oath they had taken. First time was when Judge Smoke dismissed the petit jury at noon recess yesterday and rwebuked an earlier jury with the expressed belief that "they did not in my opinion, pay sufficient attention to the oath they took before the trial commenced."

Then when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry addressed the jury on Friday afternoon, he voiced a warning. "It isn't in every country that an accused man has the privilege of being tried by a jury of his peers," he said. "The common law of England is one of our boasted heritages. It didn't come easily, but was fought for, wrested from tyrants."

A jury trial is a great privilege, for an accused person, he said, but it throws a great responsibility on the man chosen to act on the jury. "For the whole system depends on the honesty and integrity of those men. If that keystone crumbles the whole system will fall and something else will have to be built in its place," he warned. He spoke of the seriousness of the oath, saying that "sometimes people look on things as a mere formality," but warned that such was not the case and that they had sworn "to do the duty you have been called to do, fairly and honestly." When he addressed the jury, Judge Smoke said he concurred whole-heartedly with the remarks of Mr. McElderry in this connection.

Members of the jury were Gordon Nicholls of Smith, foreman; Robert Elliott, Asphodel; Wellyn Dafoe, Belmont; Garrett McMurray, Douro; Edward F. Ryeder, Peterborough; Ethelbert Nicholls, Smith; Stewart Whittington, Otonabee; William Buchanan, Norwood; Ross Williamson, Peterborough; Herbert Tranter, Peterborough; E. F. Stabler, Peterborough; and H. S. Strong, North Monaghan.

A motion to dismiss the accused on the grounds that theft had not been established made by Defence Attorney Fair was dismissed by Judge Smoke at the conclusion of the prosecution. Mr. Fair argued that the company had merely taken the word of customers and that no evidence had been submitted to show he had received money.

"I'm inclined to think the case is very weak on the evidence and my recollection is that no witnesses said they had paid money but only that they did not owe the money," declared Judge Smoke. But he ruled against withdrawing the case from the hands of the jury and discharging the accused. In his address to the jury later, however, he recalled that evidence of payments had been submitted.

No Defence Called.

Mr. Fair did not call any evidence in defence of his client and the case proceeded immediately to Mr. McElderry's address to the jury.

He argued that the conclusion the jurors must reach in the face of repeated denials of debt by responsible, reputable people from all parts of this district, was that Bristow was guilty of theft.

Mr. Fair, in his address, argued that the theft of money had not been proved. He claimed no witnesses had said in evidence they had given the accused money that had not been turned in to the company. He charged that the policy of "the customer is always right" is obligatory to the company because "if they ever sued for an outstanding account, win or lose, they'd lose a customer." The result is, he charged, "that the clerk is always wrong—and here stands one as a result."

Judge Smoke instructed the jury at length and after the jury had retired Mr. Fair complimented him on a "most fair analysis of the case." Mr. McElderry concurred.

The afternoon hearing commenced at two o'clock and addition prosecution witnesses denied they owed money that Bristow's books showed as outstanding. Chief witness for the Crown was Inspector McIlwain of the Purity Bakeries. He told of an investigation he had conducted into those outstanding accounts. He said that many customers denied owing Bristow or the company any money, others that the bill submitted was far in excess of actual indebtedness. He said that on that occasion Bristow had informed some of the customers that "there must have been a mistake in carrying forward accounts," and that in addition to the accounts of witnesses to appear there were many others in which customers denied indebtedness. The shortage amounted to $581.19, he said.

He said that in conversation with Bristow during the investigation, accused had asked him how much the shortage amounted to. At that time he (McIlwain) had discovered some $200 shortage and told Bristow that amount. Bristow then, according to McIlwain, told him he was going to try to borrow the money to make up the shortage.

"Probably you remember the "Probably you remember the afternoon you laid drunk in a bootlegger's when you were supposed to be examining Bristow's accounts?" asked W. J. A. Fair in cross-examination.

"I'm sorry sir, that's a deliberate lie," thundered McIlwain.

He admitted he took the customers' bookkeeping records in preference to those of the accused and that in some cases no records were kept by those customers. "I have to take the customer's word," he said.

Roosevelt Keeps Both Parties Busy Guessing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—The gathering of politicians in Washington for a week-end of meetings emphasized today that President Roosevelt is still the man standing in front of the United States political picture.

If the Republicans could, as Chairman John D. Hamilton said, look their opponent in the eye before squaring off for the 1940 presidential elections, they would have some knowledge of what resources to muster for the campaign. If the Democrats were certain Roosevelt would or would not run, they could begin shaping their own plans.

The aura of uncertainty which prevailed before the Republicans came to Washington for their party meeting was in no wise diminished by their visit.

They are not quite certian yet about their own program for the campaign, or about the identity of their candidate. They are even less certain of the part international affairs will play in the next campaign. And certainly they do not know whether Mr. Roosevelt will run.

A story is spreading through Washington that he will make a statement at the Jackson day dinner early in January which will lift him out of the running. If he were to remove the doubt of his own intentions, he would open the way for all aspiring Democrats to begin a sprint for nomination and imperil whatever legislative program program he might have in mind for the next session of congress.

Only two Democratic candidates are openly in the field, Vice President John Garner and Paul V. McNutt, the security administrator. Most of the others have held back out of deference to the president.

Finn Troops Turn Reds On 3 Fronts

Looking To World For Real Aid Leaders Announce

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 11—(AP) — Finland looked today to "other civilized nations" for active help while her armies reported they had turned back Soviet Russian attacks from the Arctic coast to the Gulf of Finland.

The heaviest fighting was reported from the Kuolajaervi sector, just above the Arctic circle, where it appeared Soviet forces were intent on knifing through Finland to the Swedish border and the Gulf of Bothnia.

On the southern front, on the Eastern side of the Karelin Isthmus, three red army brigades which tried to smash through to the Mannerheim Line behind a tank corps were reported checked short of their objective.

(It may be that the report of success against this tank-pointed attack is to be linked with a Finnish broadcast received in Copenhagen which said Finnish planes bombed and destroyed armored train yesterday on the Isthmus.

(As reported to London by Reuters, the Finnish airmen co-operated with field artillery to wipe out a column of tanks and armored cars.

(The Copenhagen newspaper National Tidende said the Finnish air force also bombed the Russian railday connecting Leningrad and Murmansk, principal bases for the Red's Finnish campaign.

25,000 Russian Losses.

(Another Copenhagen newspaper, Politikens, said Russian losses in the Karelian Isthmus alone since the war started November 30, totalled 25,000.)

Meanwhile, Russian warships bombarded various unspecified coastal objectives.

Unanimously, the Finnish parliament adopted an appeal yesterday which represented Finland "as the

Nazis Make Vain Last Minute Try To Stop Reds

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP) — Germany made a last-minute attempt to get Russia to forego its attack on Finland, the Daily Herald said today.

The newspaper said it had learned Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenberg, German ambassador at Moscow, had conveyed the German appeal to Premier-Foreign Affairs Commissar V. M. Molotoff. Molotoff refused to entertain it, this report said.

The News Chronicle reported in a stockholm dispatch that Russia has called upon Estonia to fulfill the provisions of her "mutual assistance" pact with her Soviet neighbor. This pact requires Estonia to aid Russia in case of attack by a third power, and Russia claims that she was attacked by Finland.

The News Chronicle also quoted well-informed sources here as being "inclined to believe that the next few days may be crucial for Sweden."

"It seems doubtful whether the Swedish government can much longer restrain the growing hostility of its people towards Russia, even if it wishes to do so," said the newspaper.

"Feeling seems to be crystallizing among all sections of Swedish opinion that if Finland is defeated it will be Sweden's turn next. That being so, it is argued, Finland should be considered as Sweden's first line of defence and given all help and support immediately."

Truck Piles Up On Culvert, 1 Dies, Six Hurt

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 11—(CP) —Five minutes after Alex Armstrong Toronto, had changed seats with John Sibb, Toronto, the truck in which they were passengers with seven other Toronto men, went out of control two miles west of Clappison's Corners on No. 5 Highway, today and Sibb was killed.

All, with the exception of Armstrong, were removed to the Hamilton General Hospital after the truck ploughed into a concrete culvert and then nose-dived into a ditch 10 feet below.

The injured are: William Dolan, back injuries and shock; William Fairbrass, back injuries and shock; Harry Smith, very severe internal injuries; William Roache, fractured leg and facial lacerations; George Gray, back injuries and shock; Edwad Garrett, the driver, severe facial lacerations and shock and Kenneth Shelton, back injuries. The men are employed by the Accurate Distributing Company.

Pale from his experience, Alex Armstrong told how he had escaped men left Toronto early and were death by a few short moments. The on their way to distribute pamphlets at Brantford.

"I don't know what happened," said Armstrong, "the truck started to sway and then it struck the culvert. I was seated at the back but after the machine landed on its side. I was in the front and Sibb was lying crushed beneath the body.

'Some of the fellows were thrown out by the terrific impact with the culvert, and Bill Roache went through the windshield. It all happened in a flash and all I know is that I am lucky to be alive and unhurt."

Percy Schneider, Galt, and David Brittain, Preston, drivers for the F. and K. Transport Company, were first on the scene and helped pull the injured men from the wreckage. Hospital authorities said Harry Smith sustained the worst injuries and his condition at noon was critical.

A Quiet Day

London, Dec. 11 (CP)

THE third anniversary of the King's accession to the throne passed almost unnoticed today as His Majesty devoted himself to urgent affairs of state.

The King, who only yesterday returned from a six-day visit to the British Expeditionary Force in France, held a Privy Council at which he approved the order-in-council forbidding disclosure of what is said at the secret parliamentary session to be held next Wednesday.

No official celebration was held to mark the anniversary of the King's accession. The customary salute of guns was not fired and was expected to be dispensed with on Thursday, the King's 44th birthday.

Panic Suspected For Ending Thetis Escapes

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP)—Panic may have been responsible for failure to continue using the after escape-hatch on the Thetis, a chief petty officer of the Royal Navy said today as hearings reopened into the submarine disaster which cost 99 lives last June.

"A man panics and somebody may have opened the door on the forward side to allow him to get out," Chief Petty Officer T. Rowkins testified. "The man on the after side would know only that a man was panicking. Or a man may have tried to open the hatch, but could not do it because he found the hatch spindle was not free to revolve. Then somebody, to get the man out, may have opened the forward door and flooded the submarine."

Earlier testimony revealed one of the doors of the escape-chamber and one of the main valves into the chamber were found open when the ship was raised.

League Acts On Plea From Finns

Soviet Spokesman Hints 50-50 Hope Of Acceptance

GENEVA, Dec. 11 — (AP).—The League of Nations Assembly to-day asked Soviet Russia to accept League mediation in the Russian-Finnish conflict. It requested a reply within 24 hours.

The request was telegraphed to Moscow following an appeal from Finland's delegate, Rudolf Holsti, for "all practical support possible" against Russia.

A committee considering the Finnish appeal unanimously adopted a proposal by Sweden that Russia be asked to accept mediation.

Richard Butler, British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said the time limit of 24 hours should be set for reply.

"We must have no illusions on the outcome," Mr. Butler told the committee, which continued its work in belief that Russia would refuse.

May Be Accepted.

A Soviet spokesman at Geneva said, however, that there was a 50-50 chance Moscow would accept.

If such acceptance were forthcoming, Jakos Surits, Russian ambassador to France, could act as Russia's representative without delay since he already is in Geneva to watch League proceedings in which Russia is not participating.

Finland's appeal was referred to committee after a dramatic speech by Holsti.

"We cannot protect the Finnish people against aggression, bullets, hand grenades and gas with International resolutions," Holsti, Fiand's representative, declared asking the League for all practical support possible.

Finnish charges that Russians have used gas in the invasion of Finland have been denied in Moscow.)

Holsti, former Finnish foreign minister, was applauded by almost all the delegates of 40 nations when he rose to speak.

The assembly turned the Finnish appeal over to a committee which met immediately after the assembly adjourned.

Lithuania Backs Out.

Before adjournment, Hambro announced that Lthuania, which stood little chance of election to the new council because she signed a mutual assistance pact wtih Russia, had withdrawn her candidacy.

All delegates were asked to be ready day and night to expedite the appeal.

The committee includes Canada, Great Britain, France, Sweden, Norway, India, Egypt, Portugal, Venezuela, Boliva, Uruguay and Thai (Siam).

"Front Line of Civilization"

"We believe the civilized world, which has already expressed its great sympathy for us, will not let us fight alone against an enemy superior in number," Holsti said in his address.

"Our position as the front line of western civilization permits us to expect active aid on the part of all civilized nations.

"To all of these nations the Finnish people today appeal."

Referring to the "people's" regime proclaimed in Moscow as the government of Finland, he flung back Litvinoff's words of two years ago:—

"The recognition of rebels as a legitimate government is itself an intervention on their behalf."

Holsti then said:—

"Now the Soviet government is creating its own scandalous precedent."

Quoting Litvinoff

He expressed his thanks for "the great wave of world indignation started by Soviet aggression" and and then quoted Litvinoff again:—

Teuton Health Skids Badly Under Hitler

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(CP).—An official memorandum, compiling reports of medical authorities throughout Germany, is quoted by the New York Heraud Tribune today as showing that national health in the Reich has deteriorated seriously under the regime of Adolf Hitler.

The newspaper says the memorandum was circulated "confidentially" in the health department of the German Ministry of the Interior and was made available to "certain circles abroad" by ministry officials "eager to prove their integrity as responsible observers." The memorandum was said "to confirm what foreign observers in Germany had suspected."

"Certain paragraphs of the memorandum, which deals chiefly with conditions in 1938, are enlightening," says the Heraid Tribune. "The premature waste of physical strength was the object of serious observation and examination also in 1938," says one.

"'There is no doubt that years of hard work, with insufficient rest and unfit nourishment, have a premature and permanently unfavorable efect on the physical conditions of men and women in the prime of life. This refers particularly to in-

Tommies See Action At The Front

News Kept Secret Until King Safely Back Home

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(CP)—For the first time in the 100-day-old war, British troops were disclosed today to have gone into action on the Western front—and the news was welcomed in the press with the phrase, "the war has begun at last."

Elation created by this looked-for news was tempered by an announcement that a Royal Navy vessel, the herring boat Ray of Hope, was sunk by a mine Sunday. Four of the crew were killed and five men are missing. The Ray of Hope was one of the vessels requisitioned by the navy for mine sweeping and other auxiliary duties.

Movement of the Tommies in action with the enemy occurred shortly before the King visited observation posts and inspected great Maginot Line fortresses. His Majesty returned from the front last night, on the eve of the third anniversary of his accession to the throne.

It was reported British troops had been on the front line several days, but news of the action was withheld until the return of the King.

The Daily Herald commented: "The British infantry is now actively engaged with the Germans, and the British Expeditionary Force feels that the war has begun at last."

2 Neutral Ships Sunk

In the intense sea warfare, two neutral ships were sent to the bottom yesterday. The 398-ton Netherlands motorship Immingham was struck by a mine of the Northern Holland coast, with the crew reported rescued; the 1,928-ton Swedish steamship Vinga sank after an explosion, and the crew was saved.

The 5,162-ton Belgian freighter Kabinda broke in half after going aground on Goodwin Sands, and the 758-ton British vessel Fire King was

No Wiretapping Evidence Valid In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The United States supreme court outlawed today the use in federal criminal trials of all evidence obtained by wiretapping.

Justice Owen Roberts delivered the decision that reversed the conviction of three New Yorkers on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

In other actions today, the court:

1. Refused to review a test case to determine the right of litigants to a new trial because of participation in decisions by Judge Martin Manton, New York, who is serving a prison sentence after conviction for conspiracy to sell judicial favors.

2. Consented to review a decision that licensing agreements between the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation and refineries violated the Sherman anti-trust act. This is one of the anti-trust cases brought by the justice department.

3. Postponed action on a government petition for reconsideration by a nine-man court of the tribunal's recent 4-4 affirmation of the action by Judge Patrick T. Stone in dismissing indictments against 11 defendants in the Madison, Wis., oil anti-trust case six-months after they were found guilty by a jury.

Sherif Atherton issued a warrant charging Blewett with murder. Dorothy was president of the Colwell high school freshman class.

The sheriff said the youth probably will recover. Atherton asserted the poison was self administered. Investigators could find no definite motive.

Each Day Finn Line Holds Adds Strength, Hurts Reds

By H. M. PETERS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Every day that Finland holds out against "mighty" Russia not only brings her more assistance —material, financial and moral— but increases speculation in world capitals that Joseph Stalin did indeed decapitate his army in the purge of military leaders.

Credits for Finland are set up in Great Britain and the United States; Italian and British planes go to the Finnish defence lines; nations at Geneva ponder excluding Russia from their society, and Sweden is reported in some quarters in London to be considering entering the war on the grounds that Finland is her own first line of defence.

And amid these developments observers see increasing evidence that the vast Red army that thundered so menacingly down Red Square in Moscow was sent into the Finnish adventure unprepared.

Reports pile up of soldiers ill-equipped for winter fighting—in a war that Russia forced upon Finland in the winter — of airplanes with so little knowledge of enemy positions that they waste their bombs on bare rock because one gun barked at them, of tanks advancing across unreconnaitred ground and being caught and destroyed in elementary traps.

In Geneva it is conceded that China and Iran (Persia) are on the spot in deciding how to vote when the question formally comes before the league council of expelling Russia.

Such an expulsion would be something entirely new in league history. Germany resigned in her condemnation of the league and of the Treaty of Versailles that created it. Italy resigned when the league called her the aggressor against Ethiopia. Japan resigned because she was condemned for her invasion of Manchuria.

But Russia has not resigned. Russia declares she is merely aiding the "people's government" of Finland and is not waging war on that country.

China has to decide how important to her is the Russian aid she receives in her war against Japan. Can Dr. Wellington Koo, China's delegate, offend Russia and chance cutting off whatever supplies China receives from that source? On the other hand can he even indirectly condone Russia's aggression against Finland after he has successfully demanded that the league condemn Japan's aggression against China?

Iran borders Russia. Iran has oil resources and, perhaps even more important, has sea outlets to the Indian Ocean. Can she defy the Red army as Finland has done? The Finnish war has shown that Russia finally has decided to attempt to take what she wants, by force if necessary. Her neighbors in all directions are anxiously weighing their ability to resist.

Finn Ski Scouts Slip Through Russian Lines

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 11 —(AP). —Finnish ski scouts weer reported to have slipped through Russian lines to-day on the Karelian Isthmus almost to the Russian occupied cities of Rautu and Valkjarvi, about 18 miles from the border.

At the same time, reports were received of frequent artillery duels between the Russian fleet and the coastal batteries in the Gulf of Finland.

Large scale guerilla warfare on the Karelian front continued with the Finns counter-attacking to harass the invaders.

The two cities which the scouts are reported to have reached are some distance behind advance lines set by Russian communiques.

The capital was quiet to-day, so quiet that inhabitants who expected new air raids because of the bright clear sky were puzzled. Some shops reopened. Theatres were running.

The Helsingfors post office still was using the Olympic Games postmark on outgoing mail. Some Finns hope the Games will be held as scheduled.

London Mystery Man Freed; Charge Fizzles

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 11—(CP).— Aurel Ringuette, 21, formerly of Timmins, Ont., who had been a mystery man to London police for a few days, was released today when a charge of vagrancy was withdrawn by city police.

He was picked up Friday following a minor traffic accident, and was placed under arrest when he could not produce the ownership card of the car he was driving. Tracing his movements, police found that he had been changing $50 bills in beer parlors.

When arrested, Ringuette had $140 in his pockets, and he explained to Magistrate D. B. Menzies he had been paid $300 recently by a doctor for "keeping quiet" about an accident near Orillia. That phase of his story was investigated over the week-end but no corroboration was found, according to detectives.

Police were advised by Toronto authorities that Ringuette owns the car he brought to London. He had been working in Toronto, and had previously resided in Sudbury. He said he was born in Timmins.

Be Vigilant, Be Cool, Fire Low Britons Told Going Over Top

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec. 11'—(CP Cable) —The text of an historic, stirring document, the order of the day issued to British troops before they went into action against the enemy, was made public today.

The order was shown to the King when he visited the troops in France's Maginot Line. The troops came mainly from the North and Midlands of England.

The order follows:—

'You have been chosen to go into action as the vanguard of the British Army. We shall be in the close touch with our Allies who have extended us the warmest of welcomes.

'Unless everyone had done his duty since arrival in France th's unique honor would not have been conferred upon you. The enemy awaits our arrival with expectancy. The opportunity is yours to maintain and enhance the glorious traditions inscribed in your colors.

"Be diligent, be cool and fire low. To the last man, to the last round and a bit more. Not only the eyes of your country are upon you but those of our Allies and the whole Empire.

"With justice on our side the proud watchwords will be: "On ne Passe Pas" (They shall not pass) and "On Les Aura" (we shall win.")

The King took back to England Sunday a Maginct Medal inscribed 'On Ne Pas' presented to him during his visit to the Line. Recently Hon. T. A. Crerar, Canadian Minister of Mines and Resources, and representatives of other Dominions were presented with the badge which is worn by all defenders of the Maginot Line.

Escaped Czech, Held As Nazi Nabbed On Way To Front

LONDON, Dec. 11 — (CP). — One of three prisoners of war recaptured to-day after escaping on Friday from a camp in Eastern England told police he really was a Czech patriot who wanted to join the Czech Legion in France.

A Czech refugee acted as interpreter. The prisoner said he had been working aboard a German ship captured by the British Navy.

In the camp he was the only Czech among 250 Germans who subjected him to constant abuse, he asserted.

A police magistrate directed that the prisoner's statement be forwarded to the appropriate authorities.

The three prisoners of war were recaptured to-day some 30 miles from the concentration camp in Eastern England from which they escaped last Friday. A fourth member of the group was picked up yesterday.

The prisoners had attempted to head for the sea, but were still several miles from the coast when overtaken.

They were captured by a young constable. He was on his beat early to-day when he saw three men walking down the street and recognized them from the circulated descriptions.

He walked up to them and quietly said "You'll have to come to the police station with me."

The men understood, for one of them, Kurt Peters, speaks fluent English. They did not attempt to resist and were given a hearty breakfast while awaiting transportation back to their prison Camp.

Sends London Protest On Blockade

Chokes Finns Herself But Says U.K. Act Without Precedent

MOSCOW, Dec. 11 (AP)—Soviet Russia, herself blockading Finland, protested today against Great Britain's attempt to strangle Germany by cutting off her exports.

Contending that Britain's action was "without precedent in history," the Soviet note as represented in a Moscow broadcast said Russia would reserve the right to demand compensation for losses.

On the military front, the Russian army reported troops had penetrated 35 miles into northern Finland to the town of Kuolajaervi. The advance on all fronts was reported from three to five miles.

The broadcast announcing the protest against blockade said the government considered Britain's action as a "completely arbitrary act." The note was said to have been drawn up along the lines of the United States protest to Britain but was described as "much stronger."

"The government of the U.S.S.R. reserves the right to demand compensation for losses if a state merchant ship of the U.S.S.R. is forcibly escorted to a British or French port, or if application of the order of Nov. 28 causes some other loss to the foreign trade of the U.S.S.R." the radio announcement said.

3 Mile Advance

Red army troops on the Finnish front were reported in a communique to have "advanced in all directions five to seven kilometres" (3⅛ to 4⅜ miles).

"In the Ukhta direction, Soviet troops occupied the town of Kuolajaervi; in the Porosozero direction, the village of Johonala; on the Karelian isthmus, the towns of Boboshino and Kirkamuolaa."

Meanwhile, Moscow newspapers printed without comment reports from Stockholm that Germany was sending arms to Finland to aid her conflict against the Russians. The reports, carried under headlines which ended with a question mark, also hinted that Germany had given facilities to Italian bombing planes in reaching Finland.

A diplomatic source interpreted the publication of the reports as a warning that Russia might break off her non-aggression pact with Germany if she furnishes war materials to the Finns.

(An official German radio broadcast heard in London said the reports that Germany is supplying the Finns arms was "an invention aimed only to disturb German-Russian relations.")

Thirty-five persons were indicted recently in Tokyo, Japan, for selling fake stocks.

"It is time for defenders of peace to call a spade a spade and aggression an aggression no matter what the disguise may be. No international principle justifies an aggression, armed intervention or invasion of other states and violation of international treaties which protect them."

"Those again are the Soviet's words," the Finn said, "and yet look what they do today!"

Another wave of applause greeted the end of his address.

Hambro in his urging that no efforts be spared to halt the conflict nevertheless personally held little hope that the Russians would listen to any appeal to remove their troops from Finland. A gesture in that direction was the first step, delegates said, to be taken before acting on the Finnish appeal to condemn Russia as an aggressor.

Balmy Weather Worrying West's Fuel Men

It should be stormy and cold and geting colder, but:—

Frustrated skiiers gloomily read these weather headlines: "heat records broken; showers forecast."

Instead of shovelling snow the populace is playing golf, tennis, baseball and fishing in open water.

Fuel dealers—hot under the collar—glare at the thermomoter and clench fists at empty order books.

Trees and flowers are blooming out of season—and birds flit about while people water their lawns.

The roar of snowploughs on the highways is still, but a water sprinkler rumbles down a dusty street now and then.

Wheat crops are stunted and range cattle go thirsty—all because of no snow covering and a lack of fall rains.

Prairie fires seared thousands of acres of dry pasture land last week.

Tourists are heading westward in record numbers. Filling station men are happy over booming gasoline sales, despite scanty business in anti-freeze for auto radiators.

At Havre, Mont., which once held the United States 'low temperature record of some 55 degrees below zero, flowers are blooming. There's a new skiiers chalet on McDonald Pass over the continental divide near Helena, Mont., but it's standing vacant on account of no snow....

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11 —(AP) —It begins to look as if Jack Dempsey may not get to Manila in time to referee the middleweight title fight between champion Ceferino Garcia and Glenn Lee of Nebraska, Saturday. French Dugouts Smashed Berlin Boasts

BERLIN, Dec. 9—(AP).—A German army communique today claimed that German shock troops destroyed a number of French dugouts on the Western front.

The German communique said:

"At some points in the west, somewhat more lively artillery activity. Between the Moselle and the Rhine Rivers, shock troops blew up two French dugouts and incapacitated three others on French soil southwest of Merzig.

"The air force continued larger scale reconnaissance activity, chiefly over West Central France. German planes were unsuccessfully attacked by pursuers and shot at by anti-aircraft at various places. There were no losses.

"The British Admiralty acknowledged the torpedoing of the destroyer Jersey December 7 by a German U-boat.'

("The destroyer Jersey was damaged by a torpedo last Thursday, the British Admiralty announced, but reached port. The attacking U-boat was destroyed).

Military authorities revealed German reconnaissance planes, protected by pursuit craft, yesterday again made reconnaissance flights deep into eastern France.

The flights had no "psychological" objective, since the planes aimed less at flying over cities than at carefully following highways and railways lines. The planes flew at a high altitude.

December Grain Cargoes Hit Near Lake High

DETROIT, Dec. 11 (CP)—Great Lakes shipping circles report that although insurance rates rise sharply in the first 12 days of December, the month has seen the largest fleet sailing on the lakes in years.

After Dec. 12, only special insurance rates are obtainable as the risk of sudden freeze-up or storm is considered great. However, so far this month, sailings have been heavy, being made up mostly of grain, coal, oil and automobiles.

Automobile carriers will continue for the next few days, the last week having seen fleets taking on final or storage cargoes. Last ships will go through the St. Mary's Falls canal from Lake Superior Dec. 14.

At Buffalo, a 15-year record topples when elevators unloaded 16,838,638 bushels of grain in a seven-day period. A total of 11,150,640 bushels was sent to the eastern seaboard in the same period. Storage boats are going into winter berths at Buffalo in large numbers and it is estimated the grain fleet will include at least 70 freighters. Vessels are holding 14 storage grain cargoes at Port Colborne.

One of the largest grain movements in the history of the lake transportation trade was shipped out of Fort William and Port Arthur in the week ending Dec. 2.

China, Iran Hold Deciding Vote On Russia

GENEVA, Dec. 11—(AP) —China and Iran appeared today to hold the votes that will decide the League of Nation's verdict on Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland.

As the trial shifted to the League assembly, most delegations already had signified their intention of voting for condemning Russia —or, at least, assenting by casting no ballot —and for resolving to ask member states to give the Finns all possible aid.

The assembly session opened at 11:35 a.m. (5:35 a.m.. e.s.t.) with 40 countries represented out of a total of 53 "official" members.

Count Carton De Wiart, Belgian President of the Council, presided. Leland Harrison, United States minister to Switzerland, was among the observers.

Delegates from three latin American states, Bolivia, the Dominion Republic and Ecuador, were named with six others as members of the assembly's control committee.

The assembly adjourned after the election of the nominations committee, which sat immediately to determine the assembly presidency and vice presidency.

Lakefield Lady Hurt In Crash

The slippery condition of the roads was responsible for two accidents on the Lakefield Road early Sunday morning.

As a result of one of them Mrs. Clayton Dunsford of Lakefield was admitted to Nicholls Hospital, suffering from bruises and shock. She, her husband and Clarence and Mrs. Hockaday of Young's Point were riding in a car driven by Hockaday when it skidded of the surface of Highway 26 a mile south of Lakefield and rolled over in the ditch. The others were not injured. The car was damaged to some extent.

Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton investigated the accident.

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure was called out to another accident on the Lakefield Road at 12.40 a.m. in which two cars were ditched. Lloyd Doogan, R.R. 4, Peterborough, driving north, started to pass another car, also going north and driven by Percy McNaughton, R.R. 9, Peterborough. As he did so his machine got out of control and slid off the road, turning on its side in the ditch. At the same time McNaughton, in attempting to avoid being hit applied his brakes with the result that his own car also left the road. He had his wife and son with him but all three escaped unhurt.

Doogan who was alone also got off without injury and little damage was done to the cars.

Africa's Women Eager As Men In War Effort

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 11.—(CP)—South African women are as eager as their men-folk to co-operate in the Union's defence efforts.

Units of the South African Women's Auxiliary Service have been formed and are drawing increasingly large number of recruits.

A survey of defence preparations in South Africa shows that creation of new units is continuing. In Johannesburg alone recruits are pouring in at the rate of 750 to 1,000 a week. Many allens have offered their services.

Among new military undertakings, a military centre is being established at Krugersdorp, where barracks are being erected to accommodate more than 700 men. On the east rand a scheme for closer co-ordination between the chamber of mines and regiments now being formed has been put forward by the East Rand Battalion and the Transvaal Scottish.

The purpose of the scheme is to enable maximum recruiting in the mines to be carried out without unduly embarassing industry. Recruiting for a new battalion of the Transvaal Scottish is proceeding satisfactorily, military authorities say.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermaid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Woman Robbed On Way Home

That she had been held up and robbed of $2 by a man who was lurking in a lane was the story told police on Saturday night by Mrs. D. Huggins, Patterson Street.

Mrs. Huggins said that she was walking east on Wolfe Street and had opened her pocketbook to look for something when a man emerged from a laneway, and said: "Don't move; give me that bill," and then grabbed a $2 bill from her hand and ran away.

The woman walked up town to report the matter to the Police Station.

Mrs. C. M. Scott was elected fifth vice-president of the Provincial Council of Women at the Provincial annual meeting of the Council, held at the Y.W.C.A., McGill street, Toronto.

Announcement has been made by Mrs. E. Wand, president of the Local Council of Women, that although all affiliated societies in Toronto pay $5 into the Local Council; London and Windsor $3.50, and all others $2, the fee of $1 in Peterborough will remain the same. Many Peterborough organizations have paid $2 this year rather than have two teas, and because of this some of the members have become confused, believing that the extra dollar represented a raise in fees.

17 Candidates Enter Sodality

Completing a probation term of two months' duration, seventeen candidates were received into the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary in a beautiful ceremony, held on the feast of the Immaculate Conception in the Church of the Sacred Heart on Friday evening at seven-thirty. The ceremony opened with a procession representative of acolytes' torch bearers, officers, candidates, streamer bearers, Sodalists, and statue bearers. The Sodality banners and statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary were carried by officers and counsellors of the Sodality. "Mother Dear, O Pray For Me," the opening hymn, was sung during the procession.

Before procedure of the solemn reception was the singing of the hymn, "Come Holy Ghost," and the reading by the Father Director, the Rev. J. C. Moloney, of a formula addressed to candidates, symbolizing the objects and privileges of the Society and the great honors which were to be conferred upon them in their reception as Sodalists, and inciting in them opportunities afforded of dedicating their lives in a special manner, not only in the service of fidelity to the church and their patroness, the Blessed Virgin Mary, but also to their neighbors by good example.

Not only as a individual Society do Sodalists share in the benefits of prayers and good works of fellow members, and the special indulgences granted by the Holy See, but are affiliated with a world-wide confraternity of Sodalists. They also have the honor of belonging to a society which has royalty enrolled as members, as well as many of the great saints of the church who were Sodalists.

Following the blessing of the medals, the candidates were called to the altar. Assisting the Father Director with the solemn reception were the prefect and secretary of the Solality, Miss Edith Mattuci and Miss Dorothy Grady. In response the candidates expressed their desire of being received into the Sodality, and under the protection of Mary, the Mother of God, devoting themselves to Jesus Christ, endeavoring to perform to their utmost the duties assigned them as Sodalists, promising to observe the rules of the Society and show respect and obedience to their superiors, and always to remain faithful members of the Sodality. After repeating the acts of Faith, Hope and Charity, and the Act of Consecration of St. Frances de Sales, to our Blessed Lady, the candidates were presented with their medals, invested with them, and finally admitted and received by the Father Director, as Sodalists in the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

In addressing the congregation, Father Maloney referred to the feast of the Immaculate Conception, a most appropriate festival for the beautiful reception held in Her honor, and explained to the Sodalists that they were as ladies-in-waiting to their Heavenly Queen, and trusted that they would prove themselves worthy servants by remaining faithful to the promises they had made in living up to the ideals of the state of life to which they were called; by leading Christian lives; giving good examples and promoting fraternal charity; by exemplifying love for their neighbors; in observing not only the two essential rules of attendance at monthly meetings and Reception of Holy Communion, but by their fulfilment of all Sodality rules.

Preceding the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the hymn "O Mother, I Could Weep for Mirth," was sung, and the Litany of the Blessed Virgin recited. The singing of the hymn, "Hail, Heavenly Queen" brought the ceremony to a close. Miss Ethel Armstrong presided at the organ.

The seventeen candidate received were the Misses Mary Coss, Rita Coss, Veronica Coss, Helen Monaghan, Bernadette Clancy, Mary Depellaro, Clara Dennie, Isobel Heath, Rita Boucher, Helen Hayward, Yolanda Mattuci, Pauline Fanning, Pauline Shaughnessy, Marcelle Courneyea, Patricia Low, Mary Gooley and Lucille O'Toole.

Isobel Brain's Pupils Are Heard In Recital

The brief, friendly studio recital presented in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room by a number of Isobel M. Brain's students Friday evening was a delightful departure from the usual length and rather wearying program that one sometimes anticipates in pupil presentations.

The program, which was both balanced and versatile, was but an hour in length, thus enabling each young pianist to take part before his interest and enthusiasm flagged. Ranging in age from ten to fourteen years, the pupils demonstrated a keen aptitude and a thorough knowledge of their subjects. Especially noticeable was the careful attention to expression, fingering and use of the pedal.

Later in the season other young students under Mrs. Brain's instruction will appear in recital, they having been interested spectators of Friday evening's performance.

Candy was passed during the evening by Jane Gillespie, Agnes Strickland, Margaret and Jane Loucks, Raymond Sutcliffe, Douglas Head.

Mary Anderson Of Havelock Is Wed In Toronto

An interesting wedding took place in St. John's church, West Toronto, on Saturday evening, when Miss Mary Anne Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliam Anderson, Havelock, and Mr. Harold Grayson Windle, son of Mrs. Windle and the late W. Windle, Toronto, were united in marriage by Rev. H. R. Hunt.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk velvet with turban of the same material, and corsage of roses. Her sister, Miss Gladys Anderson of Toronto, was her bridesmaid, wearing a frock of linen blue velvet with turban and corsage of Talisman roses. Mr. Earle Windle was groomsman for his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Windle left for a short trip to the United States, and will live in Toronto on their return. For travelling the bride wore a frock of cocoa boucle crepe, black coat trimmed with Persian lamb, and smart black hat.

ST. MARY'S, MANVERS.

The regular semi-weekly meeting of St. Mary's church A.Y.P.A. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hannah on Wednesday evening After the usual opening exercises by the president, Bob Reid, the roll call was answered by verses from the Book of Genesis.

Robert Sisson was appointed press secretary and Muriel Hannah and Isobel Sisson representatives on the executive of the district council.

The program of the evening was of a devotional nature. Jean Smith read the prayers; Ben Page the Scripture lesson, and Robert Sisson the teaching of the lesson of the day.

Two contests were conducted by Isobel Sisson, the prizes being won by Jack Hannah and Gordon Jarvis.

The Rev. A. R. Holden, by invitation of the president, Bob Reid, gave a talk on group discussion.

Names were drawn for exchange of gifts at the Christmas meeting, which will be again held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hannah.

A hearty vote of thanks to the host and hostess, Murnel and Jack, was passed on the motion of the rector, followed by lovely refreshments served by the young ladies.

The young people also extended an invitation to their rector to defer his removal to a new parish, that he may assist them at another meeting of the A.Y.P.A., which was kindly accepted by Mr. Holden.

By far the easiest way to remove shine from cloth is to "brush" the part gently with a piece of fine sandpaper; this will raise the nap of the cloth again The shine will come back after a few weeks' hard wear, but you can sandpaper the cloth again and again without damaging it, provided you do the job very lightly.

...The gifts will be sent through the first lady of France, Mme. Albert Lebrun. The Princesses, like thousands of other children, were removed from London and are now in Scotland. They thought up the gift idea themselves and already have purchased a number of toys and Christmas tree decorations in a five and ten-cent store.

Difficult To Believe

"People abroad cannot understand that every Finn wants to share the fate of the nation within the borders of Finland."

That was not the statement of a statesman or a diplomat, but rather the reply of Madame Aino Sibelius to numerous suggestions that she and her husband should accept offers of safe residence abroad during the period of the war with Russia.

This lady is the wife of Jean Sibelius, famous Finnish composer who lives on the edge of Helsingfors. He has just marked his 74th birthday and on that occasion was deluged with greetings from the world over, and with those greetings had come offers of asylum elsewhere during the war.

So the world learns something more of Finland and its people. The Finns themselves say they can hold out against Russia until spring. To be quite frank we anticipated that the conquest of Finland was going to be over in a week or so. We have for years heard so much of the Red Army, of its remarkable equipment, of thousands of planes and its miles of tanks, that it seemed impossible for a little nation to stand in its way. That feeling may have had unopposed growth because nothing was heard of the manner or spirit of the resisting powers of Finland.

Careful reading of many despatches brings some light on what has been taking place. Many of the shells which were dropped on Finland were so defective in manufacture that they did not explode. Hundreds of such were picked up on the streets.

Dozens of Russian tanks have been found to be old and out-of-date. The Finns used a new type of Swedish anti-tank gun which halted them and actually blew them to pieces in many cases.

One prisoner, a Russian farmer, said he was sent into the army on the report he had to go to protect Leningrad, which was being attacked by Finland.

Russian prisoners are wearing clothing which for warmth depends on the amount of straw which can be packed inside the tunic, much the same as the Chinese do.

When those facts are all added together they give some reason for the startling picture which confronts the world today—Russia finding the going extremely difficult in trying to overpower Finland. Russia with a population of 180,000,000 and Finland with people to the number of 3,500,000.

Other reports say the Finns want aid from the outside world. If ever a people had earned the right to such assistance it is the patriots of Finland who wish the share the fate of their nation within the boundaries of that nation. The people themselves are the nation.

We cannot be certain of all the news, but if even if it is only partially correct it is monumentally significant.

President Roosevelt says the last payment of debt by Finland will be used for helping the people of that country, and probably some of the previous payments will be placed to their credit.

Finnish troops are said to be using Hungarian anti-aircraft guns of a type which is deadly accurate. Where, when or how they secured them is not stated.

Reports say that Germany—yes Germany—is sending volunteer soldiers and anti-tank guns to Finland.

Italy has also already forwarded planes of the latest type to Helsingfors; it will send more, and as well a volunteer corps will go to that country.

Britain has already shipped artillery and munitions.

The attack of Russia against Finland has become the centre of world interest and world indignation. Let that picture be kept fairly and without needless exaggeration before the world for a while longer and there will be something not far removed from a world crusade launched against Russia.

Admittedly the picture is one which runs at riot with all the national lineups which existed before. Italy yoked for years with Berlin, and Italy herself the exploiter of Ethiopia and Albania, now pugnaciously indignant at Russia's ...ive into Finland, and ready to help ...inns. And already doing so.

...y considering sending aid to ...stand against the very same ...which she went hand in ...nashing and dividing of ... it does not make sense. ...oming from the scene indicate such things are taking place.

What a picture! Little Finland standing up to what has been regarded as the giant and bully of Europe and of Asia, and sending word to the world that she believes she can hold out until spring, but she needs some help. And our guess is she will get that help in measures and from sources which will surprise her. The far-seeing men who predicted the time would come when the nations of Europe would have to pool their resources to fight Russia may have cause to believe they were justified in donning the robes of prophets.

Publishing The Lists

The Bowmanville Statesman has been considering a question which has probably come up for decision in a number of newspaper offices within recent weeks. It has to do with publishing the list of contributors in each locality to the funds of the Red Cross Society. The Bowmanville paper favors such publication as a matter of record, so that each person who donates will be given credit for having done so. That is right enough in itself, but if followed a little farther it might well be regarded as a system with that added pressure—if you do not donate then your name will be missing from the list and people will know you were a non-giver.

The list was not published in Peterborough, and yet the campaign was an immediate success. This city was asked for $15,000 and gave $25,000. There are always conscientious people who will give what they can to a worthy cause; their family obligations may be much greater than those of others, and for that reason their contributions may not seem great in figures, whereas they are actually great in effort and intent. We have known of such campaigns where the objective was hard to reach and the publication of the day-to-day results was one method of keeping up the interest and showing exactly how much more was needed. As a rule, though, the Examiner does not favor the publication of lists showing how much this person or that person contributed. What an individual contributes in such a cause is pretty much the private business of the individual.

The Late Sam Hunter

Sam Hunter was a great cartoonist in his day, and his day was a long one. He started drawing cartoons when a young man in his native Millbrook and he secured his first newspaper chance in the days of the Toronto World, dead these many years back. Later on he worked for the Globe and in more recent years the Toronto Star was his channel of expression.

For a long time it was understood that Sam Hunter would not work at all during two months in summer, and in those two months he was mostly right here in the Kawartha district. At times in Millbrook, but more frequently at Stoney Lake.

What a parade of public men have passed as subjects for the Hunter pen! Macdonald, Tupper, Cartwright, Foster, Laurier, Ross, Whitney—extending down to King, Bennett, Ferguson and Henry. It is correct to say that Sam Hunter never produced a mean or a venomous picture. He relied upon subtle wit, good draftsmanship and that keen sense called point. Millbrook gave to this country its pioneer cartoonist. And a gentleman.

Carrying It Too Far

Often enough one finds reason to complain in a general way that some governmental policy is not right. It becomes more apparent when defects are pointed to in a concrete way. The Ottawa Journal refers to the will of the late Sir Charles Lindsay, blind philanthropist of Montreal, who left four million dollars to Montreal or other charities or educational institutions. With that as the premise the Journal turns to the custom of taxing estates in Ontario and says:

"If he had done that in Ontario, the Ontario Government would grab half the money."

Coming directly into Ontario the Journal finds another example where Mrs. Hume Cronyn of London has given $40,000 to Western University to erect an observatory in memory of her husband, the late Hume Cronyn, M.P. The result of that gift is that when Mrs. Cronyn dies the Ontario Government will tax her estate $20,000 for that gift to Western University.

The Examiner believes in a fair taxation of estates because the principle of such taxation is sound, but where worthy bequests and gifts are arranged it is extremely difficult to justify the action of officialdom when it taxes the estate for having made such gifts. That appears to be exceeding the purpose of just legislation.

65 Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Preston have been married for 65 years. They have not wandered far during that time, not much farther than the distance from Smith township into Lakefield. Mr. Preston is 91 and his wife is 90, a combined age of 181 years.

There is something simple enough and yet sufficiently impressive in all this. Perhaps it lacks the venturesome spirit of today, and it may be young folk would not be content with a wedding trip which consisted of a drive home behind a team of good horses.

Perhaps there is no present-day romance in the picture of the bride when came the time of first harvest on the farm home following her husband, binding the grain in sheaves as he brought it down with the cradle. Pretty much pioneer, you may say, but they were building their home and their lives, and they were doing it side by side. And such work and such building provided the true foundation for national and family life in this young country. Congratulations to such people.

If He Gets The Chance

"Give the old farm a chance" was the general theme of an address delivered by Hon. J. G. Gardiner to the United Grain Growers at their meeting in Winnipeg. Mr. Gardiner believed that ninety per cent. of what was essential to life upon the farm was put there before the last war. With another war in progress he did not believe it was good policy for farmers to consider expanding their holdings, but he favored a policy of consolidating the position and above all else getting out of debt.

The minister was certain that too often the old farm had been used to finance a start in life for some member of the family rather than to make secure the positions of those who were going to remain on the farm. Possibly that is correct, but the same process has been going on in many homes which have nothing to do with farming. The idea of helping some member of the family to get a start is old as can be and is thoroughly sound.

The most interesting suggestion is that of trying to make use of the times to get the farm free of debt. There are a good many farmers in debt, and they would be interested in any formula Mr. Gardiner might submit. Within recent years there has been little opportunity to get out of debt. Perhaps in most cases none at all. The reason is that prices for farm produce have been too low. Often they have not met up with the cost of production. If there is anything in the immediate future which looks as though it would help farmers to rid themselves of debt then we are certain the farmers themselves will be only too willing to move in that direction. Being out of debt is the one safe place for the farmer to land.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When you threaten the freedom of some other person it may be difficult to realize you are also threatening your own.

One smart man is in trouble for securing relief from London and Windsor at the same time. Now if he gets cut off at both ends the rest of the season may be rather drab.

A child in St. Louis has undergone an operation for the removal of a second stomach, and came through in good shape. A little consideration we think would have delayed the operation until after Christmas.

The town of Ingersoll presents the happy report that relief in November was the lowest in ten years. Without argument such a statement comes under the heading of good news.

EMERGENCY

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I notice when an earthquake came, and rattled things a bit in Spain, upon a recent day, a lot of people rushed about, and some began to moan and shout, and some began to pray.

¶ They went right down upon their knees, and then began their earnest pleas, no doubt they meant it too; and others would have done the same, the day things rattled bad in Spain, but knew not what to do.

¶ The same thing would take place right here, if earth and hills were acting queer, if quaking were around; there'd be a lot of praying done, if folk thought tragedy had come, from shaking in the ground.

¶ For folk sit in the family pew, a habit with them, nothing new, the proper thing to do; they're pleased to see the moments pass, if preacher steps down on the gas, and gets the service through.

¶ Before the earthquake came along, perhaps no prayers were very long, might guess at none at all; perhaps some folk ran out that day, who hadn't bothered much to pray, since way on late last fall.

¶ And folk are pretty much the same, as what they found that day in Spain, no matter where you look; they'd got along quite well they'd say, until they happened on the day—when streets and houses shook.

Hitler Making No Addresses; Cause To Worry

HITLER has been strangely silent for many weeks, and that has caused a general consideration of the reasons for silence. Since he made the Russian pact things have not gone well with him. Arthur Ford in the London Free Press, summarizes the events:

What are the causes of the change in policy on the part of Hitler and what will be the outcome? Just a little historical review might help. Before war broke out, Great Britain and France were negotiating a pact with Russia. The Chamberlain Government was blamed for the failure to reach an agreement. It was claimed by critics, and many of them in this country, that it was due to the influence of the ruling classes which feared Communism and hated Russia that the pact was not consummated and Russia was thrown into the arms of Germany. While the British and French diplomats were in Moscow, announcement suddenly was made that von Ribbentrop, reversing German policy, had made a treaty with the Kremlin. Why did Russia double cross the Allies? Why did Britain and France fail in their negotiations and why did Germany make such an amazing change of front?

Light on this subject was thrown this week by Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary. In a speech in the House of Lords he revealed that the Soviet Government's price for a pact with Britain was a free hand to exert her power on the little countries of the Baltic. Britain, fighting for the cause of the small, independent nations like Czecho-Slovakia and Poland, was asked to help that cause by bartering away the independence of the smaller nations of the Baltics. It was an outrageous proposal and to the credit of Britain and France, was rejected.

Germany stepped into the picture and gave Russia what she asked. Lord Halifax was very specific. He said:

"The Russian attack on Finland seems to be a direct consequence of German policy. By an agreement which he thought would give him a free hand to attack Poland, it would seem that Hitler bartered what was not his property to barter—namely, the libertly of the Baltic peoples—and the sequence of events has shown how wide was the damage, once the floodgates were opened."

Lord Halifax went on to say that they had tried to improve Britain's relations with Russia, but in doing so had always maintained the position that the rights of third parties should be preserved. He is correct when he said that the British people would prefer to face "the differences and embarrassments, rather than we should have compromised the honor of this country and the Commonwealth on such issues."

HERE is the explanation of why Britain failed to reach an agreement with Russia. Why did Hitler barter away the liberties of these Baltic peoples? In the first place, it is part of his creed. The independence and liberty of smaller nations mean nothing to Hitler. Undoubtedly he believed that when announcement was made of an alliance with Germany and Russia, the Allies would accept the conquest of Poland as a fact accomplished. Britain and France would not go to war. Then he could deal with Russia and would be able to stop her aggression in the Baltic.

When the Allies felt their responsibilities to Poland were such that they must declare war and that the gangster methods of the dictators must be stopped, all of Hitler's fine plans were upset. Russia took advantage to march westward and now Germany finds her new ally deminating the Baltic.

Today Hitler and his lieutenants must rue the day that von Ribbentrop signed the pact in Moscow. What has happened? Germany has lost all her old allies—Italy, Hungary, Spain and Japan. Italy declares her agreement with Germany still stands, but that she proposes to remain neutral. But Mussolini knows better than anyone that he could not only carry Italy into war. There would be a revolution. Italy and Hungary are friends. If Germany marched into Hungary, Italy would doubtless come to her aid. Italy regards the Balkans as her sphere of influence and if either Russia or Germany start moving into the Balkans, Italy will enter on the side of the Allies. Germany has lost Italy. Hungary and Spain are both strong Catholic countries who fear Communism and the alliance with the Soviets has turned them against Germany. Japan was shocked when she learned that Germany had made friends with Communistic Russia and Japan no longer looks on Germany as an ally. She feels she has been deserted.

The brutal invasion of Finland by Russia has, in addition, solidified neutral sentiment against the two dictators. It is realized today, as never before, that there are two gangster pirates loose in the world who are threatening the freedom and liberty of all the small independent nations. Liberty won at such a price over the ages is menaced.

The Russian pact has accomplished three things:

1. It has lost Germany all her allies and has isolated her.
2. It has consolidated neutral opinion throughout the world against the dictatorial nations.
3. Germany has on her flank a Frankenstein which may in the end turn upon her.

NOW LET'S GO

"Why, yes, Gerald; certainly I'll bring a friend."
—London Opinon.

To The Editor

A MISAPPREHENSION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In this age of Biblical criticism I find that numbers of us have grown up under a very serious misapprehension of the sources of the Old Testament accounts of Creation and the cosmogony. Critics are accustomed to say that these Biblical narratives were the creations originally of Chaldeas, Babylonians, Assyrians, etc. Whereas the fact is that the Babylonians etc., narratives do not pretend to be originals but to convey the substance of traditions handed down from antiquity. To maintain that these Babylonian, etc., narratives are the originals is like maintaining that the Great War did not take place or is a myth simply because the various accounts of its origin differ widely.

Four thousand years hence, if we follow the same analogy, we may actually have the "critics" of the future declaring that no such war took place since the various historical accounts of it so greatly differ. In such a case to maintain that it did take place would be much more difficult than in the case of Creation since the fact of Creation is before us while the fact of the Great War could not be appealed to as a confirmation. Futurists would be to a certain extent justified in dismissing the Great War as a myth but whatever may be said of the Babylonian, etc., accounts of Creation, those accounts do not pretend to be originals, or those of ear or eye witnesses and yet the great fact of Creation remains. The idea therefore of treating these accounts as we might a newspaper story and as many do is both a historical and factual error of a fundamental nature. The basis of the Old Testament is not to be found in historical documents. That plain fact all explorations establish.

COMPLETE REVERSAL

THERE has been a complete-about-face in Moscow policy since Litvinoff was dropped as Commissar of Foreign Affairs to be succeeded by Premier Molotoff. During the former's term of office, gradually some respect was being given the Moscow regime for he continually urged the settlement of international disputes by negotiations and arbitration, instead of force. Since his fall from grace in Soviet circles there has come the Russo-German agreement and the invasion of Lithuania, Latvia, Poland, Estonia and now Finland. There was far more respect for the Russian regime under Litvinoff than under the bully, Molotoff.—Niagara Falls Review.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Bad To Worse

The music master of a school near Bradford had been lecturing on Mozart, Beethoven, and other great musicians, when one of the scholars was struck by an original thought. "How is it, sir," he asked, "that musicians are always so ugly?"

The music master looked embarrassed.

The seeker after truth suddenly realized with horror that his question might be taken personally, and he hastened to make amends. "Of course, sir," he said, tactfully, "I only mean the good musicians."

Simon Fraser

The name of Simon Fraser, a native of Glengarry, is written boldly on the pages of the early Canadian history of the Pacific Northwest. He became a partner in the powerful North West Company and in 1805 was placed in charge of its fur trading operations beyond the Rocky Mountains. In 1809 he explored the rocky, rushing Fraser River which now bears his name.

German Patrols Stopped By Grenades

PARIS, Dec. 11—(AP). — Heavy German patrol action on the Western front, notably in the Saar region near a section of the Allied line just taken over by British troops, was reported today by military sources.

The British troops have received their baptism of artillery fire, it was announced, and are taking part with the French in patrol activity.

In the German scouting sorties, raiders at some points reached French advance posts, but French reports said they were repulsed with hand grenades.

The army high command's morning communique was restricted to the words: "Nothing to report."

Fooling The Reds

Helsingfors, Dec. 11 (AP)

HOW two elderly Finns of a coastal village frustrated a mass bombing attack on Helsingfors with the aid of a rusty cannon is being told here.

The two men, members of the civilian defence organization, sighted 15 bombing planes en route to the capital Dec. 1, as the story goes. They ran to the gun and fired at the planes.

The shot missed, but the squadron wheeled about, and a dozen of the planes emptied their bomb racks on the rocky shore where the cannon stood. They had to return to their base. Only three planes went on to Helsingfors.

Damage Action Is Dismissed

COBOURG, Dec. 11. — At the County Court sittings at Cobourg on Friday, John Davey and Frederick Kenneth Davey brought an action against Alvin Mitchell of Pontypool for $1,000 damages for injuries Frederick Kenneth Davey received in a motor accident.

Frederick Kenneth Davey, the son of John Davey, the C.P.R. foreman at Pontypool, was said to have been standing on the main street of Pontypool in front of Richardson's garage on July 21, 1938, when Alvin Mitchell's car was being towed through the town and came in contact with Frederick Kenneth Davey, who was thrown over the hood against the windshield and had four ligaments of his right hand cut, and his hand quite seriously injured. However, at the trial before His Honor Judge Coleman, the Daveys' action was dismissed, but the court did not allow costs to the defendant, because the towing car had no brakes on it and Mitchell did not have an operator's or owner's licence at the time of the accident, and the Judge said his disregard for the Highway Traffic Act was the cause for him denying costs.

A. L. Elliott, K.C., M.P.P., appeared for John Davey and his son, and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted as counsel for Alvin Mitchell.

Crippling Rheumatism

Rheumatism leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain is almost unendurable.

In the beginning rheumatism is often due to dyspepsia or indigestion, for if the digestive organs did their duty there would not be any poisonous uric acid in the blood to sow the seeds of rheumatism.

Burdock Blood Bitters invigorates the system, and helps to eradicate the uric acid from the blood which is the cause of the inflammation and pain.

Give B.B.B. a chance to help you rid your system of rheumatism.

Young People Require Will To Succeed

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11. — (ENS)—"The Will to Succeed" was the topic chosen by Harold N. Carr, local M.P.P., who was the guest speaker at a special youth service held in St. John's United Church on Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev. G. N. Maxwell, passed the entire service over to members of the Young People's Union, some of whom assisted as ushers and with the offertory, while Charles Jeffs lead in prayer and Thomas Brooks, president-elect of the society, read the lesson. Mrs. D. Holmes assisted with announcements.

"What is success?" asked Mr. Carr, who directed his remarks particularly to the young people. "It may mean different things to different people. Success to some means social position. To others it means becoming accomplished in the fine arts, music or painting perhaps and to others it may mean obtaining the comforts of life for one's self or loved ones.

Must Banish Fear

"Whatever our aim is, if we are going to succeed or going to banish fear, because fears keeps us from doing many things which help us to develop a fuller life. Fear keeps man from accepting responsibilities which should be accepted. Every time you refuse to accept responsibility you are not only unfair to others, to your group or your community but you do damage to yourself. You weaken your character and your self respect because when asked to accept some task you say 'O, I can't' or 'I wouldn't know how,' but in your heart you know it is because of fear. You're afraid and in realizing that fact you go down in the scale of your own self respect. Don't do anything to injure your self respect since when you lose that you have little left that is worthwhile.

"Our first attempt at doing something new may not be very good but if we go to the trouble of preparing ourselves to the best we can, we will usually find our efforts appreciated. Don't be afraid of making blunders, because one writer, H. W. Shaw says: 'Success cover a multitude of blunders' and Charles Buxton likewise state that a successful career has not been full of blunders.'

Opportunities For Youth

"Many people will tell you there is no opportunity for youth today. Don't you believe it. There are more opportunities for the ambitious youth today than there have been for a long time, but there is no place for the lazy or the slothful. Competition is too keen.

"One of the great difficulties in the path of youth today is the innumerable attractions. The radio, with its Charlie McCarthy and the motor car, movies, dance parties and so on with the result that too many employed in offices, factories or other fields of endeavour go to work tired or excited about the activities of the night before. Their minds are so intent on what they are going to do the next evening that they only apply half their mind or their energies to the work they are being paid for doing. When they eventually lose their job they say 'the boss was a crab' when in reality those individuals don't know what work is. They have never really tried it.

Full Of Clock Watchers

"The world is full of clock watchers—the type that watches the clock at the end of the day—not the type that is careful about watching it so they will be on time in the morning. I grant you there is little opportunity for the careless individual, because they are weeded out in these days of intense competition, but employers will do everything possible to retain the honest conscientious employee who works because he has a job to do and not just when the boss is around."

Joe Maddocks Is Rescued At Sea

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 11 (ENS) —That her brother, who was a sailor on a British ship recently lost at sea, is safe and well at a Canadian port, is the welcome news that has just been received by Mrs. Sidney Bidgood of Campbellford. The brother, Joe Maddocks, was a member of the crew of the ship Chancellor, sunk a week ago Saturday. A number of the ship's company was lost, but Maddocks was among the rescued who have reached Halifax, N.S. Mrs. Bidgood lost a brother in the last war.

German Prisoner Questioned

One of the objects of the numerous raids being conducted by the German and French forces on the Western front is to take prisoners, who may be able to give information as to the disposition of enemy troops. A German prisoner is shown here being questioned by a French officer after having been brought in by a French patrol.

With The Boy Scouts

The Scouters' Club

All scout officers and assistants in cub, scout and rovers are reminded of the Scouter's Club Christmas party being held in the association headquarters on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. All members of both rover crews are invited to attend. Everyone coming to this party is requested to bring one small gift valued at 10 cents, suitably wrapped.

The executive is scheduled to meet on Wednesday, December 20.

All Saints' Cubs

"Kelly Says" contributed greatly to the fun in the jungle on Friday night. A dance which ended in the Grand Howl was introduced to the new cubs by Akela.

Special instruction on cub work was given and later two cubs left the jungle trail to take up the scout trail.

Akela announced a Christmas party next Friday. All cubs are asked to be on hand at 6.30 p.m. in full uniform.

The Troop.

One of highlights of the evening was when Ray Kearns and Douglas Markwick were accepted into the troop through the coming-up ceremony.

The instruction groups were carried: Tenderfoot under A.S.M. Bartlett; second class with Troop leader S. Brook; 1st class first aid under the Scouter.

The Crew.

Last meeting was held in the home of the rover mate, and comprised games and dancing with the lady friends.

Sunday morning the crew attended Corporate Communion, and breakfast, with their lady friends in attendance.

Canon Paterson commended the rovers on their monthly Corporate Communion, and expressed a hope that they would continue.

Murray Street

The new pack went under inspection in good style.

This was followed by games of string winding and hopping punt.

Baloo (Mrs. F. Ford) of St. John's paid the pack a visit with one of St. John's sixes. At Red Flower, St. John's sang "Down by the Station," this was followed by a round of singing and fun.

Cub Alex McLeod of St. John's led the Grand Howl that brought the council rock to a close.

Murray Street cubs will meet in Akela's home on Tuesday night, instead of Monday, at 6.45 p.m., to practise for the Christmas play.

At St. Johns.—The Cubs

Some 50 cubs romped along the jungle trail on Friday night when St. John's played host to the Salvation Army pack.

Streets and Alleys, and Clothes Pin Relay were among the games played, and instruction in semaphore signalling was given.

At the Red Flower, Akela Beorman led in a peppy sing song and Akela Pammett told a story.

The meeting closed at 7.45 p.m. to allow for the total pole ribbon ceremony. In the presence of many parents the cubs carried out the ribbon ceremony during which every cub placed his ribbons which were the colors of the six to which he belonged, on to the totem pole. This was followed by the Grand Howl and an appreciation shown by the boys for their parents in giving these beautiful ribbons.

Afterwards, at a short meeting, the parents were urged to purchase jersey and toques for their sons. Refreshments were served.

The Troop.

Following inspection, Ken Brown put the troop through their gym. work. Instruction included tenderfoot under Rex Rose; reviewing estimation by Scouter; Signalling under Ken Brown, during which Gordon Best completed his second class work.

During Camp Fire, Ken Brown announced the Wolves as winners of the pennant, and Scouter told of scouting in England during war time.

The Crew.

A much-delayed meeting for the election of officers took place and a new constitution was drawn up. Rover Scout Ron Gynane is rover mate for the coming year. Squire Mat Sargent, assistant mate; Squire Bob Crocker, scribe, and Squire Rex Rose, keeper of the purse.

Discussion took place and provision made to offset further delays next year. Refreshments were served. This Tuesday the crew will attend the last scout leaders' course.

Mark Street Cubs

Owing to a change in the meeting night last week, a full turnout was not realized; only 17 boys and officers were on hand for the Grand Howl.

Games of Grand Mogul and Blowout were played. Compass instruction and memory tests were carried out. Assistant Commissioner L. A. Grant paid the pack a visit and told several stories of his own adventure.

Two hockey teams were chosen under aptions of the Maple Leafs and Black Hawks, and on Saturday morning the Leafs triumphed over the Hawks by 5 to 1, at a game played on the canal.

FREEDOM

"Having transferred my activities from the London Life to the country's service for the duration of the war, I see a remarkable parallel between the Navy and Life Insurance:

"Both furnish a sense of present and future security, which is priceless.

"Both provide protection to homes.

"Both ensure food and other necessities of life.

"Both work silently and effectively, day and night, regardless of prevailing conditions.

"Both have a record of never failing in time of need."

The Navy and Life Insurance, in their respective spheres, are guardians of freedom. They work for the preservation of that true democracy wherein every man may chart a life course for himself and his dependents, and live according to that plan.

R.C.A.F. Pilots Learn Night Flying, Land By Flares As In War Time

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TRENTON, Ont., Dec. 11—(CP)—Budding war birds of the Royal Canadian Air Force learn night flying under war-time conditions. When they go aloft after dark they must come down in the dark except for a dozen or so flares spotted along the landing field.

In the war areas there will be no floodlit runways which make night landing on civilian fields almost the same as day landing. So in their training the air force pilots have none either.

Flying exercises are carried out every night, weather permitting, at the Royal Canadian Air Force station here. They are an essential part of the advanced training course for which student pilots come here.

A dozen or more flares, much like those used on the highways to warn motorists of a stalled truck or a break in the pavement are used to mark out a night runway. They are ranged in two rows, along the direction of the wind.

At a landing field in the war area there would probably be only two or three flares, just enough to mark the wind direction and the landing field.

The flares have the advantage of being visible only up to a height of 2,000 feet. Thus to a hostile pilot, flying at normal height over an airdrome nothing is visible at night. Friendly aircraft, know the location of the landing field, approach it by dead reckoning and then drop down until the flares are visible.

Night flying at Trenton resembles the operation of a group of elevators in a large building. No aircraft may take off or land without the permission of an officer who plays the hole of starter.

This officer, stationed out on the field or in a tower on top of the hangar communicates with the pilots by signal lights By directing the traffic he avoids danger of a collision.

A pilot approaching the field signals his identification letter and asks for permission to land. The controlling officer signals back permission if the field is clear or an order to wait if another aircraft is coming down or taking off. When permission is given the pilot guides his machine down towards the flares and as he nears the ground switches on his powerful landing lights which illuminate the ground beneath and in front of him, and glides to the ground.

Student pilots and instructors are not the only people who work at night at Trenton. Since the war started, operations never stop. The airmen who perform the ground jobs work all night overhauling and checking aircraft which have been used all the day before in preparation for the next day's flying. During the day crews are busy in the hangars checking and overhauling the aircraft used at night.

as well as shut it off from Russia.

As soon as routine elections of committees are over, Finland's delegate, Rudolf Hosti, who remained silent at the procedure-mapping meetings of the council Saturday, will present his case.

Argentina will follow and then, officials said, a committee of 15 will be named to ask that Russian forces withdraw from Finland before the assembly decides on the aggression issue.

The decision whether Russia should be expelled from the league if found guilty of Finland's charge she is the aggressor in the Finnish-Russian war requires a unanimous vote of the council which the assembly will elect.

It already has been agreed that the new council will not include Latvia, on whose soil Russia has military outposts, but will include China and Iran.

Both may abstain from voting, but the Russians view even an abstention as support for the Latin-American move to oust the Soviet.

China in Tough Spot

China is "on the spot." Her delegate, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, yesterday saw Richard A. Butler, the British delegate, and French delegate Joseph Paul-Boncour, both of whose governments apparently are inclining toward support of Finland.

Then Dr. Koo hurried to the hotel where Jakob Surits, the Russian delegate, has watched the swift developments in official silence.

The Russians have indicated they will not be expelled from the league without doing something about it.

But China seemed worried most, thinking both of Chungking negotiations with Russia about aid for her war with Japan, and the effect in the United States should she, as victim of Japanese invasion, refuse to oust Russia for invading Finland.

Meanwhile, reliable sources said Britain had agreed to relax a ban on the sale of war supplies abroad in order to supply Finland with materials to resist the Russian invasion.

Observers pointed out the Finns are in need of pursuit planes to combat Russian bombing attacks. British firms were reported Saturday to have agreed to supply the Finns with 60,000 gas masks.

During his six-day visit in France, the King inspected a section of the Maginot Line that just had been taken over by British troops. He visited French infantry, British engineers, French tank and British ambulance units.

Honors 2 Frenchmen.

Standing in a drizzling rain, the King watched a parade of British and French infantrymen. Wearing the uniform of a field marshall, he conferred decoratalons on two French soldiers for distinguished service.

In return General Marie-Gustave Gamelin, chief of the allied armies, decorated a British flier.

The King then was driven to a railway station, where he reviewed three battalions of French "blue devils." He left the front line Saturday night after bestowing the Order of the Bath on General Gamelin and the Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire on General Alphonse Joseph Georges, commander of the French western front troops.

With the King on the tour of the observation posts were his brother, Major-General the Duke of Gloucester, chief liaison officer of the British field forces; General Gamelin; Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of British field forces, and French generals in charge of that sector.

On the home front London officials increased their watch for spies as a result of the escape of one suspect from a prison camp and the arrest of two others at railway stations, where authorities said they were questioning troops returning on leave.

COMMUNISTS LOSSES

MONTREAL, Dec. 11 (CP)—Since Russia linked up with Nazi Germany and adopted Hitler's wanton aggression tactics, Communist organizations throughout the world gradually are losing their members or disbanding, Melech Epstein, former official of the Communist party in the United States, said in an address here last night.

Takes "Health Trip"

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, former chief of the German Nationalist party and economic minister in the first Hitler cabinet, who is reported to have folowed the example of Fritz Thyssen and placed a frontier between himself and the third Reich. The place of his alleged self exile was not revealed, but he is believed somewhere in reported to have followed the ex-Switzerland.

Magistrate Pays For The Feast

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP). — Hoping that "everybody is happy now," Magistrate Henry H. Curran dug up $65.32 Friday for the pressed duck, Burgundy and caviar dinner and "good night's sleep" he directed the noise-worried James C. Lewises to have "on the town" three days ago.

"It was a puzzling case," he sighed, as he sent a cheque for $65.32 to Walter D. Binger, Commissioner of Borough Works—and a similar cheque to the Salvation Army for "Christmas dinners for those who might otherwise have no dinner at all on Christmas Day."

Binger had sent his cheque to the Lewises earlier, because as Commissioner of Borough Works, he was responsible for the contract under which construction work was being done—work the Lewises said was too noisy. But city officials frowned on the city's paying the bill—which left it up to Curran.

He had set the stage for the payoff last Wednesday when he told the Lewises—who complained they couldn't rest because of construction noise on the new East River Drive—to enjoy themselves "and don't worry about the bill."

Silent Air Raids Believed Out

LONDON, Dec. 11—(CP).—Germany can't make "silent" air raids on England as German bombers did in Spain, A. M. Low argues in a new book on "Modern Armaments." He reasons that modern sound detection will prevent this.

"The 'silent raids' made by German bombers in Spain depended upon the new trick of ascending to a considerable height and then gliding perhaps 10 miles toward the target with the engine switched off, but it is doubtful whether it would be so effective against a country with well-organized anti-aircraft defences," he writes.

"The airplanes could be detected by the sound-detectors before they cut out their engines, while the loss of height might make them easier prey to both guns and intercepting airplanes."

The writer calls sound detectors Britain's first line of defence because an airplane may be heard long before it can be seen.

Fugitive Is Nabbed In Trolley Scrap

TORONTO, Dec. 11 — (CP). — A Toronto police officer in street clothes and an escaped prisoner from Ontario Reformatory at suburban Mimico staged a fight in a Toronto trolley car last night that ended in the arrest of the prisoner, Rocco Pacquale, 20.

Sergeant Cecil Foster was the officer and he clung to his prisoner while 35 street car passengers milled about, some attempting to hamper the officer in the execution of his duty in the belief he was not a policeman. Two windows in the street car were broken during the scuffle.

Foster said he was riding on the car and recognized Pasquale as a man sentenced to four months on a receiving charge and who escaped November 12 while being transferred to an annex of the reformatory. He told Pasquale he was a police officer and quoted Pasquale as yelling: "This man's trying to get me—give me a hand."

The fight ensued. A passenger got off the car and notified police of a cruiser car who went to the aid of Foster.

"GOD THE PRESERVER OF MAN"

"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist of Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "The Lord shall preserve they going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore." Selections from the Bible included the following from II Timothy 4: 18. "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns away from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit. If honest, he will be in earnest from the start, and gain a little each day in the right direction, till at last he finishes his course with joy."

Four Times a Saver Of Life

Four times a life saver is Ethel Barnes, 19, of 28 St. James Street, who was today cited for bravery by the Royal Humane Association for her rescue of two children from drowning in the Otonabee River last summer. Member of a noted aquatic family, she is senior city swimming champion.

Ethel Barnes Cited For Bravery In Rescuing Two Small Children

The Royal Canadian Humane Association announced to-day that Ethel Barnes, 28 St. James street, had been cited for bravery in the rescue of two children from the Otonabee river last summer, and was being awarded one of the association's coveted parchments.

It was on July 5 last that Ethel Barnes, who once previous to that had rescued two others from drowning in the Otonabee, dived into the water at Rye's wharf to drag to safety Donald Martin, 6, of 91 Park street, and Fred McMaster, 12, of Stewart street. The Martin youngster had been riding on the shoulders of McMaster and the two got beyond McMaster's depth and were near death when Miss Barnes, who was standing on shore, saw their plight and dived in to rescue them. It was not until she got them ashore that she knew there were two youngsters, for the 6-year-old lad was clinging to the ankles of the other, completely submerged. She applied artificial respiration.

Some years earlier Miss Barnes saved another youngster from drowning, but no award was made at that time. Earlier this summer she rescued an older girl from the same fate.

Noted Swimmer.

Member of a noted family of swimmers, Miss Barnes is senior city all-round swimming champion, has been prominent in swimming races in this district for a number of years. She is 19 years of age. Other members of the family are Mabel, 18, Grace, 16, and Mrs. C. B. Wood, all of whom are noted aquatic stars. They are daughters of Mrs. Bessie Barnes.

The story behind the aquatic prowess of the Barnes girls is a tragic one. Thirteen years ago, when Ethel was only six, her two brothers, Allan and Leonard, were drowned in the Otonabee along with their cousin, Bertie Cookman, in one of the saddest fatalities this district has known.

It was then that Mrs. Barnes decided her remaining children—all daughters—should be accomplished swimmers. She enrolled them at the Y.W.C.A. for instruction, but Ethel was too frightened of the water at that time to be taught. When she was 8, however, she learned to swim in the Otonabee river and continued membership in the Y.W.C.A. —where she and her sisters have taken prominent parts ever since. She has taken the association's life saving course and is its best swimmer. She hopes to be able to enter swimming meets in Toronto some time soon, but has no way of reaching the Queen City to enter competitions.

Only three women, Mrs. Kenneth W. Hogle, of Huntingdon, Que., Aleda Foster of Holland Landing, Ont., and Ethel Barnes of Peterborough, are listed among the 20 Ontario and Juebec people awarded the parchment certificates of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for heroic rescues or attempt to rescue.

Charge Amended By Magistrate

On an amended charge Max Vincent was found guilty in police court this morning of having unlawfully while an interdicted person had possession of liquor and was fined the minimum for the offence, $10 and $4.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

The case had been adjourned from last week when Vincent was charged with having had liquor legally purchased by him in a place other than his residence, a charge that carries a minimum of a $100 fine.

Magistrate Langley pointed out that it had come out in evidence during the previous hearing that Vincent was on the interdicted list and therefore that the charge first laid against him was improper inasmuch as he could not purchase liquor legally. On consulting authorities however the magistrate found that he had power to amend the charge, provided he gave the accused an adjournment and a chance to enlarge his defence if he desired.

The amendment was made and W. J. Arthur Fair who defended Vincent said he would waive the adjournment and let the previous defence stand.

Magistrate Langley thereupon registered a conviction against Vincent, stating that he accepted the evidence of the two crown winesses that Vincent had brought beer to their place. He would take the responsibility, he said, of imposing the minimum fine in the case, as requested by Mr. Fair.

LAKEFIELD MAN CHARGED

Oscar Calberry of Lakefield was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court today with wife-beating and was remanded for a week. On a second charge of being mentally ill Magistrate Langley appointed Doctors G. Raymore Scott and S. Y. Walsh to examine the accused.

Home In Which Man Of 98 Years Is Bed-Ridden Is Threatened By Fire

BANCROFT, Dec. 11.—(ENS)—Neighbors helped this morning in turning back a fire threat in the home of Israel Mackenzie, seven miles east of here. After cleaning the kitchen range Mrs. Mackenzie hung the cloth in a cupboard. Some time later smoke was noticed drifting upstairs and it was found that the smouldering cloth had burned through the pantry wall. Mrs. Mackenzie and Rachel Young were alone in the house at the time, shortly after nine o'clock, except Mr. Mackenzie's father who is 98 years old, and has been confined by illness to his room. Israel Mackenzie and his son were away from home at the time. Damage to the house was limited to a small area by the timely aid of neighbors.

Municipality Justified In Recovering Funds Given In Relief Deputy Minister Declares

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—"Any municipal council is justified in suing the estate of a person who has been receiving relief prior to death," E. A. Horton, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said today. Mr. Horton was commenting on a report from Peterborough where city council is reported to be considering suing the estate of a relief recipient who died recently.

"Under an amendment to the Relief Act, passed at the 1939 session, legislation was enacted which permits a municipality to recover without interest moneys expended to any person receiving relief," said Mr. Horton.

Friday Is Set As Last Day To Receive Toys

Firemen today entered the last lap of their drive for toys for distribution among underprivileged children this Christmas. They can accept donations of old toys only until Friday midnight of this week. After that they are going to be busy 24 hours a day repairing and painting toys to look like new, and will not be able to take on new work.

Appreciation of the warm response accorded the department over the week-end was expressed by Fire Chief George Gimblett. "People are getting the Christmas spirit now," he declared. "We had an excellent response over Sunday. I hope it will continue, though, because we need every toy we can get our hands on if every youngster whose name we have on our books is going to have toys this year." He was pleased with the type of toy that is being donated this year, and said they were larger and better than in other years.

"There are only five days left in our drive," he said, "and I'm asking that all good-hearted people take ten or fifteen minutes off work one day in that time to look for old toys they may have forgotten they had. Just phone us at 5712 and we'll pick them up, or else bring them in to the Fire Hall and see our Toyland. We'll be glad to show visitors what work we have done and what we are doing."

Firemen are already working overtime to repair toys. All day Sunday they were at their workbenches making old toys look like new. They had a display that looked like the toy department of a big downtown store. And well they might, for they have a list of needy youngsters. 'We don't like working long hours any better than anyone else," commented one fireman on Sunday. "But we aren't complaining about this work—far from it. If you saw, just once, the happiness these toys bring to kiddies, you'd work hard too, and enjoy every minute of it." That is the spirit with which firemen are working these days. They only ask that citizens of Peterborough make their work successful by contributing a great many more old toys.

Drunken Driver Is Given 12 Days

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving on December 4, in police court this morning, Edward Pestal, London street, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., to twelve days in jail.

"That will let you out in nice time for Christmas," Magistrate Langley remarked.

Pestal's car was involved in an accident on Armour Road near the intersection of Park Hill Road when it shot off the street and crashed into a telephone pole. He was arrested shortly after by Constable Archie Menzies.

"I had had a few drinks and my eyesight is very bad," he explained to the court this morning.

"That is a very dangerous combination," commented the magistrate.

Trees Trucked By Night Out Of District

As surreptitiously as the smugglers of old worked the coast of England, an equally thriving and equally shady business is being carried on nightly in this district.

By cover of night dozens of trucks laden with evergreen trees for Christmas trade are winding their way down from the northern part of Peterborough county and on to Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton and other centres.

Not all are thieves, but a great many are. Some pay farmers from three to five cents for each tree cut from private property. But they are few and far between. Most agree to pay that price, then cut two and three times as many as they contracted for. Many others visit Crown land and take off hundreds and hundreds, paying nothing at all. They load their trucks high with the young trees and any night now they can be seen in the early hours of the morning—from midnight on—carting out load after load.

Farmers in the north are indignant about the theft of their trees but there seems little they can do about it. Tree cutters are not licensed and police are unable to check up on their activity.

Indignant, too, is G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls, who sees truckload after truckload go south on the Apsley-Peterborough highway.

"The Kiwanis club and the county council aren't accomplishing much with their woodlots if thousands of trees are going to be stolen by these fellows," he said. "They are only destructive, because they just strip the woods and never plant new trees." He favors licensing all tree-cutters, even if the fee is only a nominal one, because then police would have some check on their activity.

Junk Dealer Is Acquitted On Theft Count

Hymie Albert, 27-year-old Lindsay scrap metal dealer, was found not guilty by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of stealing a quantity of narrow gauge steel rails, the property of the Johnston Bros.' Construction Company of Brantford, the contractors on the Oregon Trail highway.

Albert was defended by Cecil G. Frost, K.C., of Lindsay, while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

John Drummond, resident of the Bobcaygeon Road, who said he was in charge of equipment for the Johnston Company, testified there had been a pile of steel rails about a quarter of a mile from Burleigh Falls on the old Oregon Trail. They were gone when he made his last trip of inspection and he had not seen them again until Sunday when he saw them in Albert's junk yard in Lindsay. Drummond said Albert told him he had bought the rails from a man named Raymond. Witness said the rails were valued at 50 cents a foot.

Provincial Constable David Adair of Lindsay, told of finding the rails at Albert's yard in Lindsay. Accused had told him that he had bought the steel from Leonard Raymond. Witness had called at Raymond's home but found that the man was out of town and he had not seen him since.

Albert swore that Raymond had offered to sell him the rails, saying they had been given to him and accused had made a bargain with him. They had gone out to near Burleigh Falls, picked up the rails and brought them to Lindsay. Albert had paid Raymond $7, based at the rate of $5 per ton for the steel. He identified a cheque produced by Mr. Frost as the one that had been given Raymond.

Sam Goldbach, Albert's partner, corroborated his evidence in regard to the deal with Raymond and J. Matthews, Howard Barker and Alfred Sparks, the last two employees of Albert and Goldbach, also told of Raymond's offer to sell the steel. The two employees told of getting the rails which they said had been lying in a ditch, almost covered with weeds and with no signs near them.

Magistrate Langley dismissed the case without hearing counsel. He informed the accused, however, that he had been found to be in possession of stolen property and now that he knew it it was his duty to return the rails to where he had obtained them.

WANTED LONG DELAY

Pleading that he wanted to get money to pay his fine Leonard Prevost charged with the illegal possession of liquor asked the court for three weeks' adjournment this morning. He got a remand until next Monday with the warning from the magistrate that he must be prepared to go on then.

PETES OPEN O.H.A. SCHEDULE HERE AGAINST BELLEVILLE DEC. 29

3-Team Grouping To Stage Double Schedule

The Petes open their 1939-40 O. H. A. Intermediate "A" schedule at home on December 29th, playing the Belleville Redmen here. After a Fliers-Belleville tilt on January 5th, the locals have another home game, the Airmen coming to Peterborough January 12th. A three-team double schedule was drawn up over the week-end at a meeting in Port Hope, with Convener Sandy Burrows of Belleville in charge, and the clubs represented. Manager Bill Jackson and Secretary Cliff Cadd attended for the Petes.

Oshawa' phoned the meeting to announce that club would not enter the grouping, and the Fliers, Redmen and Petes' delegates then settled down to draw up the schedule. The Petes argued strenously for a triple schedule, but they were outvoted—the other two clubs not wanting so many games and voting for a double schedule. Which means Belleville will be here twice and the Fliers twice during the schedule.

The next point to come up was the playoff system, and after considerable discussion, it was agreed that the top two teams would meet in a three-out-of-five series at the end of the schedule. The team finishing the schedule first would get the first home game, and games would then alternate back and forth. If a fifth game is necessary, the teams will toss for the site of it, proceeds then being split three ways—a third each to the clubs and the arena. Only if a fifth game is necessary will the proceeds be split, the home club otherwise keeping the proceeds, when the rink's share is deducted.

Friday Games.

Messrs Cadd and Jackson were successful in obtaining Friday night home games, while the Petes will play away one Monday night and the other times on Tuesdays or Fridays. Rangers Beat Bruins

NEW YORK Dec. 11.— (CP).—Bryan Hextall's third-period goal gave New York Rangers a 3-2 National Hockey League victory over Boston Bruins last night and kept the Bruins from going into a first-place standing.

The Bruins ware weakened early in the first period when Bobby Bauer suffered a concussion after colliding into the end boards. Frank (King) Clancy one-time defense star made his debut as an N.H.L. referee and spotted the game with fourteen penalties a record for the season so far.

Amerks Trim Wings

DETROIT Dec. 11.— (CP).—The crippled New York Americans, playing with only five substitutes, fought from behind last night to defeat Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in a National Hockey League game.

Charley Conacher, the 210-pound star whom the Red Wings let go to the Americans at the start of the season, led his teammates to victory. Conacher hammered in one goal and set up two more as the injury-riddled Amerks extended Detroit's losing streak to five straight games.

Remember When—

Reg Noble, oldest player in National Hockey League, was given his outright release by Detroit Red Wings seven years ago today. Thirty-seven years old. Noble was in his 16th season of professional hockey and had been five years with Red Wings.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

So it's Belleville Redmen, Trenton Fliers and ye Petes again. No Oshawa. Nope, no Oshawa. A three-team O.H.A. intermediate "A" grouping, similar to last semester. Schedule meeting was held o'er the week-end down in Port Hope, Bill Jackson and Cliff Cadd representing the locals and Sandy Burrows of Belleville being the convener. The Motor City moguls phoned to say they couldn't see their way clear to operating an intermediate club this winter. The convener had arrived — like the Redmen and Fliers' delegates—firmly expecting Oshawa to be on hand, and even had a tentative schedule lined up. They were quite surprised (and possibly relieved) when the local gents informed 'em Oshawa was out. And then the phone call confirmed this. A three-team group is not so hot, but it can't be helped.

* * * * * *

Well, sir, darned if they didn't then outvote the Peterborough contingent on type of schedule. Bill Jackson and Cliff Cadd argued themselves a deep purple for a triple schedule, but the others said ixnay. Both use the Quinte rink, same as do the Fliers "B" team, the Belleville juniors, a juvenile loop, and so on. And they didn't want too many games. Hence, it'll be a double schedule, just four home games for the Petes ere playoffs commence. Schedule, in elsewhere, calls for the Redmen to open here Dec. 29th. Locals get two home tilts before they have to travel. And were able to obtain all home games on Friday nights.

The Playoff Setup

This schedule—which had to veer around some billed VanHorne Cup contests in Kingston—runs till Feb. 12th. Playoffs may last till Feb. 23rd, and the winner must be ready to enter Ontario playdowns by Feb. 24th. Top two clubs in the schedule have a three-in-five playoff serial, leading team getting first home game, the other tussles then alternating. For instance, If Petes and Fliers make the playoffs, and the locals are on top, the Petes play here first, then clash with the Airmen in Bella Villa, then back here, and so on. In case of a fifth fray, clubs will toss for the site and split the gate three ways—the arena getting a share. But no other game will be tossed for, nor split between the clubs.

* * * * * *

Puck fans of a suspicious nature—recalling the playoff mixup of a year ago—might study that above paragraph again. The meeting made it a point to settle any possible dispute at a later date over sites of games and financial split in case of a fifth fracas. So the cash customers will know in advance and there'll be no sudden switches or underground plans. And that's the setup for the senior "B"—podden, plizz, the intermediate "A" campaign this winter. Three teams in, playing a double schedule, with three-in-five playoffs before the provincial playdowns roll around toward the end of February. Not the best arrangement in the world, not by six city blocks, but the best that could be worked under the circs.

A Swelegant Scrap

It was a pleasure to listen in to the Dominion grid final on Saturday, and the fans in Ottawa must have enjoyed the joust muchly. Even if the scrappy Winnipeg Blue Bombers did upset the apple cart in the final minute or so and kick the point that gave 'em the 8-7 win. And the Canadian senior football championship for '39. They deserved it and possibly a lot of folks in the east will be glad to see the west take the cup home, too. On account of they had to spot the powerful Rough Riders of Ottawa the home gridiron and the eastern rules. The Riders went down battling—and it sure sounded like a swell brawl from start to finish. A good grid windup.

About 30 Y.M.C.A. members here are paying a friendly visit to Lindsay on Wednesday eve, taking part in an entertainment for the 45th Field Battery of that town. Two local volleyball squads will dish up an exhibition for the soldiers, whilst a Peterborough basketball outfit will play a team from the unit. There'll be four boxers and two grapplers on the local contingent, and Ira Dundas and Stan McBride are expected to display some weight-lifting stunts. Just a nice gesture by the "Y" gang on the invitation of the Battery officials.

Minor Loop Meets

Southend Puck Loop has its annual meeting Wednesday e'en at eight in the Sacred Heart clubhouse. Open session to elect officers, enter teams and make seasonal plans. Everyone interested is invited. There were 12 teams in last year, four in each division—bantams under 14 by Jan. 1st, midgets under 16, and juveniles under 18. St. Peter's squads won out last season, trophies being The Examiner one for bantams, the Graham-Richardson cup for midgets and the Schneider Trophy for juveniles. Officers were Don Crawford, Mike O'Brien and Joe Collins. This is a good circuit, playing on the Sacred Heart rink, and 'tis hoped at least a dozen teams will enter this winter.

* * * * * *

Ye reddish men of Belleville suffered quite a setback the other p.m. down Kingston way in their VanHorne Cup quest when Smiths Falls did a 9-7 chore on 'em. The Falls' fellows ran wild to tally four goals in the final four minutes—pushing the Thomasites back into third place behind Queen's and Fliers. Goalie Watt was wobbly and his defence did not pull any Horatius-at-the-bridge heroics, either. A shrimpy crowd of fans viewed a fair fray and it looks as if that pre-season series no longer clicks as a money-maker. With the Artillery gang dropping out, the rest of their schedule is revamped to run till Dec. 20th, followed by playoffs till about Jan. 8th. If Gananoque enters an intermediate O.H.A. team—as they expect to—Belleville will likely lose Bill Hastie.

Bill Summerhill, Toronto Boy Leads League

By The Canadian Press.

Give a cheer for Bill (Pee Wee) Summerhill, the Toronto youngster who is getting the International-American Hockey League afire with his scoring.

Just about the most consistent player in the league this season, Summerhill is the top scorer and a continuation of his fine play likely will win him another chance with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Summerhill scored three goals and assisted in the fourth last night as New Haven Eagles beat the powerful Indianapolis Capitals 4-3 in overtime.

Despite the win, the Eagles lost ground duirng the week-end in their bid for first place in the league's Eastern division. The leaders, Providence Reds, won two games while New Haven played only one and took a four point lead over the Eagles who, however have two games in hand.

Bears Beaten.

Overtime goals by Johnny Chad and Wilf Starr gave Providence a 4-2 victory over Hershey Bears on Saturday while Starr's overtime goal, his second point of the game, beat Springfield 3-2 last night.

In other Saturday games Springfield beat Syracuse 2-1, Pittsburg and Cleveland tied 4-4 and Indianapolis downed Philadelphia 5-4. Syracuse trounced Hershey 5-2 in another game last night.

The Pittsburg-Cleveland game was one of the most exciting of the week-end. The Barons ran up a three goal lead but Pittsburg rallied, finally tieing the count on Johnny Sherf's goal one second before the end of regulation time.

Then in overtime the Barons were awarded a goal when Harry Currie threw his stick to stop Bob Gracie's shot but red-headed Pete Kelly scored for the Hornets with less than three minutes to play.

Old Lacrosse Player Passes In Cornwall

CORNWALL Ont., Dec. 11.—(CP).— George Otha (Manny) Crites, 73, one-time famous lacrosse player, died at his home here yesterday after an illness of six weeks. He was a member of the Cornwall police force for 34 years, being superannuated six years ago.

Crites came to Cornwall as a lad and developed his lacrosse talents in school here. He started his career with the local intermediate team and entered senior ranks in 1886. He was in the team that won the title in 1887 and 1888, going through the latter season undefeated.

Surviving besides his widow are a son, Orval of Cornwall, and two daughters, Pearl and Mrs. Wilbur, both of Montreal.

J. S. Hammond Sportsman Dies In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 — (CP). — Colonel John S. Hammond, one of the group that brought major league hockey to New York, died on Saturday at the age of 56.

He was former chairman of the Board of Madison Square Garden Corporation and it was he who persuaded George L. (Tex) Rickard to introduce hockey as an additional drawing card for that $7,000,000 structure.

From the idea grew the New York Americans and New York Rangers, National Hockey League teams that have become the most consistently profitable venture of all the Garden shows.

Colonel Hammond suggested hockey because he had been to Montreal and had seen the crowds at the old Mount Royal Arena. With this in mind he negotiated for the contract that brought the first New York Americans—the old Hamilton Tigers — to the Garden. For a short time he was president of that club.

When Rickard died in 1929 Colonel Hammond was appointed acting general manager of the Garden, a post he held with a lapse of two years until 1935.

In his young days he was an all-around athlete and later was a soldier, cattle raiser, banker and oilman.

CANADIENS SUFFER FIRST SHUTOUT OF YEAR WHEN LEAFS WIN

Frenchmen Are Defeated 3-0 In Rugged Game

TORONTO, Dec. 11— Well beaten at their own game of speed and backchecking, Montreal's Flying Frenchmen were victims in a forced landing and 3-to-0 defeat on Maple Leaf Gardens ice Saturday night.

An overflow crowd of 13,439, largest of the local season, saw Toronto's N.H.L. team more than atone for last Thursday's setback in Montreal, while handing Les Canadiens their first whitewashing of the campaign in a contest that provided a little bit of everything. It also was Goalie Broda's fourth shutout triumph.

In maintaining their hold on first place, the Leafs rifled a shot past Goalie Bourque in each period. Bob Davidson scored in the first session, Bingo Kampman in the second, and then cherubic Billy Taylor put the icing on the cake in the last one. Some members of each front line and one defenseman figured in the goal-getting operations of Leafs' well-balanced display.

Stung by Davidson's goal, which arrived in the fifth minute of play, the Frenchies really opened the speed throttle during all of the very fast initial period. But Leafs skated stride for stride with their nimble opponents and also did a grand job of riding them off until near the period's end, when, with two Leafs and one Canadien in the penalty box, Broda rose up to have his moments of heavy bombing—and also moments of glory— while repeatedly saving the situation. Seldom before had a big crowd given the Turk more rousing ovations for his work.

Rugged Robert Clicks.

Davidson's scoring shot made just before slipping off balance on left wing after taking Apps' good pass, eluded Bourque's desperate kick and bulged the twine low in the cage corner. Les Canadiens showed all of their vaunted speed in the first period, but were unable to shake loose from a Toronto team that once again richly deserved the nickname of "Flying Leafs."

Right after Sweeney Schriner, who played a great game throughout, had been robbed by a rolling puck in the second minute of the middle period, Kampman looked like a million dollars from Kitchener as he swooped around the Montrealers' defense with Lex Chisholm's pass. The barging rear guard out right across Bourque's bows, made the twine-tender flop, and then coolly backhanded the rubber high into the hemp. Murph Chamberlain got an assist for starting this raid.

That second goal—and a lot of lusty bodychecking which followed—seemed to take the edge off Habitants' steam. Leafs nearly always appeared to have things under control after that. Toe Blake, Montreal's ace sniper, never succeeded in getting through the Toronto defense, and more than once was spilled very heavily while trying to hurdle high in the air and be a real Flying Frenchman. An epidemic of penalties to both teams, including one to himself, got the crack left winger so peeved that when Getliffe als owas being escorted to the jug by Referee Ion, Blake popped off with unwise words to dour Mickey, who promptly added a ten minute misconduct to Toe's minor. Just before that incident, Church missed a chance to cash Schriner's perfect pass.

The fans didn't think much of Leafs' ineffective ganging while Canadiens had two men in the box, but the home team was taking no chances while nursing the two-goal lead.

Packers Win Title

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 11—(AP) — The amazing green bay Packers have done it again. For the fifth time in 11 years these stalwart football representatives of a town of 40,000 have smashed their way to the United States professional football championship.

They started winning titles in 1929. They took two more in a row after that. In 1936 they won again. They beat New York Giants 27-0 Sunday to win the 1939 National Football League title.

A crowd of 32,279, paid a record gross of $83,510 to see the battle. Members of the winning team drew $703 for their day's effort. The Giants each got $456.

Football Ace Wins

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)— By a margin just about as close as Iowa's football victories over Notre Dame and Purdue, all-America Nile Kinnick was named the outstanding athlete of 1939 by United States sports experts today.

In as close a battle of ballots as the Associated Press annual poll ever witnessed in its nine-year history, Iowa's 60-minute backfield ace won out over jolting Joe Dimaggio, New York Yankees' "Mr. Baseball," by eight points.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers Capture Canadian Rugby Title Defeating Ottawa Riders 8-7

(By HAL WALKER)

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—Glorious victory and heart-breaking defeat staged a vibrant clash on the pendulum of national acclaim at historic Lansdowne Park here Saturday and 15,000 persons saw glorious victory swing to Winnipeg Blue Bombers with an 8-7 triumph which brought them the Canadian championship.

Just as the breaks went along with Winnipeg in the last fateful minute of acute suspense that brought them victory, so did the breaks go against a gallant Ottawa Roughriders team. Methodically and confidently, lanky Art Stevenson kicked the winning point after a fumble set the Western champions up in pay dirt. It was a nerve-tingling climax to a classic of classics played on a snow-covered, slippery gridiron, and as Bombers ran off the field, jubilant at winning their second Canadian title in five years, Ottawa fans roared out voluminous praise of their smashing play.

Fritzie Rides Again.

Winnipeg's charging wingline and fleet backfield, sparked by the twinkling feet of little Fritzie Hanson, carried them to a national title. Alert, eager and fast, Bombers took advantage of all Ottawa miscues and they were helped by dubious Ottawa strategy. It was solid, hard but clean warfare that the football titans waged on an unfavorable grid. Both teams rose to remarkable heights of surging power at times and the running crashing tackling and general all - round efficiency of both teams made for a battle as close as the final tally would represent.

Little Orville Burke, who had been one of the main cogs in Ottawa's defense and offense all season, turned up in the unwilling role of "goat" of the most important test of the football year. He made two fumbles, enough to set up Hanson & Company for seven of their eight points. Tiny Herman, lumbering inside wing, whose talented toes had kicked many field goals, went along with Burke, muffing a three-point play in the last quarter that might have kept the Grey Cup in the East.

Herman Strikes Out

The big mounted policeman was in a way to be the shining man of the hour after a successful Burke-Tremblay pass for 25 yards carried play to the Winnipeg 30. Roughriders carried one ground play while Herman trundled off the bench and came bustling out on the field. Bombers were ahead 7 to 6 and only three minutes were left to play. The vast assemblage rose to its feet, chattering with excitement. "Come on Tiny, you can do it," jubilant Ottawa fans roared, and in the din Winnipegers could hardly bring themselves to look at what seemed to be the inevitable.

Arnie McWatters kneeled in position. Herman took a few preliminary kicks at the snowy grid to clear a spot. The ball came out, and when Herman put his foot to it the crowd was breathless. He missed the upright from 30 yards out, and the ball soared to the right of the goalposts and to the deadline. The score was only tied.

Bomber supporters breathed easier. Hanson pierced the "Rider defense with the only completed pass in eight that were attempted, and Jeff Nicklin took it for a 22-yard gain. Pressure eased, and then Art Stevenson, who kicked a wonderful ball for the Westerners, lifted to Burke at the Ottawa 15. The ball twisted loose from Burke's arms, and as the minute flag waved from the sidelines, Nicklin fell on the ball. Lining up in quick formation, Stevenson pounded a kick deep behind the 'Riders' wingline. Burke caught the ball and returned the kick. But the ball went into touch at Ottawa's 10.

Stevenson Kicks Winning Point.

Stevenson put his boot to the pigskin again and it soared to the deadline for the winning point. Ottawa only had time for three plays the first a successful pass, Burke to Perley for eight yards. A second pass failed, and McWaters, hoping for a Bomber fumble, sent up a high lift. And then the game was over.

Ottawa broke on top in the first quarter; a session which was marked by some brilliant running by Hanson. The little 155-pounder reversed his field, spun from tackles and dodged through massed Ottawa defenders for gains from 6 to 30 yards. When he finally did yield the ball to Ottawa, Roughriders clicked for a spectacular touchdown. Burke fired a 40-yard pass to Rick Perley and as Andy Tommy raced up alongside Perley he gathered in the latter's lateral, streaked 30 yards down the sidelines for a major. Tiny Herman missed the original convert, but made good when the play was ordered over again because of a Winnipeg offside. That made it 6 to 0.

After Hanson ran 15 yards around Ottawa's right side, Burke fumbled away the ball and Lou Mogul dashed up to fall on it for Winnipeg at the home team's 10-yard stripe. Andy Bieber made three on his first crash at the line and then carried it the rest of the way to go across standing up in his second attempt. Greg Kabat missed the placement attempt.

Kabat Misses Placement.

Bombers tied the score on the first play of the second quarter, Kabat missing a 42-yard placement attempt for a single. Daley was rouged back of the line. The kick missed the post by 10 yards. Bill Ceretti blocked a third down punt by McWaters in the last quarter to pave the way for the Western champions to take the lead. Les Lear picked it up at the Ottawa 15. Kabat tried another placement at the Ottawa 24 but missed and Tremblay was rouged for a single. Herman's single on an awry placement attempt knotted the score at 7 to 7 and it looked all over as if overtime would be necessary. C.R.U. officials had ordered that if the clubs were all even, twenty minutes overtime would be played, ten minutes each way. Stvenson's deadline kick with only seconds remaining forestalled that eventuality.

Bieber Saves Touchdown.

Reg. Threlfall's Bombers only made one fumble during the game, but it might have been costly if Andy Bieber hadn't raced up past Fritz Hanson and two Ottawa players who were struggling for possession at the Winnipeg five-yard line, and fell on the ball at the one-yard stripe. Hanson had dropped the ball on a kick from Sward. The Westerners acquitted themselves near perfectly under the unfamiliar three-yard interference and only violated the code three times. Their pretty blocking when Hanson carried the ball from scrimmage offered the picture plays of the game. Along the wingline they alternated to strength. To hold off the Ottawa charges they massed their defence with formations varying from 4-3-2-1 to a 9-2-1 at times of offense. Hanson was left at safety by himself the majority of times ano his brilliant display thrilled the largest crowd in Ottawa's football history. He was the Hanson of 1935 at Hamilton. Coach Ross Trimble sacrificed the distance McWatters and Sward might hold in punting over Art Stevenson by having his kickers punt into touch to prevent Hanson running the ball back. On the whole the idea worked very well.

Praise For Bombers

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—(CP.)

Prime Minister Mackenzie King Saturday sent a message of congratulations to Winnipeg Blue Bombers shortly after they won the Dominion football championship by defeating Ottawa Roughriders 8-7.

Text of the Prime Minister's message, sent to Coach Reg Threlfall of the Bombers, follows:

"May I extend to you and to the members of your team cordial congratulations upon the success of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in winning the Canadian Rugby Football Union championship.

"It is a pleasure to know that in a game so exceedingly close as to-day's the spirit of fair play and all-round good sportsmanship was so splendidly displayed throughout.

"The citizens of Ottawa, while congratulating the winers, will continue to share the pride they have all along had in the Roughriders, whose skill so closely matched that of their opponents to-day.

Winnipeg Bombers Given Great Ovation

OTTAWA, Dec. 11—(CP).—Winnipeg's alert backfield stopped the last desperate Ottawa thrust and the Blue Bombers ran through the wet snow to the sidelines, to be greeted by the greatest ovation ever given a Dominion championship football team away from home.

The 14,000 admirers, Bomber and Roughrider supporters alike, stood for ten minutes in the cold wind to cheer this great team from the West with the steam-roller line and the dancing, driving backs. The 'Riders added their plaudits, too, and the kids thronged around for autographs.

It went on all through the uproarious Saturday night in the capital.

Roaring wheat farmers in great fur coats and disappointed Easterners, forgetting the money that had been won and lost, thronged the hotel corridors and whooped the praises of the Bombers. There were toasts to Reg Threlfall, who coached the club that beat the greatest of all Ottawa teams, and to Ross Trimble, who took his Roughriders' defeat like just another knock along the tough football road.

Hands were shaken everywhere and Threlfall told each back slapper of the credit that belonged to driving linemen like Martin Gainor and Mel Wilson or frisky Fritzie Hanson or Andy Bieber, the 22-year-old Winnipeg boy who made good with a wallop for his home town.

"Kids like Bieber, who work like all get-out all season and refuse to quit when things are tough, give you a real bang," Threlfall said. "This was a wonderful gang to work with."

Trimble, forced to maintain an ever-present smile as Ottawans flocked around, lauded the efficiency of Threlfall's coaching. He had more than one work of praise for Orville Burke, who had to make a couple of errors in one of his best games of the year.

There was a banquet, with speeches, on the City of Ottawa. Hon. J. G. Gardiner ,the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and Premier John Bracken of Manitoba spoke, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King sent a telegram. Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa presided, and Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg got of fa nice piece, in his Scottish burr, about the friendship of the East with the West.

Then everybody went back to roaring through the hotel. Big, greying men who once were linemen, spoke loudly about the precision and the swift, devastating power of this Winnipeg line. People marvelled at the way Art Stevenson's kicking stood up in the wintry conditions against the vaunted punting of Sammy Sward and Arnie McWatters.

Dave Sprague, elected an Ottawa alderman the other day, looked just a bit dejected after his last game and one of his greatest. Wayne Sheley smiled when folks told him they wished his leg had been good enough to let him into the Winnipeg lineup.

"They didn't need me in there," he said. "I'd have liked to have played one little lick, though, just to have been in a national final."

The word went around that paper was being torn from the walls upstairs somewhere, and the cops were being called in.

Down the corridor a piano was whacked and a quartet gathered around to sing some of the old ones. Ice tinkled in the glasses. Some one lookout out the window at the cars crawling up the icy hill and said it was too bad the football season was over.

Canadiens Drop One To Hawks

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. — Chicago Black Hawks defeated Montreal Canadiens by 3-2 in a National Hockey League game here last night and kept the Flying Frenchmen from climbing to a first-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, who blanked them on Saturday night. The victory gave Hawks a four-point lead over the sixth-place Detroit Red Wings.

After just over a minute of play, Bentley gave Hawks a lead that was good until the home team had two men in the penalty box during the second period. Then Blake tied the count. Later in the second period Carse and March scored two goals for Chicago within a minute. March's shot was a very long one.

After Blake had drawn his second 10-minute misconduct penalty in two nights for protesting to Referee Ion about a penalty a four-cornered free-for-all fight resulted in majors for Trudel, Demarco, MacKenzie and Goupille with less than three minutes to play in the third period. Each team was two men short when Getliffe scored for Canadiens on a three-way play. Desilets missed on a penalty shot just before the game ended.

A crowd of 15,208 attended.

PARIS—(CP Havas)— The Paris Municipal Council today decided to change the name of Moscow street to Helsingfors street. The council also barred communist members of the council from attending its sessions.

PARIS—(AP) — The war has made the French capital almost a crimeless city.

Police said crime statistics since September have shown a drop of 97 per cent. They attributed the decrease to the mobilization of young potential law breakers into the army with other Frenchmen and the rounding up of all older men suspected of criminal intent.

OSLO—(AP)— Former Premier Johan Mowinckely today published an appeal that neutral nations and members of the League of Nations ask Italy and the United States to sponsor an appeal to the belligerents to participate in a peace conference.

MOSCOW—(AP)— A denial that Germany was shipping munitions to Finland came today in the form of a dispatch from Berlin quoting a German news agency, Transocean, as saying German shipments which might aid Finland in any way had been halted. Transocean also was quoted as denying a report that Italian planes en route to Finland had been allowed to refuel in the Reich.

Rev. Geo. Kelly Thrills Rotary Club

Rev. George Kelly of Lakefield United Church, guest speaker at today's luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel, distilled the message of Christmas from a half hour's abridgement of Charles Dickens' classic of English Yuletide literature, "A Christmas Carol," that held the members enraptured and delighted and somewhat amazed by his superlative histrionic gift.

At the close of his dramatic interpretation of the character of Scrooge, Rev. Mr. Kelly was showered with individual expressions of appreciation of his presentation of the transformation of the heart and character of one of the greatest figures in the fiction of Dickens.

The recital was deeply emotional ranging from the bitter pathos of Scrooge's malevolence to the spirit of Christmas, the melancholy enslavement of the man to his business and the meanness with which he had surrounded himself, then to his encounter with the ghost of his partner, dead seven years, and in the last scene to his glorious surrender to the ennobling challenge of Christmas, ending on its high note in the words of Tiny Tim, "God Bless Us Every One." Rev. Mr. Kelly made an impression on Peterborough Rotarians today which they will long remember.

The club's appreciation was extended by Rev. Dr. Barr, T. J. Carley, K.C., presided.

R.C.A.F. Pilots Are Seeking Artillery Men

Cobourg Battery soldiers and Royal Canadian Air Force pilots are playing a game of hide and seek in this district these days.

Soldiers are taking up positions of hiding in all parts of this district, varying their location from day to day, while airplanes circle overhead and try to spot them. This is the explanation of the number of R.C.A.F. planes that have been sighted over Peterborough during past weeks. It's all part of a scheme to train pilots and photographers to spot enemy troop movements or troops in hiding.

Four Youths Given Terms In Jail

Four youths who pleaded guilty in police court a week ago to a vagrancy charge were given light sentences by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., had explained that the police after investigating had not been able to connect them with any crime.

Three of the boys, Joseph Heffernan, Harry Jones and Jack Harran, were sentenced to ten days in jail, to date from December 4, which means they will be released on Wednesday. Heffernan was represented by T. J. Carley, K.C.

The fourth, Gerald Whatman, got off with a day less on representations made by his counsel, Ralph Standish, that this was the first time he had ever gotten into trouble. He will be allowed out tomorrow.

Crown Attorney McElderry told the court the four had been picked up by the police early in the morning in a parked car with the lights out.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

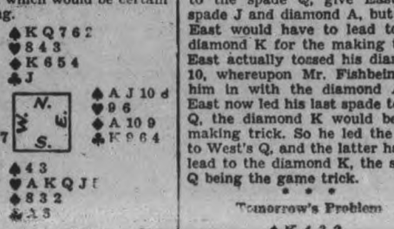
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

ALL GUESSES WRONG

THERE ARE no more interesting finishes to the play of a hand than those in which the declarer gives the defenders an option among several lines of play, any of them being futile from their standpoint. It is captivating to be either the declarer at such a time, or a kibitzer who notices the set of guesses he has put up to them, any one of which would be certain wrong.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Thorough watchfulness coupled with ingenuity, two qualities which have enabled Harry Fishbein to become one of the leading winners of national championships, helped him to a game on this deal. After his 1-Heart in the South, North's 1-Spade, his 2-Hearts, North's 3-Hearts and his 4-Hearts, West led the spade 9 to the K and A. The heart 9 was returned and he went to work.

Winning with the heart A, he cashed the Club A, ruffed the club 5, then ran his other five hearts, watching the discards, while keeping two spades and two diamonds in dummy. Since West gave a high-low in clubs, East tossed away the club K, so West held to the club Q and three diamonds, though he should have held two clubs and two diamonds. Prior to the last trump, East held the spade J-10, diamond A-10 and club 9.

If on the last heart East discarded his club, South could play to the spade Q, give East the spade J and diamond A, but then East would have to lead to the diamond K for the making trick. East actually tossed his diamond 10, whereupon Mr. Fishbein put him in with the diamond A. If East now led his last spade to the Q, the diamond K would be the making trick. So he led the club to West's Q, and the latter had to lead to the diamond K, the spade Q being the game trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you play for 6-Spades on this deal, against a lead of the diamond K, without risking the heart finesse?

Grade Of "Bones" In Shop Bring More Than Poultry On Market

"Twenty-five cents a pound for bones! Oh, my no." said a woman on Saturday in a main street grocery shop where they sell meat, in slow and deliberate accents of protest. There was some truth in the stricture and the cause of it, probably less than a half truth in depreciating short ribs to bare bones.

The little incident of Saturday merchandizing simply focuses attention on the price of one of the grades of spare ribs as compared with the whole range of poultry values during the last few weeks.

Chickens 15 to 20 cents, turkeys 20 to 23 cents, geese 20 to 22 cents, and short ribs 25 cents. Even consumers should agree that "it doesn't add up," that there is no equivalence, and some might mention the disparity, assuming that there is the disparity indicated, as proof that "there ain't no justice." And the unbalance takes on emphasis from the woman's airy derogation, vocally up the scale, "twenty-five cents a pound for bones."

Decline in Supply.

A glance over the upstairs market on Saturday indicated a rather decided reduction in the number of chickens for sale. It may have been an evidence of what might be called unplanned economy in the poultry division of the market; a broad and spontaneous decision in the country that it might be more profitable to hold off some of the birds until the Yule season sets in, when piles of white meat will be required for Christmas and New Year's and the days between and thereabouts.

Chickens were not so plentiful as a week ago and the week before that; and prices centered around 18 to 20 cents, with some of the tail-end supply dropping to 16 cents. An increase was noticed in the supply of turkeys, selling at 22 and 23 cents a pound down to 20 cents.

A few ducks were offered. One woman said she got 25 cents a pound for one of her lot, but it was the only "two-bitter" in sight. However, that's the information, although there is no affidavit with it.

Here is a sample of the market along one bench, and all well prepared stock: One eighteen-pound goose, 20 cents a pound; one 15-pound turkey, 20 cents; one 11½-pound goose, 20 cents; one 16-pound goose, 22 cents; one 12-pound turkey, 23 cents.

While producers are looking for some stimulus for the poultry prices, they also need some support for their egg values. From the 38 to 45 cent levels to 27-33 cents has been a rather sharp decline in the last week or two. Prices quoted on Saturday were mostly from 27 to 30 cents, although some figures were up around 35 cents; and the smaller sizes were 23 to 25 cents.

Butter was mostly at 27 and 28 cents, with some ticketed 30 cents.

On the outdoor market potatoes were 90 cents and $1.00 the 75-pound bag.

Cobblers, White Stars and Katahdins represented the range of variety, fine looking stock, too.

Cider Mills Running.

The cider mills in North Monaghan and Darlington Townships are evidently running again, crushing out a grand beverage that would get more attention from the public if there was more understanding and appreciation of health values. Of course, that doesn't interest the type of inexplicable person who drinks to get drunk, and wouldn't turn to cider unless it was well hardened.

The cider sold on the market is fresh and sweet and exceedingly palatable and refreshing, to say nothing of its reputed vitamins. The price is 35 and 40 cents the gallon jar.

Apples prices were about the same as the previous week. Ben Isaac of Warkworth included in his sales four hampers of his best Spies at $1.50 a bushel, and No. 1 were firmer at $1.25. The dollar hamper was common a few weeks ago, but the McIntosh season is moving along into the Spies' months.

Norman Moncrief's prices were: No. 1 Spies and McIntosh Reds, $1.25 a bushel; Snows and Talman Sweets, $1.00 a bushel; Baxters, 80c; Bellflowers and Russets, $1.00. J. H. Johnston of Bailieboro had St. Lawrence apples at 30 cents a basket and Snows 25 cents.

Plenty of Wood.

The wood section of the market seemed to be as crowded as a week ago. W. N. Doxsee of Coe Hill asked $7.50 for body hardwood; mixed hardwood was $6.00.

Harold Doig's prices were: Carrots and parsnips, 75c a bushel; cabbage, 5c; turnips, 3 for 10c; onions, $1.00 for 50 pounds; potatoes, $1.00. Healey Brothers of Hastings were back in the potato row with White Stars at $1.00.

Harry Gill reported a rather lively demand for fresh meats at the following prices: Pork, 14 and 16 cents; beef, 12 and 14 cents; lamb, 18 and 20 cents.

Italy Grows Fearful Of Revolt In The Balkan States

ROME, Dec. 11 — (CP-Havas). — Fear of revolution in the Balkans and Italy's determination to resist it were voiced today by Il Messaggero in comment on the statement of foreign policy issued by the Fascist Grand Council yesterday.

"Italy aspires to no hegemony or monopoly of any kind," the Fascist newspaper said. "It aspires only to its own security, which is the very condition of its Mediterranean policy.

"But it cannot allow others to think, no matter what the pretext, of assuming unjustified positions that would overthrow equilibrium and would consequently be absolutely illegitimate."

After stating that political as well as international factors might threaten the Balkan status quo, Il Messaggero continued:

"It would be vain to conceal the fact that the present war and the upsets which it has caused fully justify a fear that to the present armed warfare will be added warfare of a social character, which would doubtless threaten the very bases of civilization.

"Hence the vigilance of Italy, which could not remain indifferent to threats to the established order on its frontiers."

Parliament Opening Unlikely Until Jan. 25

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 — (CP). — Delay in the announcement by the Government of the date Parliament will assemble has led to belief that the opening date will be later than generally expected.

During the special war session in September, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said it was his intention to call Parliament in January. It was then believed the opening would be as early as possible in the New Year, and January 11 was thought to be the likely date.

Parliament traditionally opens on Thursday, and January 11 would be nearest convenient Thursday after the holiday season. It was rumored in Ottawa on Friday, however, that the opening might not come until the last Thursday, January 25.

The fact no date has been announced does not necessarily mean, however, that the early opening has been abandoned. Only a brief notice is necessary to enable the members to reach Ottawa.

Caterpillar Club Admits War Fliers

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP)—It makes no difference whether you're rich or noble, there's only one way to enter the Caterpillar Club, the world's most exclusive. Membership is confined to those who have saved their lives by parachute.

Secretary Leslie Irvin says the membership is increasing now for obvious reasons, and he is thinking of organizing a reunion dinner in London after the war, inviting all the "war Caterpillars."

From time to time he receives a letter from France or elsewhere in which an officer or aircraftsman claims membership. These letters are countersigned by the commanding officer of the squadron. The member gets admitted and his relatives at home receive a gold caterpillar for safe keeping.

One letter seeking admission was signed by five airmen. They reported having to leave a burning plane at 12,000 feet. Irwin said that none describes in extravagant detail the writer's experiences prior to the jump.

"One of the letters came to be by a devious route from an applicant who is now a prisoner in Germany. He will not get his caterpillar pin until the war ends," Irwin said.

"Before the war we had 3,000 members all over the world. Some were Germans. Undoubtedly many Germans are qualifying for membership now. It is possible that we shall accept their applications after the war is over."

BRITISH SUB PASSES CHANCE TO SINK BREMEN

Ship Searches Net Little Nazi Exports

Firth Of Forth Area Is Ringed By Balloon Barrage

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The first report on the blockade of German exports which began Dec. 4 said today that only small quantities of goods of German-origin had been discovered on ships taken to British contraband bases.

The News-Chronicle commented that this suggested reluctance of neutral ship-owners to accept German exports.

The Admiralty declined to express an opinion on whether a German raider had attacked the overdue merchantmen Ash Lea and Trevanion, which sailed from Cape Town, and the Huntsman, from India. They and the Newton Beech, from an undisclosed port, were officially given up yesterday as lost.

Other shipping losses reported yesterday included the Greek steamship Garoufalia, 4,708 tons, torpedoed off the coast of Norway with four lives lost.

British official circles announced a balloon barrage has been established over the strategic Firth of Forth which has been the target of numerous German air attacks during the last two months.

Defence officials ordered construction of the barrage within 24 hours after receipt of the instructions.

Britain Forms Canadian Air Squadron

LONDON, Dec. 12 — (CP Cable). Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain and France have signed a comprehensive agreement governing wartime financial co-operation.

The agreement covers exchange problems, the availability of currencies, the floating of loans, and generally establishes monetary solidarity between the two Allied countries.

The accord supplements the agreement recently concluded between London and Paris on economic questions.

In a statement on the war in the air, Sir Kingsley Wood, Air Secretary, declared Britain's defences had

Russians Cut 40 Miles Into Finland

Army Heads South To Outflank Karelian Defense

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 12 — (AP) —The Red invaders of Finland, operating from dearly-won footholds 40 miles within the border, pressed to-day two separate campaigns, either one of which—if completed—might bring Finland to her knees.

The newer of these parallel offensives took shape along the icy shore of Lake Ladoga and in the lake-dotted country to the north, where numerically superior Soviet forces were bent on rounding the northern part of Lake Ladoga to outflank the stubborn defenders of the Karelin Isthmus.

Twelve days of attack by planes, tanks, artiliery and infantry had failed to crack the Isthmus defences between Lake Ladoga and the Gulf of Finland—the Mannerheim Line—according to the Finnish command, and the Russian strategists may have decided a flanking manoeuvre held the greater chance of success.

A Finnish communique told of withdrawal yesterday from Pitkaranta, a railway terminus about 40 miles within Finland on the Ladoga shore, permittin gRussian occupation of the town.

Loimola Bombed.

The town of Loimola, less than 30 miles north of Pitkaranta, was bombarded heavily—apparently to "soften" the Finnish defences for an impending assault by another force of advancing Russians.

Still further north, the resort town of Tolvajaervi was the scene of an engagement in which the Finns said their foe was turned back with heavy losses. However, the Finnish command announced wiping out three companies of red infantry trapped in machine-gun crossfire in the Ilomantsi sector, near Enso.

About 400 miles north of Lake Ladoga, the other principal strategy of the Russians—to knife across Finland to the Swedish border and the head of the Gulf of Bothnia—was furthered by Russian capture of Salla, also 40 miles within the border.

This spearhead was about a fifth of the way across middle Finland.

Defence forces in that region were withdrawing slowly into forests from which they could put up a stiffer resistance than on the open terrain East of Salla.

Finnish military advices pictured the withdrawals as "strategic" according to plan, leaving unfortified areas to the Russians and solidifying Finnish strength in long-prepared fortifications.

In the Karelian Isthmus, the original point of attack, the Finns generally were holding their own. Seven more Russian tanks were said to have been destroyed along the Taipale river, on the Eastern side of the Isthmus.

Face-Saving Peace Offer With The Allies Seen Coming Via Italy From Hitler As Adolf Fears Red Pincers To Doom Him

By CHARLES NICHOLS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Diplomatic moves, curtained in official secrecy, brought hints today that Germany is seeking to free herself from the pincers of war with a new "peace offensive."

Observers in Rome thought it more than a coincidence that the French Ambassador, Andrew Francois-Poncet, left for Paris shortly after the arrival from Berlin of Hans Von Mackensen, the German Envoy. The London News-Chronicle reported persistent rumors that Francois-Poncet was taking to his government peace feelers from Berlin relayed by the Nazi emissary.

The report was seized on by the British press as a basis for speculation on the possibility of a Nazi peace plan being accepted. The virtually unanimous conclusion was that it was doomed in advance to failure.

Britain Not Fooled By Try To Blame Stalin

Great Britain would not be misled, London commentators said, by any Nazi effort to switch the blame for Europe's turmoil from the shoulders of Adolf Hitler to those of Joseph Stalin. Although there was no inclination to condone the Red army slash at Finland—the government has made itself clear on that point—there was even less desire to listen to any German argument that the Allies should team up with the Reich to combat the Soviet's expansion.

The authoritative Daily Telegraph of London suggested that rumors of Hitler's willingness to make peace on the basis of any Anglo-Franco-German alliance against the Soviet Union "have been spread intentionally from Berlin with the idea of undermining the resolution of Britain and France."

Signs of Friction Grow Between the Partners

There were increasing indications meanwhile, that Germany is not finding her Soviet partner the most congenial. The Soviet press display of a report that Germany was supplying arms to Finland and its subsequent denial were taken by competent sources in Moscow as a sign that relations between the two nations were none too smooth.

Hold Torpedo To Warn Giant Liner

Berlin Says Liner Home Safe Saved By Planes

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP). — The Admiralty announced today that a British submarine sighted the German liner Bremen within torpedo range, but refrained from attacking her without warning.

This, the announcement said, was in conformity with "the rules of sea warfare."

The Admiralty said that the Bremen, last reported at the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk, apparently was homeward bound.

The Admiralty gave no hint as to where the submarine encountered the Bremen or whether it took any action to capture her.

The Bremen, $20,000,000 liner of 51,731 tons and flagship of the German fleet, sailed from New York 36 hours before Great Britain declared war on Germany, and managed to reach Murmansk.

British naval observers said the Bremen's speed of 30 knots would make capture by a submarine virtually impossible. A submarine can travel from 15 to 20 knots on the surface and about 10 knots submerged.

Bremen Reaches Germany

BERLIN, Dec. 12—(AP) — The liner Bremen steamed into German waters tonight from Murmansk, her Russian arctic refuge.

German authorites said she had arrived within an unidentified "safe zone" under command of Captain Adrian Aherns, the skipper who took her out of New York, August 30 and sailed her into Murmansk by a far northern route.

Earlier authorites had indicated she was expected at a German port, presumably Bremerhaven.

They asserted German scouting planes were hovering over the Bremen as she neared a home port after an absence of more than three months and that these planes compelled a British submarine which was encountered to submerge.

Germans said the scouting planes did not constitute a convoy and for that reason it would have been a violation of International law had the submarine torpedoed the Bremen without warning.

(The Admiralty announced in London that a British submarine sighted the Bremen within torpedo range, but refrained from attacking, in accordance with "the rules of sea warfare."

The Bremen took refuge in Murmansk, Russian arctic port, in September after a hazardous crossing from New York.

When asked what might happen to the Queen Mary, British liner now in New York, if she tried to reach a British port, authorities claimed Germany would have the right to torpedo her because she is known to carry guns.

These authorities asserted the fact that all British merchant vessels are being convoyed made them subject to sinking without notice.

The German steamship New York and several other ships from Murmansk were reported to have slipped into Hamburg recently.

A Netherlands seaman who had been a member of the Bremen's crew related October 12 how the liner eluded British patrols searching for her by taking an Atlantic route to the far north.

E. Post, a cook, told his story after returning to his native country from Murmansk. He said the ship's captain was determined to destroy

McCullagh, who became head of the newspaper after the merger of the old Toronto Globe and the Mail and Empire three years ago, will be on leave of absence from the Globe and Mail for duration of the war. It was not announced who would succeed McCullagh who, it was understood, would report for training toward the end of January.

Finns Lay War On Refusal To Yield Hangoe

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 12 (AP) — Finland's refusal to give up Hangoe, the "Finnish Gibraltar" was the ultimate stumbling block in negotiations which preceded war with Soviet Russia, the Finnish government contends.

A white paper presented by Finland to the League of Nations showed the course of the protracted but futile parleys with Russia as follows:—

Russia proposed Oct. 14 to lease for 30 years the port of Hangoe, which is on a peninsula jutting from southwestern Finland into the Baltic Sea.

France Ready To Cut Relations If Reds Expelled

GENEVA, Dec. 12.—(AP).— The 24-hour deadline for a reply to the League of Nations' offer to mediate the Russo-Finnish war passed today without a reply from the Soviet Union.

The deadline was 6 p.m. (noon EST), but officials said consideration would be given a reply if it were received later.

Nevertheless at 6 p.m. the 13-nation league committee considering Finland's appeal for aid began drafting for the League Assembly a report which would condemn Russia as an aggressor.

Indications pointed to adoption of such a resolution by a large majority either to-night or to-morrow. Argentina then plans to present a proposal for expelling Russia from the League.

It was deemed likely this proposal also would go through.

Russian sources indicated that if this happened Russia would break off relations with both Britain and France, unless those nations beat them to the draw.

Reports circulated that France is ready to sever relations with Russia, closing the Soviet embassy in

Hamilton Clerk Wounds Bank Robber

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 12 (CP) —Prompt action by a junior clerk foiled an attempted hold-up of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Locke and Herkimer streets this afternoon and resulted in the wounding of the hold-up man.

Suspicious of the actions of a man in the bank Harold Foley, 19-year-old clerk, pulled a revolver from his drawer and laid it asice in readiness for emergency.

The man walked up to the teller's cage and slipped a note to the teller, S. J. Gilmore, reading "Give it to me or you are dead."

The teller handed out a quantity of bills which the man stuffed in his pocket, but Foley was waiting with his gun ready and another clerk meanwhile had quietly telephoned an alarm to police headquarters.

The man backed away but when he reached the door he turned around and Foley took aim immediately, shooting the bandit in the hip.

The bandit dropped to the floor. Stafford Gilmore vaulted over the high glass-fronted counter, smashing the glass and cutting his hand as he did so. He fell on the prostrate man ,took awa ythe gun.

As the shot which foiled the bandit was fired the police department's west cruiser pulled up to the door. Constable Arthur Robson and Constable Bernard Woelke sprang out, crept up the steps to

British Tommies Stop Hun With Heavy Loss

PARIS, Dec. 12—(AP) — British troops were disclosed today to have repulsed an attack by three sections of German troops in the first reported direct engagement on the western front between the British and German forces.

Military dispatches said the British troops threw back the Germans Sunday in an attack south of Buschdorf, near the Moselle Valley, in the sector recently taken over by the British Expeditionary Force.

Comparatively heavy German losses were reported

The British forces reported no dead, wounded or prisoners.

Earlier military advices reported German patrols in three sectors had been driven back from French advance posts with hand grenades.

8-Year-Old Hero Beats Out Flames

Jack hurried to her aid, beat out the flames with his bare hands, and is believed to have saved her life.

European Armies Refusing U.S. Volunteers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 — (AP) —Thousands of Americans who want to enlist in European armies are getting a polite "(No thank you" from the belligerents.

A canvass of embassies showed to-day that many United States citizens have offered to fight for Great Britain, France, Germany, Finland, and Poland. Russian Embassy officials were non-committal.

Most of the diplomats called attention to a 1917 statute forbidding Americans from serving in a foreign army and said they were doing nothing which might bring about violations. There have been no prosecutions of Americans who fought in the Spanish Civil War, however.

Penalties under the Act are imprisonment and loss of citizenship, but any American determined to get in the war could renounce his citizenship and swear allegiance to a belligerent government.

At the German Embassy, officials said that they had received many inquiries regarding enlistment, but that most applicants were ineligible because they were not German citizens. It was said that inquiries came largely "from the adventurer type who sees a fight going on and wants to get in it."

Movie Don Juan Fairbanks Passes At 56

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12 (AP) — Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., who leaped to film fame with his spectacular acrobatics, died today of a heart attack. He was 56.

The dashing Don Juan, for 15 years the ranking male star of pictures, died after a day's illness at his beach home in nearby Santa Monica.

At his bedside were his widow, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, and his brother, Robert. His son, Douglas, Jr., was called a few minutes before Fairbanks died.

Fairbanks' career in films started in 1914, when he joined the old Triangle Company after achieving success on the stage in the east. His early successes were chiefly notable for his athletic accomplishments and a flair for romantic comedy.

Among them were "The Lamb," "Flirting with Fate" and "Manhattan Madness."

Hunted, Interned, Bombed In 44-Day Dash Pole Sub Reveals In Escape From Baltic

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP-Havas) —The stirring undersea adventures of the Polish submarine Orzel, which outwitted German and Estonian naval units in the Baltic and successfully completed a difficult voyage to England through mine-infested waters was told Monday by a member of its crew.

Name of the crew member was not disclosed. He is serving aboard the Orzel with the British fleet.

When the Germans began their invasion of Poland Sept. 1, the Orzel was in the Polish port of Gdynia, near Danzig. The captain immediately decided to leave the harbor because of the proximity of German batteries.

For four days the submarine, whose skipper was gravely ill, lurked under the waters of Danzig Bay. The craft was once spotted by a German warplane and bombed. The explosives fell close but caused no damage.

A Call For Help

Hardly had the submarine gained the open sea when it picked up a wireless message from another Polish undersea boat saying: "We are surrounded. Help us." A week was spent in vain search.

On the 13th day the first mate decided the captain required immediate medical attention. On Sept. 15 the submarine put into the neutral Estonian harbor of Tallinn.

The captain was landed and First Lieutenant John Grudzinski took command. A German merchant ship was due to leave the port during the next day or so and Estonian authorities forbade the Poles to put out to sea before 24 hours.

When this period ended, the Estonians told the Poles their craft was interned because its stay in a neutral port had been longer than the 24 hours permitted belligerent ships under international law.

No Pledge Asked

The Estonians did not request the Poles to give a pledge of honor that they would remain prisoners. Instead, they removed the breeches from all of the submarine's guns and seized all port able arms and maps aboard.

The Poles then made plans for a getaway. At midnight two husky Poles clambered up on deck on pretext they wanted to smoke. They seized and gagged the guard. At the same time an Estonian sentinel in the control room was overpowered. The steel cables retaining the submarine were cut.

By this time the alarm had been raised. In a hail of bullets the Poles headed their ship toward the harbor entrance, passing a German tanker in the port. The Polish craft then cruised at random, with no detailed maps with which to chart its course. Time and again, during the ensuing days the submarine almost

Predict Bourbon King In Spain Within 2 Weeks

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP). — The tabloid Daily Sketch predicted today that within the next two weeks a Bourbon king will sit once more on the throne of Spain.

The paper said it had the "highest authority" for stating that Don Juan of Asturias, second son of ex-King Alfonso, would ascend the throne.

A limited monarchy would be set up with all Spanish parties participating in a constitutional government, the paper said. Moderate Republican parties would be restored to legality and all exiled Spaniards permitted to return, under this plan

"Spain is on the eve of another revolution, a peaceful one," the article continues. "We have the highest authority for stating that a complete change of government is pending and will take place within a week or two. Restoration of a limited monarchy is certain. General (Francisco) Franco has decided that the time has come to save the country from renewed internal strife.

"Constitutional changes are being planned by Franco himself. He has sent agents to Rome, where ex-King Alfonso and his son Juan are staying, and to the Vatican with proposals for a restoration. The former king has agreed to the return of his second son Juan.

Aviator Defies Flames To Save Pal

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT— Dec. 12 —(CP Havas) — A French pilot told last night how he brought a flaming observation plane to earth after a dogfight with three German warcraft.

The pilot was cited yesterday for sticking to his plane in an effort to save the life of his wounded machine gunner, who died before the plane reached earth. A third member of the crew came down safely by parachute.

"We had just about finished our mission—we were taking photographs—when three planes suddenly appeared on our tail," he said.

"They dived at us with their machine guns spitting, and my machine gunner replied from his firing post.

'I saw him hit by a machine-gun burst and collapse with blood spurting over his gun. There was nothing I could do except swerve back and forth and try to dodge their bullets. They kept diving closer and closer.

"Suddenly the controls loosened up. They had been damaged by bullets. I couldn't outmanoeuvre the Messerschmidts any longer, and I decided by only hope was to get down as fast as possible.

"Just then three French Curtiss pursuit planes came along and attacked the German planes, which tried to break away and head for home. But my ship was in bad shape. The right-hand fuel tank was on fire.

"I signalled the observer, an infantryman, to jump but he signalled back that he wanted to stick with me. I had to get tough with him before he agreed to go. Then, within a few seconds that seemed hours I put the plane on an even keel, with the fire spreading so that he

Russia Hitler's Ace In Plans Back In '34

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP). — Hermann Rauschning, former president of the Danzig Senate, in a new book published today, quotes Adolf Hitler as stating as far back as 1934 that he would keep a possible alliance with Russia as "my trump card."

Rauschning, one of the many fugitives from the Nazi regime living in England, attracted wide attention last year with his book, "The Revolution of Destruction" — published in North America as "The Revolution of Nihilism."

He calls his new work "Hitler Speaks," and bases it upon his notes of conversations with the Chancellor in the years when the National Socialist Party was achieving power in the Reich.

The writer says that in 1934 Hitler told him he was considering a Russia nalliance and partition of Poland but that he recognized the risk of Russia becoming dominant.

"That is the real danger," Hitler is quoted as saying. "Either you go with them all the way or you leave them strictly alone. The danger for us that we may be absorbed and lose our identity as a nation."

Scrap With Brother Kills Sudbury Boy

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 12—(CP).— A schoolboy scuffle resulted in the death of one son and the temporary disappearanec of another today bringing grief to the family of Kenneth Dixon of Sudbury.

Clifford Dixon, 16, accidentally administered the blow that brought death to his 11-year-old brother, Kenneth. While doctors and an inhalator crew of the Sudbury fire department were making unsuccessful efforts to revive Kenneth, the older boy disappeared from his home.

Police were asked to search for Clifford Dixon, an athletic youth who has won prizes for jumping and cross-country running, in the fear that remorse might impel him to some desperate action.

Clifford, however, returned to his home after an absence of about three hours.

The boys got into an argument on their way to school and blows were exchanged. Kenneth died from a dislocated neck and a broken spinal cord.

46 Enemy Aliens Are Given Their Freedom

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 — (CP). — Since the outbreak of war, 46 interned enemy aliens have been released, the Public Information Office announced on Monday.

Of those regaining their freedom, 32 were successful in their appeals to the various bodies set up to hear such appeals. More than 100 appeals are presently under review at Kananaskis, Alta., internment camp before an odvisory committee.

All interned aliens, it was announced, are now concentrated in the two main camps, Kananaskis and Petawawa, Ont. The temporary internment camps at the Citadel Quebec City, and old Ford Henry, near Kingston, Ont., have been evacuated. Aliens interned at Quebec made the trip to Petawawa by train, and those at Fort Henry travelled in two convoys of buses under armed guards assisted by motorcycle patrols provided by the Ontario Provincial Police.

War Board Releases 4,000 Tons Of Wool

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP).— The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today the release of between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds of New Zealand wools, lessening anxiety prevalent in Canada because of a scarcity of crossbred wools.

The board, which is under the chairmanship of H. B. McKinnon, said an announcement of the ultimate price at which wools are to be released in Canada for civilian purposes, may be expected soon.

The New Zealand wool was released yesterday and the Canadian wool administrator, David C. Dick of Cobourg, Ont., is in possession of complete details as to types and qualities now earmarked for Canada as well as approximate dates of shipment.

The board announcement did not make these details public

Pickets Lie Upon Tracks Stop Fish Train

LOCKEPORT, N.S., Dec. 12—(CP)—A new attempt to move shipments of fish through picket lines was planned today after a crowd of 600 men, women and children had successfully resisted efforts of 40 Royal Canadian Mounted Police to clear a path for the railway cars.

The police, sent to this fishing town by the Nova Scotia Government at the request of the town council, failed to halt the blockading of a train yesterday because "there was no desire...to hurt anyone if it could be avoided." They had a brief brush with the pickeers—about 500 men and 100 women and children—but no one was seriously hurt.

The clash occurred at a railway cutting on the track running toward the plants of Swimm Brothers and the Lockeport Company, Limited, where two carloads of fish awaited transportation. The companies had reopened their plants only yesterday following a seven-week closure that came after the fishermen and fish-handlers had demanded union recognition.

25 Loaders Work.

About 25 employees who went into the plants loaded the cars. Police said they were not molested. They were not members of the fishermen's or fish-handlers' unions.

Carrying Canadian and British flags and singing the National Anthem, the crowd that blocked the train gathered on the tracks and along the slopes of the cutting. Aside from those actually on the tracks, police estimated, another 500 were massed near the spot.

Some of the assembly were lying on the tracks as the locomotive approached, officers said. The R. C. M. P. used no weapons in attempting to break up those on the tracks, they asserted. They claimed, however, some of the crowd were throwing stones. None did any great damage.

Car Is Ditched Near Omemee

LINDSAY, Dec. 12.—(ENS)—The slippery condition of the highways in this district were responsible for a number of automobile accidents on the week-end. On Saturday Clare Trew of Peterborough, had a peculiar accident on the long hill west of Omemee. He was driving into the village when the radiator cap on the car blew off, and the steam and hot water obscured his vision. He lost control of his car and he hit the shoulder of the road, overturning the car. Miss Joyce Forsythe, a passenger, sustained a severe cut on the back of the head. When the car overturned the car tools were thrown out, and Miss Forsythe was struck by the "jack" after being thrown from the car.

Turns Over In Ditch

Balfour Balfour, of Richmond Hill, his wife and two children, also figured in an accident at Hillhead, just east of Lindsay. While on his way to Lindsay his car left the highway and overturned in a six-foot ditch. The occupants were picked up by a passing motorist and brought to Lindsay. Joyce was the only one injured, having sustained cuts about the head and face. How they escaped serious injury is a mystery to Traffic Officer Kennedy.

Off For England.

On the 3th day the commander decided to make a desperate dash out of the Baltic and head for England. Guided by the sound of naval artillery fire, the submarine headed for the Swedish coast where it perceived a flotilla of German destroyers on patrol. The Orzel again slid toward the bottom and remained there many hours while the warships cruised above. At nightfall it again moved ahead.

The submarine had proceeded only a short distance in the darkness when it ran aground.

A searchlight from one of the German destroyers flashed across the waters but just missed the submarine by a few yards.

On the 40th day the crew began to suffer from thirst. The wireless apparatus had become damaged and it was difficult to send or receive messages.

On Oct. 14 at 6 a.m. a British coastal station picked up a feeble and jerk message in English saying "we ask permission to enter but have not got a map, the Orzel." A few minutes later a British destroyer discovered the submarine and escorted it into a British port.

The crew members learned to their joy that the other Polish submarine they had sought to aid earlier in their fantastic cruise also had reached safety.

Face-Saving

Had there been as much confidence between the powers as the governments profess, it should not have been necessary to tell the Soviet public that the Germans were supplying armaments to Russia's adversary. Moscow observers interpreted the gesture as a Soviet warning to the Reich that any remaining Nazi ambitions in the Baltic better be dismissed once and for all.

It further pointed to the probability that a free hand for Russia in Finland was not a part of the bargain by which Germany bought off the threat or hostilities with the Soviet by handing Stalin the Nazi-coveted Polish Ukraine along with the eastern half of that partitioned republic.

The rumors of a peace offensive lent weight to the theory that Germany, after doing an abrupt political volte face to prevent war on two fronts, succeeded in bringing on just that—with a steady, bloodless retreat on the eastern sector before the Red army.

In three months of war, Germany has lost her domination of the Baltic Sea and, if Russia should be successful in Finland, will see the eastern section become a Soviet lake. Now Soviet penetration of her claimed "living space" in southeastern Europe is threatened.

It is in the light of these facts that observers take seriously rumors that the German Fuehrer may seek to call it quits, preferably by the face-saving formula of an accord with the Allies against expanding Russia.

Active Anti-Hitler German Liberty Party Forms Units Among Adolf's Troops

Word Smuggled Past Nazi Guard Reveals

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—Anti-Hitler organizations of German workers have again established contact with the "outer world" after a blanket of silence in the early weeks of the war.

Working secretly, former German trade union officials and members of the illegal German Independent Socialists Party have written the messages. Through "underground" channels they have been smuggled to Britain and France.

Latest of the messages was handed to Will Lawther, president of the British Mineworkers Federation, while he was attending a conference of International Miners' leaders at Brussels.

It came from miners in the Rhur and said:

"The Hitler system had made us slaves of his war economy. Only after Hitler is beaten will peace come again for the people of Europe and social progress for the workers.

"We German miners are considering ourselves as combatants in the ranks fighting against German Fascism.

"We salute our comrades of the other countries who fight at other parts of our common front against German Fascism, which provoked this war."

This document, written in German and dated October 31, was exactly like others shown the writer in Paris and Brussels before the war.

They were written despite the Gestapo by men who knew that death would certainly follow discovery.

The method by which they were smuggled from Germany are known only to a handful of "higher-ups" in the various labor organizations here.

Lawther is one of them. Another is Fenner Brockway, secretary of the Independent Labor party.

The I.L.P. has received a long message from the Independent Socialists of Germany which revealed that "Liberty Army" cells are being formed among the troops.

It is said that this Liberty Army, which consists of members of all "Republican, democratic and working-class parties," will act only, and can act only, "when the German military formations are in disorder and when the troops retreat from the front."

It added:

"The German illegal movement declares openly before the world 'The German people do not want this war.'

"We are a mere handful of people, compared with the strength of our opponents. But our efforts are not made in vain. Our day will come."

Replies are being sent from England. The Independent Socialists here are understood to be in a position to ensure their distribution among the people in Germany.

Ancient Peiping Overflows With Japanese

PEIPING, North China, Dec. 12 — (AP)— This ancient Chinese capital is literally bursting through its historic walls and barriers under the relentless pressure of Japanese immigration into North China.

Under Japanese orders, a new gateway is being hacked and dug through the 500-year old tartar city wall which has stood intact during war and siege since Peiping, or Peking, was built during the Ming dynasty.

The gateway will connect with a broad highway leading to the proposed site of a new Japanese city, seven miles west of Peiping and near the old imperial summer palace at the edge of the Western hills.

The new city planned by the Japanese will have living space for an estimated 1,000,000 persons—most of them Japanese. Almost 200,000 Japanese have poured into North China in the last 30 months in the wake of their conquering armies.

Joked About Suspect

"We first noticed the young fellow standing near the door-way," said Foley, "Gilmore remarked to us that he was a stranger and a few words were jokingly said about being careful. I did not think much of it but I drew a gun from beneath the counter and kept an eye on him. He walked up to the counter and shoved a note underneath the cage. He grabbed a fist-full of money and backed to the door with his gun on us. When he got halfway there he turned around and ran.

"I lifted my gun and pulled the trigger. I think I hit him in the left hip, but anyway he fell to the ground. The police had already been called and they arrived at the front door just as the shot was fired. Gilmore jumped over the counter, ran to the man and took his gun away. Gilmore went over the counter so fast that he cut his hand on the glass partition."

An hour after the affair, it was announced by A. J. Chamberlain, inspector of detectives, that the man, who had refused to reveal his identity to the police, was believed to be David Nolan, 23, who has lived in London, Chatham, Guelph, and Brockville.

proved exceptionally good. He said British fighter planes have a "decisive margin of advantage" over German bombers and fighters.

On the production side, he said Britain is building twice as many planes as a year ago and that "we have also new and more powerful types of aircraft which have already been flown which we will shortly be able to operate against the enemy."

57 Attacks on Subs.

Sir Kingsley paid tribute to the R.A.F. coastal command which he said had "carried out attacks on submarines on 57 occasions."

"In 19 cases we can be sure substantial damage has been caused," he told the House.

He disclosed that the Royal Canadian Air Force "will in due course be playing their part in active air operations in Europe" and that "meanwhile, a Canadian fighter squadron has been formed in this country from Canadian personnel now serving with the R.A.F. and which is about to take its place in the first line of air defence of this country."

(This squadron, which was inspected last Saturday by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Canadian Minister of Mines and Resources, now in England, is under the command of Squadron-Leader F. M. Gobiel of Ottawa.)

Real Fighting Craft

As an example of the quality of British planes, the air secretary said bombers in a recent raid on the German naval base at Heligoland were engaged by 20 Messerschmidts and two of the German planes which pressed home attacks were driven down and one destroyed. British fighters have "twice the gunpower" of the Messerschmidt plane, he said.

He said that arrangements had been made under which Polish air squadrons would be reformed in Britain under command of Polish officers and would be attached to the R.A.F.

The air secretary said Britain must be prepared to face perhaps soon, perhaps in the spring "another more strenuous and difficult chapter" of the war in the air. But "we can be confident our defence system is sound," he said.

"A full squadron of the latest four-engined flying boats will soon be operating as a unit of the Royal Australian Air Force and a squadron of the latest bombers is being formed with New Zealand personnel," the air secretary said.

"The Union of South Africa has initiated a large expansion of its air training organization and first line strength and have already carried out valuable coastal reconnaissances. Southern Rhodesia is bringing their existing air unit to full strength and will man two additional squadrons."

Ralston Accepts Nomination In P.E.I. Riding

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., Dec. 12.—(CP).— Finance Minister Ralston has accepted the nomination for the Jan. 8 Dominion by-election in Prince. He is the only nominee in the field so far, and indications are he will be given an acclamation to the seats.

In his speech of acceptance before a Liberal convention last night, Mr. Ralston described Canada's war effort as "a balanced and effective program which puts first things first."

He said that the country's war effort lacked the same appealing activity marking the opening of the last war, when marching men were embarking for overseas immediately. In this conflict, the government had "determined Canada's war effort should be practical rather than spectacular."

The Minister, who does not hold a seat in the House of Commons, was the unanimous choice of the convention. The by-election became necessary through the death of A. E. MacLean, veteran Liberal.

Mr. Ralston outlined the Dominion's war activities and referred to the Empire training scheme which is to be carried out in Canada.

When the program finally went into effect it would be found to be of such proportions as to give the world "a fresh and vivid demonstration of the united purpose of the British commonwealth of nations to leave nothing undone which they can do to bring this conflict to a successful end."

"Canada," he said, "is gearing up for a long war, for a war that will require the most we can give, not simply in men but in materials and money."

Find Ottawa Pair Victims Of Gas

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP). — The bodies of a man and a woman who police said were the victims of suicide by illuminating gas, were found in the woman's downtown apartment Monday.

Police identified the pair as Marie L. Blais, 44, and John Henry Mahon, about 60. The bodies were found on the kitchen floor. Four gas jets of a stove were open when Constable Walter Droeske entered the apartment in response to a call from Miss Ann Hinchley, operator of the apartment building.

The woman, wearing pyjamas at the time of her death, was a tailoress in the employ of the Royal Canadian Mounted police. There was nothing in the man's clothing to indicate his occupation or address. His body was clad in trousers and shirt.

Chief Coroner Dr. W. T. Shirreff decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Papers found in the woman's purse and in furniture drawers indicated she had operated grocery stores in Ottawa some years ago.

Constable Droeske was amost overcome by the gas when he opened Miss Blais' apartment with a pass key.

The bodies were removed to a funeral parlor.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12 — (CP). — Strength on outside markets combined with absence of selling pressure and lack of overnight moisture in the United States winter wheat belt to carry wheat futures prices to higher levels on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Closing quotations were 1 to 1¼ cent up, December at 80⅝, May 84⅞ to 85, and July 86 cents.

Cash wheat trade appeared to be confined to light eastern mill purchases of the lower grades for shipment to Eastern Canada on an all-rail basis. Minor export buying in oats and barley supplied the only action of a dull coarse grain pit.

C.W.L. Red Cross Work To Be Done At Library

Miss L. Hurley presided at a meeting of the Catholic Women's League in St. Alphonsus Lyceum Monday evening. Reports of he various officers were given, and it was proposed by Mrs. F. J. Lynch that the Red Cross work of the League be done in the Red Cross rooms at the Public Library in future rather than at the Lyceum.

Ladies in charge of the Christmas basket will be at the Lyceum on Thursday and Friday afternoons, December 21 and 22, to receive suitable provisions for the basket, it was announced.

Pupils of St. Peter's School presented the following Yuletide program: Orchestra selection, "Christmas Airs," with Miss Agnes Mayock, A.T.C.M., at the piano, and violins taken by Menzie McLaren, Francis Doran and Fred Garvey; a reading, "Christmas in Other Lands," Paul Hickey; a monologue, "Uncle Skinflint's Christmas Present," Jean McColl; recitation, "My Sister Sue's Wedding," Darcy Ryan; story, "A Visit to the Christ Child," Mary Overend.

An address on "The Oriental Rites of the Church" was given by Mr. J. Hallihan, who spoke eloquently, referring especially to the Ruthenian Catholics who used the Greek liturgy translated into Old Slavonic, and who acknowledged the authority of the Pope.

A vocal number by Mrs. Campanaro was delightful sung.

Every Girl Can Marry The Right Man If She Goes About Her Plans For Marriage In a Sensible Way, Using Her Mind As Well As Her Heart.

EVERY girl in the world wants to marry. Every girl intends to marry, for no matter what other career she fits herself for or whatever other ambitions she entertains, she expects to add to them a husband, a home and children. Such being the case, it is amazing that she goes about trying to achieve her heart's desire in such a blundering, haphazard, amateurish manner.

Apparently even the hard-boiled modern girl still believes that marriages are made in heaven and that some good angel will drop a desirable husband at her feet. Whereas the contrary is true. In marriage the Lord helps those who help themselves. A good marriage is not a matter of accident. It is the result of planning and foresight and a girl using her brains. Nor do good husbands fall like ripe plums in girls' mouths. She who gets one has to be up and doing and on her job.

All of this is common knowledge that every woman possesses, yet the woods are full of old maids who lost their chances of getting good husbands by being so enamoured of men who couldn't marry them that they missed the ones who could. A common illustration of this is the girl who plays around with married men. She knows that they are already bespoken, that they have wives whom they have no idea of divorcing, but somehow it flatters her vanity to think that she can make a man forget his marriage vows, and it thrills her with a sense of adventure and daring to know she is playing with fire.

Also, the middle-aged married man has more money to spend on her than has the chap who is just getting started in business. He can give her finer presents. He can take her to more expensive places of amusement. He can send her orchids instead of violets. She gets plenty of fun, but no wedding ring. So, when the time comes when she feels that she would like to marry and settle down she finds that it is too late, she has missed her train.

Then there are the girls who make the mistake of promising to be faithful and true to their sweethearts who are starting off to college or to seek their fortunes in some big city. This shelves the girls completely. It takes them out of the running, for they are not supposed to have dates or go to parties or do anything but patiently wait for the lad who only too often doesn't come back at all, or, if he does, has lost his taste for the mary or Susan he left behind him. It isn't the boy's fault. It is just that time and absence and new associations and new habits and points of view have changed him and he and the girl have lost their attraction for each other. But it is hard on the girl, for she is still Miss Sally, clerking in the notion store, who might have been Mrs. Banker riding in her own limousine if she hadn't been foolish enough to give her boy a long option on her heart instead of keeping herself free to take a good cash offer when she got it.

And worst of all of the handicaps with which girls weight themselves down in the matrimonial race is the "keeping company" custom, which has been aptly described as living in a state of suspended animation. For in it a girl is neither bond nor free. She is neither engaged nor at liberty, as actors say. And she has nothing to look forward to except for some boy to make up his mind about whether or not to throw her the handkerchief.

The Boy Friend in this "going steady" arrangement assumes no obligation toward the girl. He doesn't pretend to be in love with her or promise to marry her, but he arrogates to himself the right to monopolize her time and attention and keep her from having any other social contacts with men. And after having driven away all of the suitors who would have been glad to have married the girl and been ever-loving husbands, the youth who has cheated the girl out of her youth and the opportunity of making a good match kisses and rides away to some newer and fresher charmer, leaving the girl lamenting.

All of which shows that the girl who wants to marry must regard marriage from a business as well as a sentimental standpoint. She must look into the investment into which she is going to put her whole life and see if it rests on a solid foundation or hot air. She should refuse to go into long commitments with no definite profits assured in the end, and she should call time on the dilatory lovemaker. Three months is long enough for any man to declare his intentions. And she should never forget that some of the soundest investments that pay the best dividends are to be found right in her own home town and among the people she has known all of her life

DEAR MISS DIX—Should parents help their children to get a start in life or wait and leave them whatever property they have when they die? My husband's father is in a position to help his children and we need some assistance sorely, but he thinks a father should keep everything he has until he dies. — A DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

ANSWER:

I think parents should keep enough of their property to assure their comfort and their independence in their old age and that after doing this they should help their children as much as they can. Often a little assistance when a man is starting a new business will enable him to make a fortune. I think the time to help people is when they need it.

Presentation of Certificates Follows Last Red Cross Lecture

Over 160 certificates were presented by Mrs. R. Turner, president of the Peterborough Red Cross Society, following the closing lecture of the Red Cross Home Nursing course in the Y.W.C.A. Recreation Room Monday evening, a course which has aroused even greater interest this season due to the outbreak of war.

Miss Marion Henderson, Reg.N., of Toronto, Supervisor of Home Nursing for the Canadian Red Cross, was present to congratulate the certificate holders, explaining that although it was not the purpose of the Red Cross to make its students registered nurses or render them capable of accepting remuneration for their services, it did aim of combating disease by teaching girls and women to take care of minor ills; know when a doctor should be called, and how to deal with an emergency.

She also spoke of the necessity for helping prevent disease by learning ho wto keep well, an angle which the Red Cross is especially stressing in its course this season, and referred appreciatively to the gratifying results obtained from the recent Red Cross drive for funds, which in itself expressed the confidence of the public in an organization that "never sells anything," and whose work is "purely voluntary."

Mrs. Turner spoke briefly prior to the presentation of certificates, stating how much the Peterborough branch of the Red Cross appreciated the co-operation of the doctors, nurses and dietitions who had given voluntarily of their time to speak at the home nursing courses. The excellent work of the organizers, Mrs. F. J. Lynch and Mrs. W. Perks, was lauded by Mrs. Turner, who expressed to them the sincere thanks of the executive.

Dr. Agnes K. Moffat conducted an illustrated lecture which touched briefly upon the entire field of pediatrics, and booklets from the Department of Health dealing with child training, were distributed.

Home and School Association News

MAY'S SCHOOL.

Several moments of silent prayer in memory of the late Mrs. K. Dunoon, who had been treasurer for some time of the May's Home and School Association prior to her recent death, was observed by members at their meeting Monday evening. Afterwards the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison, and the Association hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was sung.

The president, Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, presented an excellent report of the regional conference.

Announcement was made of a Christmas treat which is to be held for the children of the school under the convenership of Mrs. Carpenter. A pot-luck supper at which Christmas gifts will be exchanged is to be a feature of the January meeting.

Mrs. Wm. Carter, assistant social convener, was in charge of the refreshments which were served after the meeting.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Central Home and School Association met for its December meeting at the school on Monday evening. A good attendance was presided over by the president, Mrs. B. Fowler, and the meeting opened with the singing of a Christmas carol and the Lord's Prayer.

A program of Christmas music was provided by Central School pupils, who are choir boys at St. John's Church, under the direction of F. G. Mann, L.Mus. Before the singing of the various numbers, Mr. Mann, in a brief, interesting talk, explained the meaning and origin of carols, and the difference between carols and hymns. The voices were nicely blended, and the singing precisely and sweetly done, which reflected great credit on the teacher. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Mann by Mrs. Leeming, and seconded by Mr. Bolton.

Other features of the evening's program were Christmas readings by Mrs. Leeming and Mrs. Brotherstone.

The roll call was a tie between the rooms of Miss Armstrong and Mr. Munro.

The date has not been set for the January meeting, but it will take the form of a "Fathers' Night," and will be arranged by Mr. Bolton.

On behalf of the members, the president extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. K. Sollitt for the success of the card party, of which she was convener.

Mrs. N. Stanger made a special plea for subscribers to the Home and School Review.

Mrs. Stanger was appointed to visit the sick for the month of January.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Relief Fund Will Aid Refugee University Women

The sum of $25.00 to be allotted to the relief fun of the Canadian Federation for the air of refugee University women was voted by members at the December meeting of the University Women's Club in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room Monday evening. Announcement was made by Mrs. V. R Currie of the annual scholarship of $1,250.00 which is open to graduates of recognized universities.

An amendment to the constitution was carried permitting the registration of nonresident members for a smaller annual fee than members resident in the city.

Miss A. Thompson gave an exceedingly interesting talk on the life of Botticelli, dividing her address into four main periods, and illustrating her remarks with numerous reproductions of his most famous works. At the conclusion of her talk, Miss Park moved a vote of thanks, which was heartily seconded by club members.

Miss D. Brisbin announced that the annual dinner would take place at six-thirty on the evening of January 8, 1940, at the Empress Hotel.

Tea was served with Miss D. Burgess in charge, assisted by Miss I. Giles, Mrs. Currie and Mrs. R. G. Cornell.

How Smart Was Hitler?

When it was first reported that Germany might be supplying aid to Finland to enable it to resist Russia, the Examiner was inclined to place that report in the doubtful class. It appeared to come in the class of events such as would be impossible. Germany and Russia had teamed up only a few months ago; they had divided Poland, and Germany had stood to one side while Russia placed its heel on the small states of the Baltic. The report was worth publishing, but it was not one which could be regarded as official and correct.

It has advanced since then to the point where it is something which is causing comment in the Russian press, and when the Russian press says anything it is safe to bet the bottom dollar it is because the Russian government wants it said.

The official interpretation placed on that news being printed in Moscow is that the government considers it the equivalent of issuing a warning to Germany that such measures will have to stop, otherwise Russia may break off the non-aggression pact with Germany.

The added significance of all this is that it is not something which is originating in the Examiner office. It is something which has been reported from several European capitals, and which is finally finding its way into the columns of the closely controlled press right in Moscow.

Nor is the reference to Russia breaking its recently-signed pact with Germany something which originates in this office. It is the interpretation which official Russia places upon the publication of the news in Moscow.

And if Moscow did terminate that pact—what then? At the moment the fate of Finland is uppermost in world news. Germany would have to make a decision and make it at once. She would have to back down and leave Finland to its fate or come to the front and aid Finland against Russia and do it openly where all could see.

Hitler sent Von Ribbentrop to Moscow to hurry up and sign that pact so his armies would be safe from interference while they proceeded with the crushing of Poland. In his subsequent radio speeches he gloried in the speed with which the thing was brought to the state of an accomplished fact. He laughed at the umbrella methods of Britain in negotiating with Russia.

Today Hitler must thing differently—if he can think at all. If Stalin helped Hitler ten times, then it is accurate to say Hitler helped Stalin twenty times in measures of land gains and domination of the Baltic. According to a non-aggression pact Hitler would have to stand back while Russia invaded Finland. Hitler may wish to do so, but there are powerful elements in Germany who hold another view. And a different one. It is that conflict of minds which is causing Germany to send some contribution to strengthen Finland, and if Germany sends one gun there Moscow will look on that as one gun being pointed by Germany against Russia. It is a situation where something is liable to crack and the crack will be heard the world over.

The Stability Of Mines

The charge has been made with sufficient frequency that we have war profiteers in our country. It began when sugar became scarce a few days after war was declared, but it is scarce no longer, nor is the price high.

It is only just and fair that people should become aware of the stand taken by this country's major producers of copper, lead and zinc, who agreed to place their entire output at the disposal of the Allies—and at prices actually below those prevailing in the open markets. That is well removed from anything which looks like profiteering.

Gold mining is the one single industry which has done more than anything else to pull this province of ours through periods of business depression. When other industries were slack the gold mines were working; new ones were being developed, and there were people willing to put up their money not knowing whether or not they would afterward participate in profits. It was that spirit of adventure which made most—if not all—of the mines possible.

Our gold mines in Canada now produce wealth at the rate of almost $200,000,000 per year, an amount far in advance of the value of all Ontario's field crops. If one desires a comparison nearer home, Peterborough' total industrial production in 1937 was rated at $26,877,321, so it would take the combined production of nearly eight cities like Peterborough to equal the output of our Canadian gold mines.

Governments take their full toll of taxation from our mines, and they pay back to railways, wholesalers and all manner of supply houses a tremendous amount of money. It is probably a fact that older Ontario hardly realizes the extent to which this rapidly developing force—the mining of gold—has contributed to the activity of our places of industry and to the providing of employment.

A Scot Turns Critic

It's hard to know what to do with some people. For instance there is the man at the St. Thomas Times-Journal who ran berserk because it was stated in the Examiner that haggis was an article of day-to-day diet in Scottish homes. The St. Thomas Scot says he never tasted haggis in his own home or any other home, and moves into the field of large dimensions to state: "That goes for millions of other Scots of any age." There are not over five million people in Scotland, and if one takes out the population of Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dundee and Aberdeen, it would leave some 3,000,000 Scots running loose or skilpin' over the rest of the land. And if the Irish were removed from Glasgow there would be a lamentable decline in its statistical stature. So when a Scot begins to speak in terms of millions he cannot go far before he bumps his chin or his nose or perhaps his stomach against the cold stones of mathematical restriction.

From there the St. Thomas Scot proceeds to a general scalping of Scottish custom. Scots do not have red hair; they do not wear kilts; 999 out of 1,000 have never heard a word of Gaelic; they do not eat oatmeal parritch, but American cereal foods; the Scot dodges the bagpipes at home, and so on.

And all this leaves the Scots according to the St. Thomas brand, as a colorless sort of folk, not a bit different from others throughout the world. The Times-Journal man says he lived the first 20 years of his life in Scotland and then set forth to make his fortune in the broad world. Went forth, mind you, stripped and barren of all things which the world in general associates with Scotland. No haggis to fortify his constitution, no oatmeal to impart to him that caloric strength which a man of 20 needs when he wrestles with the world, no yearning for the sound of the bagpipes, no lump in his throat for the swing and stride of the kilts, and no itching of the ears for a word or a phrase of Gaelic.

As barren we take it as the prodigal son on the day when he decided it would be much better for him to turn toward home. How then did the man ever do it? He must have been peculiarly and particularly endowed to go forth firm in the belief that the distinguished marks of Scotia had been erroneously posted. The wonder is that he has not sought to undo the custom of greeting folk in the country districts with "Come ben the hoose," or "Come butt the hoose." How this remarkable Scot, a rather daring infidel of Scottish tradition, has been able to make his way is the cause of puzzlement. It must be a gift.

The Annual Slaughter

There is a difference between an ordered supply of Christmas trees and the annual slaughter. And that annual slaughter is now under way. Information reaching the Examiner office is that in some cases farmers have allowed the cutting of trees on their property, for which they receive about five cents per tree. In other cases the tree cutters go on Crown property and help themselves. The claim is that it is difficut to regulate the business as tree cutting of this sort is not licensed.

The county is spending money trying to encourage the restoration of timber lands, and this Christmas-time slaughter is actually undoing such efforts. The average Christmas tree represents a growth of from eight to ten years—and it is sold for five cents and in many cases is not sold at all. It is taken.

Most of these loads come down the Apsley Road. It should not be difficult for an officer to patrol that stretch for a few days or nights. He might learn a great deal.

Be More Specific

There was activity on the political front on a Western Ontario sector the other day when Norman Martin, Conservative candidate from Elgin, spoke to a gathering of Conservatives in East Middlesex.

Mr. Martin said when the war came his feeling was that there should be no political government in Canada, and undoubtedly that feeling was shared by a good many sensible people. He was certain that proper preparations had not been made for the housing and clothing of the Canadian army, and continued:

"And this condition exists while patronage is rife, while war contracts go to friends of the Government, and firms on the wrong side of politics cannot even get enough information on which to base a tender."

We wonder if that is so? The Examiner is inclined to place a good deal of confidence in the men who have been called in at Ottawa to look after the purchasing of war material, and we would hesitate to believe that these men would stay there at all if their training and knowledge were to be continually made secondary to the political color of the firms with whom they did business.

The other day there was published quite a long list of firms which had received orders from the government, and since the publication of that list we have not noticed where any person has pointed out that all of them were Liberal-minded and that Conservative people got nothing at all.

Saying that a man known to be a Conservative cannot secure sufficient information on which to base a tender is wading in where the water is deep. Does Mr. Martin actually know that to be a fact? If he does possess such information then he ought to be more specific about it. Making a general statement leaves the impression that he has said either too much or too little.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The longer it remains before the world the worse it looks—we mean Russia attacking Finland.

It must be tough on Santa Claus getting around an apartment house where there is just one chimney for the whole building.

Judging by the number of Christmas trees one sees coming in just now there are many who believe in doing their Christmas chopping early.

Britain is ready to buy from Canada 5,000,000 pounds of bacon per week. As long as the British folk can have their bacon for breakfast they will remain well nigh invincible.

Toronto police are worried over a German woman who is in possession of $14,800. One of her stories is that she desires to marry and remain in this country. Unfortunately at the moment we cannot give readers her address.

Burglar in Toronto worked a long time trying to open a safe which contained only 80 cents. The safe exhibited a zeal which might well have been devoted to a greater cause, for it refused to be opened.

An Indian in Brantford was chased by officers because he had a couple of bottles of wine, and in the chase he tripped and fell. Nothing new in this as drink has brought about the downfall of a lot of folk.

Since the war started Britain has brought 19 German vessels into port, and the Germans have sunk 17 of their own ships to prevent capture. So out of a total of 36 German vessels, Britain has 19, Davy Jones has 17 and Germany has none.

Young man got himself in trouble at Windsor by telling his lady friend if she wouldn't marry him then he would murder her. That is rough talk of course, but actually it is more acceptable than the youth who hangs around for years and says nothing at all on that important question.

Leon Trotsky has agreed to talk to members of an American government committee regarding affairs in Russia. He finds it safer to do his talking from Mexico than from Russia. On this continent he can speak without urge; in Russia he would be purged without having spoken.

FOOLED HIM

(By A.R.R.)

¶ Clem Puddy when a little lad, was rated in the school as bad, he couldn't get no lower; three times a week 'twas just the same, the teacher told him to remain, when came the hour of four.

¶ Clem Puddy always liked to sing, could rattle off like anything, to him the best of sport; but singing didn't make him go, and singing never seemed to show, when he got his report.

¶ The teacher used to scold at Clem, he'd never join successful men, he'd lecture after four; he'd find his journey hard and slow, and later on he'd have to go, toward the poor house door.

¶ He'd start his life quite handicapped, he'd find himself so easy trapped, for him there'd be no ease; he'd likely find when he left home, he'd simply tramp around the room, and live on bread and cheese.

¶ Clem Puddy's on the radio, and he puts on a goodly show, sings cowboy songs I hear; he never rode a horse I know, and I am sure it's also so, he never saw a steer.

¶ He visits home just now and then, and gossips with the biggest men, stops at the teacher's door; he likes to ask him now and then, perhaps if he remembers when—he stayed in after four

Depth Charge Best Known Way To Fight Subs

THE SECRET of the destructive power of the depth-charges lies in the fact that water is practically incompressible. If you were to fill a small pump, say, a bicycle pump, with water and then close the outlet, you would find it impossible to depress the piston; whereas, in the case of a pump full of air, the piston could be depressed to nearly half way down, writes R. L. Hadfield in the Hamilton Spectator.

This incompressibility of water is used in scores of ways commercially, as, for instance, in the hydraulic ram, the power press, etc., and now, in war, it provides one of the deadliest weapons the U-boat has to face. For the shock carried by means of the incompressible water from an explosion at a distance is so severe that the seams of a U-boat can be burst open through the explosion of a depth charge at a distance of several hundred yards.

Such advantages as the U-boat may possess through being able to hide beneath the sea it loses to a great extent when its presence is detected through the fact that direct hits are not necessary. A surface vessel must be actually struck, possibly many times, before being vitally injured; the submarine need not be hit at all to suffer destruction.

The larger, ocean-going U-boats have a double skin, but even this skin is comparatively thin; it is in no sense armor, and whatever the strength of its construction the submarine's greatest menace is pressure. No submarine ever built can dive indefinitely, all have their "bottom," and if through accident, breakdown or other cause it dives too deeply, the pressure of the sea bursts its seams, water rushes in and it is lost.

The effect of the depth-charge is much the same. On the explosion of the charge in the vicinity of the submarine, the shock, carried through the water, exerts such terrific pressure on the seams of the vessel that, in a mild case, its seams are opened and machinery is thrown out of gear, while in a severe case, the sides are burst in, the vessel is instantly flooded and it goes to the bottom.

WATER PRESSURE also fires the depth-charge. Roughly, the depth-charge is a drum containing about 300 pounds of explosive and mechanism by which pressure at any pre-arranged depth acts on a diaphragm which in turn fires a detonator. The depth at which the submarine is lying or cruising having been estimated with the aid of listening gear, the depth-charge is set to explode when it has reached the required depth, an the practice now adopted in the British navy is to "bracket" a U-boat within a diamond of explosions. The depth-charges are dropped from the stern of the attacking vessel and are also fired from mortars on each side. Thus a destroyer travelling at full speed can drop depth-charges ahead, astern and on each side of the submarine. Should the enemy be actually within the diamond of explosions there is no hope for her; she must be crushed flat like an egg-shell.

It is, of course, impossible that all U-boats which have been depth-charged have been destroyed; but even in cases when the boat has managed to escape the effect has been important. Many U-boats have been so badly damaged that they have had to make their way back to their bases; often the diving gear has been put out of action and they have had to ride on the surface, there to be destroyed or captured.

There is also another important effect of depth-charging. It is moral. In the depths of the sea the nerves are far more tightly strung than in any surface craft even when not being hunted by an enemy. On the explosion of a depth-charge nearby, but not sufficiently near to cause instant destruction, the lights are blown out, seams are started, water begins to spurt in here and there, valves leak. The men crouch at their stations in the impenetrable darkness, their minds filled with the ghastly fear that at any moment another charge may burst in the walls of their vessel and they may be engulfed without hope, drowning amidst the tangled steel work of their stricken craft. They listen, they wait; every thump of a charge bursting near at hand bursts open more seams and increases the fearful tension in their minds. There is nothing they can do but wait, helpless and silent.

Probably all the machinery in the boat has been stopped lest the sound should betray its presence to the enemy, and it may be that the U-boat must lie submerged for hours, while the fearful strain is not relaxed for a momen, and all the while the air becomes fouler, physical powers of resistance to shock weaker, and courage is ebbing.

All men, however brave, are not suited to U-boat work. Efficient crews have to be carefully chosen and expertly trained to work in a team as one man. Scratch crews would be more a menace to themselves than any enemy; but once the most efficient man has been severely depth-charged it may be months before he is fit to go to sea in a U-boat again, if ever.

This is one of the reasons why Britain is winning the campaign against the U-boats. However hurriedly the boats may be built, finding and training crews to man them cannot be done on mass-production lines. For every U-boat which it is known has been definitely destroyed many more have been driven from the sea by the damage to the enemy sailors' morale.

ONE SURE WAY

• This Judge Is On The Rocks

FROM time to time with astonishing frequency, scandal stories are published in American newspapers showing how judges are in league, or in some other way associated with some of the crooks who come before them for trial. Recently, notes St. Thomas Times-Journal, two judges were exposed for being under financial obligations relating to patent rights or plain "loans." The latest to have the spotlight turned upon him is Judge Eugene J. Holland, of Cook county, Illinois, who was revealed to be one of the stockholders in the dog-racing tracks operated by the late Mr. Edward O'Hare, who was mysteriously "bumped off" while riding in his expensive automobile in a Chicago street. The killers who pumped bullets into him were believed to be associates of Mr. Alfred Capone, who was about to return to his Florida estate after spending a number of years in an institution maintained by the Federal Government, in sunny California. It almost goes without saying that the killers have not been apprehended.

It also transpired that Judge Holland in some remarkable manner had all the gambling charges brought before him in his Chicago court, and that out of 12,652 cases, 12,624 were dismissed, only 28 defendants having been convicted. It is an amazing thing that the State Attorney did not observe what was going on, or if he did, that no action was taken. Either there was something wrong with the police, who were grossly incompetent and vindictive, or the judge was not doing his duty. As his honor was sharing in the proceeds of the gambling, suspicion points to the latter conclusion. The police must have grown tired of summoning gamblers only to have them acquitted. It is even a greater marvel that the Judge did not go through the motioning of fining a higher percentage just for appearance sake. Perhaps the unfortunate 28 refused to pay squeeze money.

The conditions in many of the American courts are so bad that it is time the entire administration and the legal profession from the Attorney-General downwards, combined to force a clean up.

• Having Tea On A Sunken Ship !

IN ONE WAY or another the military and naval attaches of the various European embassies of the United States have been getting into the news to an extent that they rarely do in peacetime. Ordinarily, so far as the public is concerned, military and naval attaches are very inconspicuous persons whom nobody ever hears about except perhaps in the lists of "those present" at military and naval reviews. The conspicuous example of an attache coming into the war news was that of the American attache at London who revealed that he had had tea on the Ark Royal after the Germans claimed they had sunk her and that he had found her entirely undamaged.

It could scarcely have been a mere accident that the American was invited to the Ark Royal for Sunday afternoon tea just at the time when the people of the world were most anxious for an expert neutral statement on the condition of the great British aircraft carrier. At the same time it is inconceivable that the United States Government should allow one of its representatives to support publicly the British side of the Ark Royal story merely for the sake of the comfort it might give the Allied side. It is conceivable, however, that American attaches have instructions to debunk unthruthful propaganda or inaccurate impressions whenever it is diplomatically possible to do so, in order to keep the American public from being seriously misled.

The latest report of an American attache getting into the news comes from Berlin. It comes at a time when, in spite of strenuous efforts in Allied countries to discourage it as dangerous, the idea seems to be growing that Germany is ripening for an internal attempt to overthrow the Nazi Government. One can understand the interest of the United States Government in permitting its attache at Berlin to make a public comment on this question. The American Government fully realizes that no matter how intense may be the desire of Americans to remain neutral, every person in the United States is being affected in various ways by the war. It is important for business, for example, to have the best and most accurate information on which to base judgments of the possible duration of hostilities. The attitude of the United States Government can be taken as that of an institution which realizes that the American people will avoid mistakes probably both in their private business affairs and in the formation of public opinion in international affairs if they are assisted in securing a realistic view.

Here is what Major Percy Black, acting military attache at the American embassy at Berlin, has recently stated: "I think reports of internal dissension in Germany are largely exaggerated." Since it is an important part of Major Black's life work to knew exactly how much reliance can be placed in such reports, and since nobody would have better facilities for getting at the truth than an American military attache in Berlin, his statement is an important one.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

• Writing To Santa Claus

EVERY YEAR at about this time letters from children to Santa Claus begin to flutter in on the post-office like the flakes of a spreading snowstorm. They are variously directed to Santa at "North Pole, the Bronx," "Up in the Sky," "Reindeer Land," "the World" and also, simply, "Heaven." But all find their way to Uncle Sam's inquiry desk for the consideration of charitable individuals who find much seasonal comfort in responding to these appeals.

What the young writers are asking for, of course, are Christmas gifts. They have never displayed much reticence on this score, and the lists are just as long and detailed as ever. But this year there seems to be a new note in the requests. Whether this is due to the influence of examples elsewhere in the world, or whether it merely marks a stage in the development of the rising generation, it is impossible to say. But many of the communications are distinctly in the imperative mood. Some of them are almost ultimatums.

One little girl ends her letter with "Thank you, Santa, or else." Some of the children have cut slogans from the magazines, such as "Urgent" and "Action Please," to paste on their letters. Nearly every one demands prompt attention. Most of the writers, like bigger dictators, justify their demands by their own exemplary conduct, though here and there a correspondent admits slipping a little. One young lady confesses, "I wrote on my wall today and promise not to do it again. But sometimes I am a very good girl." A lad admits rather despondently, "I haven't been such a good boy this year," but puts in a formidable requisition, nevertheless. One boy frankly offers a bribe, or at least a quid for the expected quo; he says, "I will have ready a plate of macaroni and meat balls." The girls are quite free with scattered X's, which represent Xmas kisses for Santa Claus and are not much trouble to make.

Several letters were written on stationery of large metropolitan hotels. They may have been attempts to impress Santa Claus with a bit of swank. Two are from adults, distracted mothers unable to buy toys for their children and hoping for some help. Unfortunately, at least a third of the writers forget to include their own addresses and so cannot be found even by Santa Claus.

Many of the letters are touching in their childish faith. Petitioners of this type who include their addresses are likely to be rewarded. Grieving couples who have lost children of their own scan the letters eagerly and find Christmas joy in giving happiness to these wistful youngsters. Three young women appear at the postoffice with unfailing regularity to make up their Christmas list of good children who mustn't be allowed to forget that there really is a Santa Claus. Opening these Christmas appeals from children is one of the few types of censorship which the United States Postoffice exercises. So far no one has objected.—New York Times.

No Time To Read

A detachment of Highlanders arrived in camp and the sentry reported to the Sergeant-Major: "Excuse me, sir, but the pipers have come."

The R.S.M. looked up from his desk and snorted: "Don't you know there's a war on? I 'aven't time to read 'em now."

FINLAND'S MUSIC

A CONTRIBUTOR to the Christian Science Monitor says: "Most of us know nothing about Finland except that she produces foot racers and pays her debts." But surely quite as many as are aware of these distinguishing characteristics of that country think of her and the "Finlandia" of Sibelius together. That magnificent piece of music has stirred people in all parts of the world profondly. They can understand fully why its playing was not allowed in Finland under the Czarist regime and they cannot help feeling that the national spirit it expresses is unconquerable.—Edmonton Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majesty. Who coverest thyself with light as with a garment: who stretchest out the heavens like a curtain: who layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters: who maketh the clouds his chariot: who walketh upon the wings of the wind....Who laid the foundations of the earth, that it should not be removed for ever....

I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being.—Ps. civ, 1-3, 5, 33.

FAIR CRITICISM

IN THE OFFICE of The Listowel Standard the editor has apparently felt the urge toward constructive criticism of various federal departments conducting this war. He has wondered at his "daily" brethren who tend to withhold their words. We agree that proper criticism is needed even in war time.

There is much discussion by our daily contemporaries as to the right and advisability of criticism in carrying out Canada's present war program. It is contended that criticism at a time like this is injurious to the morale of the masses and endangers national unity. Governments should be allowed to function without outside interference.

This may be true looking at it from one angle but on the other hand it may be dangerous for any Government to be allowed too much unquestioned control. It may work for the country's welfare but through patronage channels that nullify the efficiency of the work. By ruling out constructive criticism something of dictatorial power must be reverted to and as this form of Government is what the Allies are at war to stamp out, it hardly makes sense to adopt some of these foreign practices.

ONE WORM TURNED

A RESIDENT of this city was coming home from New Jersey with three cartons of cigarettes, bearing no New York state or city tax stamps. He had purchased the cigarettes, he said, for himself, his wife and his son. As he stepped off a ferry in Manhattan he was arrested. His cigarettes were confiscated. He was summoned to appear in court and answer a charge of tax evasion.

This citizen was less meek than some. He went to court, pleaded not guilty, got a postponement and is expected to argue his case. Here looks to be the makings of a good sample case that can be carried, we hope, as high as the Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court to determine whether or not citizens must accept "customs" barriers between American states or even cities as already accomplished fact—with unlimited multiplications and extensions ahead.—New York World-Telegram.

HITLER'S PREDICAMENT

IF STALIN wishes to "rescue" Bessarabia and the Rumanians, as well as straddling the German life line in the Baltic, there is nothing Der Fuehrer can do about it—nothing, except first to crush the West. With every Russian encroachment upon his rear, the pressure upon him for total war and total victory in the West becomes greater, for only so can he now regain the command which the Stalinazi pact was to give him without effort.—New York Herald Tribune.

Cheese Maker Made Good Showing

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 12 (ENS) —District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray again praised patrons of the Kimberly Cheese Company who for a second time were considerably above the average in the amount of cheese per pound of butter fat produced for the year. Last year according to Mr. Murray the company had about one-tenth of a pound more than the average which netted them approximately 1.8 cents per pound more. This year's figure was 2.86 pounds of cheese per pound of butter fat.

He spoke of the supply of cheese which together with the adverse foreign exchange forced the net returns down despite the bonus. Mr. Murray took as a healthy sign the fact that buyers were offering more than the pegged price on the cheese boards. Referring to the grading which now attracts more vital interest since the bonus has been established Mr. Murray declared he had heard of some producers who wished either a change of graders or a referee over the grader. "What we should do is make cheese that is of such quality that no grader would hesitate in passing it. Grading is now very uniform with the grading standards unchanged but regulations much stricter.

There are eighteen defects which may be charged up to workmanship and another seven to the producer and if you are able to get by on the whole twenty-five you have a first grade cheese."

J. D. Mills, local bank manager, told patrons that in his opinion no class of citizens would be more important during the war than the farmer as food is one of the most important products which will be needed.

President and Secretary S. Garnet Grills presided for the meeting during which members decided to install the new standard 15 inch hoops for the coming season.

The statement for the year showed the twenty-one patrons had delivered a total of 1,618,916 pounds of milk to the factory. This contained a total of 46,122.8 pounds of butter fat from which cheesemaker David Wallace produced 132,300 pounds of cheese. The number of pounds of milk per pound of cheese was 12.23 lbs.; number of pounds cheese per pound of butter fat 2.86 pounds; average price per pound of cheese 12.275 cents; average price per pound of butter fat 31.1 cents or with bonus of $578.39 the average would be 32.36 cents. The total received from the sale of cheees was $16,240.74; and from whey cream $694.87; plus the bonus amounting to $578.39.

Garnet Grills was re-elected president and Frank Haig was named auditor for the coming year. Directors are N. Loucks, Reginald Craighead, G. Grills, John Bennett, T. W. Bennett, Percy Parr and Henry Locke.

Helsingfors Cleans Up After Red Raiders' Visit

Japs Stupefied On Shooting Of Two Missionaries

MONTREAL, Dec. 12—(CP).—Details of the shooting of two Canadian Jesuit missionaries by a Japanese sentry in China last October have been given in a letter sent by Rev. Leo Paul Bourassa of the Souchow Mission to the Journal de Shanghai.

Father Bourassa was with the missionaries, Brother E. Gauvin of Quebec and Brother L. Fontaine of Montreal, when they were shot October 28. Brother Gauvin died last month of his injuries.

The group was travelling by bicycle from Matsing to Suchow when the shooting occurred, Father Bourassa wrote.

"We passed Yaolow rather swiftly, for the three of us are cyclists of repute in the mission,' his letter said. "We saw no soldiers, we heard no shout. Suddenly a shot resounded."

The missionaries jumped from their bicycles. There was another shot and two of the party threw themselves into a ditch.

"We saw at a distance Japanese soldiers running towards us. I went immediately towards them after having ascertained that Brother Gauvin was wounded in the stomach and Brother Fontaine in the shoulder.

"Making use of the little Japanese I know, I told them we were missionaries, that my two friends were wounded. The soldiers were stupified. They became very devoted in dressing the wounded, using their first aid material and mine."

Belmont Girls' Club Entertains Institute

HAVELOCK, Dec. 12—(ENS). — "The Belmont Young Entertainers" were hostesses on Saturday afternoon to the members of the Belmont Branch Womens' Institute at a tea served in the township hall. This was the sixth and concluding lesson of the "Club Girl Entertains" project which was sponsored by the Institute and conducted by local leaders, Miss Mary Anderson and Miss Hazel Ellis.

Close to fifty ladies presented their invitations and registered as they entered the hall, which had been carefully decorated for the occasion. Evidence of the wonderful training received by the young women in the art of entertaining was prominently displayed throughout the afternoon. The head table, laid with lace cloth was centred with silver basket and candlesticks. Tea was poured by Mrs. Joseph Seabrooks, while all the members of the class assisted in serving.

Several toasts were proposed following the customary "Toast to the King." One was proposed by Mrs. William Smith to the local leaders, Miss Mary Anderson and Miss Hazel Ellis, to which the former very appropriately replied. Another was proposed to the Belmont Young Entertainers Club by Mrs. H. L. Scott, which was responded to by Miss Fern Dafoe.

A short program was also much enjoyed, with Miss Iola Hartin, vice-president of the club acting as chair. Miss Hartin also gave an interesting account of the work which has been conducted so far by their organization. Numbers included on the program were: mouth organ solo, Mrs. Donald Anderson; piano solo, Miss Goldilene Dafoe; and a monologue by Miss Dorothy Salter.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRED MUTTON.

The death of Mrs. Fred Mutton of Brighton Township came as a great shock to her many relatives and friends on Tuesday, November 21, 1939. Although not in the best of health for some years, her last illness was short and her death came suddenly.

Mrs. Mutton was formerly Phyllis Winnifred Darling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Darling, Elginburg, Ont. After receiving High School training at Kingston, she attended Toronto Normal School. She taught for five years, teaching in her home school two years, and later at Remington near Madoc, and at Wade's Corners, near Brighton.

In October, 1931, she was united in marriage to Fred R. Mutton of Hilton, and there she spent her eight years of married life where she endeared herself to all.

The deceased was a member of the United Church, and bore her illness with much patience and Christian fortitude.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two children Shirley and Harry, her parents, three sisters, Doris, Zella (Mrs. Orville Silver), and Muriel; one brother Eldon, and an aged grandmother.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. McRae of Hilton United Church, on Thursday, November 23, and was largely attended. The floral tributes were beautiful and many. Interment was in Shiloh Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Russell Herrington, Fred Thorne, Harold Chatten, Norman Chatten, Douglas Morrow, and Henry Farrow.

Millbrook W.I. Gets Red Cross Yarn

MILLBROOK, Dec. 12 (ENS). — Mrs. Melville Ball was hostess for the Christmas meeting of the Women's Institute, at her home, Princess Street, on Saturday at 3 p.m., the president, Mrs. E. C. Richards, taking the chair. The roll was answered by a parcel for the Christmas cheer baskets, which are to be packed at the home of Mrs. T. G. Harkness on Thursday, December 21, the officers to attend to this matter.

Announcement was made that yarn for knitting socks and other needed articles for soldiers is now on hand, the committee in charge of this work including Mrs. Richards, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, and Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

A letter fro mthe provincial superintendent, Miss Mary A. Clarke, relative to war work showed that a special fund should be set up for this activity, and Mrs. M. Ball was added to the committee while Mrs. Hilton was appointed treasurer.

Three dollars was voted to the public speaking contest held each year in North and South Cavan and Millbrook, and the treasurer reported ten dollars spent for yarn, $8.15 from two euchres held for Red Cross purposes, and collection taken at the regular meeting to also add to this fund.

Mrs. H. Blakely gave an informative paper on "Education," and at the close, after the National Anthem, Mrs. Ball and Mrs. G. O. Fallis served afternoon tea.

The amount received from the tea was added to the fund for war work.

Famous Boys Town To Entertain 200

BOYS TOWN, Neb., Dec 12—(AP)—A young Irish priest with the good name of Flanagan walked the streets of Omaha in the war-torn Christmas season of 1917. His heart was troubled.

News from the battlefields of France was on everyone's lips and hardly anyone paid attention to the young cleric who sought funds to establish a home for boys caught in the web of crime-breeding poverty.

But before Christmas eve he borrowed $90 to rent a large house in Omaha to which he took five boys for their first real Yuletide celebration.

On Christmas eve of this year more than 200 boys will attend a huge party at the now famous Boys Town home near Omaha—and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Flanagan, founder and director, will look back on 22 years of devotion to a single ideal that has brought him international recognition.

That ideal is summed up in nine words: "There is no such thing as a bad boy."

By Christmas 1940 a building program now under way will be completed and 500 boys will be citizens of this town, only one of its kind in the world.

Tin Price Soars $210 Per Ton

LONDON, Dec. 12 (CP). — The price of tin soared £45 ($201.15) a ton today following the ministry of supply order Saturday releasing the metal from its limit quotation of £230 a ton. At its peak today, tin was quoted at £275 a ton.

Later, when a rush of buying orders subsided somewhat, the price eased to close at £268 a ton.

Trading expanded to 400 tons from the meagre 25 tons released daily by the control during the last two months.

The British Empire exports 45 per cent of the world's tin. Lifting the restrictions will increase foreign exchange resources.

90 P.C. of 1929 Rate

SINGAPORE, Dec. 11 (CP)—The international tin committee today set the Malayan tin export quota for the first three months of 1940 at 90 per cent of the 1929 basic rate.

Upon removal of the fixed maximum price in the London market by the British ministry of supply, the price of tin here jumped 17¼ straits dollars (worth about 50.6 cents each) to 134⅝ straits dollars a picul (133.33 pounds).

(This would make the quotation on tin at Singapore 50.7 cents, a pound.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—The price of tin advanced 1.35 cents a pound today to 52 cents as traders watched excited bidding in London where the metal jumped to 55 cents.

Roseneath's WI Honors 3 Members Presenting Life Certificates

ROSENEATH, Dec. 12 (ENS). — The presentation of three life membership certificates to members of twenty-five years' standing was one of the special features at the December meeting of the Women's Institute.

Receiving the certificates were Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite, Mrs. A. Halstead, and Mrs. E. J. Milne. Mrs. B. Thackeray, president, in making the presentation, spoke briefly of the pleasure it gave the society to so honor these three members, and in an address read by Mrs. Frank Brown, secretary-treasurer, this feeling was enlarged on.

In responding, the recipients stressed the value of the educational and social work of the society and recalled to memory those members who had passed on.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Charlton Grigg. A roll-call, "Ways of Being Neighborly," was a feature of the opening exercises.

The financial statement for the month showed receipts of $5.00 and expenses $15.95, including delegates' expenses to the area convention and to the project in Cobourg, December 7, with a balance on hand of $61.00.

"I didn't know whether the machine-gunner was dead or only wounded, but I wanted to get him down alive if I could and also save the camera and films, I knew we had no chance of reaching our base, so I headed for the nearest open field.

"I scraped over a machine-gun position belonging to an anti-aircraft battery, just missed some houses and trees and went under some telegraph wires. The plane bounced several times and finally nosed over in flames, I was thrown out of the cockpit with my clothing on fire.

"I ran back and tried to pull the I couldn't get him loose. Some people came running up and pulled him out, but when they got him to a hospital he was dead. He had been hit in the face and the hands."

Balloons were sped to Edinburgh from Glasgow and the floating defence curtain with its chain of death-traps for planes was completed within the time limit set.

The barrage is expected to block any further German attempts to bomb the famous Forth bridge and the warships stationed at the Rosyth naval base.

The bridge is between Rosyth and the sea. It is 8,300 feet long, of cantilever construction and was constructed in 1889 at a cost of nearly $20,000,000. Most of its main compression members are of tubular form, some of them 12 feet in diameter. Fifty years old, it is still one of the strongest bridges of the world.

Reports of a new German "peace offensive" persisted in the press today.

The News-Chronicle reported from that the arrival back from Berlin of German ambassador Hans Von Mackensen and the departure for Paris of Andrew Francois-Poncet, the French envoy, had given rise to a new crop of peace rumors.

While the French embassy insisted that the envoy was going to Paris on primate and routine matters only. Reports persisted, the dispatch said, that he was taking to the French capital peace feelers brought from Berlin by Von Mackensen.

The Daily Telegraph commented: "It is possible that rumors of Hitler's willingness to make peace on the basis of an Anglo-French-German alliance against the U.S.S.R. have been spread intentionally from Berlin with the idea of undermining the resolution of Britain and France and splitting public opinion."

Finns Lay War

There she intended to establish a naval base and a protective garrison of 5,000 men, including one infantry regiment, two anti-aircraft batteries, two air force regiments and one battalion of armored cars.

Artillery at the base could have blocked the entrance to the Gulf of Finland in co-operation with the naval base already established by Russia at Baltiski, across the Gulf of Estonia.

Offered Other Isles

Finland refused to yield Hangoe, but offered to cede Russia the islands of Seiskari, Peninsaari, Pavansaari and Tytarsaari and secure the interests of both nations on the larger island of Hogland (Suursaari.)

They also offered to yield part but not all the territory Russia asked on the Karelian Isthmus in return for a strip of Russian territory farther north.

On Nov. 9, Finland rejected a Russian proposal that, if Hangoe could not be had, a naval base be made available on islands in the vicinity of Hangoe.

On the same date, the Russian foreign commissar, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, said Finland had misinterpreted his proposal, and that he meant the territory in the district of Hangoe should be sold to Russia, and if this were impossible, islands in that region be sold.

On Nov. 10, the Finns refused again. Three days later, the negotiations ended, the Finns expressing the hope that "at a future date negotiations can be pushed with results satisfactory to both parties."

On Nov. 30, the Red army invaded Finland.

Speed Artist Is Fined $20 And Costs

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 12 (ENS) —"I hate to see what you would do if you were in a hurry," commented Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., when he assessed Harry McKee, 17, of Warkworth, $20.00, and costs, for driving at 80 miles an hour. Provincial Constable D. Carruthers testified he had chased the accused from Campbellford to Norham, a distance of eight miles, before he finally caught up with him.

"The visibility was poor and the road was wet and slippery," said the constable in asking that a substantial fine be imposed.

"What were you driving at that speed for? Were you in a hurry to get some place?" asked the Magistrate. "No, I wasn't in a hurry," replied the youth to whom the Magistrate suggested he should consider himself lucky that a charge of dangerous driving had not been laid.

Three local motorists, Roy Bailey, Carl Sloggett, and Ray Wilde were each fined $5.00, and $3.00 costs, for exceeding the speed limit, and James Parcels contributed $5.00 for driving with defective lights.
